

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

A Committee consisting of Wm. B. Johnson, S. C., S. Chapin, D. C. J. D. Knowles, Boston, A. Bennett, N. Y., A. Woods, Ala. Thomas Hume, Va. J. B. Jeter, Va. Thomas Meredith, of N. C. and C. G. Sommers, of N. Y. was appointed, to ascertain the views of the denomination in the United States as to the duty of the Society to engage in the work of home distribution.

Resolved, That the 13th article of the constitution be so altered as to read thus :—

The annual meeting of the Society shall be held at New-York on the day before the last Wednesday in April in each year, or at any other time or place at the option of the Society ; when the accounts of the treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a board of managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year.

Resolved, That the report of the Board of Managers, with an abstract of the treasurer's account, together with addresses, be made the order of the day for Saturday evening.

The following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted, viz :—

Uniting with the Baptist General Convention of the United States for Foreign Missions, in principle, aim, and effort ; coinciding with them especially, relative to the entire and faithful translation of the Scriptures, and believing their directions to their Missionaries to “transfer no words which are capable of being literally translated,” to be scriptural, and in perfect accordance with the sentiments of the denomination by whose patronage this Society and the Convention, are both sustained ; Therefore

Resolved, That Charles G. Sommers, A. Maclay, Wm. Colgate, and John West, be our delegates to the General Convention, about to assemble in Oliver-street, and that they be charged with the duty of assuring that venerable body of our cordial co-operation with them in giving to the heathen, in their vernacular tongues, the glorious gospel of the blessed God.

Resolved, That the Corresponding Secretary be instructed to communicate the foregoing resolutions to the Convention.

D. Dodge, of New-Jersey, H. Malcom, of Boston, and W. H.

Wyckoff, of New-York, were appointed a committee on the subject of setting apart a special season for Prayer, for the success of the Bible cause, who reported—

That deeming it undesirable to multiply monthly concerts for prayer, and yet deeply anxious to have the important operations of this Society brought before the Lord, not only in secret, but in the united petitions of his people, we affectionately solicit our fellow christians to remember us in their conferences, and on the Sabbath day, and to make the Society and its operations a distinct subject at the concert of prayer, on the first Monday of every month. We also solicit that information and exhortation on this subject, be made a part of the services on those occasions.

On behalf of the Committee,

D. DODGE, Chairman.

Whereupon it was

Resolved, That the report be accepted, and the recommendations of the committee concurred in.

The committee on the subject of Bible distribution reported,

That having examined a great mass of documents, containing resolutions of Baptist State Conventions, Associations, Auxiliary Bible Societies and Churches, in every state of the Union, are satisfied that it is the almost unanimous desire of the denomination, that the American and Foreign Bible Society be left unrestricted in the range of its operations.

The Committee therefore recommend, that the second article of the constitution be altered, to read as follows, viz.

Article 2. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

The committee also recommend the following resolutions :

1. Resolved, That this Society will expect of their Board of Managers, in carrying into effect the second article of the constitution, the most sedulous care in patronising such versions only of the sacred scriptures into the languages of the heathen, as have been, or may be, faithfully made, and are approved by competent examiners.

2. Resolved, That in the distribution of the scriptures in the English language, they will use the commonly received version, until otherwise directed by the Society.

3. Resolved, That the next annual meeting of the Society be held in Philadelphia, on the day before the last Wednesday in April, 1839, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The hour for the meeting of the General Convention having arrived, the Society adjourned, to meet at the call of the President.

Prayer by Brother Mason, of South Carolina.

Oliver-street meeting house, April 27, 1838.

The Society met at the call of the President, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Prayer by Brother E. Ball, of Virginia.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Resolved, That S. M. Bryan be appointed a Vice President for the state of Louisiana.

Resolved, That the sixth article of the constitution be altered to read as follows :

Article 6. All Life Directors shall have the privilege of participating in the deliberations of the Board, and such Life Directors as are members in good standing of Baptist churches, shall be members of the Board.

The report of the committee on Bible distribution was taken up, and after a free and animated discussion, article by article, was adopted.

The Delegates from Auxiliary Societies were requested to furnish the Secretary with a list of names.

Prayer by Brother J. B. Taylor, of Virginia.

A large number of Life Directors, Life Members, Annual Subscribers, and Delegates from Auxiliary Societies, assembled in Oliver-street, on Tuesday, 24th April, for the purpose of hearing from the brethren the views of the denomination in different parts of the United States, with reference to the future operations of the Society. The meeting was one of unusual interest. The day was spent in a free and full interchange of opinion upon the Bible Cause, and in frequent addresses to the Throne of Grace. The spirit of devotion, and an ardent desire to glorify God and promote the best interests of the human family, were delightfully manifested, and prepared the way for the harmonious sessions of the Society, and of the General Convention, which occupied the remainder of the week.

"Behold! how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!"

April 28th, 1838.

The Society met, pursuant to adjournment, at 7 o'clock, P. M. The President in the chair.

The 35th chap. of Isaiah was read by Brother Mason, of S. C. Prayer by Brother B. Sears, of Massachusetts.

The following abstract of the treasurer's account, was presented, and on motion of W. Southwood, of Virginia, seconded by John Peck of New-York, was accepted.

BRETHREN, AND FRIENDS OF THE BIBLE CAUSE!

To the God of all grace and all consolation, we would render heartfelt thanksgivings for the privilege of celebrating the Anniversary of the AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY, under circumstances of so much mercy. During the past year, the meetings of the Board of Managers have been characterized by uninterrupted harmony; brethren and sisters in various parts of our beloved country, have made arrangements efficiently to co-operate with us in our work of faith and labour of love; notwithstanding the pecuniary embarrassments of the times, more than thirty-three thousand dollars have been paid into the Treasury; and the almost unanimous voice of the denomination has directed us to aid, according to our ability, in printing and circulating the sacred scriptures IN ALL LANDS. Animated by these cheering considerations, we are constrained, like Samuel, to erect our Ebenezer between Mizpeh and Shen, and joyously exclaim, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us!

The providential events connected with the origin of this Institution have been so frequently and fully exhibited, that I need not repeat them. It is nevertheless expedient and proper to reiterate the fundamental principle upon which the Society is based, that it may be impressed indelibly upon the public mind. THE BIBLE TRANSLATED is our PRINCIPLE, and the MOTTO of our holy enterprise. And why should the announcement of this principle excite either surprise or indignation? It is neither new nor wicked; it has been sanctioned by bishops and learned men; by the good and the great, of different names and of different climes; and by no one has it been more candidly or explicitly stated, than by the venerable President of the American Bible Society. In his last annual address he thus speaks. "Our duty, my brethren, is both imperative and plain. We cannot be too particular in admonishing all who receive our aid in the work of translation, to conform faithfully and minutely to the originals—to beware of incurring the awful guilt of adding to or taking aught from the Divine Word—to bear in mind the momentous truth that he who is employed in transferring the messages of Heaven from their originals to another language, is bound to exercise the same accuracy and fidelity in rendering, that the inspired penmen were in recording, the communications of the Most High." To this language we accord our hearty Amen! CONFORM FAITHFULLY AND MINUTELY TO THE ORIGINALS—how pure and scriptural! and how strikingly in contrast with the rule, "to encourage only such versions as conform in the principles of their translation, to the Common English Version!"—a rule which is essentially the same as the Roman Catholic Decree which proclaimed the Latin Vulgate to be the Infallible Standard. Let those work under this rule who choose to do so; we cannot—we dare not. The Word of God must not be bound; let it have free course and be glorified.

We are aware of the fact, that our separate action in the Bible cause has been ascribed to pride, to sectarianism, to passion; some have recklessly named motives still more offensive. But a satisfactory answer to all these unkind allegations will be found in a patient continuance in well-doing; and believing that our witness is in Heaven, and our record on high, we may confidently hope so to conduct the affairs of the Society, as ultimately to disarm opposition of its influence, and prejudice of its sting.

The importance of union among christians, in their efforts to evangelize the world, is not only cheerfully acknowledged, but we do desire with all our hearts constantly to promote it; and nothing is to us more evident, than that the principle involved in our Bible operations, is the only one that can ever accomplish this desirable result. All enlightened men admit that the Bible is not a Sectarian Book. It is the One Book of the One Living and Triune Jehovah! It reveals but one pure and undefiled Religion, "one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism." Who, then, does not perceive that if all christians understood and obeyed the commandments of the Bible, they would keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace? No longer carried about with every wind of doctrine by the sleight of men, but receiving and loving the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, that TRUTH would make them FREE from all the diversified forms of human error, and the inevitable consequence must be CHRISTIAN UNION. All attempts to secure this object by an abandonment of minor differences and "non-essentials;" or by so constructing translations "as that all religious denominations may consistently use and circulate them," must prove ineffectual. They leave imperfect human beings, whose opinions are as various as their faces, to decide what truths are worth cleaving to, and what truths may be disregarded, and union is the promised fruit of such procedure. Upon the head and front of schemes like these, absurdity is strongly marked. My brethren, our principle is the true one. SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES is the direction of the Great Teacher;—there is the Judge that ends the strife, when wit and reason fail. And that the Bible may be an intelligible guide, it must be faithfully translated by sound Philologists, not by selfish sectarians. Translators must abide by the honest canons of just interpretation, and like Tyndall, defy the Pope and all his laws; and when the design of that skilful and devout pioneer, shall be fully attained by still more holy and competent linguists, and the scriptures shall be plainly laid before men's eyes in their mother tongue, so that the boy who drives the plough may understand what he reads; when the unadulterated word of God shall be practically received as the Infallible Standard, then shall the Watchmen on Zion's walls see eye to eye, and the host of God's elect lift up the voice together; together shall they shout Hallelujah, the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth! "Ephraim shall no longer envy Judah, and Judah shall not vex Ephraim," and upon the banner of every tribe belonging to the true Israel of God, shall be inscribed in characters of gold, CHRISTIAN UNION!

The Baptists have not usually enjoyed a large portion of worldly goods, and therefore have been frequently obliged to make great efforts and sacrifices to maintain a separate ministry of the gospel. Why have they thus acted, when there have been so many learned and evangelical preachers of other denominations, upon whose ministrations they might have waited at comparatively trifling expense? Confessedly because they believed themselves to be witnesses for God, and under the most sacred obligation to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. In this character, they have borne testimony, even unto the death, to the ORDINANCES as well as to the DOCTRINES of the Lord; and however the statement by some may be ridiculed or impugned, we do nevertheless most steadfastly believe, that this distinct Baptist ministry has been blessed of God, not only to the conversion and edification of millions of deathless souls, but to the promulgation and establishment in the earth, of the truth as it is in Jesus. From our distinct Bible organization results equally beneficial may be confidently anticipated. We shall be instrumental in multiplying copies of pure versions of the scriptures, and of counteracting the effects of corrupt and mutilated translations. I hold in my hand a copy of the Bengali New Testament, translated from the Greek, by the Calcutta Baptist missionaries, printed at the Baptist mission press, for the American and Foreign Bible Society, in 1837. This is our first fruits unto God. Many thousand copies of this edition, in separate gospels and in entire volumes, have been already circulated, at the expense of this Society.

Permit me now to show you a copy of the Chinese New Testament, lithographed in Batavia, under the superintendence of Rev. W. H. Medhurst, of the London Missionary Society. Upon the cover, one of our missionaries has thus written. "In this version, Baptizo and its cognates, are rendered by the term, Se' Le', the Washing Ceremony. The Romish missionaries to China always used this phrase, when they wished to speak or write of Baptism in the Chinese language. Dr. Morrison, and all other Pædobaptists have done the same." Here is another edition of the Chinese New Testament, by Mr. Gutzlaff and others, printed from wooden blocks, at Singapore, under the superintendence of Rev. Mr. Tracy, of the American Pædobaptist Board. In this version also, Se' Le', is put for Baptism, so that it is said the Saviour should perform "the washing ceremony with the Holy Ghost and with fire." For a moment think upon Luke 3 and 16, literally translated from this Chinese New Testament. "John answered, I indeed perform the washing ceremony upon you with water, but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose, he shall perform the washing ceremony upon you with the Holy Ghost and with fire." PERFORM THE WASHING CEREMONY WITH FIRE! Can we forbear to exclaim with the Psalmist, It is time for thee, Lord, to work, for they have made void thy law.

To print and circulate these corrupt versions, the British and Foreign Bible Society has appropriated thousands of pounds sterling, while the American Bible Society has furnished its thousands of dollars; and that too, at the very time when the faithful Bengali and Burmese translations of our Brethren Yates and Judson, by these Catholic Societies, could not be encouraged. My brethren, have Baptists nothing to do in giving the Word of Life in its nearest possible approach to the mind of God contained in the original record, to a nation constituting more than one third of the whole human family? Yes! Here our distinct action in the Bible cause, like our distinct ministry of the Word, cannot fail to promote the spiritual interests of China. It is our high vocation to teach the millions of the "Celestial Empire" the way of the Lord more perfectly; and where is the Baptist that in such an enterprise is not willing this day to consecrate his service to the Lord?

In conclusion, allow me to advert to one other topic—though last not least—the necessity of prayer. It is a pleasing reflection, that, in the operations of this Society, we have not taken a single step without imploring the Divine blessing. In all the meetings of the Society, the Board of Managers, and their several Committees, prayer is offered; and we feel it to be a delightful privilege to belong to a Bible Society whose members can all cordially unite in public supplications at the throne of grace, and there with fervor cry—

Lord, send thy word, and let it fly, arm'd with thy Spirit's power,
Then thousands will confess its sway, and bless the saving hour.

About to enter upon the duties and responsibilities of a new year, we hear the Bible say to us, "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." We desire more sensibly than ever to realize our own weakness, and our constant need of Heavenly guidance. We entreat you, therefore, beloved friends and co-adjutors in the Bible cause, in your daily orisons, remember your Board of Managers. Yes—we beseech you for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the Spirit, that ye strive together with us, in your prayers to God for us," that we may be made wise master builders, to lay a foundation for Bible operations so broad and deep, that our successors may safely build thereon, until the WORLD SHALL BE FILLED WITH THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE LORD!

The Corresponding Secretary, Charles G. Sommers, of New-York, then read an abstract of the Annual Report of the Board of Managers.

REPORT.

THE Board of Managers, in presenting their Annual Report, are grateful to God for the favours which have continued to advance the prosperity of the American and Foreign Bible Society, during the past year.

In performing the duties assigned them, they have experienced great pleasure in the reflection, that this is an enterprise in which, not only Baptists, but christians of all denominations may meet on consecrated ground, and unite in promoting the kingdom of their Redeemer.

The volume which they distribute contains nothing but the truth, flowing from a sacred fountain, the streams whereof shall make glad the nations of the earth. The simple majesty of such a cause should at once disarm opposition, silence every objection, and quicken the most tardy.

Your Board of Managers hope, that the minds of brethren now connected with other denominations, will be drawn to a prayerful consideration of the circumstances which led to the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

The necessity for such an institution in addition to previously existing Bible Societies, admits not of a reasonable doubt. If the population of the globe be estimated at 900,000,000, then, the rate at which Bibles have been circulated during the past twenty-six years, would require upwards of four thousand years before every member of the human family could be furnished with a copy of the sacred writings. A view of facts like this, induced a few pious ministers in Paris to form the French and Foreign Bible Society, several years after the formation of the Paris Bible Society.—The same opinions, and a strong desire to circulate the most faithful versions of the scriptures, gave rise to the separate action of the Edinburgh Bible Society, although the British and Foreign Bible Society had been about fourteen years engaged in the work of Bible distribution. Since that event, the labours and usefulness of the Edinburgh Society have been greatly increased. As a denomination, therefore, we deserve no censure, by the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, which does not equally apply to the Edinburgh, and to the French and Foreign Bible Society.

It has been frequently insinuated, that our chief concern was to contend for the translation of the word baptizo; but, this certainly is not our main design. Although we believe that this, like every other word in the Bible, ought to be faithfully translated; yet, as Baptists, we are contending for a great principle, viz. that the whole of God's word should be faithfully translated, and given to all mankind.

Against this important principle, the resolution of the American Bible Society is particularly directed; and that is the reason why we have, as a denomination, protested against their proceedings, and formed a separate organization to meet the exigency.

That it is the determination of Baptists, faithfully to translate the whole Bible; and on the other hand, that the American Bible Society has passed a resolution which veils a part of that Bible in the obscurity of a language unknown to the heathen, will be apparent to every impartial reader of the following resolutions:

Resolution of the Board of Managers of the American Bible Society, passed 17th February, 1836.

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing, or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures, in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principles of their translation to the common English version, at least so far as that all religious denominations represented in this Society, can consistently use and circulate said versions in their several schools and communities."

Resolution of the American Baptist Board of Foreign Missions, passed in April, 1833.

"Resolved, That all the Missionaries of the Board, who are, or who shall be, engaged in translating the Scriptures, be instructed to endeavour, by earnest prayer, and diligent study, to ascertain the exact meaning of the original text; to express that meaning as exactly as the nature of the languages into which they shall translate the Bible, will permit; and to transfer no words which are capable of being literally translated."

The first, is a resolution passed by the American Bible Society, virtually concealing a part of the Holy Scriptures. The second, a resolution passed by the Baptists, on the contrary, gives special instructions to their Missionaries to pray for the direction of the Holy Spirit, and to give to the heathen a faithful translation of every word in the Bible. With these facts before them, let Christians of every denomination prayerfully inquire : Which of these societies is entitled to our patronage ?

No Christian would be willing to strike out one word of the divine revelation. But so far as the heathen are concerned, is there any difference between striking out that one word, or printing it in a language which the reader does not understand ?

Upon this point, your Board of Managers can most cordially adopt the language of the Hon. Jno. Cotton Smith, President of the American Bible Society, in the annual address before that society in May, 1837.—“He who is employed in transferring the messages of Heaven from their originals to another language, is bound to exercise the same accuracy and fidelity in rendering, that the inspired penmen were in recording, the communications of the Most High.”—To this may be added the equally scriptural opinions of the Rev. Mr. Calhoun, Agent of the American Bible Society, now in Greece. Speaking of the Greek Church, he remarks :—“They hear the Scriptures, indeed, occasionally, in their churches, but they hear them in an unknown tongue. What a cunning device of the great adversary has this been, to shut out the light of truth, by locking up God’s holy word in a dead language. Never could these churches have become what they have become, dead branches, had the Scriptures been read in a tongue that could be understood.”—In another place Mr. Calhoun says, “In order to true devotion, there must be a distinct perception of the truth ; the language in which it is uttered, must be intelligible.”—This is all that the Baptists have ever demanded !

More than forty years have elapsed since Baptist Missionaries in the East, commenced the great work of publishing the sacred writings. At a single station, on the banks of the Hoogly, translations into several languages were completed about ten years before the British and Foreign Bible Society came into existence ; and the same important work is at present carried forward with great success in regions beyond the Ganges. Yes, Hindoos, Burmans, Talings, Karens, and Chinamen, are now reading, “in their own tongues, the wonderful works of God." In regard to the Chinese, we have the united testimony of the learned, that there has not been given to them a better version of the Bible than that which was commenced in 1806, and has since been completed by Dr. Marshman, the celebrated author of the Clavis Sinica.*

With the exception of the Persian, and a few others, all the first translations of the Scriptures into Eastern languages, were made by Baptist Missionaries; comprehending the languages of more than half the population of the world. It is particularly gratifying that the whole of this work has been executed upon a principle which commends itself to the heart of every Christian. They prayed and laboured to find out the true meaning of every word in the Bible; and then they prayed and laboured to express the meaning of every word in the Bible. How could conscientious men proceed upon any other principle? In what other way could the Missionaries be faithful to the heathen, to their own consciences, to posterity, to God? Surely no Christian will say, that they were wrong in praying to be taught the meaning of every part of the living Oracles; nor, that when they were satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt, they ought not to have expressed that meaning in the appropriate words of the languages into which their versions were made.

UNION IS STRENGTH.

At no former period has the truth of this axiom demanded a more careful consideration in its application to the Baptist denomination. Engaged as we are in an enterprise which will affect the moral interests of the whole world; duty to God, and the destitute condition of millions, impel us to undivided exertion in sending the inspired pages to every tribe and people under the whole heaven, until "like a flood of glory," the knowledge of Christ shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. With this as the only object of our Society, the Board earnestly solicit the co-operation of their brethren.

Since the last Anniversary, your Board of Managers have been greatly encouraged by the increasing

UNANIMITY OF BAPTISTS IN THE BIBLE CAUSE.

Communications received by the Corresponding Secretary, from Baptist State Conventions, and from numerous Associations, Churches, and individuals in each State, satisfactorily demonstrate the correctness of this opinion.—Universally independent in principle, we rejoice in the belief, that Baptists ever will be united in action, when called to defend or to distribute the Bible ; the charter of their common salvation.

The American and Foreign Bible Society continues to receive the highest commendation from every quarter ; and we are happy to add, in numerous instances, from those who still adhere to other denominations.

MAINE.

Says a venerable minister in Maine : “ We see no propriety in limiting the efforts of the American and Foreign Bible Society to heathen nations. It rejoices our hearts to notice the unanimity of our churches upon the subject of giving the Bible faithfully and fully translated to the whole world. We view it as a singular providence of God, that the American Bible Society should be suffered to take the course they lately have, for by it we, as a denomination, are taught our duty, which otherwise we might have been slow to learn.”

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

A correspondent in New Hampshire remarks : “ At the last meeting of our Bible Society, we appropriated about $600 to the American and Foreign Bible Society. Eighteen of our ministers have been made Life Members. I look upon your society, under God, as the most promising instrument for the world’s conversion, now in existence.”

“ Our whole denomination in New Hampshire,” says another, “ is in favour of the American and Foreign Bible Society ; and a large majority are in favour of, no restrictions.”

VERMONT.

A brother in Vermont writes : “ At the Convention of this State, in October last, a Bible Society auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society, was unanimously formed, and a resolution adopted in favour of, unrestricted operations.”

MASSACHUSETTS.

Westfield Baptist Association.—Resolved, That in view of the providence of God, by which a large portion of the world is made dependent on the Baptist denomination in the United States, for a supply of the Holy Scriptures, we heartily approve of the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and recommend it to the liberal patronage of the churches, and benevolent individuals in the bounds of the Association.

That we recommend the formation of a Bible Society, in the county of Hamden, auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society, including also, all the churches of this Association.

The Wendell, the Franklin County, and other Baptist Associations in Massachusetts, have expressed similar sentiments.

Says a respectable minister in Massachusetts: "I cannot refrain, in closing this letter, from renewing the expression of our high gratification, in view of the efficiency of your society in the great work of disseminating the Word of God."

RHODE ISLAND.

At the meeting of the Taunton Baptist Association in October last, it was unanimously

Resolved, That this Association most heartily rejoices in the recent organization of the "American and Foreign Bible Society,"—that we decidedly approve both its name and its object; and believe that no limitation should be given to the sphere of its operations, except what may be imposed by the wisdom and discretion of its Board of Managers.

CONNECTICUT.

The following is from the Report of the Committee on translation and distribution of the Sacred Scriptures, adopted by the Connecticut Baptist State Convention.

Resolved, That this Convention approve the decision of the Baptist Convention, held in Philadelphia in April last, with respect to the formation of a distinct society for Bible distribution, especially in foreign lands.

Resolved, That it is our decided opinion, that the society should confine itself to no local and limited sphere of action, but that its field ought emphatically to be the world.

Resolved, That it comports with the dignity and strength of the Baptist denomination, "to attempt great things, to expect great things," and so to construct, as well as to denominate the new society, as to render it competent not only to send the word of God to the heathen world, but if providence should so direct, to distribute it in our own country.

Says the pastor of a church in Connecticut: "At a recent meeting, we unanimously passed the following resolution—

Resolved, That in the opinion of this church, the American and Foreign Bible Society should be left untrammelled by any thing in its constitution, in giving the whole Bible to the whole world. We rejoice in the prosperity with which the Lord continues to favour you."

NEW-YORK.

New-York State Convention.—At the meeting of this large and efficient Convention in October last, one hundred and forty-one delegates, besides visiting brethren, were present. After a free and full discussion of the nature and objects of the American and Foreign Bible Society, all who were in favour of the following resolution, were requested to rise—whereupon, in the language of a brother who witnessed that impressive scene, the whole convention, and indeed all in the house rose, and unanimously

Resolved, That in view of the moral degradation of the heathen, as connected with their present and future destinies, we deeply feel the obligations which rest upon us, as a denomination, to employ every exertion which comes within the range of human efforts, to give them, without unnecessary delay, the uncorrupted and unsuppressed word of life; and in the judgment of this convention, the whole world, and nothing short of the whole world, must be considered the appropriate field in which the American and Foreign Bible Society should labour, until, like the revered Judson, they are permitted to kneel before the God of the Bible, and say, as they place the last copy, in the hand of the last destitute child of Adam, "Thanks be unto God, we can now say we have attained."

NEW-JERSEY.

The following is an extract from the resolutions adopted by the N. Jersey Baptist State Convention, in November last.

Whereas, the American Bible Society, at its annual meeting in 1836, did refuse to appropriate any part of its funds to assist the Baptists in giving the Bible faithfully translated to the perishing millions of India and Burmah, we believe that a distinct organization for printing and circulating the Sacred Scriptures was imperatively demanded, and it is therefore

Resolved, That the New-Jersey Baptist State Convention, regards the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, as an auspicious event in Divine Providence, peculiarly calculated, with the blessing of Heaven, to secure the correct translation and universal diffusion of the inspired volume, until every inhabitant of this revolted world shall read, in his own tongue, the wonderful works of God.

Resolved, That this Convention approves of the name and the objects of the Am. and For. Bible Society, and cherishing as we do, entire confidence in the prudence and piety of those to whom the management of its affairs is more immediately committed; we unite with numerous associations, churches, and other bodies, who have already expressed their opinion, in the belief that the society should be unfettered in its operations, and that it is their imperative duty to distribute the Sacred Scriptures to the greatest possible extent.

PENNSYLVANIA.

130th Anniversary of the Philadelphia Baptist Association.

Whereas the translation and diffusion of the Sacred Scriptures, among all the nations of the earth, while it requires the vigorous co-operation of all the friends of the Saviour, has in the providence of God become the peculiar privilege and duty of the Baptist denomination, and whereas the American and Foreign Bible Society has been organized for the accomplishment of this most important object, therefore

Resolved, That this Association entirely approve the name, the nature, and the contemplated labours of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and while it is hoped that all the churches, composing this body, will liberally contribute for the support of this noble institution, we hereby express our opinion, that it should embrace the entire world as the appropriate field of its future labours, and every kindred, language, and people, whether in this or other lands, as the objects of its benign regard.

And we also express the confident hope, that this society will be so guided by sound wisdom and discretion, as to preserve the eye and heart of our now awakening communities to the prominent regard of the wants of the destitute heathen, thus securing, as we trust, increasing unanimity among all true hearted Baptists in its support.

First Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Whereas, the Bible Convention which held its sessions in this place, in April, 1837, organized a Bible Society, denominated the "A. and F. B. S.," under the auspices of the Baptist denomination; and whereas, the said Convention adopted a resolution requesting that the views of the denomination might be expressed in reference to the duty of the said society engaging in the work of home distribution, and that the said expression might be communicated to the society at its first annual meeting to be held in April, 1838; and whereas this Church takes a lively interest in whatever has a tendency to disseminate the Bible, therefore

Resolved, That this Church approves of the organization of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Church, it is the duty of said Society to engage in the work of home distribution, (provided that it be the version now in use.)

Resolved, That the Society be invited to celebrate its next Annual Meeting with us.

DELAWARE.

At a meeting of the Delaware and Foreign Bible Society on the 20th instant, Rev. C. W. Denison and W. G. Jones were appointed as delegates to the anniversary meeting of the parent society; when it was

Resolved, That the delegates be instructed to vote in favour of HOME distribution, subject to such limitations and restrictions as the parent Board may judge expedient.

MARYLAND.

Maryland Baptist Union Association.—The second meeting of this influential body met at the Union Meeting House, Baltimore county, October 19, 1837. It was unanimously

Resolved, That we are highly gratified at the organization and prospects of the American and Foreign Bible Society ; that in our opinion the said society ought to operate on the broad principle, that “the field is the world ;” that the signs of the times demand of us as a denomination, united, vigorous, and constant effort to give to the nations of the earth, the words of eternal life.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

At the Annual Meeting of the Washington Bible Society, held in the city of Washington, on the 13th day of April, 1838, the following resolution was unanimously adopted :

Resolved, That the “Washington Bible Society, Auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society,” while it heartily approves, and pledges its cordial co-operation to the philanthropic effort of circulating the Sacred Scriptures among the benighted nations of other climes, and urges its prosecution with an energy and zeal commensurate with the magnitude of the enterprise, and the glorious results which will assuredly follow, do earnestly recommend the parent society to engage in the home distribution of the word of Truth.

VIRGINIA.

Virginia and Foreign Baptist Bible Society.—This Society celebrated its anniversary in the meeting-house of the First Baptist Church, Richmond, June 6th 1837. The President, Col. Alexander Fleet, in the chair. An interesting report was read by brother Ryland, after which, the following resolutions were passed, with a unanimity of sentiment and ardour of feeling, which evinced the determination of the brethren to labour efficiently in the Bible cause.

Resolved, That we cordially approve the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, by the Bible Convention which met in Philadelphia, April 26, 1837, and that this society become auxiliary to that institution.

Resolved, That seventeen delegates be appointed to attend the anniversary meeting of the American and Foreign Bible Society the last week in April, 1838, and that they be instructed to recommend to the society to engage in the work of Home as well as Foreign distribution.

At a meeting of the Accomack Bible Society, it was unanimously

Resolved, That in our opinion the American and Foreign Bible Society should embrace, as their field of labour, the whole world.

NORTH CAROLINA.

At the last meeting of the North Carolina State Convention, several resolutions were passed, approving the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and recommending HOME as well as foreign distribution.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

- From South Carolina a brother writes to inform us, that "The Society Hill Bible Society (formerly one of the A. B. S. auxiliaries) has become auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society, and that it also approves of home distribution."

"The South Carolina Baptist State Convention," says another minister "has unanimously expressed their approbation of the A. and F. B. S., and agreed to leave the subject of home distribution to the wisdom and prudence of the society itself. Courage, my dear brother! "The Lord of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge." The denomination, and the public generally will sustain you. I have travelled considerably through Georgia and S. Carolina during the present fall and winter, and I have not met one baptist minister, or private member, who expressed any other than the most cordial feelings towards the A. & F. B. S., and a wish that in relation to home distribution, it should be left to its own discretion—untrammelled.

GEORGIA.

At a meeting of the friends of the Bible, in Talbotton, Ga. March 4th, 1838, a society was formed, auxiliary to the A. and F. B. S. On motion

Resolved, That we highly approve of the prompt measures adopted by the Baptist denomination in resisting the illiberal and unconstitutional course pursued by the managers of the American Bible Society, in refusing aid to baptist missionaries who had faithfully translated the whole word of God, and at the same time appropriating money for the circulation of versions of the Scriptures, which obscured a part of God's word, by giving it in a language not understood by the natives.

Resolved, That we approve of the resolution of the American and Foreign Bible Society to give to all nations the pure word of God, without addition or diminution, alteration or concealment of one of God's words.

Resolved, That the American and Foreign Bible Society should be untrammelled and unfettered in its operations, taking the whole world for its field, and prosecuting home as well as foreign distribution.

Resolved, That we recommend that a resolution be adopted by the Baptist State Convention, (at its next session,) providing that hereafter, all moneys contributed to its funds for the translation and circulation of the Bible, be transmitted to the Treasurer of the American and Foreign Bible Society; and that we appoint William Carey Crane and Dr. E. E. Moyer as our delegates to the Convention, to request the passage of such a resolution.

TENNESSEE.

A minister in Tennessee wrote in February last: "The Baptists here believe that the word baptizo means to dip, to plunge, to immerse; and that it should be so explained in all lands wherever the Bible is read.

KENTUCKY.

The following is an extract from the "Baptist Banner," on the question of "home distribution," "unfettered operation," &c.—From documents in our possession, and the opinions of very judicious brethren, who are intimately acquainted with the opinions of Baptists in Kentucky, we presume the following sentiments to be generally entertained throughout that State, and indeed throughout the whole South and West.

"In short, and in a few words, we would have the Baptists engage in home distribution, and we would have the American and Foreign Bible Society unfettered in its operations: if it or its auxiliaries see a necessity for engaging in home distribution, let them supply themselves with Bibles for that purpose from the American Bible Society, if they can; if they cannot, let them make arrangements for printing them."

On the 2d Saturday in July, the Green River Bible Society, (Kentucky,) auxiliary to the A. and F. B. S., held its first annual meeting, when it was unanimously

Resolved, "That the American and Foreign Bible Society, should be untrammelled and unfettered in its operations—and that our Secretary write immediately to the Secretary of that Society, setting forth the views of this."

"In addition to this, (the Secretary remarks,) I would state, that the people amongst whom I labour, and indeed so far as my acquaintance extends in this state, seem to have but one voice among them upon this subject."

OHIO.

The Meigs creek, and other Baptist Associations in Ohio, have passed resolutions similar to the following, which was adopted at a meeting of the Portage Baptist Association in September last.

"Resolved, That this Association highly approve of the American and Foreign Bible Society, for the purpose of giving entire, and without restriction or limitation, the oracles of God to the whole population of the globe, in every language under heaven, faithfully translated; and as soon as circumstances in God's providence will permit."

ILLINOIS.

From the Minutes of the third Anniversary of the Blue River Baptist Association, Griggsville, Pike county, Ill.

The committee recommend adopting the following preamble and resolution.

Whereas, in the providence of God, Baptists have been instrumental in translating the Scriptures into languages spoken by a very large portion of the population of the earth, the correctness of which has been acknowledged by learned men of different denominations, which versions have been rejected from the patronage of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the American Bible Society ;—and whereas our Baptist brethren in the old states, have formed a Bible Society to aid in printing and circulating these translations amongst the nations of the earth; called the “American and Foreign Bible Society ;”—Therefore, this Association recommend to the churches, in imitation of the Griggsville church, to form societies to aid that Society in the great and good work of supplying the inhabitants of the world with the word of God, in their own tongues. After an interesting discussion it was unanimously adopted. Similar communications have been received from the “Northern District Association,” the “Springfield Association,” and other bodies in Illinois.

MICHIGAN.

The Baptist Convention of the State of Michigan, unanimously passed the following resolutions at their annual meeting in September.

Resolved, That this Convention highly approve of the recent formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and devoutly hope that our churches will act as unitedly and efficiently in its support, as they have spoken plainly and decidedly in its approval and defence.

Resolved, That in answer to the inquiries of the American and Foreign Bible Society ; they should, in our view, be left untrammelled by any thing in the constitution, in giving the whole Bible to the whole world.

MISSISSIPPI.

The Mississippi Baptist State Convention.—Unanimously Resolved, That it is the sense of this body, that the Am. and For. Bible Society should be left free and unfettered in its operations—at perfect liberty to distribute the sacred oracles wherever God in his providence may open a door.

ALABAMA.

The Alabama Bible Society, the Cranty Creek Bible Society, and other bodies in Alabama, sent as their delegate to the annual meeting of the American and Foreign Bible Society, Rev. Alva Woods, D. D. As a member of the "Committee appointed to ascertain the views of the denomination in the United States, as to the duty of the Society to engage in the work of home distribution," Dr. Woods stated, that as far as his knowledge extended, the Baptists in Alabama believe it to be the duty of the A. and F. B. S. to engage in the work of home as well as foreign distribution.

LOUISIANA.

On the second Sabbath in May last, a Bible Society was formed in the town of Clinton, in the State of Louisiana. The Society and Board were organized on the following resolution, offered by H. D. F. Roberts.

Resolved, That we deem it expedient to form a society at Clinton, E. Feliciana, La., auxiliary to the "American and Foreign Bible Society."

After the society was formed, the following resolution was offered by brother Smith, and unanimously adopted, viz. :

Resolved, That we highly approve of the prompt and decisive measures adopted by the Baptist denomination ; in organizing the American and Foreign Bible Society, in resisting the unconstitutional, and unkind course pursued by the American Bible Society in regard to the denomination, and in resolving to give to all nations the pure Word of God, without addition or diminution, alteration or concealment of one of God's words.

ARKANSAS.

Spring River Baptist Association:—Resolved, That we correspond by letter with the American and Foreign Bible Society, and we unanimously agree to request said society (as far as their means will permit) to furnish these United States, as well as other nations, with a pure translation from the original Hebrew and Greek of the Holy Scriptures.

The Baptists of Arkansas, favourable to missions, have but one voice on this momentous subject. They believe the time has fully come, and that eternal truth speaks to the denomination in language not to be disregarded, that the world, yea! the whole world, should have a literal translation of the Bible.

The above are only a few extracts from numerous similar documents in the possession of the Board. They cannot avoid the conclusion, that the finger of providence, and the voice of the denomination are pointing out the way, and directing them to go forward. If God should graciously incline the hearts of his people to furnish means, may we not say of the world, what the man of God said of Canaan:—
“We are well able to go up and possess the land.”

“THE FIELD IS THE WORLD.”

This is the declaration of the Saviour, and his words have reverberated through every part of the land. Nor can we believe that Baptists will ever suppose that they have performed their duty to God, until the simple truth, as it is in Jesus, shall have spread from pole to pole.

The Board of Managers see an inviting field opening before them. Communications from all our Missionaries, (some of which will be found in the Appendix,) as well as from every state in the Union, call for the vigorous and persevering efforts of the A. and F. B. S.

The whole of Asia demands the particular attention of this society. $7500 have been appropriated to aid in printing the Sacred Scriptures in China. In the great celestial empire, and the numerous islands of the Eastern Archipelago, comprehending in all, not far from four hundred and fifty millions of souls, we behold a vast territory, covered with pagan darkness, but now, in the providence of God, accessible to the heralds of the cross. One of our own missionaries now in that part of the great field, assures us, that as fast as they can print them, Bibles may be distributed to eager multitudes, even in the vicinity of heathen temples. Another missionary at Rhio, near Singapore, says: "A new temple for idols has recently been erected in this place. On the day appointed for its dedication, a multitude assembled to present their offerings at the altar. But, by the grace of God, I was enabled to enter into the temple with a copy of the glorious New Testament in my hand, from which I preached unto them the way of salvation by Jesus Christ. They suspended their ceremonies, and gave heed to the things that were spoken."

The Board cannot refrain from expressing their deep solicitude on behalf of China, when they contemplate the appalling moral destitution, compared with the small amount of means at present employed for the spiritual benefit of a nation, millions of whom must inevitably perish ere they can be invited to come to the Saviour. Two presses have been put in charge of an American printer, with native assistants, together with founts of type in the Siamese and Chinese languages, and other requisite apparatus. An edition of 1500 copies of the Gospel by Mathew, in Siamese, translated by Mr. Jones, was printed at Singapore as early as 1835, to which a version of the Acts of the Apostles, in an edition of 3000 copies, was added in 1836 from the press at Bankok.

The New Testament, in the Shyan or Tai language, has for sometime been in a course of translation by brother Brown, at Sadiya, and the same brother, assisted by an experienced printer, has commenced the publication of an Asameese version of the Parables of Christ, originally translated by Dr. Carey, and subsequently revised by brother Brown. Select portions of the Chinese Scriptures will be printed during the current year. But, all the missionaries of every denomination now labouring for the salvation of Chinamen, do not furnish more than one teacher for every nine millions of souls. From all the presses now in operation, if we may judge from the amount of their issues in by-gone years, not more than one out of every one hundred and fifty of these idolaters, could, during the current year, be furnished with a single leaf of the Bible. Surely, then, the churches will not be surprised that, with such facts before them, the Board of Managers feel anxious to be put in possession of more ample means for printing and distributing the Holy Volume in a land covered with the shadow of death; especially, since great facilities are now afforded by the labours of Mr. Pauthier, of Paris, in the preparation of metallic types, embracing the whole of the 30,000 characters, not obsolete, as found in the imperial dictionary of Kang Hi, the acknowledged standard of the Chinese language.

This great improvement will enable the society to stereotype the sacred scriptures, and furnish them at a reduced price and of superior quality.

To all the friends of Christ we would say—in your morning and evening devotions remember China—when you enter the closet, or the public sanctuary, pray for China—and when in the enjoyment of your multiform spiritual and temporal blessings, you think of the question: “How much owest thou my Lord,”—then remember poor, degraded China, with her millions perishing in sin; and let your prayers and your alms come up together, as a memorial before God.

From Burmah, with her millions, now accessible to us as a denomination, divine providence calls, in a voice too audible to be unheard, and too intelligible to be misunderstood. It is indeed, a lamentable fact, that the lips of missionaries cannot, as yet, proclaim the glad tidings to the multitudes of that populous region; but they may all be reached by the appliances of the press, that modern gift of tongues.

A volume might be compiled from the journals of our devoted missionaries, showing that with the divine blessing, men and means are all that are needed to extend the influence of the cross throughout the length and breadth of that benighted land.

In the Burman language a translation of the entire Bible was completed by brother Judson, in 1834, and an edition of about 5000 copies printed in 3 volumes, 8vo. of about 600 pages each. 3000 copies of the New Testament were printed as early as 1832, and a revised edition of 10,000 copies was put to press in 1836. Separate editions of portions of the Old and New Testament have also been printed; and in 1833 an edition of the Psalms was issued, and another of about 10,000 copies in 1836.

To these may be added the Taling or Pequan New Testament, advanced to 2d Corinthians in 1835, and the Gospels in Karen, both of which are probably completed, as brother Mason is almost exclusively devoted to the work. Printing presses with ample founts of type, and founderies for casting type into all the languages spoken from the Bay of Bengal to the western borders of China, are waiting for orders from the American Baptist Churches, to be kept in motion, until every family in Burmah, willing to receive it, shall possess a perfect copy of the Bible.

The recent political revolution in the Burman empire has terminated in favour of Thayawotte, whose favourable opinions encourage the hope that a liberal policy in respect to commercial intercourse with foreigners may be expected. From this change in the affairs of the nation, as well as from the great influence of Colonel Burney, the British resident, we may hope that Christian institutions will be unimpeded, at least in the British provinces, and that even the favour of the court may in some measure become subservient, although a cloud at present obscures our prospect.

In India, also, the Board have found a wide and promising field of labour. In Orissa alone, a population equal to that of Great Britain and Ireland, are in a measure prepared to receive the word of the Lord. From Vizagapatam to the Hoogly, and from the mouth of the Ganges to regions stretching more than a thousand miles into the interior of Northern India, where, until lately, the messengers of peace never trod; the A. and F. B. S. may now proclaim the tidings of salvation through the instrumentality of the Bible. But time would fail us to speak of the millions of Hindoos, Tamuls, Teloogoos or Telingas, and other nations of India, to all of whom this society may impart the knowledge of Christ, if adequate funds are provided by the churches in America.

$7,500 have been appropriated to assist in publishing Yates' excellent version of the Scriptures for the Hindoos, and in other languages in Central India. A recent communication from Bengal assures us, that any amount which we are able to bestow for that object, may be immediately employed in distributing the bread of life to perishing multitudes.

Rev. Amos Sutton, Baptist missionary in Orissa, remarks: "I need not tell you how much the life-saving word is needed in this land of darkness and the shadow of death. I have just returned from the annual festival of Juggernaut, distant from Cuttuck about 50 miles, and though it was the thinnest attended of any similar festival I have seen, yet there were probably not less than 100,000 immortal beings prostrated before that bloody Moloch. But we had not a single Gospel to bestow upon them—nothing of the Scriptures but a few bound Testaments and a collection of passages from the whole Bible printed as a tract. I laboured hard to get an edition of Mathew printed off in time, but sickness and the loss of types prevented its accomplishment. I leave it with your Committee to determine, when looking over the waste places of the earth, whether Orissa does not demand their aid. We distribute a great many portions of Scripture in a variety of languages: these we can usually obtain from Calcutta: but Orissa is the language of the province."

A letter has been received from Rev. Mr. Yates of Calcutta, accompanying a beautiful copy of the Bengalee New Testament, 500 copies of which were printed for the American and Foreign Bible Society. He remarks: "You will find a wide field before you in this country, as we have no doubt, if life is spared, in the number and quality of versions of the New Testament, of being able to keep on an equality with the Bible Society, though they receive contributions from all denominations except ourselves. The extent of the copies of these versions printed must depend upon the amount contributed."

The aid of the A. and F. B. S. is also demanded in Africa, where 100,000,000 of our race are living without God and without hope in the world. In Greece, too, where our distinctive sentiments will be appreciated by every reader of a correct copy of the Bible ; God has in his providence opened a door for this society at Patras, which we believe will never be closed. Russia, with her 60,000,000, who acknowledge no baptism but immersion, is also a field which demands the culture of the A. and F. B. S.—From Norway, Sweden, Denmark; and Germany, also, have we been cheered by tidings of the spreading light of truth. A few extracts from the letters of brother Oncken, who resides in Hamburg, will show not only what has been done and suffered during the past year, but the imperious necessity for future and greater exertions.

GERMANY AN APPROPRIATE FIELD FOR BAPTISTS.

In August, 1837, brother Oncken writes: "I meet with much opposition, but I hope God is about to effect something good and glorious for this country. We need not fear as long as we keep close to the word of God, and pray for the life-giving spirit in our own souls. You will rejoice to hear that in May last, a Baptist church was formed in Berlin." At another time, he writes: "I beg you will present my warmest thanks to the Board of the A. and F. B. S. for their first donation of $500 to the cause of pure scripture circulation in this country. I have distributed during the last 8 years upwards of 22,000 New Testaments. These are particularly acceptable to soldiers and travelling journeymen, (Handwerksburshen,) but I want Bibles for families and schools.

There is such lamentable ignorance in this country, as to what is and what is not the word of God, that the Apocryphal books are read with the same authority as the books of Holy Writ. There are parts of Germany where, out of 400 preachers, not 20 can be said to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ. I have travelled much in this country, but have not met with more than 10 or 12 families who were in the habit of reading the Scriptures at family worship. Tears gush from my eyes while I write it: the great bulk of the people are totally ignorant of the way of salvation. I converse with people in the city and in the country, on the high ways and in the fields; and when I put the simple question: which is the way of salvation? or: how do you expect to be saved? The answer is: I do not know. This a man told me in the garden in which I am now writing these lines. Others tell me, "When I die—If I behave myself well"—"I have a good heart," &c. But not in one instance out of a hundred is the answer given: through faith in the Son of God. O my brethren, can we let them perish for want of the Bible—God forbid! It is true there is not so much novelty in giving a Bible to a heathen in Germany, as in India or Burmah. But shall novelty be the moving spring of Christian zeal and benevolence? The soul of a sinner in Germany is of equal worth with the soul of a sinner in China. Besides, we have easy access to my countrymen; the churches of our denomination at Oldenburgh, Hamburg and Berlin, and also many other dear brethren are ready to assist us. Let us therefore be up and doing, no time is to be lost—the present opportunity is favourable—how long it may last, none can tell.

In closing, I cannot but express my joy at the happy termination of the meeting in Philadelphia in the formation of the A. and F. B. S. I am no prophet, neither the son of a prophet, but this is my firm conviction, that if our ministers and people in America are prayerful, unanimous in the principle upon which the Society has been formed, and depend on the Lord in this work, it will prove to be one of the most glorious events as connected with the spread of the Gospel and the ultimate unity of believers that will be found in the history of the church."

In September last, brother Oncken again writes: "Praise waiteth for God in Zion! We have had a glorious day—long to be remembered; nine new members were received. The Lord is doing great things for us, whereof we are glad." At another time he says, "Our dear brethren will probably meet with much opposition; a storm seems gathering about our little bark. But Jesus lives to save, and I will not fear what man can do unto me. The baptism of some recent converts has made a great stir here. Complaints have been made to the senior of the Lutheran ministry, and he has called upon the magistrate at the head of the police, and requested him to put a stop to our meetings. But, thus far the thing has only tended to the furtherance of the Gospel. Our meetings are now more numerous attended than before, and six new converts have decided to join the church."

If by the blessing of God upon the labours of our beloved brother, an appetite for the bread of life has been created, shall we refuse to supply their wants? If in that interesting land, Providence has opened for us a door of great usefulness, shall we neglect to enter it? With a population of 40,000,000, and Bibles in which the word baptizo and its cognates, are correctly translated, Germany as the centre of moral and literary influence to nearly the whole of Europe, presents a field for the labours of the A. and F. B. S. unsurpassed in any other part of the world.

HOME DISTRIBUTION.

Destitute as is the condition of many foreign nations, no one acquainted with facts, can doubt that our own beloved country is a field which this Society may cultivate with the prospect of an abundant harvest. Within the regions bounded by the Alleghany mountains and the Mississippi, the northern lakes and the gulf of Mexico, there exists a moral desolation, oppressive to the heart of every Christian.

What must be the state of our country when, in about 30 years, the present population shall have increased to not less than 30,000,000, if greater exertions than hitherto employed, are not made to give them the Bible? Probably not more than two-thirds of the population of the United States possess an entire copy of the Sacred Scriptures, while thousands of unenlightened emigrants are annually brought to our shores, the majority of whom must live and die ignorant of the way of salvation unless the friends of the Bible come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

Independent of the claims of the "far west," multitudes inhabiting the Atlantic states are yet under the dominion of sin. If therefore, we wish to secure the future prosperity of our existing religious and civil institutions, energetic measures should be immediately adopted, ere infidelity shall have rolled its waves over the length and breadth of our land.

The present is emphatically an age of free inquiry. The humble cottager as well as the most opulent merchant looks to the press as a means of instruction and amusement. In no other nation is such power and responsibility placed in the hands of individuals. Here every man is one of the rulers of a mighty nation, and no power on earth can place a limit to his legitimate influence upon the destiny of this free and favoured country. If ignorant of the Bible, like a Bohon Upas planted in the garden of liberty, he will shed a withering influence over all around him. Thanks be to God, the catastrophe so much dreaded by many of the most enlightened may yet be averted, and the A. and F. B. S. is called upon by the providence of God to bear its part in this momentous work. Aided by the noble enterprise of the New England Baptist Sabbath School Union, and similar institutions about to be formed in other sections of the country, we may have access to every Baptist Sabbath School in the United States, and annually place thousands of New Testaments in the hands of our own dear children, and the youth committed to our charge.

It is an important consideration, that in the southern and western states, which will, probably within a few years give laws to the whole nation, we have greater facilities for circulating the Bible than all other denominations, because, there, Baptists are decidedly the majority. If our Home Mission Society is under obligations to traverse those destitute parts of our land and preach to them the gospel, is it not our appropriate work, to supply them with the Bible? Can it be the duty of American Baptists to send the Scriptures to foreign nations, and remain unmoved by compassion for their own countrymen. Shall we permit tens of thousands, bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh, to perish at our doors for want of the bread of life? Besides, suppose the American Bible Society should be restricted to the foreign field—how long would that institution enjoy the patronage of the American public? No objection has been heard against their publishing the English Bible, why then should an interdict be laid upon the A. and F. B. S.? Surely it cannot be because Baptists have more confidence in the managers of a pedobaptist institution than in the integrity of their own brethren,

If the efforts of the A. and F. B. S. were to be limited to a foreign field, it would, in the history of Bible Societies, be an institution without a precedent—it would necessarily be feeble and inefficient, and who can doubt, that many would withhold their contributions, while the kindling zeal of thousands would thus be in danger of extinction.

But “the word of God is not bound.” Let the American and Foreign Bible Society be untrammelled by any restrictions—let it be what its name imports,—let it be a BIBLE SOCIETY FOR THE WHOLE WORLD, and our denomination will act together in the glorious work of giving a copy of the divine oracles to every accessible family upon the globe. The Board of Managers confidently believe that upon this plan, thousands who have always refused to act with the A. B. S. will co-operate with us, in disseminating “the most faithful versions” of the Scriptures among all nations.

If to the above, we take into the account, what in the opinion of competent judges will probably occur, viz., that the English language, which, from its copiousness and flexibility, is peculiarly fitted for translation, and as a medium of written and colloquial intercourse, will probably become the language of a large portion of the human family; who can reasonably doubt that the A. and F. B. S. should publish the English Bible, and as far as possible, distribute it wherever readers can be found.

When it is remembered that the commercial, political, and religious influence of Britain and America extends over five-eighths of the globe, and that the rising generation in every heathen land where missionaries are sent, discover great anxiety to acquire a knowledge of our tongue—and, that Baptist missionaries in India, Burmah, and other parts of the world, may distribute thousands of English Bibles among British residents, to American and English sailors and others; it is indeed a cheering thought, that this Society by engaging in Home distribution, will publish books that may be read, not only in our own land by generations yet unborn, but by our children’s children in distant regions of the earth.

BIBLES DISTRIBUTED.

Although not more than two years have elapsed since the incipient organization of the Society, the Board of Managers have been enabled to assist in the publication and distribution of the Bible, in seven languages. It is a cause for devout thanksgiving to be permitted to add, that versions of the New Testament have been commenced by Baptist missionaries, in the Shawanoe, Delaware, Otoe, Creek, Choctaw, and Ojibwa languages. Portions of the first five have been printed at the Shawanoe mission press.

If from past favours we may judge of the designs of God in reference to this institution, will not the blessing of thousands ready to perish, come upon all who promote the objects of the A. and F. B. S ?

APPROPRIATIONS.

Freely ye have received, freely give, is the injunction of our ascended Redeemer. The Board cherish unfeigned gratitude to God who has enabled them during the past year to respond to the calls of the destitute among the aborigines of our own land, and the millions of distant Asia.

At the meeting of the Board in June last, $5,500 were appropriated for the printing and distribution of the Sacred Scriptures, viz.

To Rev. John G. Oncken of Hamburg, for printing and circulating the Bible in Germany.	$500
To the Baptist missionaries at Calcutta, for the printing and distribution of the Scriptures in Bengalee, and other languages of India, at the discretion of the missionaries.	5,000
	$5,500

At the meeting of the Board in August, it was further unanimously

Resolved, That after a careful examination of the actual moral destitution of the world, this Board feels great pleasure in being able to make an additional appropriation of $5,000 for the printing and circulation of the holy volume in foreign languages; and that the amount be transmitted through the American Baptist Board of Foreign Missions, to be applied in the following manner:

For printing and circulating the Bible in China,	$1,500
do. do. do. in Burmah,	1,000
do. do. do. in Shyan,	1,000
do. do. do. in Karen,	1,000
do. do. do. in Ojibwa,	500
	<hr/> $5,000

At a meeting of the Board in December last, they were again assisted by Divine Providence to grant to the Baptist General Convention of the United States, $5,000, viz. :

For printing and circulating the Bible in China,	$2,000
do. do. do. in Burmah,	1,000
do. the New Testament in Germany,	2,000

The sum of $15,500 have been appropriated since the meeting of the Society in April last. The whole amount appropriated for Bible translation and distribution during the two years of the Society's existence, is $30,500 ; of which $20,500 have been voted to the A. B. B. F. Missions.*

The Board earnestly hope that the liberality of the churches will keep pace with the increasing demand. In proportion as the field of the Society's operations continues to expand, will be the necessity for resources far greater than have hitherto been employed. The Board confidently believe that the present is an important era in the history of the church, and that sacrifices and self-denying labours, greater than were required in former ages, are now demanded of all who desire the prosperity of Messiah's kingdom. The rich out of their abundance, and the widow with her "two mites" are alike invited by the openings of Divine Providence to bring their offerings to the treasury of the Lord, accompanied by fervent and believing prayer for the blessing of God.

* Since the last annual meeting of the Society, the Board have again enjoyed the pleasure of promoting the objects of the General Convention by an additional appropriation of $5,000. This sum is not included in the Treasurer's account now printed, and will therefore be embraced in the next annual Report. The whole amount contributed in aid of the Baptist General Convention, through the instrumentality of the American and Foreign Bible Society, is TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND, FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

"There is that scattereth, and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, and it tendeth to poverty."

The following appropriate sentiments expressed at a Baptist Association in June last, are respectfully commended to the attention of the friends of the A. and F. B. S.

"Resolved, That since the Bible is a revelation of the divine purpose and method of redemption, our measures for doing good can never be more wise and safe than when they contemplate its dissemination.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the friends of the Bible cause, to increase their efforts for its success during the coming year."

AUXILIARIES.

Your Board of Managers have been greatly encouraged during the past year, by the amount of $33,85-952, contributed for Bible translation, by Auxiliary Societies and individuals, notwithstanding the unprecedented pecuniary embarrassment.

29 Auxiliary Societies have been added to the previous number, making in all 98. Of these, 15 are County Societies; 3 State Conventions; 10 Associations; and 71 Churches who have, without exception, declared themselves in favour of Home as well as Foreign distribution.

IMPORTANCE OF COUNTY AUXILIARIES.

In promoting the interests of this Society, no other means are of greater importance than well organized Auxiliary Societies. These, to be efficient, should as far as practicable be County Societies. Although it is true that Associations and Churches may greatly advance the cause, yet as this is a great National Institution, consecrated to the moral interests of the whole world, it is not intended to be limited to the members of Baptist Churches. No: let the inhabitants of every county in our free states have a rallying point—a Bible Society of which every person willing to contribute may become a member.

Besides the cities on the Atlantic seaboard, there are in the United States many important inland cities and towns, where a Society may embrace several counties, and from one large depository, supply the surrounding population with Bibles ; such as Cincinnati, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Albany, Pittsburg, Wheeling, Lexington, Louisville, Natchez, and other similar places, in which the Board hope ere long, to hear that efficient Societies have been organized.

LIFE DIRECTORS AND MEMBERS.

There have been added during the past year 41 Life Directors, 176 Life members, making in all 92 Life Directors, and 420 Life members of the A. and F. B. S. "A little one shall become a thousand, and a small one a strong nation ; I the Lord will hasten it in his time."

QUARTERLY PAPERS.

The Board of Managers gratefully acknowledge the courtesy of those editors of public journals, who have unsolicited given publicity to some of the doings of this Society. But, the importance of an official periodical as the organ of the Society, must be apparent. By this means the Board have been enabled to announce to donors, the receipt of their contributions ; to publish a list of Auxiliary Societies, Life Directors and members ; and to spread before the Christian public, not only the sentiments of Baptists upon the subject of Bible translation and distribution, but the moral wants of the world, and whatever was particularly interesting in the Society's correspondence.

The first number of this paper, containing 8 pages, was published in January, 1837. It has since that time been issued quarterly, and as far as practicable, transmitted to Baptist churches and ministers throughout the land. The several numbers have, it is hoped, been found in some degree interesting ; but the Board invite particular attention to the 5th and 6th numbers. In the first of these will be found "The resignation of several Baptist members of the Board of the American Bible Society." This document is an able commentary upon those acts of the A. B. S. which led to the formation of a separate organization, and embraces a condensed and lucid explanation of the reasons which impelled the Baptist denomination to embark in the glorious enterprise of giving the Bible faithfully translated to all nations.

The 6th number of the quarterly paper contains a brief summary of the opinions of Baptists throughout the United States respecting the duty of the A. and F. B. S. to engage in the work of Home distribution. Particular regard is due to the opinions of the churches upon this subject, because they have been elicited by a special circular from the largest Convention of Baptists ever assembled in this country. The Board are happy to find that in no equivocal terms have the churches of our denomination declared their belief, that the whole world is the appropriate field of the A. and F. B. Society's operations.

Hitherto the quarterly paper has been unavoidably engrossed by subjects embracing the opinions of distant brethren as to the extent of the field; future numbers will, we trust, be employed in detailing the amount of work actually performed. Care will be taken to forward the paper to the churches, or to those ministers whose residence is known; it is therefore hoped that such as do not receive it, will give information of the fact to the Corresponding Secretary of the Society.

AGENCIES.

In executing the trust committed to them, the Board have been happy in being able to avail themselves of the agency of 3 experienced brethren during a part of the year.

While they deeply feel the importance of having a suitable number of competent agents, permanently devoted to the interests of this Society, the Board earnestly call the attention of the churches and of pious individuals to the practicability of promoting the Bible cause, by annual collections in their respective congregations, and by donations from individuals, unsolicited by the agents, and thus permitting them to devote their efforts in those places where spontaneous liberality may not be expected. To the pastors of churches do we particularly appeal. We entreat them to adopt the earliest measures to form Auxiliary Societies in their respective congregations in every city, town, and village, and thus create a bond of union among the friends of the Bible, throughout the length and breadth of the land, to sustain by their prayers and by their liberality the sacred cause of Bible translation and distribution.

The Board of Managers also appeal to the churches. Especially let those who enjoy the stated preaching of the gospel, adopt measures to constitute their pastors, Directors or members for life of the A. and F. B. S. By this means they will confer upon their minister a token of Christian affection, and at the same time, greatly promote the cause of truth. Any member of the church or congregation may accomplish this important object by presenting to a few friends, a subscription paper like the following :—

Impressed with the belief, that it is our duty to aid in circulating the Bible faithfully translated, and desirous of manifesting our regard for our minister, Rev. ———, we agree to pay the sum affixed to our respective names, to constitute him a Life Director of the A. and F. B. S.

The following agents have been employed by the Society during the past year, viz :

Brother Edward Kingsford has laboured with great acceptance from April until January last, when he resigned his agency, to become the pastor of the Baptist church in Harrisburgh, Pennsylvania.

In September last, brother Archibald Maclay relinquished his long and faithful pastorship of the Baptist church in Mulberry street, New York, under the conviction that in the service of the Bible Society, Divine Providence has opened before him a field of paramount usefulness. The Board feel great pleasure in expressing their approbation of his untiring and judicious labours. A brother in the south says : "If the agency of brother Maclay had been attended with no other advantage, such have been the results of his truly evangelical preaching, in the conversion of sinners, and promoting the growth of piety in the souls of believers, that the benefits of his agency cannot be computed."

The labours of brother Maclay have been chiefly confined to a part of the southern and western states, where he has obtained in subscriptions and donations upwards of $15,000. The subscriptions are generally from friends in the south and west, whose strong attachment to the cause of truth insures the future redemption of their pledges.

Brother Daniel Hascall has continued in the service of the Society since April last. He has laboured chiefly in the states of New York, Vermont, and a part of Massachusetts, where several County and other Societies auxiliary to the parent institution have been formed, and pledges of future contributions to the funds have been received.

At the request of brother Kingsford, a minister in the western part of New York performed a short tour of agency within the bounds of the Holland Purchase Yearly Meeting. By the brethren composing this body he was cordially received, and he remarks: "Resolutions were passed highly approving and warmly commending the claims of the A. and F. B. S. After which, the Holland Purchase Yearly Meeting Bible Society was formed, and every member of the meeting (so far as I could learn) became a member of the Society."

DONATIONS AND LEGACIES.

Mr. Stephen B. Munn, well known in this community as an enterprising and judicious merchant, after carefully examining the nature of our various benevolent institutions, was brought to the conclusion, that the American and Foreign Bible Society merited his special patronage. To this Society, having for its single object, to give to all mankind the whole Bible faithfully translated, Mr. Munn has granted the sum of EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The Board of Managers welcome this expression of enlightened Christian liberality as a cheering indication of Divine approbation, and they confidently believe that when the object of the American and Foreign Bible Society shall be better understood, its claims will be generally appreciated, and, that many to whom God has granted the means, will be found willing to bestow their bounty upon an institution so obviously engaged in promoting the cause of God, by diffusing the unmutilated pages of divine revelation.

The following extract from a letter on behalf of a small church consisting of seven baptized Indians who reside in the inhospitable regions of Lake Superior, will be read with pleasure by all who love the Saviour. Their pious zeal will not be disregarded by Him, who accepted "the widow's mite" when a larger offering was wanting.

"With this you will receive $31 50 as a donation made by the Mission church under my care. We feel a deep interest in the prosperity of the A. and F. B. S. and hope that God will abundantly bless it, and crown the labours of his servants with success proportionate to the importance of the enterprise. May the benign influence of your Society be extensively felt even to the ends of the earth, and may God employ it as an agent in giving to all nations the pure and unadulterated word of Life."

The attention of those who may prefer to remember the Society in "their last will" is directed to the "form of a bequest" printed on the cover of this Report. But the Board of Managers would, with much deference, commend to all who pray for the prosperity of Zion, the example of Stephen B. Munn, who, resolving to act as his own Executor, has lately replenished the treasuries of several benevolent institutions by his munificence. "Bounty," says an able writer "is the most compendious way to plenty—as the five loaves were multiplied by division, and augmented by subtraction."

LIBRARY.

A well selected Library is of considerable importance to the interests of this Society, and it is therefore hoped that its friends will contribute copies of old versions of the Bible and such other books as they may think adapted to the wants of this institution. Several valuable donations have lately been made, among which the Board would mention 31 volumes, comprising copies of the various versions of the Sacred Scriptures published by the British Baptist Missionary Society, viz :

1 vol. 4to. Sungkrit historical books.	1 vol. 8vo. Mahratta poetical books.
4 " 8vo. Hindes Pentateuch, historical, poetical and prophetical books.	1 " " Ootkula poetical books.
1 vol. 8vo. Vikaneera Testament.	1 " " " prophetical books.
1 " " Assam " "	1 " " Bengalee New Testament.
1 " " Kunkuna. " "	1 " " " Pentateuch.
1 " " Mooltan. " "	1 " " " historical books.
1 " " Telinga. " "	1 " " " prophetical books.
1 " " Pushtoo. " "	1 " " Orissa Pentateuch.
1 " " Sungkrit prophetical books.	1 " " " historical books.
1 " " Mahratta Pentateuch.	1 " " " poetical books.
1 " " " historical books.	1 " " " prophets.
	1 " " " New Testament.
5 volumes, 8vo. Chinese Bible.

To the above may be added, a complete set of the British and Foreign Bible Society's Reports, presented by the Rev J. O. Choules, of Buffalo, N. Y. These books are all substantially bound, and form the commencement of a Biblical Library which will, we trust, be speedily enlarged by the faithful labours of Baptist missionaries abroad, and the liberality of brethren in our own land.

CONCLUSION.

The Board of Managers are incompetent fully to express their gratitude to God for the success which has hitherto attended the labours of the A. and F. B. S. But they entreat the churches not to forget that more than twenty nations and tribes, embracing several hundred millions of our race, are dependent measurably, on the instrumentality of Baptists for a supply of the bread of life. O let them not perish for want, while we have enough, and to spare.

From the animating recollections of the past, the Board look forward with joyful anticipations to the future, confidently believing that the Lord has raised up this institution as a means of extending the knowledge of his glory, until it shall "cover the earth as the waters cover the sea." Then shall the morally dead in every clime arise to newness of life, and tidings be heard which will thrill every bosom in Christendom, and over which angels around the throne will rejoice.

The Board would call upon all who love our Lord Jesus Christ and pray for the coming of his kingdom, to remember in their supplications, the interests of the A. and F. B. S. And unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, to him be glory and dominion for ever. Amen.

In like manner, sir, this Society rests on the simple principle—THAT ALL MEN OUGHT TO HAVE THE WORD OF GOD UNMUTILATED AND UNDISGUISED. It is because the Society is founded on this principle, and had its origin in circumstances which seemed to put this principle in jeopardy, that the American Baptist churches, with a promptitude, zeal, and unanimity, almost unexampled, have rallied round this Society. They will continue to sustain it, for it embodies an indestructible principle, which readily allies itself with other principles, dear to every Baptist—the independence of the churches—unfettered liberty of conscience—the right and the duty of every man to take the pure word of God as the only standard of his faith—the guide of his conduct—the lamp to his feet, along the path to heaven.

On motion of William B. Johnson, of South Carolina, seconded by Archibald Maclay, of New-York, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the President be requested to furnish a copy of his address, to be printed with the Annual Report.

Adjourned, to meet with the First Baptist Church, Philadelphia, April 23d, 1839; at ten o'clock, A. M.

Prayer by Brother Johnson.

MEETING OF THE BOARD.

New-York, May 2d, 1838.

The Board of Managers met in Oliver-street, at 4 o'clock, P. M. The President in the chair.

Prayer by John Peck, of Cazenovia.

On motion duly made and seconded, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the sum of five thousand dollars be appropriated and paid to the Baptist General Convention of the United States, to aid in publishing the Sacred Scriptures in Asia; viz. for the Siamese Scriptures, $1000. Burmese, $1000. Asamese, $1000. Karen, $1000. Telooogo, $1000.

BY-LAWS AND ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS.

1. All meetings shall be opened with prayer.
2. All Committees shall be nominated by the presiding officer, and approved by the Board, unless otherwise specially ordered.
3. No moneys shall be paid out of the Treasury but by order of the Board.
4. All resolutions, if required, shall be presented in writing.

RESIGNATION OF BAPTIST MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

THE duty of Christians to contend earnestly for "the faith once delivered to the saints," and fearlessly to promulgate the sacred pages unmutilated to all mankind, is a doctrine of the Bible, and dear to the heart of every sincere Christian. In the enjoyment of this privilege, Baptists never can submit to human dictation, whether the inclination to oppress them be found on the side of a domineering majority, or the power be vested in legalized authority. That holy and glorious cause to which they stand pledged, forbids the contamination of all human interference as a profanation, nor can conscientious believers permit even brethren to divert them from the simplicity of the gospel.

To distribute the word of God, faithfully translated, Baptists claim as an inalienable privilege, while they regard it as an imperative duty. It was this sacred right of which the American Bible Society attempted to deprive us by their resolution passed on the ever memorable 17th of February, 1836, embracing professedly a general principle, but which, in fact, could apply only to a particular case. By this act they violently sundered those bonds by which we had so long been united with them in harmonious co-operation, and rendered our continuance in the American Bible Society as impracticable as it would be humiliating, and in our opinion disastrous to the cause of truth. As a body, therefore, the Baptists found themselves under the necessity of declining all further concert with the Parent Society; and the undersigned deemed it necessary, personally, to resign their offices. Their reasons for that act, are embodied in the subjoined document, the publication of which they consider due to themselves, to the Christian community, and to the world.

Concise in diction, and decided in sentiment, it embraces the dispassionate views, not only of the few whose names are affixed, but of the Baptist denomination throughout the land, if we may judge from printed as well as written testimony forwarded to the Corresponding Secretary of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

TO THE MANAGERS OF THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Having had the pleasure of acting with you as Managers of the concerns of the American Bible Society, and feeling it to be our duty, in consequence of certain measures, which originated in the Board, and have been sanctioned by the society, to resign our places as members of your body, the respect which is due to you, and justice to ourselves, require of us a brief exposition of the motives by which we are actuated. We are bound, moreover, to make this statement of our motives, in justice to that body of Christians, whose interests we, with others of our brethren, have represented here, and whose approbation of our conduct in relation to these measures, has been expressed with scarcely a dissenting voice.

While, therefore, we feel ourselves impelled to speak the truth with plainness, it is our earnest prayer to the God of all grace, that the animadversions, which we may make on the proceedings of the board and of the society, may bear the impress of that charity "which believeth all things, and hopeth all things."

It appears from the constitution of this society, that "its sole object shall be to encourage a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures, without note or comment." The application of this primary principle is regulated by only two specifications.

1st. "The only copies in the English language to be circulated by this society, shall be of the version now in common use."

2dly. "The society shall, according to its ability, extend its influence to other countries, whether Christian, Mahometan, or Pagan."

These are the fundamental principles of the constitution. The managers' address, contemporaneous with the constitution, contemplates the circulation of the scriptures in foreign lands, "in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required." "They will embrace with thankfulness and pleasure," is the language of the address, "every opportunity of raying out by means of the Bible, according to their ability, the light of life and immortality, to such parts of the world as are destitute of the blessing, and are within their reach." This address has been properly appealed to by all, as a fair exposition of the constitution, and the above extracts doubtless give a just representation of the liberal principles on which the society commenced its operations.

On these principles, the Baptists entered most heartily into the labours of the society. They have ever regarded this as one of the most interesting of the benevolent enterprises of the age, and have stood among the foremost in its support.

After years of harmonious and successful co-operation on the above mentioned principles, we find ourselves excluded from all further participation in this noble work, by a requisition unknown to the constitution under which we are associated, at variance with its spirit, and with the only principles on which the different Christian sects can unite in the labours of this society.

Different denominations of Christians have invested money to a large amount in the funds of the society. Their sympathies have been deeply enlisted in its behalf, and to the blessing of Heaven on their united labours and prayers, it owes its present prosperity. Whatever ability it now possesses, whether in funds, in influence, or in the confidence of the public, is therefore the common property of these several denominations, acquired by their united exertions, and guaranteed to each of them by the constitution of the society. That instrument may, indeed, according to one of its own provisions, be altered by a vote of the society. It will be readily conceded, however, that the society is bound in honour and good faith, to respect the fundamental principles of its constitution, and never to make any change in it, except for the express purpose of giving full effect to these principles. It has received in trust, the bequests of benevolent individuals, made in reliance on the guarantees which those principles afford. If it be said that these bequests were made in view of all the contingencies which might arise under the provision just alluded to; we answer, that we believe no considerate man would ever make a bequest subject to such contingencies. His action is based on the implied pledge, that the original principles of the constitution will be faithfully adhered to through all vicissitudes. If they may be set aside as convenience, interest, or sectarian zeal may dictate, or even as the sober judgment of judicious men, honestly aiming to promote the interests of Christ's kingdom may deem desirable, in what other light can they be regarded than as a temporary lure, for which any other may be substituted, as soon as another more attractive can be found? How many examples of such faithlessness will be necessary to destroy all confidence in the principles on which our benevolent institutions are conducted!

In regard to the measures of the Board, to which allusion has been made, we assert they were not adopted for the purpose of carrying these principles into effect.

We appeal to the history of the whole transaction. At a meeting of the Board of Managers, August 6, 1835, application was made by Mr. Pearce, a Baptist missionary of Calcutta, for aid in printing a Bengali version of the New Testament, in which the word baptizo and its cognates are translated according to the views and practice of the Baptist denomination. At a subsequent meeting, September 3, 1835, the committee on distribution, to whom the letter of Mr. Pearce had been referred, reported the following resolution, to wit:—

“Resolved, That the Committee do not deem it expedient to recommend any appropriation, until the Board settle a principle in relation to the Greek word baptizo.”

This resolution was adopted, and the subject was referred to a committee of seven, embracing one from each of the denominations represented in the Board.

On the 1st October, this committee reported in substance as follows, viz: That in the Bengali version of the New Testament, for which the patronage of the society is solicited, the Greek words baptizo, baptisma, and their cognates, are translated by words signifying to immerse, immersion, &c.; that the same is true of the Burmese version of the New Testament, and of the other versions in the languages and dialects of India; that the Calcutta Bible Society, and the British and Foreign Bible Society, have refused to aid in printing and circulating the Bengali New Testament, on the ground of its containing the above mentioned translations; that the committee were not aware until now that such translations had been made in India, or other heathen countries.

The three following resolutions were submitted in the report.

1st. Resolved, That the Board deem it inexpedient to appropriate any funds belonging to the society, in aid of translating or distributing the aforesaid Bengali New Testament, or any other versions containing the aforesaid translation, or any similar translation.

2dly. Resolved, That the Board of Managers, on receiving satisfactory evidence of such corrections having been made in the aforesaid translations of the Bengali New Testament, or in other versions in other languages or dialects, as will comport with the known views of other Christian denominations, or in other words, with the obvious intention of the authorized English version, will most cheerfully aid in the printing and circulating of said version or versions as heretofore.

3dly. Resolved, That all persons interested in the foregoing resolutions, be informed of their purport forthwith.

In support of these resolutions, the report presented several considerations; viz: that a version of the scriptures in which baptizo, baptisma, &c., are left untranslated, may be used by ministers and missionaries of all denominations, each explaining these words according to his own views and practice; that versions in which those terms are translated by words signifying to immerse, immersion, will necessarily embarrass, if not wholly exclude the operations of missionaries of many denominations, in countries where those versions obtain circulation; that "it is not competent for the American Bible Society to assume any sectarian attitude, by favouring the denominational views of any particular church "whether at home or abroad."

Thus far the measures of the Board were plain and undisguised. Their action was directed professedly against their Baptist brethren, and no attempt was made to cover the design. They were thus far willing to say in express terms, that they would countenance no version of the scriptures in which baptizo is translated to immerse. It seems to have been felt, however, that this was narrow ground for this noble institution to occupy; that there was something incongruous in such an institution withholding for such a reason, the words of eternal life from millions perishing in their sins. It was therefore thought expedient to abandon the open and direct assault on the peculiarities of a single denomination, and to pursue the same design under cover of a general principle, to which it was represented, all should submit, and which must therefore be equitable, since all alike would feel its operation.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board, November 5, 1835, the whole subject was again referred to the above mentioned committee of seven. In their report, submitted to the Board, November 19, this committee expressed the opinion, "that it is expedient to withdraw their former report on the particular case, and to present the following one on the general principle." This general principle is expressed in the first of the two resolutions submitted in the report, which was as follows:

"The committee to whom was recommitting the determining of a principle upon which the American Bible Society will aid in printing and distributing the Bible in foreign languages, beg leave to report:

"That they are of opinion that it is expedient to withdraw their former report on the particular case, and to present the following on the general principle.

"By the constitution of the American Bible Society, its managers are, in the circulation of the Holy Scriptures, restricted to such copies as are without note or comment, and in the English language, to the version in common use.

"The design of these restrictions clearly seems to have been to simplify and mark out the duties of the society; so that all the religious denominations of which it is composed, might harmoniously unite in performing those duties.

"As the managers are now called to aid extensively in circulating the Sacred Scriptures in languages other than the English, they deem it their duty, in conformity with the obvious spirit of their compact, to adopt the following resolution, as the rule of their conduct in making appropriations for the circulation of the scriptures in all foreign languages.

1st. Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing, or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principles of their translation to the common English version; at least, so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this society, can consistently use and circulate said versions in their several schools and communities.

2dly. Resolved, That a copy of the above preamble and resolution be sent to each of the missionary boards, accustomed to receive pecuniary aid from the society, with a request that the same may be transmitted to their respective missionary stations, where the scriptures may be in process of translation; and that also the several mission boards be informed, that their applications for aid must be accompanied with a declaration, that the versions which they propose to circulate are executed in accordance with the above resolution.

We will suppose that the preamble and resolution are sent, as required, to a missionary who is ignorant of the circumstances which led the Board to adopt them. What use could he make of this new rule by which he is to govern himself in the execution of his responsible task? His version, he is told, must conform in the principles of its translation to the common English version. What principles? There were many by which the authors of that version were guided, some of which, it is presumed, no one would now approve. This requisition, vague as it is in itself, is rendered still more so by the qualification which follows. It is added, "at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this society, can consistently use and circulate said versions." How far would this be? An honest translator might be excused for feeling some anxiety on this point. If he were willing to yield to the force of circumstances, and to submit his conscience in some points to the dictation of others, he would still, if any moral sensibility were left, be solicitous to know how far these different denominations were disposed to exact this criminal compliance. For criminal he must feel it to be, since just so far as they required him to depart from what he himself held to be just principles of translation, he would be the conscious instrument of giving to the world, as Divine truth, not what he believed to be the word of God, but what he knew to be the word of man. Or if we suppose the action of these principles to be wholly negative, requiring only that certain things should be suppressed in the translation, he might still, professing to give to a heathen nation the whole word of God, feel some honest solicitude to know how much would remain, after seven different denominations had been allowed to abstract whatever each considered unfavourable to its own interests.

A ready answer to these questions is found in the history of the transaction, which led to the adoption of the resolution. No reader of that history is at a loss to perceive in what principles of translation conformity is required, and how far that conformity must extend. Had Messrs. Pearce and Yates informed the Board, that baptizo and its derivatives had, in obedience to the resolution, been transferred into their Bengali version of the New Testament, or had Mr. Judson declared the same respecting his Burmese Bible, what further conformity to the English version in the principles of translation, would have been required? Enough! The sole object of the resolution was to cut off from the patronage of the society, every translation of the scriptures in which baptizo is rendered to immerse.

But if the measure itself is objectionable, its form is equally so. So long as the action of the Board had respect only to "the particular case," it had at least the merit of meeting the question fairly. But the expedient of a general principle, which never was designed to be applied beyond "the particular case," was unworthy of the American Bible Society. Such an institution should have none but noble ends, "and these should be attained by noble means." On this period of its history, good and upright men of future times, will look back with pity and surprise.

But it is our duty to present still another aspect of this resolution. The Baptists are accused of having acted in the discussion of this subject, under the influence of a sectarian spirit. They have manifested, it is said, none of that disposition to sacrifice denominational interest, which has characterized the other sects represented in the society, who have freely conceded all which they require their Baptist brethren to yield, and all which is necessary to secure the peace and harmonious co-operation of all parties.

Let us briefly examine this point.

So far as relates to the measure on which we are animadverting, there are but two sects in this society. One of these sects considers immersion of the body in water as essential to the ordinance of baptism, and this ordinance as essential to a profession of the Christian faith. They believe that this is all clearly exhibited in the original scriptures, and that a man cannot faithfully translate them without making this as clear in his version as it is in the original. The other sect professes to regard the mode of administering this rite as comparatively unimportant, and not very definitely prescribed in the scriptures. They are therefore willing that the word, by which this ordinance is designated, should remain untranslated, i. e. be transferred into their versions.

This is called concession.—It is appealed to as proof of a disposition to sacrifice personal interest to the general good. From this view we beg leave to dissent. We think our brethren very justly appreciate this spirit of concession, but are unhappily mistaken in the party to whom it belongs.

It is well understood that your ablest scholars of every age, have, on the question of philology, asserted the correctness of our views. Their own practice these scholars have defended on the ground of convenience merely, regarding the mode of an external rite as a matter of indifference. The most that they have claimed in opposition to us, is, that the rite may not in all cases during the age of the apostles, have been administered according to our belief. To those who cannot, as scholars, and as honest men, translate the word according to their own practice, it must be a convenience—not a concession to transfer it.

But we have not done with this claim to the spirit of concession. The Baptists have contributed freely to the funds of the society, without requiring that your translators should be trainmelled in the execution of their sacred trust, by any reference to our views. To the great Head of the Church they are responsible, not to us. We only claim that those translations, for which we are accountable to the same Divine master, shall be made on principles for which we can answer at his bar: that we be free to discharge this most sacred duty according to the dictates of our conscience, not yours. Had this spirit of concession characterized both parties in the Board, we might still have laboured together in harmony.

Our brethren who differ from us as to the mode of Baptism, have not been molested when they have chosen to translate baptizo in accordance with their own practice. We are aware that the instances are comparatively few in which they have availed themselves of this privilege, and that such instances will probably be still fewer in time to come. It is not likely they will often find a translator competent to his task, who, if required to translate the word, would express its meaning otherwise than is done in our versions. The most which he can do for his denomination is to transfer it. Thus the resolution, while it wrests from the Baptists all which the other sects in the Board would ask them to concede, secures to that sect every right which they can conscientiously exercise. If this is a just representation of the case, we think it can no longer be a question whether the society has, in the adoption of these measures, totally disregarded the principles of its constitution. According to that instrument and the contemporaneous exposition of it, given by its first Board of managers, the society is bound to aid, to the extent of its ability, in circulating the scriptures among the heathen nations, "in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required." A version of the New Testament, of acknowledged excellence, is presented for its patronage. The aid solicited is refused, because a word descriptive of an external rite is conscientiously translated in accordance with the author's views, but not with those of a majority in the society. None of the great principles of Christianity, of the religion of the Bible, are committed in this case. The way of life and salvation by Jesus Christ is taught with unimpeachable fidelity. But the reader of this version also learns that the rite by which the believer testifies his faith in Christ, is immersion of the body in water. A majority of the Board of the society believe that it may be done as well, by applying a little water to the face, or pouring it on the head. For this difference, the American Bible Society refuses to aid in giving the word of life to half the heathen world.

We assert, moreover, that the society has, in these resolutions, directly violated its constitution, by adopting the English version as a standard in any sense, for foreign translations. We have already shown the actual purpose for which it was adopted. But we maintain that it cannot, consistently with the constitution, be assumed as a standard in any sense. The society is bound, according to its ability, to give to heathen nations THE WORD OF GOD, not of man, not adulterated by man. But by this resolution it declares its determination, never to give to any heathen nation the entire word of God translated.

The principles, on which a translation of the scriptures should be made, have been thoroughly investigated, and he who has made them his study, will seldom be at a loss for a guide which he may follow with confidence. Were it deemed desirable to subject them to further examination, not for the purpose of controlling the conscience of the translator, but to furnish a grateful help in his labours, the best talents and learning of the age would have been honoured by being called to the service of the society. But rejecting all these advantages, the society adopts as its standard, a version executed when the science of translation was imperfectly understood, by men who were not permitted to follow implicitly even the light of their own age. The plea which has been urged in favour of this course, viz., that the common English version is by name adopted as the only one to be circulated in our country, is not even a plausible defence. This is the exception, not the rule.

Wherever there exists a "received version," though confessedly imperfect, there are many reasons why it should be circulated in preference to a new and improved one. But if a new version is required, there can be but one sentiment in regard to it, "Let it be faithful." The mind spontaneously revolts at any measure which would debar the translator from aiming at the highest attainable perfection in his holy work. How the American Bible Society could deem it consistent with the obligations imposed by its constitution to erect any such barrier, to require that the translator faithfully represent, not the inspired originals, but the peculiarities of King James's version, is a problem which nothing can solve but a knowledge of the exigencies of the occasion. We commend the details of this transaction to the notice of the future historian of the church; he might otherwise be at a loss how to answer the inquiry, "into what strait were the managers of the American Bible Society driven, when they found themselves compelled to adopt the English version as the standard for their foreign translations?" We respectfully ask whether he will be able to trace any analogy between this act of the society, and the preference given by the church of Rome to the Latin vulgate over the same inspired originals?

These remarks apply with equal force to the qualifying clause, "at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this society, can consistently use and circulate said version." The time arrives when it is thought necessary to settle some principle on which the society will aid in printing and distributing the Bible in foreign languages. Does it resolve, in accordance with the character which it has hitherto sustained, and with the principles of its own constitution, that every translation which receives its patronage shall be as perfect as human industry and learning can produce? No! It adopts the principle, that it will give to heathen nations, not the word of God, but such a modification of it, as will suit the interests of each and all the various denominations represented in the society! Was it possible for this institution, with all its high and hitherto just pretensions, to assume a more humiliating attitude?

For this course there was not the plea of necessity, or even of expediency. No plan could be devised for foreign distribution, so favourable to the general interests of truth, and so just to all connected with the society, as that on which it has hitherto acted. For multiplying versions of the scriptures, it must, to a great extent, be indebted to the labours of missionaries stationed in heathen lands. Of the fidelity with which these versions may be executed, satisfactory proofs can always be given. It is to be hoped that such proofs may generally be found in the character of the missionary, and of those by whom he is employed.

No other plan has yet been suggested in which different Christian sects can consistently unite in the distribution of the versions. In the publication of tracts, of volumes for Sunday schools, &c., different sects may unite on the ground of mutual concession, and may properly submit to their "committees of publication," the revision of works prepared by men for the benefit of the church. But such a compromise among Christian sects, as that which is contemplated in the resolution, is wholly inconsistent with the estimation in which they profess to hold THE SCRIPTURES. Such a compromise is equally inconsistent with the obligations of the translator.

He is bound to express in his version the exact sense of the original, as he himself understands it. How can he do otherwise without daring impiety, while he professes to give God's word to men? We are sure that we speak the common sense of mankind, when we say, if he acts on any other principle, he is a traitor to the highest trust that was ever delegated to man. It is not his business to judge whether God has revealed too much or too little; whether he has made the revelation too clear or too obscure, but to show in his version just what is revealed, and as it is revealed. We make no distinction here between great things and small. We contend for a scrupulous adherence to just principles, as the only ground for security. So long as the translator keeps within these principles, he may be safely trusted. But he yields every claim to our confidence, when he avows that he may, in any thing, depart from the original, whether it be to suit the errors or the caprices of those who sustain him, or the circumstances of the times, and of the people for whom he translates.

The only basis, therefore, on which different sects can consistently unite in the distribution of new versions of the scriptures, is that of mutual confidence, confidence that each will employ competent and faithful translators, who will "endeavour by earnest prayer and diligent study, to ascertain the precise meaning of the original text, and to express that meaning as exactly as the nature of the languages, into which they shall translate the Bible, will permit."

We cannot leave this topic, without adverting to the fact (and we shall only advert to it) that some, at least, of the advocates of this measure, seem not to have duly considered the dangerous power with which they would invest the American Bible Society. It is maintained that, in the exercise of this power, the society will hinder the circulation of corrupted and mutilated copies of the scriptures. One sect has been particularly alluded to, as in a peculiar sense the "enemies of the cross of Christ." The society, it is thought, will render an important service to the cause of truth by the restraints which it will impose on the operations of that sect.

Is this the language of protestants! In a land of religious freedom are we fostering a NATIONAL INSTITUTION, which is to wield this tremendous power over the very sources of the religious faith of mankind; not by arguments addressed to the understanding and conscience, but by the decrees which shall issue from its council chambers!

With this exposition of our views of the principles on which the society has resolved to act in an important department of its future labours, we resign the places which we hold in this Board. We believe we have justified to the world the assertion which we now make, that this separation has not been sought by us. We are compelled to withdraw from the society, whose labours we should still have esteemed it a privilege and an honour to share, had it continued faithful to its original principles.

Protest presented to the British and Foreign Bible Society, March 6, 1837.

The undersigned Ministers of the Baptist denomination, feeling it incumbent upon them, as a solemn matter of conscience and duty, to bear their individual and united testimony against the Resolution of the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, refusing aid to the Bengali translation of the New Testament, executed by the Baptist Missionaries at Calcutta, because "the words for baptize, &c., are rendered by words signifying immersion;" and understanding that grants to several of the versions prepared by the late venerable Dr. Carcy have long been suspended on the same ground; submit the following statement to the members of that Society, and deliberately publish it to the world as an act to which they are impelled by a faithful regard for the interests of truth.

In common with their fellow Christians, they have been accustomed cheerfully to labour in the ranks of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and will yield to none in sincere and ardent attachment to its catholic constitution and noble design. They have rejoiced in its prosperity with honest delight; have sympathized in its difficulties with unaffected sorrow; and with lively gratitude have glorified God, because he has given it the pre-eminence over all kindred institutions, and crowned its efforts with unexampled success.

It is, consequently, with deep regret that they feel themselves called upon to express their conviction of the unsoundness of the principles on which, in the present instance, its Committee has acted. They would gladly have continued in quiet and unobtrusive co-operation with it in their respective circles, each, according to his ability, promoting its object, and all loving its unsectarian spirit. But in the present crisis they cannot be silent. They can be no parties to what appears to them a departure from the original integrity of its proceedings, nor can they witness an attempt to evade translation, and thus to conceal from the heathen a portion of the word of God, without lifting up their solemn remonstrance against it.

From the correspondence which has passed on this subject between the Baptist Missionary Committee and the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, they perceive that every proper method has been employed by the former, but employed in vain, to prevent the conclusion which has at length been reached; and no hope being now left of inducing an alteration in this decision, they solemnly enter their protest against it.

1st, Because, in their estimation, it is the primary duty of a translator to ascertain the precise meaning of the original text, and then to express that meaning as exactly as the nature of the language into which he translates it will admit. He is not at liberty to leave untranslated any word, the signification of which he knows, and can render by an equivalent term; and if he should do so, he is thereby guilty of keeping back part of the counsel of God. Two of Archbishop Newcome's rules for the conduct of a translator support this reason:—

“Rule I. The translator should express every word in the original by a literal rendering, where the English idiom admits of it, and where, not only purity, but perspicuity and dignity of expression can be preserved.”

“Rule XII. The critical sense of passages should be considered, and not the opinions of any denomination of Christians whatever.”

“The translators should be philologists, and not controversialists.”

2. Because it is the province of the British and Foreign Bible Society to afford impartial aid to all faithful translations of the Holy Scriptures, not erecting itself into a tribunal of biblical criticism, nor taking upon itself, by the suppression of any part of inspired truth, to attempt a compromise between various denominations of Christians.

3. Because, the question being purely philological, a conscientious objection cannot be taken against the rendering given by the Missionaries, unless it be alleged that such rendering is unfaithful, which allegation, so far as the undersigned are aware, is not advanced; but simply that it is “considered objectionable by other denominations of Christians composing the Bible Society.”

4. Because, were the principle admitted, that translators are not bound to convey into other tongues the true signification of words which may happen to involve controversies existing among different denominations of Christians, but in deference to the prevailing party may leave such words covered with a convenient, and, to all but learned men, an impenetrable veil, many other words immediately occur which should be thus treated ; while truth, conscience, and inspiration would be sacrificed at the shrine of secular expediency, or party discussion.

5. Because the British and Foreign Bible Society circulates on the continent of Europe, and in the eastern parts of the world, several versions of the New Testament, in which the words now proposed to be left untranslated are translated in a similar manner to that adopted by the Baptist Missionaries.

6. Because the Resolution of the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, while it professes to be founded on a general principle, affects only a particular case, the whole Christian church being on the question at issue divided into two sections, those who do, and those who do not baptize by immersion. By adopting the course of which we complain, the Bible Society descends from its high pre-eminence as a Catholic Institution, ceases to be an incorporation of Christians of every community, and becomes essentially sectarian in its principle and practice.

7. Because those members of the British and Foreign Bible Society who are also members of the Established Church, with singular inconsistency unite in withholding aid for the reason assigned, since their church has expressly enjoined that mode of administering the ordinance of baptism which the terms employed in the Baptist translations describe, and allows no other but as an exception in cases specifically mentioned.

8. Because the principle,—now, it is believed, for the first time laid down,—that new versions, in order to obtain the support of the British and Foreign Bible Society, must in disputed points conform “to the practice resorted to in the English and other Versions,” is fatal to that moral independence and strict fidelity which are among the primary qualifications of a translator of the Scriptures, and cannot, it is confidently presumed, be acted upon in many other instances, however readily it may be adopted in the present case.

9. Because, although the Vulgate, which is followed in this instance by the English Version and some others in the western parts of Europe, leaves the words in question untranslated, this circumstance is not attributable to any difference of opinion existing at the time in which it first appeared, as to the true meaning of the words themselves, the baptismal rite being then and for many centuries afterwards administered only by immersion ; in confirmation of which it may be sufficient here to cite the authority of Bossuet, the Roman Catholic, and of the Protestant Episcopalian, Whitby. The words of the former are as follows : “We are able to make it appear, by the acts of councils and by the ancient rituals, that for THIRTEEN HUNDRED YEARS baptism was thus administered throughout the whole church, as far as was possible.” And the following are the words of the latter : “And this immersion being religiously observed by all Christians for THIRTEEN CENTURIES, and approved by our church, and the change of it into sprinkling, even without any allowance from the Author of this institution, or any license from any council of the church, being that which the Romanist still urgeth to justify his refusal of the cup to the laity ; it were to be wished that this custom might be again of general use, and aspersion only permitted, as of old, in case of the clinici, or in present danger of death."

In putting forth this protest, the undersigned do not intend to convey the idea that each and all of the foregoing reasons were felt with equal force by every individual, some having been influenced in a greater degree by one, and others by another ; but they all concur in expressing unfeigned sorrow that the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society has, by this measure, placed that institution on what they deem an unconstitutional and unscriptural ground, and in bearing their deliberate and public testimony against it.

In conclusion they state, that they feel, as they trust, in its full weight, the responsibility of the position in which they place themselves by this public act, yet from that responsibility they do not shrink. Having thus discharged a painful but imperative duty, they are satisfied to leave the cause of truth, for which alone they are concerned, in the hands of Him, to whom it emphatically belongs, and who so works out the issues of all things as to promote its ultimate triumph, and therein to secure his own glory.

Review of Hinton's Letter to Lord Bexley, President of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and of the Constitution, &c. of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

A SOLEMN oath is exacted in our courts of justice from every man who undertakes to interpret a deposition which is made in a foreign language. Whatever may be his reputation for integrity or learning, whatever his experience in the work, the faithfulness of his translation must be attested by a sanction as awful as that which binds the original witness to speak "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." And if an oath for confirmation is ever desirable, it is in such a case as this ; for, supposing the court to be unacquainted with the language in which the testimony is given, the decision which is to take away property, liberty, or life, may be determined by the accuracy or inaccuracy of the translation. The spirit of a transaction is sometimes indicated by a single phrase which was employed by the party to whom the investigation refers; the proof of guilty knowledge on the one hand, or innocence of purpose on the other, may depend on the precise meaning of a word: every thing in such a case is at the mercy of the interpreter. Suppression and interpolation may be equally detrimental. How anxious will a conscientious man be at such a time to make use of terms exactly equivalent to those which the witness has uttered! What irreparable mischiefs might ensue, were the translator to allow himself to be influenced by a pecuniary bribe, or by the partialities of friendship! He is required therefore to swear "to make true interpretation of the evidence, according to the best of his skill and understanding."

Indeed, in cases of a less urgent character, the duties of a translator are important and weighty. He is bound in honour to give as just a view as he can of the meaning of a writer, whose opinions he professedly reports. A celebrated author on the continent, whose profound learning and patient industry have been expended in some laborious researches, could not refrain from tears, it is said, when conversing recently with a traveller from this country, while deploring the manner in which one of his principal works had been presented to the British public. He had received, in his own apprehension, an injury of the severest character, from a translator whose sentiments, in some points, differed from his own, in having his opinions incorrectly represented to a nation for whom he entertained a high regard, and among whom, above all others, he wished to be in good repute. No ingenuous mind can contemplate without sorrow the painful emotions of one who, having devoted years of toil to an interesting investigation, regarded himself as deprived of anticipated usefulness and honour by the want of skill or the party spirit of his translator.

How solemn, then, is the responsibility which belongs to him who undertakes to translate any portion of the sacred oracles! Especially if the originals be out of the reach of his readers, and his version be the only one from which they can learn what divine mercy has revealed, by how many sanctions is he bound to give a view as accurate and complete as possible of every sentence which resulted from the inspiration of a holy and a jealous God! The prophet himself was not under more awful obligation to portray the vision just as he saw it, without deduction or colouring of his own, or to record the precise language which he heard when the still small voice of Deity fell upon his ear, than is the translator to give, to the best of his ability, the exact image of the thought which the prophet actually expressed in his own mother tongue. "Thou shalt not add thereto or diminish therefrom," is a precept which should ever be present to his mind, and impressed upon his heart. This duty has been recognised and acknowledged by the most eminent cultivators of sacred literature. The translators who have rendered most freely have sought to fulfil it, as well as those who are most literal in their style. "The first and principal business of a translator," says Lowth, "is to give the plain literal and grammatical sense of his author; the obvious meaning of his words, phrases, and sentences; and to express them in the language into which he translates, as far as may be, in equivalent words, phrases, and sentences. Whatever indulgence may be allowed him in other respects—however excusable he may be if he fail of attaining the elegance, the spirit, the sublimity of his author—which will generally be in some degree the case, if his author excels at all in those qualities—want of fidelity admits of no excuse, and is entitled to no indulgence.”

The temptation to blink certain questions, is, however, frequently strong in the translation of authoritative documents; and the translators of the inspired volume especially ought to be on their guard against this danger, as arising either from their own prepossessions, or the prepossessions of their friends. To leave a Greek word untranslated, is to withhold from the unlearned reader a complete translation of the writing in which it occurs. It is to throw him back upon other resources for the interpretation of the passage; to render him dependent for instruction on other books, or on living teachers; to transfer him again to the guidance of the clergy. It is, as far as that passage is concerned, to render the rule of faith, not the Scripture but its interpreter, the church. It was an expedient, therefore, to which the Roman party had recourse, in order to keep the laity partially in the dark, when they found they could not keep them in the dark wholly, but must allow them something that should be called a translation.—The crafty Bishop Gardner, in particular, finding in the latter part of the Reign of Henry VIII. that to withhold an English testament was impossible, maintained that there were many words in the New Testament of such majesty, that they were not to be translated; but must stand in the English Bible as they were in the Latin. A hundred of these he put into a written list, which was read in convocation. “His design in this,” says Burnet, “was visible; that if a translation must be made, it should be so daubed all through with Latin words, that the people should not understand it much the better for its being in English. A taste of this the reader may have by the first twenty of them: ecclesia, penitentia, pontifex, ancilla, contritus, olocausta, justitia, justificatio, idiota, elementa, baptizare, martyr, adorare, sandalium, simplex, tetrarcha, sacramentum, simulachrum, gloria. The design he had of keeping some of these, particularly the last save one, is plain enough; that the people might not discover that visible opposition which was between the Scriptures and the Roman church in the matter of images. This could not be better palliated, than by disguising these places with words that the people understood not.”

King James the first adopted partially the bishop's plan, when, in the hope of superseding the Geneva Bible, which he abhorred, and which was becoming increasingly popular, he yielded so far to the expressed wishes of the Puritans, as to submit Parker's Bible to that revision which produced the version now in common use. The learned men to whom he committed the work were required to do homage to his royal wisdom, by compliance with fourteen instructions, of which this was the third: “The old ecclesiastical words to be kept, as the word church not to be translated congregation,” &c. And his translators, having acted under his guidance, boasted of the just medium which they had observed between popish midnight and puritanical sunshine. They say, "We have on the one side avoided the scrupulosity of the puritans, who leave the old ecclesiastical words and betake them to other, as when they put washing for baptism, and congregation instead of church: as also, on the other side, we have shunned the obscurity of the papists, in their azymes, tunika, rational, holocausts, prepuce, pasche, and a number of such like, whereof their late translation is full, and that of purpose to darken the sense, that since they must needs translate the Bible, yet, by the language thereof, it may be kept from being understood."

We will not on the present occasion descant on the effect which this retention of "old ecclesiastical words" has had on the progress of divine truth in this country. This might furnish grave matter for remark, if we were engaged on some other questions; questions on which we should have our Presbyterian and Independent brethren on the same side as ourselves. But we must put the inquiry to our readers, Is this translation, made under the guidance of an earthly king, or is the Greek text, which was written by the apostles, to be the standard of faith and practice to the millions of India? Will they consent that our brethren, who are wearing out their lives in exertion to give the heathen the word of God, should have rivetted upon them any one of the fetters with which king James bound his bishops and their coadjutors? Are their consciences to be left free, or are they to be shackled? We rejoice that the Baptist missionaries have all remained firm, considering themselves to be set for the defence and confirmation of every portion of the gospel, maintaining their plea of responsibility to a Master in heaven. They have been assailed in the most vulnerable part, and with the most formidable weapons. It is easier by far to bear reproach, and scorn, and hatred, than it is to sustain appeals to candour, modesty, and the love of union; especially when those appeals are made by friends whose piety is undoubted, and whose benevolence has been amply proved. This is indeed a trial of integrity, when Christian brethren whom you love, whose wisdom you respect, and whom you would be delighted to gratify, call upon you to give up some particle of your principles to the preservation of unity in a society to which you are attached, and to the judgment of men whom you honour. To such an ordeal, however, Baptist translators have been subjected; but each one has retained his integrity, apparently regarding himself as sworn "to make true interpretation of the evidence according to the best of his skill and understanding."

The question respecting the translation or transference of the word baptizo into the Indian languages, is not a question of recent date. In the year 1813, writing to Mr. Hughes, the secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, a man to whom it was peculiarly difficult to refuse any thing, because of his habitual candour and amenity, Mr. Fuller says, "In a letter which I lately received from Dr. Carey, he mentions having received one from you, inquiring in what way certain words were rendered in their translations. He wished me to inform you that they had rendered βαπτίζω by a word that signifies to immerse, and ἐπίσκοπος by a word that signifies an overseer." Mr. Hughes replied, "I thank you for the information respecting Dr. Carey. The rendering which concerns baptism, I might deem it proper to exchange for the undefined one adopted in our version, especially considering the circumstances under which oriental versions are proceeding. This however is submitted, with deference, as an opinion from which, I am sensible, wiser and better men decisively differ."—The subject, then, attracted attention a quarter of a century ago; but no practical result accrued. Dr. Carey persevered in his course, and the Bible Society continued to aid him. Within the last few years, however, a decided stand has been made against the rendering of baptizo. Episcopos is at present in abeyance; but the Bible Society has determined to withhold assistance from a translation of the New Testament, whose general excellence is not only unimpeached, but freely acknowledged, unless "the Greek terms relating to baptism be rendered, either according to the principle adopted by the translators of the English authorized version, by a word derived from the original, or by such terms as may be considered unobjectionable by the other denominations of Christians composing the Bible Society."

Mr. Hinton's Letter to Lord Bexley on this subject is worthy of his reputation for acuteness and mental vigour. It gives a condensed but lucid view of the question, and illustrates forcibly the untenable nature of that position which the Bible Society has taken. The whole of it deserves to be read by all who are interested in the integrity of Scripture, and to be circulated throughout the length and breadth of the land. We will, however, give a few pointed extracts.

"I have thus far considered the justice of the resolution of the Committee; permit me, further, to investigate its expediency. And here I maintain that, if it could be justified, it could not be shown to be wise. They attempt to "adjust the difference" respecting baptism, by recommending the transfer of the Greek word; but what can they do towards adjusting the numerous other differences, doctrinal and ecclesiastical, which exist between the different sections of the religious world? There are as stubborn diversities of opinion concerning the words ἐπίσκοπος (bishop) πρεσβύτερος (elder,) and ἐκκλησία (church,) as there can be about βαπτίζω (baptize;) and if the party strife notoriously existing, respecting the proper rendering of them, were to come before the Committee of the Bible Society, are we to suppose that they would direct these words likewise to be transferred, instead of being translated? What would they then do with τεταγμένους (ordained,) and προέγνω (to foreknow?) Must these be transferred to the language of the pagans too? And where would they stop? Or where, consistently, could they stop, until they had forbidden the translation of every disputed term, and ordered them all to be transferred into every language under heaven? And all this to make the Bible intelligible to the heathen! So for example, with the passage, Acts xiii. 48, "As many as were ordained to eternal life, believed." Because a Calvinist understands the word "ordained" τεταγμένους as referring to the purpose of God and an Arminian as referring to the disposition of men: the Bible Society Committee, upon the case being brought before them, will adjudge that the word be not translated, but transferred; and that the pagans, by way of having an intelligible Bible, be taught that "As many as were τεταγμένους to eternal life, believed!" In the case of βαπτίζω (baptize,) the Committee "fall back on the practice of the English version." But would this satisfy the Presbyterian, the Congregationalist, or the Lutheran? We have a long list of ecclesiastical terms which King James ordered our translators to retain, right or wrong; and we know the fraudulent design with which πασχα (passover) has been translated Easter. Acts xii. 4. And is this version to be made in every point the standard for all new translations, and its admitted errors and defects to be propagated, without remedy, under the whole heaven? It is impossible.

"I have now done, my lord, with the first branch of the alternative offered us by the Committee. I come next to the second. And if the first is bad, the second is far worse. We are recommended to render βαπτίζω (baptize,) by a term 'which may not be considered objectionable by the other denominations of Christians composing the Bible Society.' It would be wrong, doubtless, to give unnecessary offence; nor, so far as appears, have our brethren been accused of it. The word they have used to denote immersion, is as inoffensive as any word can be which denotes the same thing; while it is very well known, that no word meaning immersion would be considered 'unobjectionable.' The recommendation of the Committee, therefore, goes upon the principle, that the primary object of a translator should be conciliation rather than fidelity,—that he should seek to please men rather than God,—that he should sacrifice truth to love! Strange and fearful doctrine! No. Precious as love is, it must not be purchased at the sacrifice of truth. Nor could any love which is worth possessing be purchased at such a cost. A man who could make such a sacrifice to the good opinion of his brethren would only deserve to be despised, and he would soon meet with his desert. The dignity and value of truth, the authority of God, the welfare of immortal souls, all forbid this guilty and fatal surrender. Most deeply do I deplore that, in such an age as the present, when the translation of the holy Scriptures is carried on by so many hands, and into so many languages, the sentiment on which I am remarking should have been promulgated, and more especially from a quarter so likely to be influential. With me, denominational considerations are as nothing, in comparison with my desire to extract this element of poison from the fountain of biblical translation. In the name of all that is honest and faithful, either towards God, himself, or his fellow-sinner, let every man who is employed in this work, render every word into what he believes to be its meaning. In what way else is any translator to clear his conscience?—Or in what way else is any satisfactory approach to be made towards giving to the nations the 'lively oracles' of God?

"Let it only be supposed that a translator of the word of God takes the recommendation given him by the Committee, and ponders at every step whether the word he is employing will 'be considered objectionable' by Christians of other denominations: what must be the result of this? It will introduce into his proceedings an element directly destructive of his fidelity. Instead of inquiring simply, What does the Scripture mean? he will have to ask, What will my brethren like? Instead of conforming his work to the mind of God, he will bend it to the views of his fellow-Christians. How intolerable this must be to men of upright mind! Place an Episcopalian translator among Congregationalists, and he must not render ἐκκλησία 'church,' ἐπίσκοπος, 'bishop,' but 'congregation' and 'overseer.' Place a Congregationalist translator among Episcopalians, and he must, in equal violation of his conscience, say 'bishop' and 'church.' Let but this rule be applied to the whole work of translation, and the whole body of translators, and it would inflict upon them a torture absolutely intolerable. They would rise against it as one man, and sweep it away with irresistible indignation. On such a principle, no honest man could endure the occupation. But this is not the worst. A source of corruption would thus be opened, within the very fountain of the water of life. To the whole extent of this influence, the character of a translator would be utterly forfeited and destroyed, and he who should be a translator, would be composing a work of his own : and yet not of his own, but of the sentiments of those around him. It would be impossible to carry out such a principle through a version of the whole Bible, without producing a corrupted volume, deserving rather to be called a caricature, than a copy of the word of God. It would also follow in this method, that, while every translation of the Scriptures would be corrupt, even these corruptions would have no uniformity. As the fellow-Christians influencing translators in different parts of the earth will be of endless diversity, so must the translations be; till, ultimately, the Bible will be like a chameleon, having no colour of its own, but reflecting the hues of the objects which surround it. How far God would be honoured by such a process, or what would become of the purity and authority of his eternal truth, I need not say; nor will I say more, on so painful a subject, than this, that the havoc would be the more melancholy, for being, not the achievement of the great enemy of God and man, nor of wicked men devoted to his service; not the result of the infirmities of good men, failing to carry into perfect operation the intentions of an upright heart; but the issue of misguided friendship, the purchase of unparalleled liberality, the recommendation of the Bible Society!"

"I will now dismiss the resolution of the Committee, the first branch of which goes to give the heathen no translation at all, the second to give them a corrupt one. I will only add, on this subject, that the operations of translators and of printers of existing translations, require to be regarded with a watchful eye. A disposition to tamper with ancient versions already begins to appear among some non-immersionist brethren abroad.—It has been stated by Mr. W. H. Pierce, lately from Calcutta, that an edition of the Armenian New Testament has not long ago been printed at Shuraz, with the word βαπτίζω (baptize) for the first time transferred: the word in all former editions, having been translated by a term denoting immersion. And this at the expense of the Bible Society, which aids the printing of the edition! To commence a practice of altering the ancient versions, while retaining their names, is carrying the matter somewhat too far."

The incalculable mischief of tampering with ancient versions will awaken the attention, we trust, of every biblical critic. The Armenian version is unanimously ascribed to the end of the fourth or the commencement of the fifth century; yet its emendation is but the application of the principle which has been desired in reference to the productions of our brethren in India. Where will the Earle-street committee stop? Where will they find an honourable halting-place? Safety, honour, usefulness, comfort, all require their immediate return to their original course.

"They have been mistaken in supposing that the measures they have adopted would preserve peace. They have avoided offending their Auxiliary at Calcutta, but they have caused long embarrassments in their councils at home, and given serious umbrage to the Baptist denomination.—The protest they have received must show them how extensively this is felt; but it does not by any means disclose to them the whole influence of their decision. That measure was one of experiment and of hope; all ulterior measures being held in abeyance, till the effect of the protest should be ascertained. The same state of suspense still continues, while perhaps, a public discussion of the matter may be in progress, and the Committee may be in course of learning the opinions of their various constituencies throughout the country in relation to it. But already the minds of many are alienated, and the liberality of some is stayed; and no mistake can be greater, than to suppose that a continued adherence of the Committee to their resolution can consist with the prolonged adhesion of the Baptist body to the Bible Society. It is possible that the Committee may not care about this. Their high patronage, their increasing funds, their established hold on the public mind, may lead them to say, in substance, 'Let the Baptists leave us.' If it should be so, it will only add one to the many instances, in which those who have reached a lofty elevation have forgotten the means by which they ascended. There was a period when such language would not have been held. I may observe, however, that the great question to be entertained by the Bible Society is not one of wealth, but of character. Its character, catholic and noble beyond that of any other institution, has hitherto been its wealth, and is yet of more value to it than the riches of both the Indies. It is yet worth while for it to consider whether it can afford to lose its hitherto unrivalled loveliness; to retire from its pinnacle of glory, as the institution of the whole church, and shrink into one of the niches of the temple, as the institution of a sect,—THE PÆDOBAPTIST BIBLE SOCIETY !"

But the precedent which the British and Foreign Bible Society has set, has unhappily been followed in America. Unhappily? We know not whether that word should not be recalled; for our Baptist brethren on the other side of the Atlantic have acted in the emergency with a promptitude and a vigour, which render it questionable whether a greater amount of good than of evil will not be immediately educed. The American pamphlets which are named at the head of this article, contain accounts of the proceedings and results of a magnificent meeting which was held last April in Philadelphia. About 420 brethren met, who had been deputed from twenty-four out of the twenty-six States in the Union, and, after three days' deliberation, organized the AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY. This Society is now in active and beneficial operation: it remains for British Baptists to consider what course it behoves them to pursue, and to implore guidance from above. May he who gave the command, for the promulgation of which, in common with his other commands, we are pleading, impart to his faithful people all the wisdom and constancy which the exigence requires! If it be contrary to the principles on which the Bible Society is founded, that it should continue to act as it acted during the first five and twenty years of its career—if it be contrary to its principles to allow translators of the highest attainments and piety to express in their versions what they deliberately believe to be the meaning of the inspired text—then, deeply as we shall regret it, we must sacrifice our attachment to a society which we loved for its uniting tendency, which we honoured for its extensive usefulness, which we believed to be, of all human institutions, the most perfect.—If the principles of the Bible Society are not such as to allow of the free exhibition of any one portion of revealed truth to the nations, it does not answer the purpose which we had fondly supposed that divine mercy had assigned it, and it must come, sooner or later, under the frown of the Lord.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OLIVER-STREET FEMALE BIBLE SOCIETY.

This Society was our first Auxiliary, and the zeal and liberality of its members deserve all commendation. Having appropriated a large portion of their funds to constitute Ministering Brethren and Missionaries, Life Directors and Life Members of the Parent Institution, we have selected for publication the following letters of acknowledgment.

From the Secretary of the London Baptist Missionary Society.

LONDON, 12th March, 1838.

MISS ELIZABETH PINE, Cor. Sec. }
Oliver-street, F. B. S. }

My Dear Madam,

I am duly in possession of your kind favour of the 25th January, apprizing me, that the ladies of the Oliver-street Female Bible Society had, by a payment of one hundred and fifty dollars, constituted me a Life Director of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Be assured, dear Madam, that I feel very sensibly this distinguished and most unexpected token of regard from the Christian Ladies with whom you are associated. I was scarcely aware that my name was known to them; I am quite conscious that I have done nothing to merit such a reward. It is indeed true, that from the first, I have taken a lively interest in the existence and proceedings of your Bible Society, and that I have heartily rejoiced in its growing prosperity. It would have gratified me not a little, to have transmitted to its worthy Treasurer, a donation which would have secured me a place among its directors; but since I was unable to accomplish this, I am thankful, both to Providence and to you, that the object has been attained through your kind and liberal instrumentality.

The principle on which the American and Foreign Bible Society is founded—that of giving to the nations of the earth the most faithful translations of the word of God that can be procured—must commend itself to every pious heart. That many of our Christian brethren, whom we highly revere and love, should deem themselves justified in descending from that high ground, and adopting in its room, the principle of expediency and mutual compromise, is indeed, much to be regretted. But we may indulge the pleasing anticipation that in this, as well as in many other instances, Divine wisdom will glorify itself in advancing the interests of truth and piety, by the result of measures calculated to obstruct and retard them. It can scarcely be doubted, that the deliberate and systematic rejection by the Bible Societies of Britain and America, of translations, the fidelity of which they do not, notwithstanding, impugn, will excite far more attention to the, as yet, single point of difference, than could have been attracted towards it by any other means. Should the effect be a more general knowledge of the Divine will, and an increased obedience to it, this would surely be a theme of mutual congratulation among all by whom the authority of Christ is regarded, and to whom the interests of his kingdom are dear.

In watching the progress of your recently formed Institution; it has given me unspeakable satisfaction to perceive that, with a firm resolution to maintain inviolate the dignity of inspired truth, there has been happily combined a spirit of fraternal respect and kindness towards the estimable brethren from whom, on this subject, we are constrained to differ. Nothing whatever, I humbly trust, will be allowed to interfere with the free and enlarged exercise of that spirit. If, through the acknowledged imperfection of their judgments, christians cannot arrive at the same conclusions on a variety of questions connected with that precious volume which forms the charter of their common salvation, let it at least be apparent to all, that they have effectually imbibed from it the sacred lesson to "love one another with a pure heart fervently." When our various controversies, little and unimportant in comparison with the great controversy between our Almighty Lord and his rebellious creatures, are conducted under the prevailing influence of christian charity, we may venture to hope for their speedy adjustment, and for the rapid advance of His glorious kingdom, whose advent was announced by the proclamation of "Peace on earth, good will towards men, and glory to God in the highest."

Earnestly desiring that you, my dear Madam, and the christian sisters with whom you are connected, may personally enjoy much of that favour which is better than life, and be rendered eminent blessings to your families, and the various circles in which you are called to move:

I am yours, with sincere and grateful respect,
JOHN DYER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 10, 1838.

MISS ELIZABETH PINE, Sec. }
Oliver-st. F. B. S. New-York. }

DEAR MADAM,

It is with peculiar satisfaction that I acknowledge the receipt, since my arrival in this city a few days since, of your favour of the 25th January last, inclosing me a certificate of Life Membership of the American and Foreign Bible Society, obtained by virtue of a contribution of thirty dollars by the Society for which you are Secretary.

Allow me to assure you, that in making this acknowledgment, I feel emotions which I can hardly suppose have been created by any similar occurrence. Having been about twenty years not only, in a great degree, shut out from the consolations of christian and civilized society, but destined to labour for an almost friendless people, it is particularly grateful to receive this assurance of "remembrance" from a society deservedly respectable. My happiness is not a little increased by the very kind manner in which you make mention of the people to whose welfare I have devoted my life.

It is, also, a singular satisfaction to have my name associated with the members of a society which, I verily believe, has been brought into existence by a special providence, under circumstances which justify the belief, that it is an institution, the formation of which will be the date of a new era in the history of the church. The American and Foreign Bible Society, I doubt not, is destined to be a formidable instrument in hastening the overthrow of anti-Bible customs among professed christians, originated in darker days than these, and which have nothing to recommend them but the unaccountable practice of many whom we otherwise esteem.

Our Indians, in their native condition, are unlettered, and consequently not within the reach of the hand of benevolence of the society. Nevertheless, I am happy to be able to assure you, that a brighter day appears to be dawning upon this suffering race of men, and judging from the progress of the work of Indian reform, we may hope that the time is not distant when the number of readers will be such as to justify drawing largely upon the liberality of the society.

Please to tender affectionate regards to those with whom you have the happiness to be associated in works of benevolence, and accept for yourself assurances of very great respect,

ISAAC McCOY.

From Evan Jones, Missionary among the Cherokees.

March 23d, 1838.

TO MISS ELIZABETH PINE,

My Dear Sister—Permit me to return to your society, my grateful acknowledgments of the deep obligations under which they have laid me, by their unexpected token of sympathy and regard, as expressed by the enclosure in your favour of January 25th. I can much more easily indulge and enjoy the kindly emotions excited by this act of liberality, than I can convey an expression of them to you. It is exceedingly cheering, in an obscure and lonely station, to know that we enjoy the sympathies, and fellowship, and prayers, of distant and valued friends.

It is refreshing to know, that such efficient measures are in operation for causing every nation under heaven to hear in their own tongues, the wonderful works of God. May the wisdom from above guide you in all your efforts to advance our great Redeemer's cause: and may the Holy Spirit make his own truth effectual to enlighten and to save the lost.

I have great pleasure to say, that the gospel continues to make encouraging progress among the Cherokees. During the past year, upwards of a hundred have been baptized on a profession of their faith in the Lord Jesus. I expect very shortly upwards of twenty more to present themselves as candidates for the sacred rite.

The want of the Holy Scriptures has become very pressing. The portions which have been published are entirely exhausted, while the demand for them is every day increasing.

Brother Bushyhead and myself, had commenced revising, in the hope that some way would be opened to print an edition of those portions which have been published, and as much more as we could translate in time.

We need the whole of the New Testament as speedily as possible. We also need some tracts, and an enlarged edition of hymns. We have translated in a manuscript tract, all the passages of the New Testament on the ordinance of baptism.

A large proportion of the Cherokees can read in their own language, and that proportion would increase rapidly if we had a full supply of books. Earnestly soliciting a continued interest in your prayers,

Your obedient servant and fellow labourer,

EVAN JONES.

REV. S. H. CONE,

Very dear Brother—Will you oblige me by presenting to the Oliver-street Female Bible Society, New-York, my grateful acknowledgment for their respectful and highly valued benefactions, in constituting me first a "Member for Life," and now a "Director for Life," of the American and Foreign Bible Society. That institution is dear to me, for its intrinsic character, and for what I believe, it is destined to accomplish in sustaining and diffusing the truth of God throughout the world. The importance, therefore, which attaches to the Bible efforts of our female friends of Oliver-street, will be easily imagined by the lovers of truth, but cannot so easily be expressed. They are engaged in a noble enterprise, and will have their reward.

Most affectionately yours,

To the Oliver-street Female Bible Society.

HAMILTON, March 7, 1838.

VERY DEAR SISTERS,

Your favour of January 30, constituting me a Director of the American and Foreign Bible Society, by the payment of one hundred and fifty dollars into the Treasury, was received with no ordinary emotions of gratitude.

I know of no way in which your bounty could be placed to my credit, to give me as much pleasure, as to procure for me this connexion with the Bible cause.

Moreover, the value of the favour is greatly enhanced by its coming from those who delight to honour the Saviour, by sending out his unadulterated word, to enlighten and save the world.

In tendering my grateful acknowledgments for this expression of respect, I cannot suppress my convictions of personal unworthiness of the honour and the place, which your benevolence has assigned me. In the mean time, you will have the goodness to accept assurances, that I shall take great pleasure in seconding your liberal efforts in this holy enterprise. May the consolations of this word, and the presence of Him who gave it, be your support in this life, and your inheritance in the life to come.

Your affectionate brother,
NATHANIEL KENDRICK.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 28th, 1838.

To the Ladies of the Oliver-street Female Bible Society—

DEAR SISTERS,—Two or three days ago brother Cene handed me at the Convention, the certificate of your regard, alike for the Bible cause and for me, in making me a Life Director of the American and Foreign Bible Society, by the payment of one hundred and fifty dollars.

I can do no less than testify to you in this manner, my gratification in this proof of your zeal for a blessed cause, and in being placed by your act, in permanent official connexion with very dear brethren, and with a Society, which, from the moment I heard of it, has stood among the first in my heart.

It is the nature of human charities to have, inhering, some doubts as to the selection of objects; some hesitation as to modes of action; and some danger of perverted results. But I know of none less embarrassed by these considerations, than yours. You cannot mistake your objects, for they are all mankind. You cannot hesitate as to mode, for you have only to give the Holy Scriptures in the best possible translations, as far as your means permit. Your gift can scarcely be perverted, for it is God's eternal truth.

I have visited part of your field, and found its extent to transcend all our calculations, by reason of the number of languages. In Burmah alone, and its immediate borders, are more than seventy languages, in which is no part of the Holy Scriptures! The labour and expense of making a Burman Bible, must be repeated in all these instances. Besides these, are the millions of Shyans, Siamese and Cambojans. Our work is truly vast; the urgency great.

The encouragements are not less ample than the field. 1st. The high character of Mr. Judson's translation. In every other mission, I found more or less dissatisfaction with the local version. But this enjoys the applause and confidence of all who are versed in the tongue. Not that it is considered unimprovable; but that it is found to be safe, accurate, idiomatic, and intelligible. Already has Carey's great Bengali Bible, Morrison's Chinese version, and many others, been superseded. But the Burman Bible, after a full test by the distribution of many thousands, and the inspection of accomplished Burmese scholars, American, European and native, remains satisfactory. In giving your money, therefore, for this version, you are not disseminating a translation likely to be regarded hereafter as useless, or perhaps worse. 2d. Messrs. Wade and Mason have made a version of the New Testament for the Karens, which is likely to prove no less entitled to confidence.

Nothing but money is needed to print it, in all desirable quantities. 3rd. Mr. Jones of Siam, is a ripe and critical scholar. His cast of mind, and course of studies, give him such qualifications for translation as few possess. He has printed one of the Gospels, and the Acts of the Apostles, and is proceeding with the work. Scarcely a beginning has yet been made in printing the Siamese Scriptures. 4th. Mr. Brown, of Assam, has already shown himself not only a man of extraordinary industry, but of great philological qualifications. He will soon be ready to print.

I might speak of the readiness to receive our books, and various other encouragements. The above suffice to show, that the American and Foreign Bible Society should receive your most vigorous aid, and that in rendering it, you may cherish peculiar confidence and pleasure. Go on, then, my sisters! Give not only of your superfluity, but of your substance. You have no higher privilege than that of being fellow-workers with God. I remain, with very affectionate respect,
HOWARD MALCOM.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 25, 1838.

Rev. C. G. Sommers, Cor. Sec'y, &c.

DEAR BROTHER,—Your communication on behalf of the American and Foreign Bible Society, was this day received and read before the Convention by the President; on which, the following resolution was passed:

“Resolved, That the communication just received from the American and Foreign Bible Society, be cordially received, and respectfully and appropriately responded to by the Secretary.”

I am happy to assure you, dear brother, of the gratification and encouragement derived to the Convention by the existence and zeal of your Society. We “thank God, and take courage.” Your contributions to our treasury, have been noble, for a society in the first years of its existence. But our duties multiply. Several of our missionaries have now so far acquired their respective languages, as to be prepared to print, particularly the Karen and Siamese. Very enlarged operations are therefore now demanded. We hope you will be enabled to assist us largely in meeting this exigency. Our field never presented so many facilities. The Lord impress his people with their privilege and duty, in all the departments of the great missionary enterprise!

I remain, dear brother, Yours truly,

HOWARD MALCOM, Sec'y. &c.

BAPTIST MISSION ROOMS, }
Boston, Oct. 5, 1837. }

Rev. Charles G. Sommers, Cor. Sec'y. &c.

DEAR BROTHER,—At a meeting of the Baptist Board of Foreign Missions, held the 2d inst., the Treasurer having reported the receipt of $5,000 from the American and Foreign Bible Society, granted for missionary purposes, viz:

To aid in printing and circulating the Sacred Scriptures in Burmah, $1,000; Karen, 1,000; Chinese, 1,500; Shyan, 1,000; Ojibwa, 500.

It was unanimously Resolved, That the thanks of the Board be tendered to the Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society, for their generous donation.

Its value to us is greatly enhanced by its seasonableness. The demand for the Scriptures in the languages specified, is constantly increasing, and with whatever aid we can hope to receive from our most valued supporters, will doubtless far exceed our ability to supply.

It is our earnest prayer that the Divine Word, to whosoever sent, may make wise unto salvation, and that the influence of your Society and kindred institutions to this end, may bless all nations.

Very affectionately yours,

L. BOLLES, Cor. Sec'y.

VERNON, MISS., APRIL 9th, 1838.

C. G. SOMMERS: DEAR BROTHER,—At the request of the American and Foreign Bible Society, the churches which I serve as Pastor, have given their views with regard to home distribution, and I believe I am safe in saying, it is the voice of the denomination in Mississippi. I have met with very few Baptists who have not hailed with joy the distinct organization—that we may be able to give the word of God ungarbled to the whole world. We should have been much gratified to have been represented in your body at its next meeting. Brother A. Vaughn and myself were appointed by our Convention, but the Providence of God will prevent both of us from attending.

Below are copies of the resolutions passed by the churches referred to.

Union Church, Meridian Springs, Miss., in Conference, Saturday before the first Lord's day in May, 1838; and the Mound Bluff Church in Vernon, Miss., on the second Lord's day, unanimously

Resolved, That we highly approve the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Resolved, That we recommend said Society to engage in home distribution.

O. D. BATTLE, Ch. Clerk.

May the Great Head of the church direct the Society in all her operations; and may the day soon come, when the blessed Bible shall be put into every man's hand.

Yours, in brotherly love,

A. P. BRADLEY.

Brief Extract of a Letter from Germany.

HAMBURG, AUGUST 15, 1837.

REV. C. G. SOMMERS: DEAR BROTHER IN THE LORD,—I addressed you a few days ago, and I now renew my earnest solicitations for further assistance in the circulation of the Holy Scripture in Germany. I can get three or four thousand copies struck off at a low price, by a publisher at Frankfort; the copy will cost, well bound, about 75 cts. These Bibles are not so handsome as those I edited, but they will do very well, as they have a large, good type. If five thousand are taken at once, I can get them about five cents a copy cheaper. About one-third of the cost price will be received again when sold. The sum of three thousand dollars will be sufficient for the purpose.

The Lord is greatly blessing us. Two young converts applied yesterday for immersion, and we enjoyed the most delightful season of refreshing from the Lord's presence, whilst in His court. But I am almost afraid to tire you with my importunate entreaties and narrative, so I will close for the present, and commend you and the Lord's cause, universally, to his own protection and blessing.

Yours most affectionately in gospel bonds,

J. G. ONCKEN.

Brief Extract of a Letter from China.

KYOOK PHYOO, AUGUST 28, 1837.

REV. AND DEAR BROTHER,—I rejoice much in what the Lord has excited American Baptists to do for the circulation of the word of life among the dying millions of our race. May their zeal constantly increase, as the field of effort surely will. The people in Arrican are rapidly increasing in intelligence; intellect and inquisitiveness seem to be returning, and I trust the time is not far distant when they shall search the Scriptures, and be made wise unto everlasting life. It may be safely calculated, that most of Asia, and the world, I should hope, will soon be ready to receive the word of God. The Bible, wholly translated, into their own language, is what the heathen need. A missionary will not always be at hand to explain the meaning of words "transferred."

Yours very truly in Christ,

G. S. COMSTOCK.

From the London Baptist Missionary Herald of April, 1838.

TRANSLATION OF THE SCRIPTURES.

The first translation we have to notice, is the BENGALI. This language is estimated to be spoken by about twenty-five millions, far exceeding the whole population of England. No exertions, therefore, can be considered too great to secure in it a faithful, and at the same time an idiomatic and acceptable, version of the Word of God. In the preparation and improvement of such a version of the New Testament, Mr. Yates, assisted by Mr. W. H. Pearce, had been long engaged, and in January, 1837, when the latter left Bengal for England, the second edition was nearly through the press. It consisted of 500 copies of the New Testament, intended for the use of native Christians, the elder classes in schools, &c., with 1500 additional copies of each of the gospels, and 1000 of the Acts for general distribution. The printing it appears was completed in April last, and several copies neatly executed, have lately reached this country. The version has been received with much approbation by Christians of all denominations in Bengal, and is found very acceptable amongst the heathen; so that another large impression, it is anticipated, will be very soon required.

At the request of the committee of the Calcutta Bible Society, Mr. Yates has also put to press his improved version of the Psalms of David in Bengali. 5000 copies are now in course of being printed, at the Mission Press, at their expense. The work has been compressed into a small sized volume, for the accommodation of numerous native youth, and of others who may wish to use it.

An improved version of the Old Testament in Bengali has also been prepared by our indefatigable friend, Mr. Yates. The printing of the work, however, Mr. Yates wishes deferred, until the return of Mr. Pearce to India shall allow him to give his aid in the revision of the work. It will then, Providence permitting, be put to press without delay; and as it is intended that it shall include marginal references, both to chronological dates and parallel texts, with headings to the chapters, and other improvements not adopted in any previous Bengali version, it will doubtless prove a most acceptable addition to the library of the native Christian, and especially the native preacher.

In the HINDUSTANI language also, an improved version of the New Testament is proceeding. It is executed by Mr. Yates, with the assistance of Mr. Thomas; and will form, it is hoped, the most intelligible and correct version which has yet been published in the language. The greater part of the impression is in the 12mo. size, designed to form a portable volume; but 1000 copies are being printed on a larger page, with marginal references. Specimens of both editions have reached us, and appear very neatly executed. At the date of the last accounts, the gospels of Matthew and Mark had been already completed. This is the first edition of the New Testament in any vernacular language of the East yet printed with marginal references, and therefore presents a gratifying illustration of the gradual progress now making in biblical efforts.

In the SANSKRIT language, (the Latin of the East,) a translation of the New Testament, founded upon the basis of the Bengali version, is in a course of execution by an intelligent and experienced pundit, superintended and compared with the original Greek, by Mr. Yates. A metrical version of the Psalms into the same language is also in progress under Mr. Yates's superintendence.

In addition to these languages, designed for distribution among the inhabitants of India exclusively, another version of the Scriptures is being printed in Calcutta, designed for usefulness among the members of an ancient Christian church scattered in different parts of the globe. We allude to the ARMENIAN, originally made about the fifth century, in the version of which (as intimated in our last number,) one worthy missionary, Mr. Carapeit, is now engaged. His principal object is, to give to his countrymen the Testament with marginal references (an improvement not yet introduced into any preceding edition,) and in a portable form. In order to render it more intelligible to his countrymen, he proposes to exchange a few words, now become obsolete in the lapse of ages; and will endeavour to secure much more typographical accuracy than, from circumstances over which the editors could have little control, distinguished the last edition of the work printed at Moscow. The volume was already in the press at the date of our last accounts, and Mr. Carapeit had freely offered the sum of £35, as his contribution towards the expense. Our Calcutta brethren feel that, considering his large family and very slender resources, they ought not to accept so large a sum from Mr. Carapeit, and we trust that the contributions which they may receive for translations from other sources, will enable them to return at least a part of the amount to their too generous associate.

We cannot conclude this article without alluding to the liberal encouragement afforded to our Calcutta brethren in these labours, by the American and Foreign Bible Society. In addition to the two handsome donations of $2,500 each, acknowledged in our last report, the board of that Society have lately voted a further noble donation of $5,000 (upwards of 1,000*l.* sterling,) to be applied to the printing and distribution of the Scriptures in Bengali, and other languages of the East, at the discretion of the Calcutta Missionaries."

While the generous assistance for which the committee are indebted to the American and Foreign Bible Society, will thus greatly augment the usefulness of our missionaries in the East, it must, at the same time, tend to promote a feeling of affectionate union and cordial co-operation with our transatlantic brethren, and may serve also to stimulate Christians in this country, who may possess the ability, to corresponding exertions in favour of the important objects which their fellow Christians in another hemisphere have so nobly supported.

☐ Numerous Letters and printed documents have been received by the Corresponding Secretary, from which interesting extracts might be made; but want of room compels us reluctantly to omit them.

OF THE
AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. I. The name of this Society shall be THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually, shall be a member.

ART. IV. Each contributor of thirty dollars at one time shall be a member for life.

ART. V. Each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars shall be a Life Director.

ART. VI. All Life Directors shall have the privilege of participating in the deliberations of the Board, and such Life Directors as are members in good standing of Baptist churches, shall be members of the Board.

ART. VII. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society, shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such societies shall be ex-officio directors of this.

ART. VIII. A Board of Managers shall be appointed to conduct the business of the Society, consisting of thirty-six brethren in good standing in Baptist churches, sixteen of whom shall reside in the city of New-York, or its vicinity; the whole Board to be elected annually by the Society, and to hold their office until superseded by a new election. The Board shall have power to fill such vacancies as may occur in their number.

ART. IX. The President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Board.

ART. X. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, five of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. XI. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life, or directors for life.

ART. XII. At the meetings of the Society, and of the Board of Managers, the President, or, in his absence, the Vice-President first upon the list then present, and in the absence of all the Vice-Presidents, the Treasurer, and in his absence, such member as shall be chosen for that purpose, shall preside.

ART. XIII. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held at New-York, on the day before the last Wednesday in April in each year, or at any other time or place, at the option of the Society, when the accounts of the treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year.

ART. XIV. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call special meetings of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given.

ART. XV. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XVI. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE

The Society held its Annual Meeting on Tuesday, April 27th, 1841, in the Meeting-house of the Calvert-street Baptist Church, Baltimore, Md. Brother B. M. Sanders of Georgia, engaged in prayer.

Brethren Thomas Stocks of Georgia, Jno. Peck of New-York, J. E. Taylor of Virginia, James E. Welch of New-Jersey, and G. F. Adams of Maryland, were appointed a Committee to nominate Officers and Managers for the ensuing year. Brother Stocks, in behalf of the Committee, subsequently presented a list, (see page 3 of this Report) which on motion duly made and seconded, was unanimously adopted.

The request of the Board of Managers on the subject of typographical errors, &c. was referred to a Committee, consisting of brethren Win. B. Johnson of South Carolina, B. T. Welch of Albany, and Robert Turnbull of Boston.

Prayer by brother Alfred Bennett, of New-York,

Public exercises commenced at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The President in the Chair.

The 62d Chapter of Isaiah was read by brother Nathaniel Kendrick of Hamilton, New-York. Prayer by brother John Healey of Baltimore.

The following abstract of the Treasurer's account was presented, and on motion of brother Stocks of Georgia, seconded by brother John Culpepper of South Carolina, was accepted.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 19, 1841.

We, the undersigned, have this day examined the accounts of the Treasurer of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and find the vouchers and additions correct, showing a balance on hand on the 15th instant, of $1,650 43: consisting of Bills receivable $1071 23; in Insurance Stock, $500; in available funds, $79 20; in suspended and bad bank bills, $116; and in addition to this, the amount of bad money on hand 27th April, 1840, being $480 25.

J. R. LUDLOW, }
N. CASWELL. } And. Committee.

In seconding the Resolution to accept the Treasurer's Report,

Brother Culpepper remarked, that he felt a warm interest in the prosperity of the Society;—and that the recollection of having aided in its formation, was a most cheering reflection to his father, Rev. John Culpepper, Sen. of North Carolina, upon his death bed. Among his last words, were these. Oh! the blessed atonement! upon that I entirely depend for acceptance with God. I have never done any thing to aid in procuring such a favour. Upon many acts of my past life however, I look back with unmingled delight. Most of all, the part I bore in the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, cheers me in my departing hours. If you live, my son, to go on to Baltimore in the Spring, tell the members of the Bible Society to press forward; Jesus will crown their labours with abundant success. I believe that Institution will exert a mighty and a happy influence upon the destinies of men, in all coming ages.

The President then addressed the meeting :

FELLOW LABOURERS in the benevolent enterprise of giving to ALL LANDS the word of God, faithfully translated, we hail you welcome to another Anniversary of the American and Foreign Bible Society. May great grace be upon you all.

We are first of all bound to give thanks to the Father of mercies for the uninterrupted harmony of feeling and action enjoyed by the Board of Managers in the execution of their responsible trust, and for the measure of success vouchsafed to them in their efforts to promote a wider circulation of the sacred Scriptures.

The receipts into your treasury are greater than those of the preceding year, notwithstanding the deranged state of the currency in different parts of the country, and the withholding of considerable sums on account of the unhappy influence of the vexed question upon many minds strongly attached to the Bible cause. We have, therefore, much reason to thank God and take courage. The necessity for our distinct organization has been demonstrated by its efficiency, for in most trying times we have done something to multiply copies of the lively oracles among the heathen. Our Pædo-baptist friends have taken great pains to show that while united with them, even under circumstances the most favourable for the collection of funds, the Baptists drew out of the common treasury more than they ever deposited therein. Were this a fitting occasion it could be easily shown that this statement is as inaccurate as it is unkind; but I advert to it now for the purpose of exciting your gratitude to the God of the Bible, that in separate action he has given us a position as commanding as it is profitable; a position, which enables us to vindicate the fundamental principles of the denomination in the eyes of the whole world;—relieve other Bible Societies from their Baptist burden, and evince our settled purpose to occupy till the Master shall come.

The work in which we are engaged is confessedly important in its character and results. It is our high and honourable vocation to circulate that blessed volume which reveals the secrets of eternity, when the counsel of Peace was between them both, and the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth, announced the glorious plan of redeeming love; Save from going down to the pit, for I have found a ransom!

Swift through the vast expanse it flew,
And loud the echo roll'd;
The theme, the song, the joy, was new,
'Twas more than heaven could hold.

Angels were sent to proclaim the glad tidings to a lost and perishing world. Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace; good will to men. To circulate these GLAD TIDINGS is our delightful employ; and we regret that our pecuniary resources have not been adequate to the supply of many who have cried to us for the bread of life. Brethren and friends! come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty—and may questions gendering strife, and monetary embarrassments, be everywhere so overruled by the author and finisher of our faith, that the means applicable to Bible distribution may be generously increased in the year to come.

Whatever difficulties or disappointments may be encountered in this labour of love, of ultimate success we are assured, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. Jesus shall see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied: for as the rain cometh down and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth; it shall not return to me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and prosper in the thing whereto I sent it. Hath he said it, and will he not do it?

——— His arm is not impaired
Through length of days, and what He will, He can!
His faithfulness stands bound to see it done.

An enterprise which contemplates the fulfilment of Isaiah's prophecy, when the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea, demands union of action, and the combination and proper direction of our best energies. A celebrated Baptist in his essays on Decision of Character, uses the following language in describing the course of Howard, the Philanthropist: "The importance of his object held his faculties in a state of excitement which was too rigid to be affected by lighter interests, and on which, therefore, the beauties of nature and of art had no power; like the invisible spirits who fulfil their commission of philanthropy among mortals, and care not about pictures, statues, and sumptuous buildings. It implied an inconceivable severity of conviction that he had one thing to do; and that he who would do some great thing in this short life, must apply himself to the work with such a concentration of his forces, as to idle spectators, who live only to amuse themselves, looks like insanity. It was thus he made the trial, so seldom made, what is the utmost effect which may be granted to the last possible efforts of a human agent; and, therefore, what he did not accomplish, he might conclude to be placed beyond the sphere of mortal activity, and calmly leave to the immediate disposal of omnipotence."

Is this the conduct of the illustrious Howard, with only hospitals and the melioration of the bodily sufferings of his fellow creatures primarily in view? And shall our action be less decided and vigorous, when the sin-sick soul is perishing, and we are intrusted with the life-giving message,—There is balm in Gilead—there is a great physician there. Let us imitate the example of an inspired apostle, an infallible guide, who seems to have adopted the following motto—One thing I do—as exhibiting the single object of his earthly career; and although like him, we may be charged with insanity, it will be enough to reply, we are not mad, but distribute the words of truth and soberness.

To the successful prosecution of this enterprise UNION IS INDISPENSABLE. Do soldiers, and politicians, and men of the world, appreciate duly the importance of this principle, in their various spheres of action? God forbid that they should continue to be wiser in their generation, than the children of light are in theirs. In coming to this house to-day my heart was deeply affected, while I leaned upon the arm of a brother, and gazed upon the Calvert-street monument, erected to the memory of the brave men who fell at the battle of North Point, September 12, 1814. The first names which my eyes rested upon, were McComas and Wells; and in an instant, the scenes of that memorable day were present. We belonged to the battalion of Sharp Shooters, and were stationed in the edge of a wood, some five or six miles from the Point; when one of the Videts riding furiously to head quarters, delivered the stirring news that the British were landing below us. The General immediately sent one of his aids along the line for two hundred volunteers, including forty Sharp Shooters, to feel the pulse of the enemy. As they stepped out, one after another, Wells said to me, I am this day twenty-one years old—just out of my apprenticeship; I know I shall be shot, but I'll go with you—live or die.—We advanced rapidly to ascertain the position of the invaders, and were soon upon them; swift flew the leaden messengers, and one of the first was sent to poor Wells; it passed through his head, and he faintly exclaimed, I am a dead man. Oh, never shall I forget the sound of his voice as he uttered the words, nor the expression of his glassy eye, as he looked up in my face—fell across my feet, and expired.

My brethren, shall men thus devote themselves to their country, and follow their leader, whether to live or to die; and shall we not manifest equal devotion to the cause of the great Captain of our Salvation? Do we talk of union?

Baltimoreans! participators in the scenes of Sept. 1814; preach to American Baptists, I beseech you, on the nature and necessity of union.—Remember the bombardment of Fort McHenry, as from the opposite hill-top we watched the range of each successive shell, and as it exploded, groaned inwardly as though it were the death-knell of some brother in arms; remember, that full ten thousand men were at the same moment pressing with hostile feet our native soil, and already within a few miles of this devoted city; remember, that as we prepared to meet them, how every avenue for miles around was crowded with women and children, flying for safety; then, when we saw troops from Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania coming to our aid, did we ask "From what States do they come?" Did we pause to discuss domestic institutions or local prejudices? No! the stars and stripes upon their floating banner, bespoke a common country and a common cause; and to preserve the bold American Eagle from the paws of the British Lion, was the ardent, the common purpose of every patriotic heart. We heard the immortal Washington, the father of his country, though dead, yet speaking—UNITED WE STAND, DIVIDED WE FALL; and shoulder to shoulder, we breasted the storm of war. And shall we not much rather be united in wielding the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God; in obeying the commandment of Him who came not to destroy men's lives, but to save them?

Brethren! excuse this extemporaneous burst of feeling, and these allusions to the battle field, and garments rolled in blood;—they came upon me suddenly with a force that would not brook control. But let me not be misunderstood; I love my country, and were it necessary, should not hesitate a moment to stand forth again in her defence: but I abhor war, and deprecate its recurrence as one of the greatest of national calamities—especially a war between Great Britain and the United States. Let us strive against it, and pray always that these two nations, now accomplishing so much in extending the means of civilization and salvation to earth's remotest bound, may henceforth be delightfully and profitably employed in provoking one another to love and good works. May British and American Baptists, in the glorious work of Bible distribution, set an example of union and effort, that shall be felt through all succeeding times; and the prayer of the Redeemer be speedily fulfilled! I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil; that they all may be one, as thou Father art in me and I in thee, that they also may be one in us; THAT THE WORLD MAY BELIEVE THAT THOU HAST SENT ME!

The Corresponding Secretary, Charles G. Sommers, of New-York, then read an abstract of the Annual Report.

REPORT.

IN presenting their Fourth Annual Report, the Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society discharge a duty rendered imperative by custom, and delightful by retrospection. In doing this, they desire to record the mercies of God, and gratefully to exclaim: "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

If each returning anniversary did not demand an account of their stewardship, the Managers would gladly press forward in their labours, unnoticed; aware, that the annals of benevolence are written by an invisible hand, and will be revealed on the final day, when the names of thousands, little known upon earth, will be displayed in blazing capitals before an assembled universe.

To your Board, the past has been a year of more than common anxiety and toil, arising on the one hand from topics of unusual interest which have claimed their attention, and on the other, from the fact, that the sphere of their labours has widened, to a degree exceeding their available resources. Nevertheless, the Board would express their gratitude to God, that under circumstances apparently unpropitious, the American and Foreign Bible Society, pursuing the even tenor of its way, continues to be instrumental in the distribution of faithful versions of the Bible. We would also express our gratitude to God, for his merciful care of the members of the Board, only one of whom has fallen during the past year.—The death of brother John Halsted is an event lamented by all who knew his worth. But we sorrow not as those who have no hope. He was a man of deep and fervent piety; his life was replete with benevolence "and his works do follow him."

Our Agents have travelled in the service of the Society about 25,000 miles, and neither sickness nor disaster has impeded their course. Of the 41 who compose the Executive Board of the Society, nearly every member has been enabled to attend the regular meetings of the Board. These facts, which at the next anniversary we may not be allowed to report, demand our gratitude to Him who has guided our steps, and who has been round about our path. But, the history of all human institutions, like the ever-changing life of man, presents to the eye of the observer an aspect diversified by mercy and judgment. Some of our devoted friends have been removed by death, among whom it is painful to record the names of the Rev. John Culpeper, of N. C. and the beloved William H. Pearce, another life member of this Society. Brother Pearce died at Calcutta on the 17th of March last. Death came unexpectedly, but found him fully prepared. He fell upon the missionary field, in the 39th year of his age, and as we have reason to believe, clothed with the whole armour of God. His last official act was the preparation of an Appeal to the American Churches in favour of the Bible Society, and his last words were—"All is well."

But, it seems impossible to allude to the death of brother Pearce, a man eminent for his rare talents, and unaffected humility, as well as for extensive usefulness; and as a brother, universally beloved, without being deeply affected with a sense of the brevity and uncertainty of human life.

Five years have elapsed since the incipient organization of the American and Foreign Bible Society. Some of these have been years that required the exercise of faith and patience; yet, the promises of an unchanging God have encouraged us, and the assurance of their certain accomplishment, has animated us in the path of duty, while the review of past years and the rapid flight of time, enforce the admonition: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

At no previous period of their history has the Baptist denomination been placed in a position so eminently responsible, as that which has transpired since the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society. Proscribed by all other denominations, and denied the co-operation of Bible Societies on the Eastern and Western continents, Divine providence seemed to command us to stand forth, not as innovators, but, as followers of those who, "through faith and patience have inherited the promises"—the men, who, during the first thirteen centuries maintained a practice, which has since been admitted by philologists of every enlightened nation, to be according to truth; and which has been departed from, only in countries over which Popery has prevailed.

Long and dark indeed has been the night of Papal superstition, and the predominance of error; but your Board exult in the assurance, that—“ Truth, though crushed, will rise again,

The eternal years of God are hers ;—
But error, wounded, writhes in pain,
And dies amid her worshippers !”

The wisdom and goodness of God in employing the mind of man in the faithful translation and universal distribution of the sacred Scriptures, must be regarded as secondary only to that infinite benevolence, which He discovered in their original communication. This work has occupied the best energies of Christian scholars since the days of Paul. But, we live in an era distinguished above every other, for efforts to present the pure oracles of God to the nations of the earth, in all the languages of the human race. In this great work the American and Foreign Bible Society has in the providence of God, been called to perform no inconsiderable part.

The Board beg leave to present a statement of their operations during the past year. Work actually performed or in progress,—amount expended,—and, a general view of the immense field which the American and Foreign Bible Society is invited to cultivate.

OPERATIONS OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS DURING THE PAST YEAR.

Since the last annual meeting 1000 copies of the New Testament in Pica type, have been published in the English language, which together with liberal grants of Bibles and Testaments previously printed, have been distributed in the United States, in Greece, in India, and in China.

In the home department of their labours, the Board have received efficient aid from the numerous auxiliaries of the society; and particularly from the New-York and Brooklyn Young Men's City Bible Society, through whose agency our Sabbath Schools, and the destitute generally, have been supplied with the Bread of Life.

The New-York and Brooklyn Marine Bible Society was constituted on the 22d June last, and is contemplated with deep interest, as eminently calculated to promote the Bible cause. In the port of New-York alone, they have an opportunity to minister to the spiritual wants of seventy thousand seamen who annually visit our harbour, and of transmitting through them, the light of salvation, to nations the most remote. Let prayer constantly ascend to God, that abundant success may attend this important enterprise.

AGENCIES.

Rev. Ira M. Allen continues in the service of the Society, as its General Agent and Assistant Treasurer. He has the sole charge of the Depository, No. 12 Chambers-street. Orders for books, remittances of money, and accounts forwarded for settlement should be directed to Rev. I. M. Allen. The Board again express their wish, that all other letters intended for the American and Foreign Bible Society, may be directed to C. G. Sommers, the Corresponding Secretary.

Rev. Archibald MacLay has returned from his visit to Great Britain, where he rendered efficient aid in promoting the objects of the Bible Translation Society, from the commencement of that noble Institution, until he embarked for the United States. Since his return, he has continued to labour with great effect as the Agent of this Society.

Rev. Horace Seaver is still the Agent of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and has laboured with acceptance during the past year, in the state of Maine.

Rev. Edward Kingsford has since last May been usefully employed as your Agent in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, and Georgia.

At the Annual Meeting of the Kentucky Bible Society, it was unanimously : "Resolved, to endeavour to raise $10,000, and to defray brother Kingsford's expenses while employed to collect that amount."

He has since been labouring in the southern states, and has commended himself to the regards of the Board, by a course of unwearied and self-denying labours. It is due to brother Kingsford to state, that he has made a voluntary reduction of $200 from his salary. Whereupon, the following resolution was unanimously passed by the Board.

“Resolved, That the Board regard the generous proposal of brother Edward Kingsford, to reduce his salary two hundred dollars per annum, as an additional evidence of his sincere and deep interest in the Bible cause; and that the Board gratefully accept his proposal, and enter the amount in their books as a donation from him, and by which he is hereby constituted a Life Director, and Mrs. Mary Kingsford is constituted a Life Member of the American and Foreign Bible Society.”

Rev. Charles W. Bradbury has laboured as an Agent of the Society at intervals, about six months—from 15th January, 1840, to the 1st January, 1841, at which time, chiefly owing to other engagements, his agency ceased.

Rev. William Brown. This brother was engaged as an Agent of the Society, from the 11th of November last, until the Annual Meeting in April. During that time he has laboured chiefly in the state of New-Jersey.

Rev. John F. Bliss. Brother Bliss commenced his Agency in the State of New-York, on the 4th of November last, a season of the year when inclemency in the weather, and numerous other obstructions impeded his course. He has nevertheless by the blessing of God upon his persevering labours, greatly promoted the interests of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Rev. A. Rice. This respected brother did not commence his labours until 4th of November last. Since that time he has rendered important service to the Bible cause, in the States of South Carolina and Georgia.

AUXILIARY SOCIETIES.

The Board are happy to report 21 Auxiliary Societies constituted during the past year, making the whole number 204. We earnestly recommend Churches, Associations, and State Conventions, to form during the current year as many efficient Auxiliary Societies as practicable. It is apparent to every reflecting mind that we must look to the active co-operation of Auxiliary Societies, for the means of giving to the world the uncorrupted revelation of the great God.

We commend to the friends of the Bible cause, the doctrines and practice of the Bible Society of Columbia County, New-York, from whose Third Annual Report, we submit the following extracts as in our opinion comprehending principles of action which if generally exemplified, would lead to moral results which no man is able to compute. They say:

“An evident principle of our holy religion, and one which commends itself to men’s judgments and consciences, is involved in the following portion of scripture:—‘He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully.’

Upon this plain principle is based the exhortation which follows it, viz: ‘Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give, not GRUDGINGLY, OR OF NECESSITY, for God loveth a cheerful giver.’

It was in view of this principle, that God blesses the instrumentality of his people in converting the world to the obedience of the faith, that this Society had its origin, in October, 1837.

Its design was to develop the resources of the denomination in the County, and to bring them to bear upon the grand and glorious object of giving to the nations of the earth—THE BIBLE FAITHFULLY TRANSLATED.

Although we had, to some extent, co-operated with Pedobaptists in their Bible Societies in the country, prior to that eventful period in the history of our denomination, when, under the direction of Divine Providence, that noble institution, “THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY” was formed,—yet our whole strength was never brought into vigorous action * * * * * What we have done cheerfully and prayerfully, in this department of benevolence, God has, no doubt, accepted at our hands—for those who thus give, shall realize the fulfilment of that blessed promise of God’s word, ‘Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days.’

We would devoutly thank God for what we have been enabled to do, and our prayer to him, in view even of the smallest results which may have accrued from the little which we have done, is, that we may be induced in the future, to sow ‘bountifully,’ that we may ‘reap also bountifully.’

If we view the subject in its proper light, it will be obvious that the Bible cause stands first among the benevolent institutions of the day. We regard it as the sun of the system, around which the rest cluster, and from which they borrow the light which they reflect upon a fallen world. Blot out this glorious orb, or remove it from its proper place in the system, and its kindred institutions would be eclipsed, and moral night would reign over the human family. Sustain this institution efficiently, and the effulgent light which it will shed abroad over a benighted world, will be a faithful guarantee that other similar institutions will be vigorously sustained.

There are in this County, nine churches, and according to their last returns, 858 members.

Should a systematic plan be carried out, to raise from each Baptist in the County, but twenty-five cents per annum, it would amount to the sum of $214 50. And should the churches do this, who, we ask, would be impoverished by it? or rather, who would not be a gainer. 'There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet and it tendeth to poverty.' The Society unanimously passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That each Baptist Minister in the County be requested (either personally or by exchanges) to present the claims of this Society to their respective congregations, on the third Lord's day in December, 1840, (or as near that time as possible) and that the churches be solicited to act promptly in this cause, in view of truth and duty.

Voted, That the Secretary be directed to communicate the foregoing resolution to the pastors of the several churches, and urge their compliance with its request, in order that its contemplated object may be attained.

RECEIPTS.

Circumstances which it is hoped will never recur in the history of our denomination, have during the past year limited the financial operations of the Board. Nevertheless we are happy to announce that the Treasurer's Report presents a total of $26,001 28, contributed in aid of Bible distribution. This sum, (which we have reason to believe, will during "the anniversary week," be greatly augmented, and thus present a more satisfactory evidence of Baptist liberality in the Bible cause during 1840,) although inconsiderable in view of our ample resources, is nevertheless sufficient to show, that the cause of the Bible Society is settling down into a permanent state. And that as light is reflected on the circumstances under which the Society came into existence, and the principles upon which its action is founded, it is received as the harbinger of better days.

The Managers regard it as an interesting fact in the history of benevolent institutions, that the annual receipts of the American and Foreign Bible Society have been progressive. Each succeeding year has exhibited an advance upon the contributions of the preceding, in a proportion which under the unprecedented embarrassments of the nation since the period of our organization, clearly demonstrates the zeal and liberality of Baptists in the Bible cause.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The following appropriations have been made since the last Annual Meeting of the Society, amounting to $21,537, making an aggregate since the period of our organization of $121,416 appropriated by the American and Foreign Bible Society, for Bible distribution in this, and in foreign lands.

UNABATED INTEREST IN THE OBJECTS OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The Board have great pleasure in stating, that of "the few," who at one time seemed to doubt the necessity of our organization; scarcely an individual remains, who has not yielded to the demonstrations of Divine approbation upon the labours of this Society. If a solitary Baptist yet declines co-operation with this glorious enterprise of benevolence, the Board cherish an unshaken belief that at no distant period, such a brother will be more than convinced of the utility of this institution, by the moral benefits which it is destined to impart to a dying world. The following are presented as specimens of the continued, and unanimous approbation of Baptists in every part of the United States.

Maine.

Whereas, in the providence of God, a large portion of the world are now dependent upon the Baptist denomination for a supply of the Holy Scriptures purely translated: Therefore

Resolved, That this (Piscataquis) Association heartily approve of the formation, character, object and claims of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and commend it to the fervent prayers and liberal patronage of this body, and the denomination throughout the world.

Massachusetts.

At a meeting in Boston on the 18th November last, Rev. J. S. Bacon in the chair—Rev. William Crowell, Clerk.

The following among other resolutions, were unanimously passed:

Moved by Rev. William Hague, and seconded by Rev. Mr. Miles, recently from England, in a series of interesting and forcible remarks.

Resolved, That the success which has thus far attended the efforts of the American and Foreign Bible Society, to supply the nations with the pure Word of God, calls for devout gratitude, and supplies a fresh motive to increasing activity in this great work.

The following resolution was moved by Rev. Mr. Caldicott, of Roxbury, in an appropriate address, and was seconded by Rev. Mr. Neale, without remark :

Resolved, That the intimate connexion subsisting between the Society and the cause of Foreign Missions, gives it a special claim to our regard.

New-Hampshire.

Among the several benevolent institutions which the large and respectable body of Baptists in this state have resolved to patronize, "the American and Foreign Bible Society is particularly commended to the prayers and liberality of the saints, until the whole word of God, faithfully translated, shall be in the hands of every dweller upon earth."

Vermont.

The Bible Society of the Shaftsbury Baptist Association, held an interesting meeting in June last. Great unanimity of opinion prevailed as to the object contemplated by the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and officers and directors of the Society for the ensuing year were elected. The session was harmonious, and many hearts we believe were made to rejoice while praying for the redemption of the world through the blood of the Lamb.

Connecticut.

This state continues actively to co-operate with the parent institution, and at the 17th meeting of the Connecticut Baptist Convention, the "Connecticut Baptist Bible Society" appointed a large delegation to represent them at the next annual meeting of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

New-York.

Communications from the numerous Churches and Associations of this state demonstrate that there is no abatement of the interest which, they so early manifested in the Bible cause. The following is a summary of their views, embodied in a resolution passed at the last meeting of the New-York Baptist State Convention.

Resolved, That we feel an unabated interest in the American and Foreign Bible Society, and earnestly recommend to the Churches to co-operate in the heavenly work of disseminating the sacred Scriptures in every living language, until the Bible, faithfully translated, shall be given to all nations.

Rev. John Taylor Jones, missionary at Bangkok, now on a visit to his native land, stated, that the New Testament had been translated into the Siamese language, and that a considerable part of it has been printed. May it soon be distributed among the destitute millions of Siam.

New-Jersey.

At the last anniversary of the New-Jersey State Convention, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the American and Foreign Bible Society is an institution that deserves the confidence and support of the Baptist denomination.

Pennsylvania.

The Bradford Baptist Association at their meeting in June last, resolved, "That a sermon be preached before the close of the session, and a collection taken to aid the American and Foreign Bible Society."

Maryland.

The Maryland Baptist Union Association, at their meeting in October last, unanimously

Resolved, That we highly approve and recommend to the Churches a liberal support of the objects of 'the American and Foreign Bible Society,' that they may be able to give 'the Bible translated,' to all nations.

Virginia.

The Bible Society of Virginia passed the following resolution at their annual meeting in June last:—

Resolved, That the dissemination of the sacred Scriptures, faithfully and fully translated without note or comment, is an efficient means of promoting the kingdom of Christ, and that past success in the enterprise, while it fills us with gratitude to the "Father of Lights," should inspire us with fresh zeal and liberality, and stimulate us to more vigorous efforts in the good work.

North Carolina.

At the ninth annual meeting of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention, the Bible Society for that State, auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society, celebrated its third anniversary, when it was unanimously

Resolved, That this body recommend the formation of Auxiliary Societies, whenever convenient, in this State."

South Carolina.

The Second Baptist church in Charleston unanimously adopted the following resolution at their meeting on 2d February, 1841.

Resolved, That this church do entirely and cordially approve of the objects of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and that it highly deserves the co-operation and assistance of every Baptist in the United States.

The South Carolina Baptist State Convention at their meeting in December, 1840, express themselves as "unalterably attached to the Bible cause;" and passed the following resolution:—

Resolved, That we recommend to Baptist Churches in South Carolina, the formation of societies auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Kentucky.

At the 36th annual meeting of the Russell's Creek Baptist Association, it was unanimously Resolved, "That the American and Foreign Bible Society, from the principles by which it is governed and the field which it occupies, is eminently entitled to the confidence and aid of every one who loves the truth; but of the Baptist denomination in particular."

Mississippi.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Baptist Convention of Mississippi, it was "Resolved, That we have learned with much pleasure, that the late anniversary of the American and Foreign Bible Society was well attended and deeply interesting; and we recommend that Society to the prayers and liberality of all our brethren in this State."

Michigan.

The Michigan State Convention in October last, "Resolved, That in view of the importance of giving the whole Bible to the whole world, this Convention would express their gratitude to God, for the success which has already attended the American and Foreign Bible Society, and do most earnestly recommend to their auxiliaries, and the religious community in general, to adopt the most efficient measures to enable the society to consummate its glorious object."

Ohio.

At the last annual meetings of the Portage, Sandusky, and other Associations in this State, it was unanimously "Resolved, That the success which has attended the efforts of the American and Foreign Bible Society, calls for gratitude to God, and an increase of zeal among the people of God."

At the ninth annual meeting of the Rocky River Baptist Association, it was "Resolved, That the American and Foreign Bible Society is an institution founded in wisdom and benevolence—pre-eminently distinguished by Divine favour, and commends itself to the entire confidence of the whole denomination."

Illinois.

The Illinois River Baptist Association, at its meeting in September last, unanimously

"Resolved, That this Association deem it expedient immediately to organize a Bible Society, to aid in promoting the great work in which the American and Foreign Bible Society has embarked." After forming the Society and receiving subscriptions of those present, it was further "Resolved, That all the friends of the Bible Society be requested to use their influence in obtaining subscriptions and donations to aid its funds."

Indiana.

At the time of the eighth anniversary of the General Association of Baptists in Indiana, the Indiana Bible Society passed the following preamble and resolution :

“ In view of the wants of the heathen, and their destitution of the word of life,

“ Resolved, That we now organize ourselves into a State Bible Society, auxiliary to the American and Foreign Bible Society. About one hundred persons immediately enrolled their names and contributed to its funds.”

Missouri.

The Baptist Churches in this State take a lively interest in the objects of the American and Foreign Bible Society. We regret that their minutes have not come to hand.

Not many years have transpired, since the sovereignty of Spain, and the paralyzing influence of Roman Catholic restriction precluded the circulation of the Bible on the western shores of the Mississippi. Even after the “ treaty of cession,” by which toleration to all denominations was guaranteed, until about 1810, no efforts were made to supply that community with the word of life, and it is a memorable fact, that the first box of bibles sent to St. Genevieve, for gratuitous distribution, fell into the hands of those over whom priestly influence prevailed, and were reluctantly given up, and consigned to the flames ! But it is a cheering fact, that the Providence of God, and the daring enterprise of Missouri’s hardy sons have changed the aspect of affairs. They have opened communications with the interior, and upper Provinces of the Mexican Republic, which enable us to carry the moral warfare into the enemies’ country.

It only remains for the friends of the Bible to send out those streams of salvation, to water the thirsty ridges around Santa Fee, and irrigate the parched plains of Chihuahua. With such an object before us—such a field of labour—so much already gained and so much yet to be accomplished, let not the friends of the American and Foreign Bible Society permit their zeal to tire, or their efforts to cease, until faithful translations of the inspired volume shall be distributed among all nations.

Communications from churches and individuals in nearly every other State in the Union, approving the objects of the American and Foreign Bible Society, are in our possession.

This is probably the last statistical record of approbation which the Board will ever be called to present. Ere another Anniversary, we trust that not only the friends of the Bible cause in America, but the followers of Christ throughout the whole world, will be more than convinced, that this is an institution which the Lord delights to honour.

BIBLICAL LIBRARY.

In this department, valuable accessions have, during the past year, been made by the liberal donations of Rev. S. H. Cone, Rev. I. M. Allen, Messrs. N. Caswell, R. Haldane, R. Sears, Hopper, Carter, the New-York Baptist Newspaper Association, and particularly by the Calcutta Baptist Missionaries.

The Board hope that the friends of the American and Foreign Bible Society will direct their particular attention to this point. Let all who possess ancient copies of the Bible, or works relating to the history of its early translation, deposit such works in the Biblical Library of the American and Foreign Bible Society, where they will be rendered eminently useful in promoting the cause of truth.

LIFE DIRECTORS AND MEMBERS OF THE SOCIETY.

The Board experience great pleasure in recording the names of 176 Life Directors, and 929 Life Members, who have been enrolled on the list of our fraternity.

Among these it is peculiarly gratifying to find the names of Hon. Nicholas Brown, Professor Alexis Caswell, of Brown University, and Rev. R. E. Pattison, Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Providence; associated with the names of Rev. W. T. Brantly, and H. D. Duncan, of S. C.—Knapp, Sheldon, Wasson, Leach, and others, of New-York—Moore of Penn., Buck and Boardman of Me., Brown of N. H., Hutchinson and Miller, of Vt., with Chandler, of Indiana, Tripp, of Mass., and Hewitt, Ferril, and Dillard, of Kentucky. To these we might add the names of honoured and beloved brethren from every state in the union.

QUARTERLY PAPER.

The information imparted through the medium of this periodical has been so far acceptable to the churches, as greatly to increase the number of its readers. At the meeting of the Board in September last, it was therefore "unanimously Resolved, that the Corresponding Secretary be authorized to issue seven thousand copies of the Quarterly Paper."

The Board have reason to believe that the interest of that document, as well as of the Annual Reports of the Society, would be greatly enhanced, if Auxiliary Societies would invariably forward to the Secretary, copies of their annual reports, or an account of their doings at annual, semi-annual, and quarterly meetings. Hitherto there has been a lamentable deficiency in this respect. Not one in twenty of the auxiliary societies have forwarded their annual reports. The Secretary has therefore been compelled to glean his materials for the periodicals of the society, from the Religious Miscellany of the several states. This course is not so satisfactory, nor so likely to be correct, as if he were enabled to quote from the official documents of State Conventions, Associations, and Auxiliary Societies. The Board hope that special attention will be bestowed upon this point during the current year, by the Presidents and Secretaries of all the public bodies in our denomination.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC OPERATIONS OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

In this department, the labours of the Board have been necessarily limited, except so far as appropriations of money have been made for the printing and distribution of the Scriptures; an account of which is given in another part of this report.

One hundred Bibles in extra binding have, at the request of Rev. J. L. Shuck, been forwarded to him for sale or gratuitous distribution among the English readers who reside at, or who visit Macao and its vicinity.

Fifty-two English and German Bibles and 230 New Testaments have been forwarded to Greece, to be distributed by Brother Love, to the English and German readers who reside at Patrass and Corfu.

Twenty-five Bibles and 100 Testaments have been granted to the Choctaw Indians, at the request of Hon. Richard M. Johnson, Vice-President of the United States.

Two hundred English and 25 German Bibles and 200 German Testaments have been granted to the Young Men's City Bible Society, for gratuitous distribution, the latter among the German population of this city and its vicinity.

One thousand and twenty-three English and German Bibles have been sold at the Depository.

Emigrants from Germany are crowding upon our shores. They can nearly all read, and as they are generally destined to the west, where a German Bible cannot readily be obtained, it is very important that they should be supplied before they leave the sea ports in the Atlantic States. In one day (7th September last) more than 1000 emigrants from Germany, Switzerland, France, Prussia and Ireland, landed in the city of New-York, to many of whom a faithful agent gave the New Testament of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The population of the United States is about 17 millions. This number is increased by an annual addition of not less than 500,000 native born citizens, and about 150,000 foreigners, most of whom when they land on our shores are without the Bible, ignorant of God, and without hope in the world. Can any American Christian contemplate this augmentation of "the people," who, in future years are to give laws to this republic, without a deep conviction, that to give them the Bible is the only safeguard of our national existence.

We hope that every enlightened American citizen will duly consider this subject, and liberally contribute to the funds of the American and Foreign Bible Society, that the Board may be enabled with "a broad-cast," to distribute the good seed of the kingdom.

In March last a communication was forwarded to Hon. Sir Thomas Baring, Bart ; President of the London Society for meliorating the condition of the Jews, ordering 50 Hebrew Bibles and 200 Hebrew New Testaments for distribution among the descendants of Israel, in New-York. Those books have not yet come to hand, but we hope ere another anniversary, to be permitted to announce, that they have been distributed, and are read by many of those who have hitherto rejected the Messiah.

To the above list of Scriptures, printed in the Bengali, Hindustani, Sanskrit and Armenian languages, the Board would state, that the work of translation is progressing in Orissa, Burmah, Siam, and Africa, a full account of which they hope to be able to make in their next annual report. In the mean time, it is gratifying to be permitted to state, that about 10,500,000 pages of Scriptures and Tracts have been printed during the past year, by American Baptist Missionaries in foreign lands, chiefly at Maulmain and Bangkok.

The Board have also published several editions of King James' version of the English Bible, as printed in 1611. By a subsequent examination of the reprint of this version, some typographical errors have been discovered which will be carefully corrected in the next edition.

FIELD OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY'S

North and South America.

The Board of Managers lament, that in this country, where so much wealth and intelligence are possessed, a deplorable want of the Word of Life should be found to exist. Are we not pledged to God and to our country to employ our best efforts to remove this scarcity? Indebted to the Bible for our own superiority over those nations who are destitute of the inestimable treasure; and believing that civilization, moral and intellectual improvement, together with the blessings of eternal life, can spring only from the possession and knowledge of Divine revelation, are we at liberty to abate our exertions in a cause so fraught with the temporal and spiritual interests of our fellow-men?

In the United States alone we behold a wide field already white unto the harvest; and, to the immediate occupancy of which we are invited by every principle of religion and of patriotism. Let every Christian then, let every patriot rally around the Bible, the charter of our hopes—it comes to man with sanctions to which no other book pretends; and while it spreads before him the map of eternity, warning him against the gulf of perdition, it also furnishes him with a safe guide over the narrow isthmus of time; and points to the haven of endless rest.

The labours of our Society are important not only in the United States, but recent events have opened before us, the beautiful and fertile fields of Texas and Mexico, where a population of more than ten millions hitherto enveloped in moral night, now begin to inquire after the way of salvation. Upon this interesting portion of the southern continent, embracing a territory of more than two thousand miles in length, and one thousand miles in breadth, has been shed the dawn of a brighter day; and we may hope that ere long, the Anglo-Saxon emigrants who are rapidly occupying that country, will make the influence of the Bible to be felt, from the Gulf of Mexico to the Cape.

Aborigines of North America.

The best estimates state the whole number of Indians in North America, at about 5,400,000. The experiment of collecting the scattered tribes into one great community, and inducing them to adopt the laws and institutions of civilized life, is now in progress west of the states of Arkansas and Missouri, and southwest of the Missouri river. Thus far the expectations of the most sanguine advocates of the measure have been in a great degree realized. The remnants of more than twenty tribes have already been located, and are making rapid advances in the religion, literature, and arts of enlightened nations. These people never were idolaters. The missionaries tell them, that theirs is the religion of the Bible. To the Bible therefore these artless children of the forest look, as to the standard of truth and virtue. Hence the necessity of immediate attention to the work of providing for their use the living oracles of God.

A fount of type in Cherokee has recently been provided for the mission establishment at Shawanoe.

The New Testament has been translated into the Chippewa, the gospel by John into Muscogee (Creek,) and the gospel by Matthew into Shawanoe, the two last, by Rev. Johnston Lykins.

To print the New Testament in the Putawatomie, and some of the other languages spoken in the Indian territory, at least $1,000 are immediately wanted. The self-denying and indefatigable Isaac McCoy, to whose labours the present system of Indian colonization owes its existence, remarks: "I hope an appropriation will be made by the Board of the American and Foreign Bible Society, as the beginning of a regular system of giving portions of the Bible to all the tribes, even the most remote. How wonderful the effects which, with the blessing of God, we might reasonably hope for, could the tribes in the recesses of our vast wilderness be made acquainted with the history of our Redeemer's incarnation. It would be like the desolations of a dreary winter, yielding to the fructifying influence of a genial atmosphere, when nature all around puts off her mourning apparel, and decks herself with her ornaments, and enriches all that breathe with her harvests—when the time of the singing of birds in the boughs above, incline us to join the songsters before the throne.

Burmah.

In this important field the Board are happy to say, that the work of Bible translation and distribution is progressing. In the last Annual Report we were permitted to state that Dr. Judson had completed his translation of the Bible into the Burman language; that brother Wade was preparing a translation of the New Testament in the Pgho dialect, and that the Testament has been in part translated into the Peguan, or Taleign. Since that time the Board have received information, that the second edition of 5,000 copies of the Bible in Burman, is now going through the press. Brother Mason has completed a translation of the New Testament into Karen, and has commenced the Psalms, of which he intends to make a double translation; one into prose, and the other into poetry, for which the Karen language is peculiarly adapted.

In the preparation of the New Testament, brother Mason remarks; that, the epistles to the "Corinthians" were translated by brother Wade. The epistles to "Timothy" by brother Abbot, the epistle to the "Hebrews, James, Peter, Jude, and the last two epistles of John," by brother Vinton.

The whole amount of books printed, or now in a course of preparation in Burmah, the Board hope to be able ere long to lay before the Society.

The following is a beautiful specimen of the Lord's prayer in Burmese, and in Karen.

C. Bennett, Printer, Tanuay.

The Board are happy to state, that matrices for new founts of Burmese and Karen type, of which the foregoing is a specimen, have been recently executed in the city of Utica, by Rev. Cephas Bennett, aided by LOVE COON AVUNG, a convert from heathenism, who accompanied him to the United States for the purpose of gaining such knowledge, as might qualify him for greater usefulness among his countrymen on his return home.

The case of this young man is deeply interesting. He was born in Martaban, a few miles from Maulmain in the Burman empire. His father was from Canton, and his mother of Chinese descent, both of whom were strict Boodhists. When quite young he was taken by his mother to the Pagodas, and taught to kneel before the idols, and with clasped hands to pray to gods of wood and stone. Born in Burmah, his vernacular tongue was Burman as well as Chinese, and he grew up a Boodhist. In 1835, he entered the government school at Maulmain, then under the care of brother Bennett, where his attention was called to what he heard of the goodness of God, in giving his Son to die for the redemption of sinners; but though he was convicted of the truth, his heart arose in opposition to it. After months of anxiety and fear on account of his sins, there is reason to believe that he experienced the application of the peace-speaking blood of Jesus. Several members of the school were about the same time hopefully converted, and many were added to the church.

On his profession of faith in Christ, his friends forsook him. His father closed his doors upon him, he was beaten by his uncle, and many indignities were heaped upon him by his acquaintances, as well as relatives; but his firmness in adhering to the truth finally prevailed, and his relations relaxed their persecutions. Notwithstanding, it was some time before he was allowed to read the Word of God at his father's house without molestation, after he was allowed to return home; for his mother would snatch the New Testament from his hands, and hurl it across the room. They have at last abandoned their opposition, though they still remain the victims of superstition.

Twenty-five years ago, there was hardly a convert from all the nations in Asia, and only a feeble effort made to give these millions the Word of God. What do we now behold? The sacred scriptures in whole or in part translated into all the principal languages of the east; the field has been extensively explored; more than a hundred missionaries are preaching the gospel in twenty-five or thirty different languages; more than two hundred churches have been raised up; and between two and three hundred converted natives are publishing among their countrymen the knowledge of the true God. On the coast from Akyab to Mergui, we have about twenty churches, embracing between one and two thousand souls, translated out of the kingdom of darkness, into the kingdom of God's dear Son. Fifteen missionaries, who daily preach Christ in the Burman, Karen, and Taleign languages. Every town on the Irrawadi, from the Martiban Gulf to the frontiers of China has been visited; the gospel preached to tens of thousands, and portions of the Bible put into the hands of millions. Can any one look at these facts and not rejoice in anticipation of the rapidly approaching glories of Messiah's universal reign? True, there are many obstacles to overcome, Burmah proper is at present closed against us—the government will not allow the people to hold intercourse with the missionaries, yet the sacred lever is at work, and kings cannot stop it. At this very time, the gospel is spreading among the Karens in the Bazzine province.

On the 4th of May, says brother Kincaid, "more than 2,000 Karens are now rejoicing in hope, and the work is going forward. Our Heavenly Father has opened the door of faith, and streams of water are breaking forth in the desert. O blessed gospel of a risen Saviour! It is now, even in Burmah, 'the sword of the Spirit, mighty through God to the pulling down of the strong holds,' where sin and the devil have been intrenched from age to age. Several whole villages are turned to God—the Sabbath is strictly observed, the Bible read, and prayers and praises ascend to Him who was dead and is alive for evermore."

At another date brother Abbot remarks, "the people flocked together; old men and children expressed their joy at my arrival. I asked them how many had embraced the christian religion?" 'All, all, every one of us,' was answered by forty voices. For the last six months, there has been a general turning to the Lord."

India.

From the Baptist translators in this country, the Board have received the most gratifying information. Steady progress has been made in the important work of translating, printing, and distributing the Word of God ; and the brethren employed in this department have enjoyed special evidence of Divine approbation.

Since the last Annual Meeting, large editions of the New Testament, and of the Psalms, have been completed in the Hindustani, the Sanskrit, the Bengali, the Armenian, and the gospel of Matthew, in Hindi, Nagri character, amounting in all to about 40,000 volumes.

The excellency of these translations has been attested by many of the best judges in India. In the Calcutta Christian Observer, for December, 1839, Cinsurensis, who is regarded as a very intelligent critic, gives his unqualified testimony to the faithfulness and elegance of Dr. Yates' Sanskrit version of the Psalms.

An officer of learning and distinction, says concerning the Hindustani New Testament : " I have had several chapters read over by several Munshis here, and asked their opinion concerning the style in which it is written ; and they all agree in stating that it is plainly and carefully translated, according to the idiom of the Hindustani language."

In these versions, say the translators : " it has been our constant object to present the Word of God in simple, but pure language, and in an idiomatic style, so that the sacred volume might be readily understood by the poor and unlearned ; and at the same time be not unacceptable to the educated part of the community."

Another writer at Monghyr, upon the same subject, remarks :

" Independently of the translation of every term, which is not done in any other translation into Hindustani with which I am acquainted, there appears to me a transparency, and clearness, and definiteness about Mr. Yates' Hindustani translation which I see in no other. I have heard it objected to the translation, that those passages which our English translation leaves so indefinite that the reader is compelled to put a sense on the word as he reads, or receive no definite idea from the reading, are not left thus in Mr. Yates' translation, but have a clear defined sense enstamped on them.

" If it be so great a fault in a translator to put a sense on Scripture, I think it is a far greater one to write that as a translation of God's word which he is conscious has either no sense, or, as the Mussulmans say of every sense of the Koran, sixteen different ones.

“I am glad Mr. Yates’ singularly eminent qualifications as a translator begin to be known and appreciated. His noble works in the translation department will live after him, and be a radiant and imperishable crown around his memory.”

At the last dates, a new edition of the Testament in Sanskrit, with extra copies of the Gospels had just left the press, and a new edition of the Testament in Hindustani, was in progress. It is expected that this volume will be so reduced in size as to comprise only 550 small 12mo. pages. These several editions will make an aggregate of 19,000 volumes.

For the convenience of those who read the Hindustani, but are not familiar with the Arabic character, used in other editions of the Scriptures in this language, the Calcutta brethren have commenced an edition of 19,000 copies of the Gospels and Acts, in the Hindustani, Persian character.

Five thousand copies of the Psalms of David in Bengali, and an edition of 3000 copies of the Proverbs of Solomon, with new editions of the Gospels and Acts in the same language, have probably ere this been completed. The whole, making together, 48,000 volumes.

It has long been the anxious desire of our brethren to carry through the press an edition of the whole Bible in Bengali. To engage in this great work, they have been frequently urged by their Christian brethren of all denominations. We are happy to learn, that the task has been undertaken, and at the last dates the book of Genesis was already in type. They propose to print simultaneously two editions of the whole Bible; one in quarto, for use as pulpit and family Bibles; the other in large 8vo., making together 3000 copies; and both to contain marginal references, and literal renderings of Hebrew or Greek idioms.

Immediately after the annual meeting in 1839, your Secretary addressed a communication to Mr. Yates, of Calcutta, to obtain definite information respecting his progress in Bengali translations, and also respecting his corrected version of the Bible in English. The following is an extract from his reply:

“You say, you have heard that I am preparing a new English version of the Bible, and would be glad to know my reasons for so doing, and the principles on which I proceed ; also what progress has been made. It is perhaps too much to say that I am preparing a new version, though it may turn out ultimately to be so. I had no such design, however, when I commenced my labours. The simple story is this—I had to prepare the best version I could of the whole Bible in Bengali, and it occurred to me that it would be desirable from the originals first to make the English exactly what I should attempt to make the Bengali, allowing for the variation of idioms in the two languages. This led to the preparation of the English, and the alteration of such passages as by the common consent of the best critics required alteration. Some further trifling alterations were produced in the English by the actual experiment of translating ; by this, defects were made visible which would never have appeared without such experiment. As we go on with the Bengali through the press, it is probable that some other improvements may strike us, which we shall make as we pass along. Our English, therefore, will not be complete till the printing of the Bengali is finished. When completed we have no desire of offering it as a new version, but shall not object to publishing it, if thought necessary, to furnish to the world a correct idea of exactly what we are doing in our Oriental translations.

“ We have begun this month with the printing of the Bengali Bible, and as this proceeds, my alterations are to be copied on an interleaved English Bible, and submitted to all the brethren for their remarks and further suggestions. You may, therefore, expect to hear of our progress from year to year for the next three or four years, if our lives are spared.”

The number of volumes printed at the Calcutta mission press during the past year, has been, as before stated, about 40,000, which added to those of the previous year, make a total of 89,400 volumes, to which may be added 25,000 copies of the Gospels, and Gospels and Acts, making an aggregate of ONE HUNDRED AND FOURTEEN THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED VOLUMES, printed in part on account of the American and Foreign Bible Society, while the works now passing through the press, will be about 100,000 more, all of which will be faithful translations of Divine revelation.

The Board have been gratified to learn that the recent military operations in Affghanistan have opened up a new region for Christian enterprise throughout the lately conquered provinces in the north western parts of India.

An edition of 2,000 copies of the New Testament, in the Persian language, and 1000 of the Gospels and Acts, and an edition of single Gospels, are now going through the press as a present supply for that interesting people. The expense has, in a great measure, been provided for by the generous donation of 2000 Rupees, from a gentleman residing in Cabul.

The Board have received a neat 12mo. volume of 200 pages, comprising a "list of proper names occurring in the Scriptures; designed to form the basis of a uniform method of spelling the proper names of Scripture in the languages of India." The importance of this work will be appreciated by all who have heard of the constant perplexity to which the readers of nearly every edition of the Bible have been subjected, especially in India, owing to the irregular manner in which the proper names of Scripture have hitherto been spelt. Uniformity in this respect is truly a desideratum in every language; and the literary labours of the Calcutta Baptist Missionaries have in the present volume accomplished a work, which will, it is believed, go far towards settling an important question, in relation to new and improved versions of the Bible.

To illustrate the utility of the present work, let any man examine but a few names in the English authorized version, and he will be surprised to find that different forms are often employed for expressing the same proper name: as Lucas and Luke, Noah and Noe, Timotheus and Timothy. Several chapters in the Old Testament, it is well known, consist almost entirely of proper names, and it is to be lamented that the translators who lived in the time of Elizabeth, and King James, seem to have paid but little attention to the orthography of proper names. This is particularly observable in the books of Chronicles.

The reader of the authorized version is often astonished to find the name of Elijah and Elisha in the Old Testament, changed into Elisha and Eliseus in the New Testament. So too Isaiah and Jeremiah are transformed into Esaias and Jeremy! In the forthcoming edition of the Bible in Bengali, we are happy to say, that for the first time in the whole history of Biblical translation, the name of the same person or place will be spelt uniformly, both in the Old and New Testaments.* If the same care had been employed by those upon whom devolved the immense responsibility of preparing our common English version, then, the first chapter of Matthew, the third of Luke, and the seventh of the Acts of the Apostles, would have been more easily understood by the readers of the English New Testament, who, as the case now stands, are left to find out, that Phalec is the same person as Peleg; and Ragua is no other than Rue.

The whole amount contributed by this Society to aid the Calcutta translators in publishing faithful versions of the Scriptures, is $23,062 43. It must be peculiarly gratifying to contributors to learn, that this amount has been faithfully appropriated to Bible distribution among the millions of India. Kutwa, Birbhum, Monghir and Patna, as well as Benaras, Allahabad, Agra, Dehli, and many other parts of continental India, have been supplied with Scriptures from this fountain of truth.

The Scriptures in Sanskrit, Bengali, Hindui, Hindustani, Armenian, Orya, and other Oriental languages, are constantly for sale at the Calcutta Depository. Thousands of copies of which have, like good seed, been broad-cast over the moral fields of India.

Let not American Christians forget, that within the British Indian possessions and neighbouring states, there is a heathen population of not less than one hundred and thirty millions, among whom the Scriptures might now be circulated, if adequate means could be obtained. Unless, therefore, the efforts of the churches to carry forward the work of Bible translation shall be put forth on a scale, and sustained by an energy to which the most devoted of the followers of Christ have hitherto been utter strangers; hundreds of millions of idolaters must perish for lack of that knowledge, and happiness, which the Scriptures alone communicate.

In a recent letter to your Corresponding Secretary, we find the following impassioned appeal to the sympathies of American Baptists. "My dear Brother—you have set us to work—the Providence of God and the spiritual wants of more than a hundred millions of immortal souls in a state of dreadful destitution urge us to strain every nerve in its prosecution, and will you blame us for doing too much? and having set us to work, will you withhold the requisite support? No, you will not. You will spread the case before the God you serve, you will lay it before the Managers of your Society, you will state it in its fulness to the churches, and I cannot, I dare not doubt the result. You will not say in reply to our entreaty for further aid, 'Brethren, you go on too fast, we will aid you no longer; suspend your translation, silence your presses, and let the millions of immortal beings for whom you have been toiling, perish in the ignorance in which they were born!' No, you will not write thus; but will, I am confident, give thanks for the great things God has wrought, and be encouraged thereby to renewed exertion in the glorious enterprise, will immediately adopt measures to provide us with the means of prosecuting the work to which we are called. Our main dependence under God is, on the American and Foreign Bible Society." Brother Thomas further remarks—"The amount we shall actually need for the current year cannot be less than 20,000 Rupees. Indeed, my impression is, that the increasing opportunities for judicious distribution will call for much more, and that the demand will more than keep pace with the means of supply."

* Since writing the above, we are happy to be permitted on the authority of Rev. Cephas Bennett, now on a visit to this country, to state, that the Baptist translators in Burmah have pursued the same course of giving uniformity to the Scripture proper names.

An appeal to the American churches from the lamented William H. Pearce, was commenced the day before he was called to his eternal reward. The document, though finished only in part, was forwarded by brother Thomas of Calcutta, and is printed in our last Quarterly Paper. It was his last work, and is, in a manner, a voice from the grave—a voice from the heaven he now inherits, saying on behalf of the myriads of India, Give them the words of Eternal Truth translated into their own language.

If any thing could add force to that appeal, it is the fact that "the demand for books is constantly increasing." Says a missionary under date of 26th of November: "Of all the Testaments and gospels which you sent me, there is not one left—many come every day for books, but alas! I have none to give them. A man from Backerganj came a few days ago for a Testament, and many respectable persons whose business brings them to court, near which I live, come and ask for books. A young man called and begged, that when I got the long expected English Testament, I would send one to him." "On the 4th of March," says another missionary a scene commenced, to which I had never witnessed a parallel. Respectable people began to come for books, and I determined to keep an account of the number of applicants. I put down 2, 4, 2, 13, 19, but here my arithmetic failed ; a large crowd had collected, all anxious for books. I was obliged to stand in the doorway, for had they got into the house, and got sight of the books, no order could have been preserved. My children brought the books to me, and I distributed them until I felt exhausted. I then begged the people to retire for a time. I shut myself up in my room and began to reflect. In the morning I had a book case filled—now every shelf is nearly empty. What will our friends in England and America say. Tell them, ‘the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.’ The books have gone into the hands of Bramans, Sarkars, persons of the writer caste, officers of the civil government, persons living in distant parts of the Zillah—all of them, as far as I can judge, have been given to persons who can read well. But I felt that so much seed sown in one day, ought to be watered with much prayer. “On Wednesday,” says the same brother, “the crowd of applicants was greater than before. Many came early in the morning. Chand was with me at the table distributing books, but my poor table having got a fracture in one of its legs, we dispensed with its services. I now sent for Ganganarayan, and we were all three engaged in distributing for about two hours, when we were quite exhausted. The crowd had become very great—by three o’clock nearly all my books were gone ; then I determined to stop for the day. I am afraid this extravagance will produce a famine, but what can I do ? On Thursday great numbers came again, and by two o’clock, all the gospels in Bengali were gone ; those in Sanskrit, and a few in Hindustani only remained—I had to refuse many who came to beg parts of the scriptures. Sorrow and disappointment were depicted on their countenances. More than eleven hundred copies of scriptures, besides tracts, have been distributed in four days, and that at the earnest solicitation of idolaters who can read. Many Mussulmans have of late become eager for books. Every Hindustani gospel is gone—can’t you send another stock immediately ? Let us have a good number of gospels and Testaments in Hindustani.”

We glean the following from many instances of the wonder-working power of the Bible, among the idolaters of Hindustan.

A Hindu who had lately whipped his brother for reading the Word of God, came to one of the missionaries and begged for a New Testament.

Two respectable men from Dum Duma, came and asked for books. They said, "we want to find the true way to heaven."

An old man accompanied by seven other persons, came and begged for Jesus Christ's books.

A young Mussulman to whom one of the missionaries had given a Bible, called on him after a few days to propose some questions. To ascertain what he had done with his Bible, the missionary said, bring me your Bible, and I will mark some very interesting passages for you. O no, said he, I will not read a portion here and there; I have begun it, and am going through the whole; I wish to understand it all, and many others come to my house to hear it read.

Orissa.

The latest intelligence from this part of the moral vineyard, is deeply interesting.

About five years ago, the gospel of Mark was given to a man who, though unable to read it himself, carried it to a distant village, where its wonder-working power was seen in the conversion of several idolaters. To those, many others were soon added, who were so well convinced of the truth of the Christian religion that they offered to burn their shasters and cleave unto the Lord.

In reference to the publications issued from the press at Cuttack, it is gratifying to state, that the first twelve chapters of Genesis, the gospels of Matthew and John, with the Acts of the Apostles, and the Book of Revelations, have been printed and extensively distributed.

Since 1836, and especially since the establishment in 1839, of a printing press in the province of Orissa, which is the southern extreme of the Bengal Presidency, there have been printed 1,206,600 pages of Scriptures, and other religious books. To aid in the accomplishment of this great work the American and Foreign Bible Society have contributed $3000.

In a letter dated February last, Brother Sutton gives an interesting account of his progress in the work of translation, in which he remarks: "We have just printed on your account the New Testament up to the 1st Corinthians, nothing doubting but you will help us. The people are crying after the Bread of Life, and we dare not withhold it, from any sinful mistrust, after the Lord has so wonderfully raised up the American and Foreign Bible Society to aid us."

The last communication from Brother Sutton, dated 22d Oct. 1840, contains the joyful announcement that the Oriya New Testament is completed. "The last sheets," he remarks, "have left the press and are in the hands of the binder. A few days more, and specimen copies will be on their way to America. Thanks be to the Giver of all good, that I have lived to accomplish this delightful work; may it be the means of pouring the light of truth over this dark region from age to age. Thanks to the American and Foreign Bible Society for the whole New Testament in Oriya. I hope that many souls will from year to year, and age to age, proclaim their benedictions on your Society. For myself, my best thanks I offer for enabling me to carry into effect the dearest wish of my heart, in giving the New Testament without disguise, to the millions of Orissa, or rather I should say, continuing the gift which the venerable Carey first presented."

The great extent of this field renders special efforts for its cultivation indispensable. Within the bounds of Balasore on the north, and Poore on the south, are found more than three millions of idolaters, and to the west of Orissa Proper, an immense population exists under the government of the native Rajahs, all of whom speak the Oorea language. Besides these, our excellent Brother Sutton and his fellow-labourers have access to not less than nine millions more, making in all a population nearly equal to that of the United States, who speak the same language.

In his account of a heathen festival, he remarks:—

"I saw many pilgrims, and many of them the most miserable objects that can be imagined. One or two in particular attracted my attention. One was a blind old man, wasted away to such a degree that with his sunken, sightless eyes, he formed a very striking resemblance to the picture of death; another was an old woman with tottering steps and emaciated body, bending her course towards a home which it is next to impossible she can ever reach. Others were young men who have performed a pilgrimage of perhaps 1000 or 1,500 miles, and now naked, and starving and exhausted with fatigue, they are slowly retracing their weary way. Most of them are worn out with walking, and their feet so blistered and torn that they are obliged to bind them up with the only piece of cloth they have, to enable them to prosecute their journey at all. And what is the fruit of all this toil? Why, they have a picture of Juggernaut suspended round their necks, and two or three little sticks coloured with red ochre to take home, if they ever reach it, as a memorial of their pilgrimage.

"We have now travelled about fifty miles along the great road to Juggernaut, and everywhere it is alike full of pilgrims passing to and from that accursed thing. O that I could describe in proper language the miseries of its wretched votaries. But the accounts would scarcely be believed in America, and here they are unnoticed. Many are blind, who go to obtain holiness by approaching the vile block; one of this description lies now at the door of our tent, at the foot of a tree. What a poor wretch he is! He is perpetually crying 'Give me some food; I die, I die; my body is shrivelled up, my feet are broken, and my substance is passing away with the cholera. Ah Boba, Boba, I am a blind Padre, and have nobody to help me. Here I am come four months' journey to visit Juggernaut, and he gives me nothing but sorrow. What can I do? I die. What can I do? Ram, Ram, Ram, Oh Juggernaut!' I have now given him a rupee and some rice, and put him in the road; and now afflicted and alone he is gone groping his forlorn way, blind in body and soul. But this is not a solitary case, I think I have noticed ten blind pilgrims in these four days' journey, and I cannot be supposed to have seen a fourth of the pilgrims who are on the road. The majority of those who return go labouring along, with tottering steps, and broken feet, and bended back, and a death-like, emaciated frame; begging, and sighing, and groaning, all the way. Oh idolatry!"

In this land of darkness and the shadow of death, our brethren have been permitted to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ; nor have they laboured in vain. India requires an immense amount of exertion directed to the destruction of falsehood and superstition, as well as what is requisite for the diffusion of heavenly truth. Our brethren have laboured in both ways; but their number is a handful compared with the many millions among whom they toil.—A few churches are planted, and an encouraging number of Hindoos have renounced their idolatries, and embraced the gospel. Of these several have become preachers of the truth, some of whom are men of considerable talents. There are four ordained native ministers, besides others not yet thus solemnly set apart to their work. One of these, in the days of his idolatry, lighted the funeral pile, which consumed his living mother with his dead father. This young man, now an amiable and exemplary christian, as well as a useful minister, when he wished to join the church of Christ, travelled to Cuttack, a distance of 300 miles, as the nearest place where he could meet with a christian minister.

The success which has crowned the labours of our brethren, has been intimately connected with the circulation of the Scriptures.

"We have recently," says brother Sutton, "rejoiced over more than one hundred persons who have been won from idolatry, and several have been baptized who had never before seen a missionary, but were converted through the blessing of God, on the pages of Divine truth which had been put into their hands."

To our brethren throughout the land we would say, contribute "as the Lord has enabled you," to spread abroad the knowledge of the Saviour. Let every Christian in the land seriously consider, that $100 will put in circulation about 100,000 pages of the Bible, and in the same proportion for a larger or smaller sum, every page of which may become the means of saving a soul; and then let such Christians resolve that they will save from their annual superfluities at least so much as will purchase one Bible for some perishing heathen.

"On us," says the Secretary of the General Baptist Missionary Society, "devolves the task of furnishing the Oorea Testament to these perishing millions. We cannot accomplish this work alone; we therefore ask the help of the American and Foreign Bible Society."—In another part of the same communication he says: "My dear brother, urge your American brethren to think what must be the state of a country teeming with myriads of people, who are ignorant of the true God. While, therefore, this field is so wide, while in many instances our brethren have gathered fruit to eternal life; while their opportunities for circulating the Scriptures are many: while in many cases those sacred pages have guided Hindoos to Christ and Heaven, and while no Bible Society, unless the American and Foreign, will help our brethren to circulate the New Testament, because they will not darken and veil an important Christian ordinance, we naturally look to that Society, and ask their friendly aid."

China.

The views of your Board in regard to the importance of this vast portion of the promised inheritance of the Son of God, have been published in former reports. Recent events show, that their estimate was founded upon correct principles. Facilities for diffusing the truth are constantly increasing, and the friends of this Society are solicited to augment their contributions, and to persevere in fervent prayer to God, until the immortal, perishing sons of Han, shall read in their own language the sacred pages of inspiration.

Probably few other heathen nations upon the globe are more accessible ; and especially at Macao, with its harbour and twenty villages. The few missionaries there, have access to about as many heathen as the whole one hundred missionaries at all the Sandwich Islands. And if Canton be included with its busy thousands, who annually visit Macao by land and sea, the number is sixfold greater. At these points alone, it is believed that there are more Chinese to whom the Bible might be given than at Penang, Singapore, and Batavia all combined. These millions are accessible for Bible distribution, both on shore and in the harbour, which is generally crowded with junks from all the maritime parts of the empire. Thousands upon thousands of pages have been distributed among them, and boxes filled with Bibles and tracts, have without molestation been shipped to places several hundred miles in the interior, and which have safely reached their destination. Several of the Chinese officers have received books for themselves, and even the "Priests," have applied for "Jesus Christ's Classic," (New Testament) and have been supplied. "But now," says brother Shuck ; "I have not one Bible left, and not one dollar left to purchase or print one." To you, dear brethren in America—ye men of Israel, to you I appeal for help."

In a communication from the same brother, dated Macao, 3d August 1840, he remarks : "On the 5th of July, the city of Tinghae, the metropolis of the Chinese Archipelago was taken by the British forces under Sir Gordon Bremer. Thus in the far east, even within the forbidden realms of the 'Celestial Empire,' has yet another important settlement been added to the British crown. Here are tens of thousands of Chinese on their own native soil, accessible to the Christian missionary, away from all Mandarin and Popish influence. What now say the six hundred thousand American Baptists? Will they, or will they not send more missionaries to China? Let conscience and duty speak in view of the great day of impartial reckoning!!! While the victorious arms of Britain menace the very existence of this mighty empire, may the army of the Prince of Peace, forthwith take up their position between the living and the dead in the land of Cathay! Pray for your isolated brother—pray for China—pray for an increase of faith and piety among the churches of our beloved American Zion."

Siam.

In this department there are ten persons employed to carry forward the cause of truth, and so far as the Bible distribution is concerned, it may truly be said, that a great work has been accomplished. "The field," says a missionary, "is now ready for the harvest. The heathen are ready to welcome us to their homes, and gladly receive our books and instructions."

The New Testament has been translated, and with several new tracts, will be put to press immediately on the arrival of brother Jones, who is now on his voyage to Bangkok.

The following is a summary of works published in Siamese, from 1835 to 1839 inclusive.

Catechism of Religion, . . .	4 pp. 8vo.	. . .	2,000 copies.
Sermon on the Mount, . . .	16 " "	. . .	1,500 "

Story of Daniel, . . .	24 " "	. . .	5,000 "
Matthew's Gospel, 2d edition, .	120 " "	. . .	5,000 "

The above were all published previous to the close of 1839. To these may be added 480,000 pages of the Scripture Parables, and History of the Christian Religion, going through the press at the latest date—making an aggregate of about 5,792,060 pages, printed at Bangkok up to July 1st, 1840. The proof sheets, says brother Davenport, are alternately read by two of the missionaries, assisted by one of their teachers. He has been in the habit of distributing from 20,000 to 50,000 pages on a Lord's day, and he says that the people appear to advance in the knowledge of the Bible. Prince Chan Fa Yai, who is next to the king, has visited the printing office at Bangkok, and has expressed his great delight on viewing the establishment.

The Scripture Parables and Acts have been revised for a second edition—the "Summary" revised for a fourth edition—Stories of Joseph and Moses revised for a second edition. All of which have probably ere this been printed and distributed.

Africa.

In June last, information received from this too long neglected quarter of the globe, states that brother Crocker was at Santa Will's, preparing for the press a portion of the New Testament which he had translated into the Basa language. In the month of August he remarks: "We have long and anxiously looked for the means to carry forward our operations, but we have met with disappointment. Without a press and types, all our previous efforts are comparatively unimportant though the Bible were translated, and hundreds of natives were qualified to read it." At the very time when our beloved brother was thus lamenting the want of a press, to enable him to carry forward the moral war in Africa, the Board are happy to say, that the friends of the cause had anticipated his wishes, and that ere this he is probably in possession of the object of his solicitude.

Already has the christian missionary penetrated the kingdom of Ashantee, and recent adventurers are making their way through the waters of the Niger, determined to pitch their tents on the western coast. The Board of Managers indulge the hope, that the time is not distant when the banks of Africa's "ancient rivers" will bloom with spiritual verdure—the borders of lake Tchad be adorned with trees planted by the Lord, and the desert of Sahara will blossom as the rose. But, to realize these hopes, greater efforts must be made to give the Bible to the eighty millions of Africa, who now sit in darkness and the shadow of death. At present they are nearly all without a written language; but ere long it is hoped that this obstacle will be surmounted, and that Bibles and other religious books will be distributed throughout that benighted land. The whole amount of books published by our missionaries in Western Africa does not exceed 1100 copies, or 26,000 pages. "What are these among so many." The Board hope that more ample funds will be furnished during the coming year, and that these perishing millions may be supplied with the bread of Life.

Germany.

In this country, God has opened a wide and effectual door for the dissemination of Divine truth. The sword of persecution has indeed been drawn, but, "the sword of the Spirit" has been made "mighty through God to the pulling down of the strong holds of Satan." "The word" says brother Oncken, "has had free course and is glorified. At Hamburg the Spirit of God is breaking hearts of stone, and imparting life to the dead. Several recent conversions have occurred that made my heart leap for joy. I am infinitely happy—eternal thanks to the Divine author of all our real joys."

Several new churches have been constituted in different parts of Germany through the instrumentality of brother Oncken and the members of the Hamburg church. To these branches, numerous additions have been made, and present prospects indicate an abundant harvest of souls to be gathered into the Spiritual Garner.

Ten thousand copies of the New Testament, (5,000 copies of which are bound up with the Psalms of David,) have been printed by brother Oncken. From the specimens sent us, the Board are enabled to express the opinion, that the quality of the paper, the admirable typography, and neat binding of this edition, surpass any previous edition issued from the German press. "We have" says brother Oncken, "printed during the last three years, more than 400,000 pages, in the German and Danish languages. One of our brethren has just returned after an absence of eight months. He has visited upwards of one hundred and forty villages and towns in Muhlenburg, and the frontiers of Prussia, in some of which a number of persons were converted through his instrumentality." In Bavaria too, several converts to the truth have come out from the world; and a young Lutheran minister has taken a deep interest in the distribution of evangelical books.

To aid the indefatigable Oncken in his labours, the Board in May last appropriated $1,000. In no other portion of the moral field could this amount have been applied with a fairer prospect of abundant increase. Since that time $500 have been appropriated for Bible distribution in Norway by brother Enoch Swee, under the particular direction of brother Oncken. The whole amount contributed, to aid him in his endeavours to promulgate the truth is $4,000.

Germany, as we have before stated, is the peculiar field for Baptists, notwithstanding the temporary hostility of "the powers that be." In the October number of our Quarterly Paper a document is published, which ought to be read by every christian of the present age. It portrays the sufferings, and the pious resignation of a Baptist minister and his church, under the inveterate persecutions of a community of professed christians.

Your Board hesitate not to express the opinion, that impartial history will embalm the name of John Gerhard Oncken, with that of Luther, as one of Germany's immortal reformers. His history will record a lesson of love and consecration, demonstrating the divinity of its origin, and full of the melting fellowship of Calvary.

In January last, your Board forwarded a remonstrance to the Senate of Hamburg, which may be found in the Appendix.

Denmark.

The Board are happy in the belief, that the $500 contributed for Bible distribution in this new and highly interesting field, will be like "good seed sown upon good ground, that shall bring forth an hundred fold." Respecting the beloved brother Peter Münster who has been ordained as pastor of the Baptist church in Copenhagen, brother Oncken remarks: "He is a man of the right stamp, warm hearted and devoted, without being an enthusiast."

One of the brethren at Copenhagen, Enoch Swee, (a Norwegian) intends to return to Norway. "He has," says brother Oncken, "a clear head, a warm heart, and has been in the habit of preaching. I have no doubt but the Lord has designed him to be instrumental in introducing the gospel into Norway."

These favourable openings in Denmark and Norway, should be well supported, and every thing in our power should be done to extend the Redeemer's kingdom there. Forty thousand tracts on the general truths of christianity have been printed in the Danish language; but Bibles for distribution in Norway, are much needed.

At the meeting of the Board on the 7th instant, $500 were appropriated for Bible distribution in Norway, by brother Enoch Swee, under the special direction of brother John G. Oncken.

Although in Denmark, as in Germany, the enemies of God have raged, yet says brother Oncken, in a letter to the Secretary (who had urged him to go over and preach the gospel in Copenhagen,) "I have now to communicate most glorious news—hear what our adorable God hath done. Your wishes, and your prophecy in reference to Denmark have both been fully accomplished. A church, composed of eleven members was formed at Copenhagen in October, 1839. The number of converts since that period, notwithstanding all that men and devils can do, is still increasing. The little church now numbers thirty-two devoted disciples of Christ as members. The truth is spreading in Denmark, and must prevail."

On Langeland in the great Belt, several persons have abandoned the national establishment, and joined the Baptists. At Alborg, also, a number have been converted to the truth. On Arroe a very gifted man, who has been in the habit of preaching, has been convinced of believer's baptism, and great hopes are entertained that he will be eminently useful in disseminating the truth.

Wherever brother Oncken goes, the common people are anxious to receive the Bible, many thousand copies of which could be usefully distributed, if the American churches would but furnish the means.

France.

From 1832 to 1840, the number of evangelical ministers in this country are reported to have increased from 14 to 150. Yet still, the three unclean spirits, popery, political anarchy, and infidelity, are abroad. These deadly antagonists are confronted by the Geneva Evangelical Society, formed in 1831 ; and, the Paris Society for similar purposes formed in 1833, both conducted by men whose praise is said to be in all the churches. Through the agency of the last named Society the scriptures have been extensively distributed by the hands of colporteurs in districts entirely Roman, and they have exercised a genial influence over more than 500,000 souls in the cities of Strasbourg, Amiens, Toulouse, Rheims, Tours, and Grenoble. More than 40,000 copies of the Bible have been distributed by sixty-six colporteurs.

During the past year, France has been traversed by more than 150 Evangelists ; several new Protestant churches have been erected, and more than 150,000 Bibles and Testaments have been distributed ; and yet in the land where Calvin and Beza toiled in the sixteenth century to establish the doctrines of the cross, the waves of Popery, Atheism, and Death still roll over thirty-five millions of immortal beings ! In that land of popery and blood, more than 40,000 Roman ecclesiastics exercise a prescriptive dominion, attended by all the idolatry of that dark system, in the worship of saints and images. But your Managers chiefly deplore the fact, that among the 1,200,000 who bear the name of Protestants—Neology, Unitarianism, and Rationalism prevail, and frightfully exhibit the condition to which France is reduced. But the Board anticipate the dawning of a brighter day on that devoted land. Although political revolution, military glory, and wealth, and commerce, have failed to improve the moral condition of France ; yet, the Bible can make her to become a blessing in the approaching kingdom of Christ, who for ages has been a curse in the earth.

Greece.

The importance of this country as a field for Bible distribution is becoming every year more apparent. Opposition does indeed exist, but it is less mighty than the truth against which it is arrayed. It cannot crush the spirit of inquiry which is extensively awakened—the Scriptures will be sought for and read by multitudes, till a brighter day shall dawn on those moral desolations.

The location selected by the Baptists, as a radiating point from which to send forth the word of the Lord, is probably second to no other part of the north western portion of the Morea. Patras has a population of more than 8000 persons, who are emphatically a people thirsting for knowledge. More than 5000 volumes consisting of the New Testament or portions of the Old, and not less than 800,000 pages of religious tracts were distributed amongst them during the year 1839. These books go into the hands of a reading community, who will peruse them with avidity; and by whom many of the books will be carried into all the provinces which lie on the Corinthian Gulf, and the towns stretching along the northern and western coast of Greece.

To the 48 Demarcks throughout Mani, copies of religious books have been sent, and one of the Professors of Theology in the University said, that he would be glad to have them circulated among the common people.

One of the missionaries remarks: "Could the friends of the Bible witness the earnestness with which the people ask for the Scriptures, they would, I am sure, do all in their power to send the precious Word of God to bless those dwellers among the mountains."

The whole amount of volumes hitherto distributed in the kingdom of Greece by the agency of Bible societies, does not exceed one volume for every eight souls. A great work, therefore remains to be done before the eight hundred thousand souls in the kingdom are all furnished with the whole Word of God, to say nothing of the three millions of Greeks not included in the kingdom. But the precious promises of Him who bids us preach the Gospel to every creature, has laid the foundation of firm confidence and strong assurance of ultimate success. Yes, the gospel will yet gladden those beautiful hills and vales. Blessed is he who shall have an instrumentality in promoting this glorious triumph of Zion's King.

A shop for the sale of Bibles has recently been opened by brother Love, at Corfu the metropolis of the Greek republic, and recent communications assure us that many have begun to search the Scriptures.

In the Ionian Islands too, where the direct ecclesiastical authority of the Patriarch of Constantinople is no longer acknowledged, there is a wide door opened for the agents of the Bible Society.

BIBLE TRANSLATION SOCIETY.

The formation of this Society on the 24th March, 1840, has imparted joy to our hearts, and vigour to our hopes concerning the speedy accomplishment of that great object for which the American and Foreign Bible Society was constituted. Like our own, this Society owes its origin to the refusal of the Pedobaptists to assist in printing translations of the Word of God, made by Baptist missionaries in India; which, as partners in the Bible Society, they had for 23 years been accustomed to receive. This unkind procedure produced in the minds of the Baptists, as we think it must in every impartial mind, a solemn conviction, that imperative duty to the heathen, to the Word of God, and to the whole Christian world, demanded the immediate adoption of those measures which resulted in the new organization. Your Board have been happy to recognise in the constitution of that Society, some of the great principles by which the American and Foreign Bible Society are governed, viz.: that the Society's funds are to be appropriated only for "complete translations," into the vernacular terms of each language into which a translation is made. And that Hebrew and Greek words shall not be unnecessarily transferred into the languages of the heathen, but that the oracles of God shall be given to the nations, without suppression or obscurity.

But your Board of Managers cannot refrain from expressing their regret, that "the second constitutional principle" of that noble Society imposes a fetter upon the translator by prescribing how words relating to the ordinance of baptism shall be translated. The Board cannot but regard this as a departure and descent from the true principles upon which we stand, viz. that holy and competent men engaged in the awful work of translating the word of God into foreign languages, ought to consult the original Hebrew and Greek, and not be controlled by any rules imposed by individuals or societies. The Board indulge the hope that said requirement will be withdrawn as soon as the attention of our beloved brethren in England shall have been particularly directed to this subject.

Soon after the constitution of this Society, the Board addressed to them a letter of congratulation, and tendering to them our fellowship and co-operation. From their reply we make the following extract :—

“ Resolved, That the Committee of the Bible Translation Society, respectfully and gratefully acknowledge the good opinion and cordial wishes so kindly expressed towards them by the Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

“The Committee trust, that in common with the Board of Managers, they are impressed with the magnitude and importance of the undertaking in which they have embarked. Compelled as they have been to take up the position they occupy ; they feel its responsibility, and entreat an interest in the prayers of their fellow-labourers and predecessors in the same course. It is their earnest hope and desire that the two institutions may proceed with unabated zeal and uninterrupted harmony, each provoking the other to warmer love and augmented efforts, till all people shall read ‘in their own tongue wherein they were born,’ the tidings of ‘the common salvation.’

With much affection and respect,

Yours for the truth’s sake,

EDWARD STEANE, Secretary.”

To aid this noble institution in the great work of Bible Translation, your Board at their meeting in November last, appropriated the sum of five thousand dollars. In acknowledging the receipt of this amount, they remark, in a letter dated the 11th February, “ Resolved, That this Committee acknowledge with much pleasure the grant of five thousand dollars, voted by the Board of the American and Foreign Bible Society, to the Baptist translations in India, and make a grateful record of this act of Christian liberality.”

UNITED AND SYSTEMATIC EFFORT REQUIRED.

The American and Foreign Bible Society, has hitherto enjoyed the favour of the churches to a degree unparalleled in the history of any other institution, and there is no evidence of diminished interest. But the Board are impressed with the belief that much more might be accomplished without any material change in the standard of our christian benevolence, if the churches would regulate their contributions by some well devised system of action.

Occasional donations, and too often, public collections seem to be the effect of momentary impulse, rather than from a conviction that every christian is under obligation to contribute, as the Lord has prospered him, in aid of the cause of truth.

Although this, it is to be feared, is in many cases owing to a selfish love of the things of this world, we would charitably hope that in most instances, it arises from a want of information as to the objects and wants of the American and Foreign Bible Society. To remove this evil let every pastor not only preach an annual sermon for the Bible Society, but on other suitable occasions communicate to his people the important facts contained in our Reports and Quarterly Papers. Such a course would become the basis of a systematic and effective arrangement to obtain the regular quarterly, or semi-annual contributions of every Baptist in the land. This desirable object would, in the opinion of the Board, be readily attained, by appointing one or more male, and female committees, to make personal applications to every member of the church and congregation.

If the Bible Society is worthy of support, if it has been instrumental in diffusing far and wide, the Book of Life that shows the only way to escape eternal death, then does it solicit and expect the continued and increasing benevolence of all who love the Saviour.

When our constantly augmenting facilities for doing good, and the reiterated appeals of missionaries in the field are duly considered, the Board hope for larger benefactions, and more earnest prayer for the blessing of God upon the labours of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

CONCLUSION.

The Board of Managers hope that the friends of the Bible Society will bear in mind, that the sphere of our operations is bounded only by the moral wants of the human race. Limited by no geographical lines, every latitude and longitude of our globe needs the exploration of the Bible Society. Western no less than Eastern Asia, Europe, Africa, and America, imperiously demand our attention.

Recent calculations, founded upon unquestionable authority show, that only two millions of Bibles were ever printed anterior to the formation of Bible Societies, and that since that period, only twenty millions of copies have been added for the supply of this world's teeming population. The Board admit that this increase, amounting within the last forty years to ten times the number of Bibles published in three hundred years before that time, which is an hundred fold more in one year, is to be regarded as an evidence of the accelerated progress of truth; but yet it is an appalling fact, that hundreds of millions of the human race are perishing for lack of vision.

Their cry is loud and piercing—christians, ye servants of Jesus Christ, send us the Bible before we die. To such earnest appeals your Board are anxious to respond, and they will respond, if the churches will furnish them with the means.

The nations around the Holy Land are beginning to enlist the sympathies of the christian world, and the soil moistened with the tears and blood of the blessed Redeemer, seems to invite our occupancy, while Ethiopia is stretching out her hands unto God, and imploring from his people the Bible, the true guide to universal liberty and endless joy.

Burmah too, where Judson and Wade, and Kincaid, and their coadjutors are labouring beneath a burning sky, and where the kindred of Moun Sway are crying to you from their Jungles—China, Siam, and Aracan, where Boardman and Wheelock sleep—those lands are yet lying in darkness, and in the region and shadow of death.

The Peninsula of Greece, and nearly all the fertile lands washed by the Mediterranean sea, demand the labours of this Society. Upon the banks of the Ganges, the Irrawaddy, and the Nile, as well as upon the noble rivers of our own western states, whose perennial fertility invite the spiritual agriculturist, Christianity has already kindled her fires, and yet hundreds of millions are destitute of the Bible.

France is still overshadowed with the darkness of papal superstition, and calls for the prayers of all the friends of truth.

Germany, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, have in the providence of God become partially accessible to the heralds of the cross; but upon millions who inhabit those regions of the north, the day star of hope has not yet risen.

In their last report, the Board expressed the opinion that the day may not be far off, when God will “assemble the outcasts of Israel,” and once more make Jerusalem as “the garden of the Lord," and the glory of all lands. Recent information concerning God's ancient people, seems to corroborate that opinion. Within the last five years, the number of Jews in the Holy Land has increased from 2,000 to upwards of 40,000. A mission has been established at Jerusalem, and a place of worship has been erected on Mount Zion, where a converted Jew preaches the "unsearchable riches of Christ." Thus after the lapse of eighteen hundred years, the Psalms of David in Hebrew, are again sung by a Hebrew Christian Church on Mount Zion, where three thousand years ago they were first set to music by their inspired author.

The Board of Managers would not forget to remind the friends of the Bible, that in the United States there still exists a great spiritual destitution. Hundreds of thousands, it is to be feared, are still without the Bible. Let every disciple of Christ come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty; (by fervent prayers and liberal contributions;) until the American and Foreign Bible Society shall be enabled to roll forward the tide of its munificence to enrich the moral desolations of this vast continent and of the world.

It is gratifying to be permitted to state that some of our most distinguished citizens are lending their aid to this noble cause, not merely by their pecuniary contributions, but by standing forth, its public and eloquent advocates. Many new auxiliaries have been formed, and succeeding years will we doubt not furnish still greater accessions. Such pleasing indications point us to a brighter era in the history of our Society, and ought to stimulate us to more decided efforts in the work of the Lord.

In regard to the Bibles issued by this Society; the Board of Managers intend to act upon the principle expressed by the pious and learned Robert Cooke, who lived and wrote at the close of the fifteenth century: "We must add nothing to the Word of God—a Id nothing as God's, which is not his. Nothing, as equal in authority and importance—nothing that builds what he destroys, or destroys what he builds—Matthew xv. 2—9; no wrong construction of his word; in truth, we may not add any thing to his doctrine, government, or worship."

CHARLES G. SOMMERS, Cor. Secretary.

On motion of Wm. B. Johnson, of S. C.

Seconded by Wm. Hague, of Boston.

Resolved, That the Report, an abstract of which has now been read, be printed and circulated under the direction of the Board of Managers.

On motion of S. Chapin, of D. C.

Seconded by John Finlay, of Louisville, Ky.

Resolved, That the success which continues to crown the enterprise of the American and Foreign Bible Society, demands our gratitude to God, and should encourage us to redouble our liberality and zeal in the cause of truth.

On motion of Daniel Dodge, of Philadelphia,

Seconded by Jonathan Going, of Ohio.

Resolved, That we rejoice in the recent formation of the BIBLE TRANSLATION SOCIETY in Great Britain; and hail it as an Institution kindred to the American and Foreign Bible Society, and a valuable coadjutor in the work of Bible distribution.

Adjourned, to meet on Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

Prayer by Daniel Sharp, of Boston.

Thursday morning, 8 o'clock, April 29th, 1841.

Met pursuant to adjournment. The President in the Chair.

Prayer by J. H. Kennard, of Philadelphia.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.

The Committee to whom has been referred the request of the Board, in which they desire that the Society shall invest them with authority to correct the typographical errors that are found in the various editions of our English version, in order that the edition which they publish, may be more accurately conformed to our English translation in its purer days :

REPORT,

That they are of opinion the Board is already invested with this power, and that it devolves on them to use the best means they possess for collating all the various editions they can command, so that they may correct the errors which may have crept through the press into the holy volume in our version.

The Committee beg leave to express their high satisfaction at the conscientious sense of duty by which the Board have been actuated in asking a power from the Society, of the right to exercise which, they did not feel certain. Guided by such a principle, this valuable body of men will not fail, under God, to carry out the benevolent designs of the Society, so far as may depend on them.

All which is most respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM B. JOHNSON, Chairman.

The Report was unanimously adopted, and the Committee discharged.

The new Board of Managers was directed to hold their first regular meeting for business, on Wednesday, May 12th, 1841, at 4 P. M., at the Society's Rooms, No. 12 Chambers-street, New-York.

Adjourned, to meet with the First Baptist Church, at their place of worship, corner of Broome and Elizabeth-streets, New-York city, on TUESDAY, APRIL 26th, 1842, at 9 A. M. for the transaction of business; public exercises to commence at 10 o'clock.

Prayer by Alonzo Wheelock, of New-York.

APPENDIX.

PERSECUTION IN HAMBURG.

The cruel persecution of the Baptist church in Hamburg, and the imprisonment of their estimable Pastor, who has laboured as an agent of the American and Foreign Bible Society in distributing the Sacred Scriptures, is an event, which has excited the surprise, and enlisted the sympathies of many christians of different denominations in Europe and America. In January last, the following document was adopted at a regular meeting of the Board of the American and Foreign Bible Society, and ordered to be forwarded to the Senate of Hamburg :—

To the most Honourable, the Burgo Masters and Senators of the Free Imperial City of Hamburg,

The Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society would with great deference and respect, offer the following Memorial.

VENERABLE FATHERS :—

The Board above named, beg leave to submit to your particular consideration, the following representation, in the name of a Society identified with a denomination of christians in North America ; comprising more than 8,000 churches, whose communion numbers not less than 650,000 professed christians, and more than 3,500,000 citizens of the United States, who from principle attend on the ministry of our denomination.

It is in this connexion, and as the managers of an institution designed to promote the interests of the world, that they beg leave to address your Honourable body.

They have long been accustomed to contemplate the Honourable Senate of Hamburg, as the legal guardians of the civil and religious privileges of a happy community, whose chartered rights, and whose enlightened policy, history has taught us to admire. Imagine then what must have been our grief, when information derived from various sources confirmed the amazing statement, that our beloved brother, Rev. Johann Gerhard Oncken, a minister of Christ and an agent of the American and Foreign Bible Society, employed to distribute the Bread of Life among the morally destitute of his own country, had been confined in one of the prisons of Hamburg. Most venerable Sirs, we cannot conceal from you our deep and unmingled sorrow upon the authentication of an event so much at variance with the enlightened and liberal spirit of the age. That such an event should transpire in the nineteenth century : and that too in the country where the immortal Dr. Martin Luther achieved a glorious triumph over the Spiritual domination of the Roman hierarchy, appears to us, almost incredible.

Our grief is the more poignant when we reflect, that against our brother, the Senate of Hamburg have preferred no charge so far as we are informed, except, that "he continues to preach, baptize, and administer the Lord's Supper." The Board of Managers respectfully submit to the serious consideration of the Honourable Senate, as an enlightened body, whether those are the deeds for which any man in an age of boasted illumination, ought to be punished with incarceration, and the spoiling of his goods ! Is it either scriptural or philosophical to punish any man for his conscientious religious opinions ? If so, then were the persecutions endured by Luther, Melancthon, and Huss, not only justifiable ; but, if Rome should again be permitted to usurp dominion, even the Senators of Hamburg would be compelled either to abandon the altars of their fathers, or groan under fetters imposed by the man of sin ; perchance within the very walls where our beloved Oncken has suffered for the truth's sake.

The Board beg leave respectfully to inquire, is not Rev. Johann Gerhard Oncken by inalienable right, a citizen of the Free Hanseatic City of Hamburg ? Is he not sustained by the favourable opinion of many of your own enlightened citizens as an indefatigable philanthropist, and as a man of irreproachable character ? Has any spot on his moral character been discovered ? On the contrary, his exertions for the spiritual improvement of the people of Hamburg has elicited the highest commendations. Did he not establish the first "Sunday school" in the city of Hamburg ? Has he not as a member of the Lower Saxony Tract Society, become an instrument of great good to your population ? Did he not form the first Temperance Society in Hamburg, and endeavour by the authority of the Word of God, to reclaim the blasphemer and the drunkard—to promote the knowledge of the Bible—the fear of God, and the practice of morality and sobriety in your city ? Is not such a man entitled to protection in the enjoyment of his rights to worship the God of his fathers according to the dictates of his conscience ? Rights which we rejoice to learn are not denied to Jews and Catholics ! Rights guaranteed to every inhabitant of the Free City of Hamburg by the German Diet.

We appeal to you, "men and brethren"—Senators of an Imperial City. What will be the opinion of enlightened millions in every Protestant country, when they read the page that records the sufferings of Mr. Oncken for the truth's sake? Will not the pen of impartial history transmit to posterity, an unenviable record of the doings of the present generation, if in our day, Protestant Legislators revert to the spirit and practice of Popery in the dark ages? The Board further submit, whether in the judgment of the enlightened Senators of Hamburg, it is at all probable, that the sword of persecution can arrest the onward march of Truth? Has persecution in any age or country ever produced such results? Did the flames consume the altars erected to the Spirit of Truth, when the primitive champions of Christ, torn by lions in the Roman Amphitheatre, sealed their undying testimony with the blood of martyrdom? Did the tyranny of the princes of the house of Stuart in Great Britain, or of Louis XIV. in France, exterminate truth from the hearts and consciences of the men of those nations? Have any of the recent Advocates of truth in Germany, ingloriously deserted the Cross? If not—and we appeal with confidence to the history of the present and of former years: then surely there can remain but a faint hope that in enlightened Germany, and in the nineteenth century, a work can be performed, which requires popular ignorance as its aid, and which no other nation even in the dark ages has been able fully to accomplish.

The Board of Managers further submit with great deference to the consideration of your Honourable Body; that the objection against Mr. Oncken as an Immersionist, is incapable of defence, if Luther's own commentary upon his own version of the Bible is to be admitted as evidence.

Luther De Sacramento Baptismi.—"Primo, nomen Baptismus græcum est, latine potest verti, mersio, cum immergimus aliquid in aquam, ut totum tegatur aqua, et quamvis ille mos jam absolucrit apud plerosque, (neque enim totos demergunt pueros, sed tantum paucula aqua perfundunt,) debebant tamen prorsus immergi, et statim retrahi. Id enim etymologia nominis postulare videtur. Et Germani quoque baptismum, tauff vocant, a profunditate, quam tieff, illi sua lingua vocant quod profunde demergi conveniat eos qui baptizuntur."*

If Luther was a sound etymologist, then is Mr. Oncken and the practice of the denomination which he so worthily represents, completely sustained; not merely by the Father of Protestantism, but by the Lexicographers of every nation. We refer your Honourable Body to the Works of Schleusner, Scrivillii, Rosenmuller, Scholz, Neander, Gese-nus ; and to all the unrivalled professors of your own German universities.

That the Baptist denomination existed in Holland, Piedmont and England, as early as 1457, and that anterior to the Reformation, thousands of Baptists lived in Westphalia, Guilderland, and Brabant, will appear from the history of Simonis Menno, now resting within twenty leagues of your city. One writer, whose authority it would not be safe to impugn, has declared that the Baptists were entitled to consideration as "a people who have never symbolized with antichrist, and who had their origin anterior to the rise of the man of sin."

For the peaceful and unoffending character of the Baptists, we appeal to the testimony of universal history for the last 1800 years.

On our own behalf—in the name of the millions of freemen in the United States, where we are happy to say, that Lutheran Clergymen enjoy the privilege of preaching what they believe, without let or hindrance. On behalf of the morally destitute in your own city, where Jews and Catholics assemble for worship without annoyance ; and in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ we do most earnestly entreat you, venerable Sirs, no longer to obstruct the ministerial labours of our brother Rev. Johann Gerhard Oncken. We beg that he may be permitted to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience ; to erect a suitable place of worship in Hamburg, if the means to accomplish so desirable an object can be obtained, and to preach to his dying fellow men, "the unsearchable riches of Christ."

The Board of Managers implore the blessing of God upon the Senators of Hamburg, and pray that through the power of the Holy Spirit, they may receive, and always exemplify the gospel of the Great Redeemer. And, that the protection we solicit for the Rev. Mr. Oncken and his church may not only be secured to them by your Honourable body, but that they may prove a blessing to your commonwealth.

With profound consideration, most respectfully Yours.

By order of the Board of the American and Foreign Bible Society,
S. H. CONE, President.

CHARLES G. SOMMERS, Cor. Secretary.

INTERESTING EXTRACTS FROM RECENT COMMUNICATIONS.

Extract of a letter from Mr. Philips, dated April 20, 1840.

On our arrival here, we received painful information both from the spot and from Calcutta. The news of the death of our dear leader, and father, and friend, came upon us with almost stunning violence. Dear brother Pearce has done his work, just seen the last of his plans carried into execution by my location at Agra, and then gone to receive the approving smile of his Saviour, and the embrace of his earthly father, now that the son has done what the father wished to do.

The work to be done in this neighbourhood is immense. In the whole space between Allahabad and Agra, I believe, there is not a single missionary; and, besides brother Thompson at Dehli, I think, if you search the country round, for hundreds of miles to the north and the west of Agra, you will find no missionary. There are, I believe, missionaries at Cawnpore; and towards the hills are a few American missionaries; but after all, the labourers are much fewer in proportion than in the Bengal, Bahar, and Allahabad districts. In fact, the farther you retire from Calcutta, the less is the number of missionaries.

IMMENSITY OF THE WORK TO BE DONE IN INDIA.

It is quite overwhelming to reflect on the vast amount of work to be done in the great Indian jungle; and which, as the age of miracles is past, must be done by the instrumentality of christian benevolence. Surely from my heart I pray, Lord, give triple strength, and faith, and zeal, and love to every labourer in the field, and send out quickly additional hosts!

Compared with the wants of the people and our own desires, we feel that ours is a very, very small beginning, very indeed; but we are encouraged by knowing that God does not "despise the day of small things," and we have confidence in christian friends that they will not, but will labour together with us in their prayers, that from these little ignorant, despised ones, God would raise up some champions for the truth.—some to preach powerfully the riches of Christ and gospel grace when we shall be silent in the tomb. Such is our desire, and our aim, and our prayer. The end, it is true, is far off; and the beginning seems very disproportionate to such an end; but the husbandman has long patience; the seed is small, and many, many days it lies hid, and shows no signs of life; but it grows up and increases, he knows not how, yet he becomes enriched with a plentiful harvest. And is not the God of grace as worthy of our patient trust as the God of nature? The success of similar attempts, which sprung from small beginnings—I refer especially to the Boys' Boarding school in Calcutta—may encourage the friends of christian education to hope, though it may seem hoping in part against hope.

SPIRIT OF INQUIRY AT DACCA.

You will be pleased to see in the "Heralds" printed at Calcutta, accounts from Dacca, which show that our scriptures and tracts are beginning to excite much attention, and great and effectual doors of distribution are opening. May this spirit of inquiry spread like a flame throughout the whole continent, then we shall have full work for every translator and every distributor, though multiplied a thousand fold!

D E L H I .

Extract of a letter from Mr. Thompson.

My visits to one section or other of the city have been continued. I am happy to say, every morning and afternoon, and with undiminished interest. Sometimes, indeed, I come home grieved and sickened at the spirit and bearing of Mohammedans, and discouraged at the secular minds of Hindoos; but at others I am refreshed by the inquiries of both, the desire for the particular portions of the scriptures or well-known tracts, or by the conversation of some former hearer or reader of our books. Not unfrequently, indeed, an applicant or two comes home with me for what he could not be supplied with abroad.

On these occasions, and to the Charandasis, and to christian friends at a distance, I have, since my last statement, distributed 79 volumes of the scriptures, and 212 gospels; 7 pamphlets, and 1515 tracts; making a total of 1813 tracts and scriptures in Urdu, Hindoo, Persian, Sanskrit, Arabic, Bengalee, and Panjabi.

I ought to have mentioned that I received a small quantity of Panjabi tracts, and two or three Urdu gospels, as specimens, from our American friends of Ludiana, who passed through this some weeks ago, and gave us much pleasure by their company. Brother Porter kindly preached for me on a Wednesday and the following Sabbath; and I pray that his close and earnest address may do good. They have a Bengalee assistant, a valuable man, and, I trust, a truly converted soul.

Extract of a letter from Rev. Adoniram Judson, dated Maulmain, 25th December, 1840.

The revision and printing of the Burman Bible was finished on the 24th October last—and a happy day of relief and joy it was to me. I have bestowed more time and labour on the revision, than on the first translation of the work. Long and toilsome research among the Biblical critics and commentators, especially the German, was frequently requisite to satisfy my mind, that my first position was the right one. Considerable improvement has I trust, been made, both in point of style and approximation to the real meaning of the original. * * * The testimony of those acquainted with the language, is rather encouraging. At least I hope, that I have laid a good foundation for my successors to build upon. * * * I rejoice in the formation of the Bible Translation Society in England—and in the continued prosperity of the American and Foreign Bible Society. I verily believe, that it was by the special providence of God, that the old Bible Societies were left to take the unjustifiable course they did, in order that the peculiar truths which distinguish the Baptist denomination, might be brought forward in a manner unprecedented and ultimately triumphant. O, the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God!

BIBLE TRANSLATION SOCIETY.

The First Anniversary of this Society was held at New Park-street Chapel, London, on Friday evening, the 30th April. Every part of this spacious edifice was crowded by a most respectable auditory. W. T. BERRY, Esq. the Treasurer, took the chair.

The Rev. E. STEANE read the Report, which commenced by stating the necessity which existed for the formation of the Society, and that since it entered upon a sphere of labour from which other Bible Societies had withdrawn, it was not their rival, much less their opponent. Resolutions approving of its formation had been passed at twenty-four associations, comprising an aggregate of more than 700 churches. A communication had been received from the American and Foreign Bible Society, expressing their satisfaction at the formation of this Institution, and they had since transmitted to it the sum of 1,032*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* Aid had been afforded in the completion of 85,000 books, consisting of the whole, or portions, of the Word of God: and to 46,500 now in progress. The receipts had been upwards of 2000*l.*, in addition to the sum sent from America, of which 1,500*l.* had been remitted to India through the Baptist Missionary Society.

Rev. D. WALSAL, of Bath, in moving the first resolution, said,—I have been a silent, though not an uninterested attendant on all the meetings during the week previous to the one now convened, and have heard observations from time to time upon those matters which affected the progress of the Societies whose anniversaries we have attended, and by which, I feel assured, we have all been so much delighted and profited. Whether incidentally or by design I know not, but I have thought the arrangement of those meetings peculiarly happy. We began with attending to the claims of home, and by some forcible statements we were reminded that home was the place where we should first let flow the streams of our charity, and that to overlook home, to go after other and distant objects, was to be under the influence of secondary emotions, and not to act from first principles. After that we were directed to the claims of Ireland, which may be considered a part of our home. After that, we were yesterday particularly directed to the claims of foreign climes, and now, I presume, we have, just as a parting exercise, to contemplate this evening a Society which looks favourably in its spirit and in its principles, on both home and foreign operations—and that, as has been well said in the Report, “It is antagonist to none; friendly to all existing institutions.” It has been long my conviction, that we must attend to our home population in religious matters, in order to prove that we are true Britons; that we must attend to our Irish population, in order to prove that we are true Protestants—and that we must attend to foreign operations, in order to prove that we are true Christians, the followers of him who spoke first of Jerusalem, and then spoke a word of mercy concerning all nations. We are now about to attend to the claims of the Bible Translation Society. And here I have one remark to make. It has always been very astonishing to me that, in the estimation of some sort of persons, and of all sorts of persons, the denomination to which we have the honour to belong, has been considered half-sighted, short sighted, and selfish, folding itself within its own bosom, and circle, and interest, unmindful of any thing great, noble and generous, stripped of every warm feeling and generous friendship, as those who recognised the existence of no brotherhood or brethren in any part of the globe, either at home or abroad. And yet, while this feeling has been so general, it has happened, in the kind providence of God, that men from our body have been among the most enlarged, philanthropic, and most original in their designs, and the most benevolent and expansive in their plans of any of the servants of our Lord Jesus Christ. And I think when we feel assured that an opinion so contrary to facts is spread abroad against us, it becomes us always, or as often as we have opportunity to report progress. We all very well remember that it was the members of our body who projected, on a most noble scale, the thought and the practice of missions to the East. Running down from that period to the present, we find the members of the Baptist body projecting, in the East, the noble design of giving to all the people, in their own tongue, the blessed word of inspiration. We find also, looking for a moment at home, that a member of our body projected the most noble design of giving the Bible to all, in British and in foreign dominions. And we find, also, that the members of the Baptist body have projected, or brought to light, the principle of giving this word of God, most seriously and prayerfully, and according to the principles of a faithful version of that holy word, into whatever language that word shall be translated. Now, these I hold to be great things. They are things which, so far as they may originate in any body, will be sure to extend their influence over every body of Christians. They are things which involve principles pregnant with all sorts of good, and which may be carried out to any extent by those who approve of them, in the North, in the South, in the East, and in the West. It ought to be borne in mind, that it has pleased God so to constitute our minds, that we give voluntarily greater honour to the projectors of a noble design than to the executors of it; and that we do this according to principles which seem to appertain to our intellectual nature; and that all those who project a noble and a godlike design, stand in the same relation to those who execute it, as the mighty sublime wave that ploughs from the vasty deep the pearl or gem, stands in relation to those other waves, each lessening in their volume, which convey it at last to shore. Such honour, I hold, have the men which belong to our body. Such men were Thomas, and Carey, and Pearce, and Fuller, and Yates, and others: some now in this very house of God, have shared in this great glory. They are above all praise, praise-worthy; and they may feel assured, however they may be viewed, or however their conduct may be received among men, that great is their reward in heaven. I think this Society is one of very great importance; and the more its branches may be considered—the more the world which lies before it may be contemplated—the more fully shall we be persuaded that it is one that must not have our cold approval merely, but that must demand the warmest energies of our mind in its promotion, and the largest contribution of our purses for sustaining the operations in which it may engage. I feel confident that it is impossible to recognise the principle on which this Society stands, the principle of giving faithful translations of the Holy Word of our God to the nations of the East, and to any other nation, without enlisting our most cordial approbation in its behalf. Its necessity is equal to the importance of the Word of God itself, for no version can be supposed to be the Word of God which is not faithful. And if there be a necessity to circulate his Holy Word, that necessity implies another, that with prayerful attention, and the use of all the means which a gracious Providence bestows upon us, we should be directed to that point, that nothing shall be added thereto, that nothing shall be taken therefrom—but as the Father of all mercies has given us the Word, so it shall be considered an inviolable word to which we do well to take heed for the guidance of our own steps, and that it may be a light to the feet, and a lamp unto the path of those who are sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death. I feel no kind of sympathy with those individuals who imagine that the existence of this Society needs a lengthened apology. When we look at the actual necessity of a world famishing for the Bread of Life, I feel that there is not only a necessity for this Society, but for a hundred such, if it be the will of God. When we consider that there must be 900 millions of inhabitants on the face of the earth, and that as yet only 40 millions of copies of the Word of God have been distributed amongst them by all the instrumentality which has been employed—when we consider that it would take on this principle 660 years to supply the families of the earth, each consisting of five individuals, with a single copy of that Word—and when we consider the perishable nature of the article we distribute (for “books grow old, and the worms eat them”)—when we consider all this, need I ask what men on earth, what society of men, should have any monopoly either in the printing or distribution of God’s Holy Word. Tell me not that any men shall look on me with jealousy for desiring to bear a part with them in circulating this Word. I say they are sectarian if they do. I say their principles are not so pure as they might be if they do. If the object be to give to the perishing millions of the world the Bread of Life, I think they would hail every man, every set of men, that felt desirous to promote this great, this godlike cause, and bid him God speed in the name of our God. If it be not so, it would not deter me from any efforts I may feel disposed to make, and so far from considering this Society as a rival of any, I think it is a most needed one. Would to God there were a hundred such, acting on the same godlike principle of desiring to give the pure Word of God, by which alone men can be saved! Oh, this principle is dear to my own heart, and as I think I have seen something of that truth whereby my own soul shall be saved, as I feel the blessedness of that Word which is sweeter than honey and more precious than gold, my desire and prayer to God will be, “Send out thy light and thy truth, O God, that they may lead men to thy holy sanctuary, to thy footstool of mercy, there to receive the blessing of an endless life.” I feel that we ought to enter most deeply and seriously into the principle on which this Society stands, and in the temper of that principle to act out, as far as God’s providence may direct us, that principle, so as ultimately to cause the most glorious results. We know that in the Reformation, or in the doing of any great work, the minds of the best of men have always been so contracted that they have not seen the ultimate object to which their principles would lead. We know that this was particularly the case with the immortal Reformer, Luther, for he verily thought he would reform the Church in which he remained, rather than sever from it; but he acted upon those principles which had first enlightened his understanding—he knew of his doctrine that it was of God—and, acting under the dictates of his conscience, he followed the light of heaven; and though that light led him in a thorny path, he saw it more and more clearly to be the path marked by Infinite Wisdom; and the principles upon which he had embarked led him further to sacrifice all other feelings and considerations, until he came forth in the evolution of that glorious principle so oft repeated, and which may God give us ever highly to esteem—“The Bible, and the Bible alone, is the religion of Protestants.” Little did he think that his principles would so conduct him; and, whatever may be the present designs of this Society—not to say any thing as to the origin or necessity of it—God make it a willing burden which he has put on us by the necessity which created it. The Lord give us clean hands and a stout heart, that we may carry to its utmost extent, as his Divine light shall make our path clear to us, this most glorious principle; and then what is to be done? There is a great work before us; there are millions of individuals that are now open to us to receive our versions, especially in the East—so hungering after the Bread of Life, that our missionaries are obliged to conceal the box which contains the books, sent to them with so niggardly a hand. I believe there is much of standing opposed to us in this world. I believe there is a very great deal to be done before we shall see the desire of our hearts and the purposes of Heaven realized. I believe there are many things to which we must attend more sedulously, and in the spirit of prayer, and in dependence upon God, before we shall see the light of Divine truth go forth as the morning, and the righteousness of our God as the noon-day sun. If we remember that there are at the present time 630 millions, all of them recognising the vile tradition of men, in the room and stead of God’s Holy Word—if we remember that there are 180 millions of Mahometans, all reading, believing, and trusting in an apocryphal revelation—if we remember that there are 12 millions of Jews, all stumbling at the Divine truths set forth in the Holy Scriptures, because they reject the New Testament, that Divine light by which the Old alone can be understood—if we remember that there are millions of individuals under the Papal sway, to whom indeed may be given both Testaments of God's redeeming mercy—but to whom it is given in a corrupted version, such as the people themselves care not to understand—and if we remember that in our own more immediate neighbourhood, in Ireland and in England, there are those who for ages have given the Word of God in this form, surely we must feel the necessity of circulating the pure and unmutated Word of Truth, that the tolling of the curfew bell may not put out all light, but that the glorious Gospel of the blessed God may shine in among them, that the hideous features of the Mother of Harlots may be revealed to those who adore and trust in her for guidance and salvation. Though they may attempt to blind their votaries to this enormity, and though a new body may rise up to try their skill in making this Mother of Harlots attractive to the eyes of ourselves, our children, and our friends, although there may be that which has been wittily styled, "The New-mania of Oxford,"—although these men and others may exercise all their art in pasting, and patching, and painting, and giving a new cut, to bring her again before an adoring multitude—and though they may try to make her meet for the keen observers of brighter days and less odious to purer minds, her hideous features shall be disclosed, and the Word of God shall reveal her as one who has done more mischief to his truth and to his people, and against whom the imprecations of the people of God shall rise up until He comes forth and gives them the privilege of seeing even the Mother of Harlots, and all those that preach another gospel, which is not another, yield to the gradual development of the plans of the Redeemer, and the growing light which shall make manifest the hidden works of darkness, and of hearing that voice, which speaks in a hundred tongues, shake the earth and heaven, making known the things that can be known, and introducing the glorious kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ; which may He hasten in his own time by the instrumentality of his servants; taking care to give us some humble though honourable part in this work for advancing his cause and kingdom, by the circulation of the faithful and pure Word of God among the nations of the earth. I beg to move—

"That the Report now read be adopted, printed, and circulated under the direction of the Committee."

SOCIETIES AUXILIARY

TO THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The following list of Auxiliary Societies has received several corrections and additions since our last annual report. The names have been alphabetically arranged, and the date of the formation or recognition of each has been affixed with all practicable accuracy. In our next report we shall endeavour to give the total amount contributed by each Society, together with the names of the Presidents, Secretaries and Treasurers. We take this opportunity again to request that the names of existing Societies, with their officers, not found in the following list, and of such as shall hereafter be formed, may be immediately transmitted to the Corresponding Secretary.

MINISTERS DIRECTORS FOR LIFE,

BY A CONTRIBUTION OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS AND UPWARDS.

NOTE.—To the following list several directors and members for life have been added, who, although constituted such at an early period after the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, have not before been published in our annual reports. This has not been owing to any culpable delinquency on the part of the agents or officers of the Society to whom, in some instances, the payments were made, but to the peculiar circumstances of the institution in the incipient stage of its operations. And in this connexion it is due to the Rev. A. Maclay, one of our first and most successful agents, to state that all his accounts of collections have been kept with great accuracy, and duly reported to the Treasurer, in which the General Agent, since he has had an opportunity to examine them, has found the names of several life directors and life members, which are now for the first time inserted in the list. There are doubtless several others whose payments have been made through auxiliary societies, without any information of the fact having been communicated to the officers of the parent society.

The Treasurers of auxiliaries in transmitting funds to the General Agent and Assistant Treasurer of the American and Foreign Bible Society, are particularly requested to report correctly the names of life directors and life members, with their post-office address, that the annual reports of the Society may be forwarded to them.

In the following tables the names and post-office address may not in every instance be correct, yet it is the best that could be done with the information and materials in the possession of the General Agent.

ADDENDA.

Below are the names of a few Life Directors and Life Members which have been found by the General Agent since the foregoing tables were made up so as to preclude their insertion in the proper place.

Should any errors or omissions be detected in the tables, we wish to be informed of it, that the proper corrections may be made in the next report.

All the members of the American and Foreign Bible Society are of course regarded as its friends and patrons; and on their agency to a considerable extent, the Managers rely for continued and increased support. It is therefore desirable that we should have a correct list of their names and post offices, that they may be furnished regularly with the Reports of the Society, and thus have the means of communicating important information to others, that a proper stimulus to action may be kept up, new interest awakened and fresh zeal excited.

LIFE DIRECTORS.

Rev. Charles Felder, Liberty, Mi. by his own subscription.

" Jesse Young, do. " do.

" John G. Oncken, Hamburg, Germany, by the second Baptist ch. Groton, Con.

10 And he was teaching in one of the Synagogues on the Sabbath.

11 ¶ And behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thy infirmity.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the Synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the Sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the Sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, to these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 ¶ Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree: and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

22 And he went through the cities and villages, teaching and journeying towards Jerusalem.

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, 24 ¶ Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

25 When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us, and he shall answer, and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence you are: depart from me all ye workers of iniquity.

28 There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the Prophets in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out.

29 And they shall come from the East, and from the West, and from the North, and from the South, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.

30 And behold, there are last, which shall be first; and there are first, which shall be last.

31 ¶ The same day there came certain of the Pharisees, saying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence; for Herod will kill thee.

32 And he said unto them, Go ye and tell that Fox, behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to day and to morrow, and the third day I shall be perfected.

33 Nevertheless, I must walk to day and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a Prophet perish out of Jerusalem.

34 O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the Prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not?

35 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. And verily I say unto you, ye shall not see me, until the time come when ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

Christ teacheth humility.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the Sabbath day, that they watched him.

2 And behold, there was a certain man before him, which had the dropsy.

3 And Jesus answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go.

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day?

6 And they could not answer him again to these things.

7 ¶ And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he mark-given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed, to you it shall be for meat :

30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat : and it was so.

31 And God saw every thing that he had made : and behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

CHAP. II.

The first Sabbath.

THUS the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

2 And on the seventh day God ended his work, which he had made : And he rested on the seventh day from all his work, which he had made.

3 And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it : because that in it he had rested from all his work, which God created and made.

4 ¶ These are the generations of the heavens, and of the earth, when they were created ; in the day that the LORD God made the earth, and the heavens,

5 And every plant of the field, before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field, before it grew : for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground.

6 But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life ; and man became a living soul.

8 ¶ And the LORD God planted a garden eastward in Eden ; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food : the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

11 The name of the first is Pison : that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold.

12 And the gold of that land is good : There is Bdellium and the Onyx stone.

13 And the name of the second river is Gihon : the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia.

14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel : that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria : and the fourth river is Euphrates.

15 And the LORD God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dress it, and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat.

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it : for in the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die.

18 ¶ And the LORD God said ; It is not good that the man should be alone : I will make him a help meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air, and brought them unto Adam, to see what he would call them : and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field : but for Adam there was not found a help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept ; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof.

22 And the rib which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh : she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man.

24 Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife : and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

CHAP. III.

The serpent deceiveth Eve.

NOW the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field, which the LORD God had made, and he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden ?

2 And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden :

him in a sepulchre, which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre.

47 And Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James beheld where he was laid.

CHAP. XVI.

1 An Angel declareth the resurrection of Christ to three women. 9 Christ himself appeareth to Mary Magdalene: 12 to two going into the country: 14 then, to the Apostles, 15 whom he sendeth forth to preach the Gospel: 19 and ascendeth into heaven.

AND when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

2 And very early in the morning, the first day of the week they came unto the sepulchre, at the rising of the sun:

3 And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4 (And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away) for it was very great.

5 And entering into the sepulchre; they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment, and they were affrighted.

6 And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted; ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen, he is not here: behold the place where they laid him.

7 But go your way, tell his disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him, as I said unto you.

8 And they went out quickly and fled from the sepulchre, for they trembled, and were amazed; neither said they any thing to any man, for they were afraid.

9 ¶ Now when Jesus was risen early, the first day of the week he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

10 And she went and told them that had been with her, as they mourned and wept.

11 And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

12 ¶ After that, he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

13 And they went and told unto the residue, neither believed they them.

14 ¶ Afterward he appeared unto the eleven, as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief, and hardness of heart, because they believed not him, which had seen him after he was risen.

15 And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature.

16 He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved, but he that believeth not, shall be damned.

17 And these signs shall follow them that believe, In my Name shall they cast out devils, they shall speak with new tongues

PREAMBLE AND CONSTITUTION

OF THE

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

WHEREAS the inspired Scriptures, the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, are the only authoritative Divine Standard, containing the revelation of God for the whole human family: And whereas the council of Trent, in 1546, declares that a Latin translation, called the Vulgate, "shall be held as authentic, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever," and the Rheinish Testament was translated from the Vulgate into English in 1582,—the translators declaring that the Vulgate "is not only better than all other Latin translations, but than the Greek text itself in those places where they disagree;" which assumptions have been generally repudiated by all enlightened Christians, not in the Romish church;—

And whereas, The American Bible Society, in 1836, approved of the following resolution, viz :

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing, or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform to the principle of their translation to the Common English Version; at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this Society can consistently use and circulate said versions in their several schools and communities."

The remonstrants against this resolution, believing it to be a virtual abandonment of the great principle of Protestantism, and the adoption of that of the Council of Trent, as well as a departure from the basis of the original compact of the Society, which states their object to be, "the dissemination of the Scriptures in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required," and having in vain taken every Christian measure to prevent its passage and enforcement, were constrained to form, provisionally in 1836, and fully organize in 1837, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY: FOUNDED UPON THE PRINCIPLE, that the originals in the Hebrew and Greek are the only authentic standards of the Sacred Scriptures; and that aid for the translating, printing, or distributing of them in foreign languages, should be afforded to such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text; it being understood that no words are to be transferred which are susceptible of being literally translated.

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. The name of this Society shall be, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually shall be a member.

ART. IV. Each contributor of thirty dollars at one time shall be a member for life.

ART. V. Each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars shall be a life director, and such life directors as are members in good standing in their respective churches, shall be members of the Board.

ART. VI. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society, shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such Societies shall be ex officio directors of this.

ART. VII. A Board of thirty-six Managers shall be appointed to conduct the business of the Society, twenty-four of whom shall reside in the city of New-York, or its vicinity; the whole Board to be elected annually by the Society, and to hold their office until superseded by a new election. The Board shall have power to fill such vacancies as may occur in their number.

ART. VIII. The President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Board.

ART. IX. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, five of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. X. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life, or directors for life.

ART. XI. At the meetings of the Society, and of the Board of Managers, the President, or, in his absence, the Vice President first upon the list then present, and in the absence of all the Vice-Presidents, the Treasurer, and in his absence, such member as shall be chosen for that purpose, shall preside.

ART. XII. The Annual meeting of the Society shall be held at New-York, on the day before the last Wednesday in April in each year, or at any other time or place at the option of the Society; when the accounts of the Treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year, by the members entitled to vote on the Treasurer's books the beginning of the said month.

ART. XIII. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call a special meeting of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given.

ART. XIV. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XV. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Society celebrated its Eighth Anniversary on Tuesday, April 29th, 1845, in the Meeting House of the First Baptist Church, Providence, R. I.

The Society was called to order by the President, at 9 o'clock, A. M. After singing and reading part of the 28th of Matthew, brother Alfred Bennett of New-York engaged in prayer. Brother Lathrop was appointed Recording Secretary, pro tem.

Brethren G. S. Webb of Pa. ; E. Tucker of N. Y. ; W. C. Duncan, of Miss. ; E. B. Smith of N. H. ; R. W. Cushman of Mass. ; L. H. Moore of Mich. ; and S. J. Drake of N. J. were appointed a Committee to nominate officers and managers for the ensuing year.

While the Committee on Nominations were preparing their Report, devotional exercises were continued. Brethren B. Stow, of Mass. ; J. H. Kennard, of Phila., and J. S. Eaton, of Maine, leading in prayer.

The nominating Committee reported the following list of officers and managers for the ensuing year, who were unanimously elected. (See page 3.)

Typographical error in date, and verbal inaccuracy in the decree of the Council of Trent, quoted in the preamble to the Constitution, ordered to be corrected.

Public exercises commenced at 10 o'clock, A. M. Bro. Jno. Peck, of N. Y., read the 55th chapter of Isaiah, and bro. J. B. Jeter, of Va. offered prayer.

The Treasurer's Report was read, and on motion of R. W. Martin, of N. Y., seconded by Henry Marchant, of R. I., it was adopted, and ordered to be printed.

The President then addressed the Society.

The Corresponding Secretary then read an abstract of the Annual Report.

On motion of Rev. W. W. Everts, of N. Y., seconded by Rev. R. H. Neale, of Boston, it was

Resolved, That the Report, an abstract of which has now been read, be printed and circulated under the direction of the Board of Managers.

On motion of brother Wm. Dean, Missionary to China—seconded by brother J. H. Campbell, of Georgia, it was

Resolved, That, whereas Divine Providence has graciously opened before this Society the vast empire of China, as a field for Bible Distribution, where 360,000,000 of the human family, amid the prevalence of numerous dialects, may nevertheless in one language, read the word of God, it becomes the duty and the high privilege of the Churches to co-operate in the labors of the American and Foreign Bible Society, by their fervent supplications, and liberal benefactions.

On motion of brother Eugenio Kincaid, Missionary to Burmah—seconded by brother Adam Wilson, of Maine, it was

Resolved, That the fundamental and distinguishing principle of this Society, requiring faithful, intelligible translations of God's word, instead of unmeaning and Foreign transfers, ought to make it dear to all the friends of Missions to the Heathen.

On motion of bro. E. Tucker, seconded by bro. R. Babcock, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the brethren who had addressed the meeting, be requested to furnish copies of their addresses for publication with the Annual Report.

Time and place of the next Annual Meeting of the Society left with the Board of Managers.

Adjourned. Benediction by the President.

EDWARD LATHROP, Rec. Sec'y, pro tem.

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT.

MEMBERS AND FRIENDS OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY: I esteem myself happy in the opportunity of addressing you upon the present occasion, in the place where Roger Williams found a refuge from sectarian persecution and proscription. Existing circumstances render it peculiarly proper to advert, at this time, and upon this spot, to the principles and conduct of that extraordinary man. His name will be handed down to the latest ages, as one of the great benefactors of his race, when the unjust and selfish policy of his oppressors shall be remembered only to be wondered at and condemned.

Roger Williams abandoned his home, and friends, and native land, for conscience-sake. A fugitive from English bigotry and misrule, he arrived in Massachusetts in the year 1635, expecting there to enjoy the liberty of worshipping God without restraint; in humble reliance upon the aid of his Holy Spirit, and in accordance with the directions of his written word. He was then but little more than thirty years of age; yet, young as he was, says the candid and American-hearted historian, Bancroft, "his mind had already matured a doctrine, which secures him an immortality of fame, as its application has given religious peace to the American world. His wrongs had not clouded his accurate understanding; in the capacious recesses of his mind he had revolved the nature of intolerance, and he, and ~~HE~~ HE ALONE, had arrived at the great principle which is its sole, effectual remedy. He announced his discovery under the simple proposition of the sanctity of conscience. This was the great tenet which, with all its consequences, he defended, as he first trod the shores of New England; and in his extreme old age it was the last pulsation of his heart. He was the first person in modern christendom to assert in its plenitude, the doctrine of the liberty of conscience, and in its defence he was the harbinger of Milton, the precursor and the superior of Jeremy Taylor." Such is the eloquent language of one whose testimony is founded upon documentary evidence, and who cannot, in this instance, be even suspected of denominational bias.

The urbanity of his manners, and the preciousness of his ministerial gifts, soon made way for him, and the people of Salem earnestly desired him to preach among them the unsearchable riches of Christ. With their request he cheerfully and promptly complied, but the Court in Boston interposed their authority to prevent his settlement. The sentiments of Roger Williams had already excited the most implacable hostility, and every effort was made to silence him, or change his views: but with unyielding fortitude he maintained the position he had so clearly defined, and so boldly taken. His christian friends, overawed by the arm of civil power, left him to fight the battle single-handed; and in this extremity even his wife took sides against him, and his domestic peace was interrupted. Still this man of God stood fast in the Lord, and in the power of his might; declaring his willingness to be bound, or beaten with stripes; to be banished, or even put to death, rather than give up one jot or tittle of the principles he had proclaimed. The sequel is soon told : might often makes right, in the history of this world. Roger Williams was banished, and finding that his persecutors were making arrangements to lay violent hands upon him and send him out of the country, before the day arrived when his sentence was to take effect, he left Salem in haste and secrecy, about the middle of January, 1636, to wander in the dreary wilderness. In a letter written many years afterwards, he says, "I was sorely tossed for fourteen weeks, in a bitter winter season, not knowing what bread or bed did mean"; and during the remainder of his life he appears to have suffered from the effects of this cruel exposure. The God of Providence brought him finally to this spot. Here he met with that kindness and hospitality from the red men of the forest, which were denied him by the professing followers of the Lamb. "The barbarous heart of Canonicus, the chief of the Naragansetts, loved him as his son to the last gasp." Large grants of land were made to him by the aborigines. Old friends from Massachusetts, and others panting after the possession of religious liberty, soon clustered around his peaceful abode. He might have made himself a chief, and exercised lordship over them, but no ! his principles were proof against the smiles of prosperity, as they had been against the frowns of adversity. He established a Commonwealth upon the pure principles of democracy, "where all civil power should be exercised by the people alone, and where God should be the only ruler over the conscience." He set an example which exerted a mighty influence upon neighboring colonies, and resulted in the formation of our happy national government. Christians of every name should be reminded of the obligations they owe to God, for the principles and conduct of Roger Williams. But for these, the descendants of the Puritans might yet have been employed in burning, for witches, helpless and inoffensive old women ; or in whipping, fining, imprisoning, banishing or murdering Quakers and Anabaptists, (falsely so called,) for no other reason than their obstinately refusing "to receive for doctrine the commandments of men." When thinking of that first of American Baptists, in connexion with PROVIDENCE, I cannot refrain from exclaiming—

Oh, call this holy ground !
The soil where Williams trod,
Here he left unstained, what here he found,
FREEDOM TO WORSHIP GOD.

The principle upon which the American and Foreign Bible Society is founded, is identical with that which distinguished Roger Williams, and we can yield it only with our lives. THE BIBLE FAITHFULLY TRANSLATED ; and as a necessary consequence, the indispensable duty of giving it, thus translated, to all the dwellers upon earth, as far as means and opportunity are afforded, are the pillars of our Institution : and the Christian who would deliberately overturn them, has travelled farther in the direct road to Rome than he perhaps suspects.

At the last anniversary I had occasion to inform you, that for want of a charter the Society had lost several thousand dollars bequeathed by its friends ; that several thousands more were in jeopardy ; and that our application to the legislature of New-York for an act of incorporation, had been twice defeated by the friends of the American Bible Society. It is now my painful task to add, that our efforts to procure a charter have been again frustrated by the same friends; and that, too, in the use of agencies utterly inconsistent with the generous spirit of Christian charity. Instead of opposing, they should have aided us to attain our object; because they have unjustly deprived us of all participation in the funds and privileges of the old Society—they owe us reparation; because we aided heartily in obtaining their charter, and they are fully aware that without our help, such charter never could have been secured—they owe us gratitude; and, above all, because our single purpose is the circulation of the word of God among our fellow-men—the revelation of the Most High, “bringing life and immortality to light!” Those who hinder us in this work of faith and labor of love, do it at their peril; let them take heed lest they be found fighting, not against men merely, but against God; let them ask themselves whether the spirit of intolerance and proscription they have manifested in this matter, be not precisely that spirit which drove out Roger Williams from the habitations of white men, and gave him over to rude winter’s blast, and the tender mercies of American savages!

With reference to our position before the legislature, I have only to say, we solicit no special favor. We ask a charter upon the ground of EQUAL RIGHTS, as Americans, and esteem ourselves as fully entitled to the privilege, as any of our fellow-citizens. Some of the members of the House opposed our bill because they did not approve of the versions we publish; but really we must think they travelled out of the record. We ask what article of the constitution confers upon the legislature the power to decide upon the accuracy of biblical translations? If they have this power, the next legitimate step would be, to deny the right of private judgment, and to enforce ministerial uniformity of doctrine, with the usual amount of pains and penalties. But this may not be in these United States. And last of all, our title must be changed to please our unrelenting opposers. We have done business under it for eight years; hundreds of thousands of bibles, in various languages, bear our imprint; thousands of certificates of life directors and members have been issued, and we are known by our original name in the four quarters of the globe; and yet some Pedobaptists insist upon its being changed; though to their honor many, and I would hope most, even of their own brethren disapprove this opposition. It deserves special notice, that the utmost efforts have not been able to show any pecuniary loss resulting to either Society from the similarity of names, during the nine years which they have been in simultaneous operation. There is room enough for both organizations, and active, healthful competition, is not incompatible with brotherly co-operation.

After all, we have great reason to thank God and take courage. Opposition, which has been purely Pedobaptist, has produced discussion, and Bible sentiments have been thereby elicited. Error is never to be dreaded, when truth is left free to combat it. Ultimate victory is certain. The principle involved in this conflict is so clear and scriptural, that the more closely it is examined, the more conspicuous it becomes. Like the diamond, it shines the more brightly the greater the friction to which it is subjected.

EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT.

With unfeigned gratitude to our Heavenly Father, for preserving our lives, cementing our union, and very considerably enlarging the means of usefulness at our disposal, the Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society present this Eighth Annual Report. In reviewing the operations of the past year, there is much to deepen our humility, to encourage our hope, and to stimulate our most persevering efforts. During this annual revolution a great company of immortal beings have been hurried to their final account, unblest with a knowledge of that glorious gospel which the Saviour required to be published to every creature; and in anticipation of soon meeting them before the judgment seat, and especially of standing with them before Him who has solemnly enjoined on us to proclaim to them the glad tidings, we feel deeply and painfully, that humiliation before God becomes us. But when we regard those encouraging indications of divine Providence, which cheer us with enlarged facilities for doing the work assigned us, and especially when we are permitted to see on an extensive scale that our labors are not in vain in the Lord, the power of an inspiriting hope nerves us for more vigorous endeavors to spread abroad the holy and inspired word of life to the remotest dwellings of mankind. This, we are assured by Him whose promise is immutable, shall not return void, but issue in the glory of the Redeemer, whose kingdom is everlasting and whom all shall serve and obey. This kingdom he has described as not coming with observation; it is not carried forward by the wind, the earthquake, the fire, but by the still small voice,—by the diffusion of the truth, which silently leavens the whole mass with which it is brought in contact.

For reasons stated at considerable length in the last report, more than our accustomed endeavors have been put forth in some parts of our country to awaken the interest of the churches, and call forth their liberality and active efforts in the work of supplying the destitute in the midst of us with the sacred scriptures. An agency for this purpose has been employed in North Carolina, where we had reason to believe many were unsupplied; and the intention has been to engage the active zeal of a sufficient number in each Association, to complete the work in the shortest practicable period. In Maine also, means have been used to form an auxiliary in each Association, with a primary in every church, and thus secure the universal co-operation of those who profess to approve the distinguishing principle of our society. The labor in both these states has been chiefly preliminary, and the results of it will appear, it is hoped, in future years.

In the remaining part of New-England, and the Middle states, nearly the same plan has been pursued as in former years, except that in some sections much more labor has been devoted to those from whom little could be expected in return, and where the cultivation of the benevolent principle, with the supply of the destitute, were more the object than to secure any considerable amount of funds.

In the other Southern Atlantic states, till very near the end of the year, no agency was employed except what was performed at the instance of State Auxiliary Societies. In the South Western states the Corresponding Secretary made a brief tour, and has opened the way for accomplishing much in some of them another year. So also, in the North Western states something encouraging has been accomplished, though by no means all that was desired, and that may be hoped for in future.

This cursory view (and for one much more minute and detailed see Periodical Paper No. 22, issued in September last,) may well suggest the remark, that if the plan of entire and thorough cultivation of the home field is to be attempted, as intimated in the last report, a vastly enlarged system of agency must be employed. Perhaps all that the Society will expect of its Board of Managers is to make approximations each year towards this comprehensive design, with the intention and hope of reaching it at a comparatively early period. It has never been intended to push forward this object unduly in advance of kindred benevolent operations, or to allow it to impede them. On the other hand it is believed that intelligent, consistent, persevering efforts in this behalf, will greatly facilitate all other evangelical enterprises, and thus hasten the accomplishment of those purposes of mercy which are dear to every pious heart.

The following tabular view will present a sufficiently detailed statement of the amount accomplished in each state and territory the last year.

AGENCIES.

Four agents, viz.: Rev. Messrs. A. Maclay, H. Seaver, B. H. Clift, and G. E. Tucker, have been constantly in our employ, through the last year. Rev. Messrs. Wescott and Fletcher, in

New-York ; Battle, in North Carolina ; Haynes, of Maine ; Cressy, of Ohio, and Dr. Wm. B. Johnson, of South Carolina, have each acted as our agent a portion of the year, amounting in the aggregate to about 20 months' service. Our tried friends, Rev. E. Kingsford, of Alexandria, and the venerable Elder L. Austin, of Northern Ohio, have rendered valuable services, chiefly gratuitous. The entire amount of agency thus performed in furtherance of the Society's objects, is nearly equal to six years' labor.

As intimated in our last report, we must specially crave the attention—of any beloved brethren who might be inclined inconsiderately to grudge so large an item of expense—to the important fact, that religious benefit to a vast amount results from this labor, over and above the direct pecuniary objects secured by it. As the agents go everywhere, preaching the word, as well as awakening interest and calling forth effort and enterprise for its distribution, an immense service is rendered to the cause of Christ, and the welfare of the churches. The general disposition evinced to welcome, yea to crave the renewed and prolonged visits of these laborious and self-denying men, is their best and highest encomium.

It shall continue to be the sedulous endeavor of our managers to commission and retain in this department none but those whose holy lives, and exemplary prudence and loveliness of deportment, will commend them to general confidence and esteem ; and we bespeak the co-operation of all who love this precious cause, in aiding to secure so important and difficult a result.

THE AUXILIARIES OF THE SOCIETY

Have this year been increased by the addition of sixty, as mentioned in the preceding table. This makes the whole number which have been recognised since the formation of the parent Society, three hundred. Several however, which have stood on our lists for a considerable time, without having given any indication of vitality or healthful action, have this year been stricken off. In some instances we have obtained definite information, that through changes of plan, or by the existence of new and more convenient societies, the old organizations had been abandoned. In other instances, though nothing so satisfactory has been learned, it seemed unreasonable to presume on a continued existence and relation, when no decisive proofs are brought to our notice.

It may be the practice of other Bible societies, to some extent, to swell the lists of their recognised auxiliaries, by retaining the names of all that have ever sustained that relation. But it seems to us more in harmony with christian simplicity to count only the living, among our helpers.

We intend devoting special attention to all societies retained on our list, during the ensuing year ; and we respectfully solicit their aid, and that of all the agents and friends of the Society in rendering our future reports in this respect, more accurate and satisfactory.

We hail with pleasure the formation of several new Female Bible societies, Juvenile Bible societies, and Penny-a-Week Bible societies, in different parts of our country. May their number and efficiency be rapidly and widely increased.

The New York city Bible society, gives continued evidence of vigor and devotedness to this great and most worthy object ; and several others, as the Westchester and Putnam, the Yalobusha Co., Miss., and the Connecticut State Bible Society, deserve special mention, for the interest and persevering success which they have manifested.

RECEIPTS OF THE YEAR.

These it will be perceived, are larger than in any former year ; and indeed, except the first year after the complete organization of the society, when the hitherto unexampled liberality of Mr. Munn, in the donation of 8000 dollars to our treasury, very largely swelled the amount, the receipts of this year are not only larger than the last by 11,147 dollars, but larger than those of any other year by eight or nine thousand dollars. The analysis of these receipts, so far as the several states and territories are concerned, is presented with sufficient minuteness in the foregoing tabular view.

It may be proper however, to analyze the receipts on another principle, and to show as distinctly as possible, not only the section of country from which the various amounts come, but the organization or the absence of organization to which each rill is traceable, that has helped to fill this generous channel of religious beneficence.

The following legacies have been paid :

Of this sum less than 100 dollars were appropriated by the donors to the Burman, and to the Karen Scriptures, and about an equal amount to China. The remainder being undesignated by the Donors, was left to the discretion of the Board.

The entire receipts of the Society since its formation amount to the sum of $235,211 40. Of this amount, after paying all the expense of agencies, officers, rents, insurance, discounts, losses, postages, travelling expenses, and every item of incidental charge which has arisen in the prosecution of this enterprise, in the collection, transmission and disbursement of the funds, $131,342 have been devoted to the Foreign Distribution, and $49,743 to the Home supply of the sacred scriptures.

DISBURSEMENTS.

A much larger expenditure has been incurred the past year, for paper, printing, binding, and the purchase of such Bibles and Testaments as we could buy more economically than manufacture, than in any former year ; or than will usually be required. The necessity for it in this instance arose from the importance of having on hand, ready to meet the calls of our auxiliaries, an adequate amount and variety of books well seasoned, and there by more durable and satisfactory. With this view, in the early part of the year especially, larger editions than usual of all the more common kinds of Bibles and Testaments were printed ; so as to furnish our depository, more thoroughly and adequately than ever before. Many of these books have been ordered and sent to distant points of the Union, where agents and auxiliaries are engaged in their sale, or if indispensable, in their gratuitous distribution.

If it were practicable to dispense with the credit system entirely,—if all who require books from our depository, would accompany their orders with cash remittances to the full amount of their purchase,—the stock now on hand would replenish itself, as it might be called for, and very little more money would hereafter be demanded for publishing books than would be received in pay for them. This would at once free our treasury from a heavy drain upon it, and thus would enable us to appropriate a much larger proportion of all that comes into our hands, to aid in Foreign distribution, among degraded and unevangelized heathen. It is unquestionably true, that the Foreign department has ever been prominent with the majority of the contributors; and if our auxiliaries, and the other friends of the Society will free us from the necessity of crediting them for such supplies as they may order, the Board will feel the greatest happiness in husbanding as wisely as possible the means within their control, so as to give greater efficiency to the work of

FOREIGN DISTRIBUTION.

We begin with a notice of those Foreign fields where we co-operate with other societies. The earliest foreign appropriation made the last year was $2,500 to the Calcutta Baptist Missionaries, to enable them to complete the Sanscrit Bible, very carefully revised by Dr. Yates, whose qualifications for this important work, are universally esteemed as unequalled.

If his valuable life shall be spared to complete this great work, as well as his Bengali and Hindostani version of the entire scriptures, they will together form a monument to his praise, such as any one individual has rarely secured. Whether we take into account the myriads who speak those languages, the interesting circumstances under which they were first approached by the English Baptist Missionaries, the almost insurmountable difficulties which had to be overcome in the endeavor to communicate to them the salvation of the gospel, and those DIVINE RECORDS which authenticate and convey it, this pre-eminent interest will be awakened by the contemplation. True, the labors of Dr.

Yates may be regarded as those of revision chiefly, if not entirely. But when we remember how much of imperfection must necessarily have attached to the attempts of those who made the first experiments of translating into a language so unlike in structure and idiom to their mother tongue; when moreover the variety and number of the attempts made by the Serampore brethren are taken into the account, it will awaken no surprise, that a thorough revision, made as perfect as possible, should be a work of immense toil and responsibility, and that its successful execution should call forth many thanksgivings to God.

We have the testimony of our own Judson, after a quarter of a century's experience and observation, that his revision of the Burman Scriptures for a third edition costs him scarce less care and thorough discriminating investigation, than the first work of translation. It is in view of such evidences, ancient and modern, that some just conception may be formed of the requisite cost of furnishing the faithfully translated words of life for the nations of the earth.

The celebrated German translation of the entire Bible by Martin Luther, seems to have been a labor of fifteen years; and he was assisted in revising it, and closely comparing it with the original Hebrew and Greek, by Melancthon, Cruciger, Justus Jonas, John Bugenhagen and several other of the most eminent scholars of his time. The English version of the scripture in common use, may be regarded as the result of the labors and prayers of the most learned and pious in England, for more than seventy-six years; from 1535, when the whole Bible was first printed in English by Coverdale, to 1611, when the present version, or revision was completed. The first Dutch version was printed in 1560, and the present more satisfactory revision was completed at Leyden by sixteen of the most learned men in the country, in 1635. These examples, it has been justly remarked, may teach us what a laborious and difficult work it is to produce a version of the word of God, which is fit to be sent forth as a standard for any particular nation or language. They show the magnitude of the interests now confided to Bible Societies. If any regard this work as secondary and trifling, we can only pity the temerity of their judgments, or the inadequateness of their information. Hence too, the importance of right principles, on which to proceed in securing such versions as may be well pleasing to God, and most useful to those for whom they are prepared. The plan, proposed by some societies, of making conformity to such a production as the version which King James essentially marred by his unreasonable and despotic dictation, the rule of their approval; or the equally indefensible project of compromising the guide book of Jehovah, so as to make it speak a language equally acceptable to differing sects, seems monstrously sacrilegious and perverse. Sooner might you swear a witness to tell the whole truth, and then fetter him by the wishes and various preferences of the different parties in court. It is a highbanded, heaven-daring attempt to conform God's word to men's varying creeds and practices, instead of straightening these by His infinite rule of rectitude.

Though we have failed to receive "the fourth Annual Report" of the "Scriptures printed at Calcutta," a document we always peruse with lively interest—some casual notices of the operations of the press there, and of the distribution of portions of the word of God, in various parts of hither India, have been gleaned from the Calcutta Missionary Herald. The following appeared in the July No. :

"It is with great pleasure that we announce the speedy completion of the Old Testament in Bengali. It will probably be published at the commencement of August. We desire to express our heartfelt gratitude to God for having enabled his servants to bring that work to a happy conclusion. May the same Holy Spirit who dictated the word, accompany this translation of it with his saving efficacy."

The Rev. J. Williamson, of Birbhum, in recounting the services of the native brethren at that station, says, "they were from home attending the principal fairs in this district, about a month and a half; during which they delivered not less than a hundred addresses, and distributed with discretion 328 gospels."

In May of last year, after recapitulating some of the inroads of Popery, and the methods employed for distributing catholic pamphlets, the missionaries remark :

"In fact it is to be expected that the papal Antichrist will shortly bring his energies to bear not only upon the native Christians connected with the protestant missions but also upon the heathen population of Bengal. We would earnestly recommend to our brethren, to make this matter a subject of special prayer, and to redouble their efforts in spreading the word of God, that sword of the Spirit, before which neither the devil nor his emissaries can stand."

The Rev. J. T. Thompson, of Delhi, thus writes :

There are far more readers of the word throughout the country, than we have any idea of, as I have had frequent instances, this season, of persons who in former years got our books, and now brought them forward, or recited portions of them, in order to claim the fulfilment of a promise for larger portions of the word. Indeed, the age has passed away in the era of Missionary labor, for a single gospel and tract to carry out the purposes of the Missionary, and satisfy the thousand inquiries of the aroused native mind: the Missionaries who have gone to their rest, and those in the field, have contributed to work that age away. They met a shy, reserved people, full of superstition as of pride and contempt: they entreated, argued, reasoned, overcame one feeling, then another and another; got a hearing, obtained with much labor the promise to read, succeeded in placing a tract, a gospel, in the hands of one or more; rejoiced in this measure of success attending their labors, and prayers; and then, with the same means, sought to increase their circle of usefulness. They went out, attended the fairs, and strove to make way for the Saviour by the reception of a single gospel and tract; they have succeeded; the first reluctance has been overcome; curiosity, if not a desire to know God and be saved is excited, discussion is invited, the Missionary has need of more weapons than the historical statement in a single gospel; he longs to have the devotional volume to impress, the prophets to excite attention and promote inquiry, and the historical parts of scripture to increase the stock of information in his hearer's minds: and as the people who have heard him, and who have had his books, have done for each other what he did for a few, viz: called the attention and excited a spirit of inquiry in each other; the missionary finds as he goes abroad and appears at the fairs, that his preparatory work has been done for him in the minds of multitudes he had never seen. Hence he is assailed on all sides, not with, What have you to say? or, what will this babbler say? but, give us books, give us a large book, containing the whole account of Jesus, of your religion, of the things of salvation. He, not prepared to find the age before him, offers a single gospel to people he had never seen, and is told to his surprise, we have read that, we have got that; gives us something more. Here it is that the missionary finds himself at a stand: he has but a small number of volumes of the scriptures, to the extent, it may be, of a proportionate number of former recipients of the divine word, and he knows not how to give these away generally, and to persons whose esteem for the word not having been proved, he cannot confide a large volume at their first solicitation. Here then, it is, that the missionary needs help to enable him to keep pace with the age, with the excited and increased desires of the people; and he must be furnished with a greater number of large books than he has ever had, or run the chance of dissatisfying scores of applicants each day, and hundreds at each fair, and thereby crippling his labors, which ought now to take a different turn, as what he offers on the part of God should be in a more consolidated form.

The Rev. O. Leonard, of Dacca, presents the following cheering instance of good effected by the reading of a New Testament.

We have been visited by a Lucknow brahmin, who professed a desire to be instructed in the truths of the gospel, after which he had been long inquiring, being clearly convinced that both the Hindu and Mussulman creeds were false, and imposed upon the world by wicked and designing men, actuated by devils. He said that he had been invited, and strongly persuaded by many of the latter, to join their communion, but on close examination, he discovered that the religion which they professed was no better than that which he had abandoned, and that Muhammed, upon whom they placed so much dependence for salvation, was an acknowledged sinner, died, and was buried like other sinful men, and therefore could not save himself or his votaries at the great judgment day: he was then offered a large sum of money by the mullas, and one or two opulent Muhammedans, if he consented to join them, but as a matter of conscience, he rejected their proffer. This man has evidently read the scriptures with attention, quotes many passages relative to the incarnation, life, death, and resurrection of the Saviour.

He dwelt much upon his baptism, and the evidence of his godhead ; especially in the descent of the Holy Spirit upon him in the likeness of a dove. He also made very apt remarks upon the meekness, love, and spotless purity of the Saviour, which, including his miraculous powers, rendered it evident that he was the Son of God, and the Saviour of the world. He produced a copy of the New Testament, which appeared quite worn by constant use, and as well as I can recollect was received, a considerable time since, from some Missionary at Moorsshedabad, whose name he could not recollect. It was a Hindustani version, which he read fluently, and appeared to prize. I read the 3d chapter of the gospel of John with him, to which I discovered he was no stranger, especially the new birth ; in which he appeared to take a deep interest. He requested to have a son of his, a lad of about nine years of age, received into the Christian School, to which I readily assented.

The painful destitution still remaining around them, is thus spoken of by the same missionary :

Though nearly fifty years have passed since the first missionary set his foot in Bengal ; yet there are many places in this populous country, where the gospel has never been even once preached, nor a single portion of the word of God, nor even a tract delivered. There may yet be places, and I fear there are places, where the tidings of Christianity and the Bible have never been heard.

Our Board of Managers are exceedingly desirous of remitting, as in former years, a considerable sum to aid the issues of the sacred scriptures from the Calcutta press. Such inviting facilities as are there presented, ought to awaken increased zeal and liberality in this work of benevolence.

GERMANY,

Continues as in former years, to present an interesting field for bible distribution. The infirm health of our devoted brother Oncken for a part of the last year, and the suffering state of his family, have greatly impeded some of his operations. But on his renewed assurances of his desire and ability to carry forward this work, and on the application of the Baptist Board of Foreign Missions in his behalf, $1200 have been devoted to this field, the last year, besides the $1000 which will be paid for the stereotype plates of a large 8vo. bible, with marginal references, now in course of completion.

In the annual report of printing and distributing scriptures in Germany and Denmark, the past year, after stating some reasons for procuring stereotype plates of our own for a large 8vo. edition of the bible with references, brother Oncken thus proceeds :

There are, however, other powerful reasons why the A. and F. B. S. should adopt my proposition. The efforts of the Edinburgh Bible Society have greatly decreased during the last five years, and but for the generous assistance of your Society, the work would have been much retarded. I consider, therefore, that God, in his providence, is pointing the A. and F. B. Society to this field of labor, the more so, as in his good providence he has raised up a christian agency in the formation of our churches, by which the word of God can be circulated, without incurring any expense, and in a manner somewhat corresponding with the importance of the work.

As far as I can see, the issuing of a bible for your Society would in no way raise any bad feeling against the cause in which we are engaged—on the contrary, it would rather command respect, and convince many that we are not quite so insignificant a sect as our opponents frequently represent us to be.

It is not my intention to make any alterations in Luther's version; only to omit the parallels of the apocrypha, and the superscriptions of such parts as are appointed to be read on holy days in the Lutheran church.

I shall proceed to acquaint you with our proceedings since my last. The number of scriptures issued up to this date is 4216 copies. The kinds of scriptures are as follows :

IN GERMAN.		IN DANISH.
8vo. Bibles,	1506	Bibles, 8vo.,	81
N. Testam'ts, first ed., with Psalms,	518	Testaments with Psalms,	129

Total number of copies, 4216

During the same period, I circulated at the expense of the Edinburgh Bible Society 2905 copies of the holy scriptures—total number 7121 copies. Of the 4216 copies issued for the A. and F. Bible Society, about one third have been circulated in Hamburg and its vicinity, and of these upwards of 400 copies among the seamen visiting our harbor. The remaining two-thirds were sent to various parts of the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, East Friesland, Bremen, different parts of Hanover, Holstein, Denmark, Norway, Prussia, Hesse, Wurtemberg, Baden, Bavaria, and Switzerland. The happy effects produced by the spread of the sacred scriptures, we have had frequent opportunities of witnessing, when the converts stated their religious views, and their christian experience before the church. In every case brought under my notice, it was some striking passage or sentence from the mouth of God himself, which the blessed Spirit had honored in conveying instruction, or peace and joy to the heart. The evident fact, that many thousands of our fellow creatures have been enriched with the book of God, who, but for the efforts of the A. and F. B. Society, might have lived and died without it, is a consideration which demands our most grateful adorations to Him who has thus made us instrumental in sowing precious seed for eternity, from which we shall reap one day without ceasing. Of the New Testament, 32mo., 15,000 copies—10,000 with the Psalms of David—have been printed, and about 1,500 are already in circulation. I had hoped to have a sufficient amount of funds in hand to cover the expenses of 20,000 copies; but as no new remittance came to hand, I was compelled to take the 5,000 copies at my own expense, and am now trying to introduce them in superior merocco binding among the booksellers. I shall send you any quantity of this new edition of the testament you may wish to have. The first edition of the testament is nearly exhausted, and it is very desirable that another edition from the same type should be printed in 1845.

I regret that we can do so little in a pecuniary way, to promote the objects of the Society. But be assured, my dear brother, it is rather our inability than our unwillingness to do so. Our churches are composed of the poor, and even these have been and are still so frequently the subjects of cruel persecutions, that they cannot do what otherwise they would. I beg your Board to accept the small amount, $28 59, specified in the account, from their poor brethren in Germany, in furtherance of an object, which they consider as of primary importance, the translation and circulation of God's holy word into every tongue under heaven. Our best wishes and prayers ascend to God for the prosperity of your Society.

Let me remind your esteemed Board that in our march onward, we cannot do without their aid. We stand or fall by the Bible—our preaching is drawn from the Bible, and the tribunal to which we appeal is the Bible. The Bible, therefore, we must have;—as all who hear, and all who join our ranks are referred to the word of God, which abideth for ever.

In the remaining portions of our Foreign field, this Society, so far as bible distribution is concerned, is the sole dependence of our missionaries and others employed in this work.

BURMAH.

The embarrassment resulting from the exclusion of our missionaries from the larger portion of the Burman empire, still continues. Whether our hearts have been as deeply affected by it, and our prayerfulness as fervently drawn forth, in supplicating His interposition, who has the hearts of all men in his hands,—as the exigency demands, we know not. But we cannot fail on this occasion to entreat all who pray, Thy kingdom come, to bear on their hearts with fervent importunity this field; that the word of the Lord may there have free course, run and be glorified.

The last report from the missionary printer at Maulmain, bro. Osgood, contains ample and minute returns of the operations of that important press for the preceding year. In reference to the future, he says :

"I find it somewhat difficult to make estimates of our future wants on account of the uncertainty of our movements. If Burmah proper should be thrown open to us again, the means we have at hand would scarcely supply the demand for scriptures and tracts a single month; but at present we can do comparatively little.

"Our brother Haswell is doing something in the way of translations in the Peguan; (later accounts say he has completed the Epistles, and is now employed on the Gospels,) and whenever any portions of the scripture in that language are ready to be put to press, an appropriation for that purpose would be judiciously applied. We have just prepared a new font of type for the Pegu Karen, in which some portions of the scriptures may possibly be printed before the close of the current year."

After speaking of the want of a small quantity of English Bibles and Testaments for gratuitous distribution, (which our Board promptly made,) he says :

"A spirit of inquiry is abroad in the land, and becoming more and more prevalent; but it still requires a great degree of moral courage for any one to come out publicly and profess the religion of Christ, as it is not unfrequently attended by the loss of all things. Two men who have lately been baptized, have either been forsaken by, or driven from their families, and are compelled to seek a home with the disciples."

The following statement is a satisfactory document, which ought to be preserved for future reference.

TAVOY.

The completion of the New Testament in Karen, at the Mission press of this station, was adverted to with lively gratitude in the last report. Since that period, another missionary printer has gone thither, to take the place of brother Bennett, and enable him to devote himself exclusively to missionary labors. Some intimation has been given, of a disposition to transfer this printing establishment to Maulmain ; and by a greater concentration of effort, give additional facilities for the correct and economical publication of the Sacred Scriptures. We need not say that every movement of this kind may reckon on the fullest measure of co-operation from our Board. Especially at a period like this, when the Karens are turning by thousands unto God, shall we be most inexcusable if we do not furnish them the inspired guide-book of salvation. By request of the Mission Board, we have devoted $1000 to this field the current year.

ASSAM.

As early as October last, the Epistle to the Romans was completed in the language of the Assamese, and the other portions of the New Testament will soon be ready for the press. The Board of Missions have asked of us, and we have cheerfully appropriated to their use $1000 this year, to defray the expense of a first edition of the New Testament for this benighted but interesting people.

For the purchase of Scriptures for the Telogoos, $500 were also devoted, by the request of the Foreign Mission Board.

SIAM.

At Bangkok, prior to Nov. 1843, Timothy to Philemon, Hebrews, James to Jude, and Revelations, were printed in Siamese : they amounted to 204,000 octavo pages. The completion of the New Testament for the millions in this country, was anticipated with satisfaction, and nearly enough to meet its expense devoted to this purpose by our Society last year. Supposing that a second edition would be soon required, at the request of our Foreign Board, $1000 have been this year appropriated to this good object.

CHINA.

In the translation of the Scriptures into Chinese, much has been done by Marshman, Morrison, Milne, Medhurst and others ; but there still remains much more to be done before these translations can compare in point of accuracy, with our best modern versions. Great advantages may be derived from these first efforts at translating the Scriptures into Chinese,—whether these versions are to be revised, or a new translation be made ; and it makes little difference, as to the amount of labor, which plan be adopted. It may require even more labor to revise carefully and efficiently, than to translate, while at the same time the present or future translator may be as much indebted to the labors of his predecessors as if he were merely to revise their productions. The idea cannot be too early, or too strongly fixed in the minds of those who are interested in this work, that however ardently they may desire to see the word of God intelligibly expressed in the language of this interesting and immensely numerous people, the work of revision, under the most favorable circumstances, cannot be safely suspended, at least by the present generation. The most that can be expected from the combined labors of all who are versed in the Chinese language—and their numbers are neither small, nor their attainments inconsiderable—is that they may raise the work one step higher, and give to their successors additional facilities for going on with the labor.

In noticing the efforts already made by those whose productions come under the patronage of this Society, we here mention that Mr. Dean, in 1837, revised the gospel of John, having the aid of a native christian, who was a good scholar. He had before him the versions of Morrison, Marshman, and Medhurst, with his Greek Testament, and the best critical works to aid in ascertaining the meaning of the text, which was expressed to his Chinese assistant colloquially, and he wrote it down in the Chinese character. This was read over, and the assistant required to explain the idea he attached to each sentence, which led to various alterations, after which the whole was copied. This is now in manuscript. In 1839 and '40, the gospel of Mark was revised in a similar way, by the same hands, and printed. The Ten Commandments have been translated and printed by Mr. Shuck, and a version of Mark has been prepared and printed by Mr. Roberts, containing a map of Palestine, explanations, &c. In 1841 and '42, Mr. Goddard carefully prepared and printed the book of Genesis, and in 1844, revised the gospel and Epistles of John, as the portion which fell to him when the New Testament was divided among all the missionaries in China. In this general committee of the whole, the Epistle of James was revised by Mr. Shuck, the 1st of Peter by Mr. Dean, and the 2d Peter by Mr. Roberts. The remainder were divided among the missionaries of the other societies in China, with the expectation that a select committee, composed of one from each mission station would give to the whole a second revision, when it should be submitted to the several Bible societies for their patronage. It is hoped that this revision, effected by the joint labors of all the Protestant missionaries, will be an improvement upon the existing versions, while it is not to be expected that it will be beyond the reach of improvement, or that proper names, or the terms for the Deity, or the Holy Spirit, or the ordinances of the christian church, can by them be unalterably fixed. No one of the men devoted to this work would presume to say, that his knowledge of the Chinese language might not be improved, and especially that no advantage was to be expected from native scholars who may be brought to the knowledge of the truth.

Portions of the New Testament have been selected by our Baptist missionaries, which they thought best calculated to do good, such as the Epistle to the Romans, Ephesians, and Corinthians, which have been printed and circulated under their direction, and under the patronage of this Society. Native assistants have been employed to aid in this work, while at the same time they preach the gospel to their countrymen, as they give them portions of the Bible. One of these assistants is employed under the supervision of Mr. Dean, one under Mr. Shuck, and one under

Mr. Roberts. Others are employed for the distribution of Tracts. These native brethren serve as important helps in preaching the gospel, and are appointed by the Mission, and their expenses defrayed from funds contributed to the Mission Board by the Bible Society.

The field is wide, and these agents go unmolested through the villages, on the surrounding islands, and the main land, and are welcomed to the houses of their countrymen—sharing their hospitalities—warning men of the folly and sin of idolatry, and scattering the word of life far and wide. There are now a few more native brethren who might be successfully employed in this work, were means available, and there is at this day work for a thousand hands, to give the bread of life to these famishing millions. We only need our missionary enterprise to be well sustained, and a continuance of those marks of divine favor which have hitherto attended the labors of our brethren—and the time is not distant when efficient native agents to an indefinite number may be procured to carry out the objects of this and kindred societies.

In view of this demand, the managers have devoted three thousand dollars to this important field the past year. One thousand was regarded by them, and the Acting Board of Missions who solicited it, as a special grant, having reference to the expense incurred by the Mission, in transferring the Rev. Mr. Goddard from Bangkok to China, and sustaining him there as a translator of the Scriptures. The great importance of concentrating within the celestial empire, as efficient a body of well prepared translators of the DIVINE WORD as possible, seemed to us, as it did to the Missionary Board, to justify this expense.

The remaining 2000 were, by the request of the missionaries now in China, shipped directly from New-York to Hong Kong, accompanied with some other offerings of generous beneficence, intended to sustain a colporteur in China, in diffusing the sacred scriptures among its myriads of destitute, immortal beings.

AFRICA.

When writing our last report we were cheered with the return to this dark land, in invigorated health, of our esteemed missionary, the Rev. W. G. Crocker. Scarcely was our report printed, before we learned his sudden and much lamented death, just after his arrival, and before he could enter on the important work of translation. We have felt this disappointment most keenly, but desire to bow in devout submission to the divine will. The Rev. Ivory Clark has therefore been left alone, to carry forward, so far as his other duties would permit, the printing of some portions of the New Testament in the language of the Bassas. The gospels of Matthew and John had been printed, and the Acts was in press more than six months since. The Epistle to the Romans was in course of preparation, and would be followed by the Epistles to the Corinthians. The sum of $300, in addition to former grants, has this year been requested by the Acting Board of Missions, and cheerfully devoted by us to this field.

AMERICAN INDIANS.

Besides a second edition of one of the gospels, and the Acts of the Apostles in the language of the Putowatomies, which has been completed by the American Indian Mission Association at Louisville, Ky., at our expense; portions of the book of Genesis and some of the Psalms have been translated and printed in Cherokee, under the sanction of the Acting Board of Missions at Boston. While our desire is unabated, to furnish all requisite facilities to those who are engaged in giving to this waning race the words of life in their own language; it ought perhaps, to be candidly admitted, that among those who are best informed on this subject, there is a prevailing doubt as to the desirableness of attempting very extensively to translate into their various languages the Sacred Scriptures, when it is found so easy, generally, to induce them to learn the English language, and thus open before them, not only the facilities for scriptural instruction, but all the other aids which our religious literature furnishes. The fact that many of the aborigines prefer to have their children taught English—rather than spend time and toil over the various forms of their own languages, which have been reduced to a written or printed state—suggests the desirableness, especially in the smaller tribes, of relying on instruction to teach them to read English, rather than to expend labor and cost in preparing imperfect translations of the Scriptures, which may not, after all, be read intelligibly, and cannot be but by a very small number.

The entire sum which we have been required to devote to this object the last year, is about $250.

The aggregate of our appropriations the last year for Foreign distribution, including the premium, freight, and insurance of the $2000 shipped by us to China, falls but little short of $11,000. If prompt payments for books ordered from our depository can be secured, and the contributions of the auxiliaries and churches are continued on their present scale of liberality, we shall hope at least, to devote twice this amount to the Foreign field the next year.

NEW FIELDS TO BE CULTIVATED BY US.

The Board have by no means lost sight of the inquiries and suggestions contained in the Sixth Annual Report on this subject. In the early part of the past year, an opportunity was sought of conferring with the Hon. W. Thompson, of South Carolina, a decided friend of our society, and whose then recent return from Mexico, where he had spent several years as the minister of the United States government, had enabled him to communicate much valuable information. The Rev. Dr. Thompson, an English clergyman, who had travelled extensively in Mexico and Yucatan, obligingly furnished us the information which he had obtained on this subject; and to M. Norman, Esq. of New Orleans, we have also been indebted for additional facts bearing on the general question of our inquiries. Though the result of these investigations has induced the fear, that the time has not yet come for a successful prosecution of our enterprise in Mexico, yet more hope is cherished in reference to Yucatan, and especially the numerous tribes of Indians there. Through the Rev. Alexander Henderson, a missionary of the English Baptist Society, resident in Honduras, we have reason to hope for some important aid in our further inquiries and efforts in this quarter. He has already begun translations of the scriptures in the Kariff, the Moskito, and Maio dialects, spoken by the aboriginal inhabitants of this extensive country. A printing press and missionary printer, were expected from England, to promote this important part of evangelical operations, and our aid will be required, in its further prosecution. It has ever seemed to our board, that while the work already commenced on the oriental continent and islands is not to be abandoned, that we are more especially bound to look for additional openings in the western world, so that the millions of America may not be forgotten in the endeavor to evangelize the earth.

OFFICERS OF THE SOCIETY.

The same arrangements have been continued through this year which were indicated in our last Annual Report. The Corresponding Secretary has devoted more than half the year to extensive visits among the societies, associations, conventions, and churches, where aid could be secured, or profitable information might be imparted, in furtherance of our general objects. In this way his journeyings and labors have extended through three-fourths of the States of our Union, and the foundation has thus been laid for a more efficient and satisfactory correspondence hereafter. It is hoped that our correspondence may be vastly increased, and its influence made more efficient; and the lessening of this item of expense by the great reduction of postage after the first of July next, is hailed with satisfaction.

The assistant Treasurer, Rev. I. M. Allen, spent about four months in an agency in the west, chiefly in the state of Kentucky, with gratifying success; and is now employed in a similar way in Virginia. When at the Rooms, he not only performs the duties indicated by his official designation, but acts as Corresponding Secretary pro. tempore, in the absence of that officer.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE YEAR.

These, as has been already intimated, have been more numerous and expensive than during any preceding year; while the amount received in return could not be expected, as yet, to increase in an equal proportion.

Of our common 12mo. Bible, so justly and universally admired for the clearness and beauty of its typography, and which, considering the number of pages, is undoubtedly the cheapest and best common Bible in use, we have published the last year 17,000. Of a good sized pocket Bible, which we are enabled to sell at the same price with the above, 1,000 copies have been printed. Of the royal 8vo. with references, having bound up with it

Brown's Concordance, and Bagster's valuable Index, constituting thus one of the most compendious and valuable family Bibles, we have printed 1,600. In order to increase our varieties, and in some instances, to furnish cheaper bibles than any printed by us, we have purchased of individuals or of Bible societies, mostly from the Scottish Bible Board, 1946 Bibles; making the total for the year of 21,546 Bibles, printed or purchased for our use.

The need of a cheap 32mo. Testament was so much felt that our Board were induced to incur the expense requisite for procuring a set of stereotype plates. Including an edition of 10,000 from these plates, and 2,000 of the 8vo. Testament, the entire number of Testaments published this year by the Society is 32,000. The aggregate of Bibles and Testaments this year is 53,546, or a total, since the Society commenced the work of home supply, of 132,751 volumes of the divine word. How immense, yea, utterly incalculable, the good which may result in this and future generations from these radiant points of holy light, and divine influence!

THE LIBRARY

Of the Society has been increased by some generous donations amounting in all to 134 volumes, during the last year. The list of these volumes, with the names of the donors, will be given, as usual, in another portion of this Report.

THE DEPOSITORY

Now contains 6,346 Bibles, and 9,251 Testaments, bound and ready to meet the orders of Auxiliaries. The number unbound amounts to about 10,000 Bibles, and 25,000 Testaments.

CONCLUSION.

We cannot close our review of the past year, without again adverting to the circumstances of favor in which Divine Providence has enabled those to whom has been confided this important interest, to prosecute the object of their appointment. There were not wanting those who predicted the rapid decline of zeal and liberality in this particular organization. Grave, learned, and as they were esteemed, wise men, among our opponents, very significantly hinted, that the sectarian fervor to which they attributed the movement, would all evaporate in three or four years; and we should then be left to blush at our own temerity and short-sightedness, in attempting so magnificent an enterprise. Undoubtedly, if it had been the mere heat of party zeal, if nothing purer and nobler than the love of sect had animated us, these predictions would have been verified. We should have then deserved the discomfiture and humiliation which were thus foretold.

But now that more than twice the assigned time has passed away, and our Society still holds on its career with increasing vigor and enlarged prosperity, injuring none, and blessing with its fraternal aid all who pray and labor for the coming of God's Kingdom, will those whose predictions are above mentioned conform their views of the character of our enterprise to the results? since these results vary so far from their former estimate.

Assuredly the design of giving the word of life, faithfully translated, without transferring words which are susceptible of being intelligibly rendered, so that all may read in their own tongue the wonderful works of God, ought to be dear to every one of us. Why should not this design be approved by all who love Christ and his word more than the interests or convenience of their partizan connexions? Again and again we will reiterate the assurance, in hope of making ourselves understood even by those apparently least willing to view this matter candidly,—it is not a petty question as to how this or that word should be translated in a particular instance, but the broad principle that all engaged in translating the scriptures shall endeavor by earnest prayer and diligent study to ascertain the exact meaning of the original text, to express that meaning as exactly as the languages into which they shall translate the Bible will permit, and to transfer no words which are capable of being literally translated.

Twelve years ago, the Board of Foreign missions, meeting that year in Salem, Mass., after a full and deliberate view of their duties and responsibilities, recognised THIS PRINCIPLE (which had been always acted on by our missionaries, even before the origin of Bible societies,) drawn up and set forth on this occasion, with his usual perspicuity, by the beloved and lamented Professor Knowles, a native of this city of Roger Williams, where we are now assembled. To maintain this principle, we have been driven into our present organization. God has smiled upon it. His blessing, and the favor of his people, is annually enlarging its means of usefulness. Till we are willing to acknowledge ourselves recreant to this principle, we can never retrace our steps, or withheld our aid from this noble cause. Nor is there one feature of sectarianism in it. Were all christians united, having one Lord, one faith, and one baptism, this principle would still be as important and as reasonable as now. Were none of them agreed with us in the meaning of certain terms, it could not diminish the value of this principle, or lessen our obligation to maintain it.

With earnest desires that in this and all other respects we may be ever guided by the spirit as well as the precepts of this holy book which we are engaged in disseminating;—that in conformity with its dictates we may always be preserved from rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing; that when reviled we may meekly endure, assured that our record is on high, we would anew encourage ourselves, and our co-adjutors on this occasion.

Perhaps, too, it is not irrelevant in these days of strife and contention, for a Bible Society to close its Annual Report with fervent entreaty that the DIVINE GUIDE BOOK which it is engaged in furnishing to thousands and millions in our own land, and in heathen countries, may be more prayerfully and constantly studied by us, as well as those to whom we send it; so that guided by its counsels, cheered by its promises, sanctified by its holy truth, and saved by the rich grace which it reveals, we may all stand together ere long before the throne of the Lamb, to adore for ever, Him who hath bought us with His blood.

ANNIVERSARY ADDRESSES.

MR. EVERTS, pastor of the Laight-street Church, New York, on moving the acceptance of the Annual Report, submitted the following remarks :

Mr. President.—Bible Societies constitute one of the natural developments of primitive and Protestant christianity. Papists, regarding the scriptures without the interpretations of the church, as insufficient for salvation, and a prolific source of error and schism, have never encouraged their general distribution; while Protestants, believing them able to make men wise unto salvation, and lead them into all truth without the glosses of the church and the mediation of priestly orders, from the days of Wickliffe, Tindal, Luther, Cranmer and Knox, have sought their free and universal circulation. Without undervaluing ecclesiastical ministers and ordinances, they believe the scriptures may precede them in the evangelization of the world, and travelling beyond all diocesan boundaries, may commend themselves to the faith and obedience of men where an interpreter's voice has never been heard. Not many years since, says Dr. Scudder, a missionary of India, being on a tour of exploration a thousand miles from any station, put up for the night at a native village, near the Himalah mountains. He was invited to visit one of the sick villagers, and on asking the sufferer "what would become of him after death?" he replied that he should be saved. "How?" inquired the missionary. "By the Saviour." "What Saviour?" "Jesus Christ." "How did you hear of Jesus Christ?" Partly raising himself from his pallet, he took from under the pillow three or four soiled and worn leaves of the New Testament. "These," said he, "I picked up in the streets of Calcutta, and these have taught me the way of life."

A native of Old Providence, an island in the Carribean Sea, received religious instruction and a copy of the scriptures in Jamaica; he became a trader on the South American coast, as master and owner of a vessel. By a succession of disasters, and especially while detained a prisoner at Carthagenia during the late insurrectionary movements there, he was led to the diligent perusal of the word of God and embraced the hope of the gospel. Returning to his native Island, where there was no Sabbath,—no church—no missionary—no school, and few that professed any knowledge of christianity, with no instructor but the Bible, he became the teacher of others. In October last, visiting New York to receive baptism, he was cordially recommended to return and give himself to the work of a missionary. A Bible, given by the hand of charity seventy years ago, to a Catholic young lady then residing in Boston, in its silent operation on her heart, laid the foundation of the present flourishing mission at Grand-Leine, Canada. Such results accord with the genius of revelation, as addressed to the race; assert a primary right to their possession without any intermediate authority to forestall or modify their instructions, and vindicate the sublime purpose of the evangelical church to translate the scriptures into all languages, circulate them over every continent and island, and deposite them in every human habitation. While papacy is issuing its bulls, and arraying its jesuitical forces against this purpose, Protestants will unite in greater numbers, and more determined zeal, to carry it out, until the word of God, in its mission of mercy, shall follow the sun in his course, flashing heavenly light over the world, its knowledge becomes free and all-pervading as the air, and its salvation as accessible to all the tribes and families of the earth, as the streams that bubble from the hill sides and water the valleys.

In carrying out this God-like purpose, the American and Foreign Bible Society has been co-operating with kindred institutions for the last eight years, and each annual report has shown an increase of its auxiliaries, its patrons and its friends; and the more generally its claims are canvassed, the more rapidly will its supporters be multiplied, and the more widely will its beneficent influences be diffused. We therefore cordially move the printing and circulation of the report just read. There is one sentiment contained in that paper, that has been variously expressed, in all the annual reports, and is sacredly held by the members of the board and the patrons of the society, to which I wish to invite the more particular attention of this assembly, viz.: that the organization of the American and Foreign Bible Society was a declaration, and its support is a defence of the supremacy of the sacred scriptures—the great principle of Christianity and the reformation. The opinion still prevailing to some extent, that the founders of this institution, becoming impatient of the established policy of the parent society, and “Studentes Novis,” seeking some new thing, some unconstitutional and unprecedented privilege, abandoned a Catholic union, is one of those popular errors that restrict the sympathies of charity and minister to the bitterness of sectional prejudice.

The origin of this institution is traced to a marked change in the policy of the old societies. They departed from the principles upon which they were organized, erected a new standard of foreign translations never before proposed or consented to, and withdrew support from versions they had long patronised, versions the same when they were rejected as when they were received fifteen and thirty years before. In refusing therefore longer adherence, the baptists cannot be justly charged with severing the bands of union, or embarrassing a catholic religious enterprise. As justly might the French Protestants have been branded as schismatics, after their civil rights were taken away and their co-operation with the Catholic unions of the realm was cut off by the revocation of the edict of Nantes, the stipulated ground of civil and ecclesiastical peace. Or as well might a dissenting minority of the partners of a mercantile firm, or corporation, or of the States of a confederacy, after their adhesion has been severed, by a departure from the terms of the compact, be charged with a disruption or embarrassment of their respective associations. Whoever, therefore, are responsible for the disruption of the National Bible Societies of England and America, the Baptists are not. Whoever are liable to the odium of change, their principles and policy have remained unchanged, from a period anterior to the existence of either society. The abettors of this prejudice, though they have never scrupled to appropriate catholic names to Publications, Educational and Missionary Boards, pursuing denominational objects, strenuously opposed the charter of this society, unless it will consent to bear the odium of a sectarian appellation. Were it a sectarian body, it would be entitled to its chosen cognomen, and a resistance of its charter on that ground would be unprecedented and fraught with arrogance and injustice. But it cannot, we claim, be justly denominated a sectarian institution. The only foundation for such a charge is, that it has fewer patrons than the old society, and its versions are approved by fewer sects. But if they are necessarily sectarian, who are not associated with majorities, Christ was the prince of sectarians, and Luther the most odious of schismatics. Often truly Catholic principles have been left to the advocacy of the few, while a sectarian policy has been supported by the many. Such we deem the novel and strange policy in reference to foreign translations by which accustomed support was withdrawn from faithful and long approved versions.

In the application of this policy, as exhibited in resolutions and circulars of the American Bible Society, we believe ominous exceptions must be made in every faithful charge to the translator—"Convey the meaning of the Scriptures, only amend or conceal any sentiment that might offend your patrons." "Express the exact sense of the original, so far as it shall harmonize with the English version." "Render into the dialects of the heathen every word, only leave untranslated any ecclesiastical term respecting which disputes might arise." "Publish all the divine laws, only suppress here and there a precept that might impair the authority of tradition, condemn the practice of a sect, or disturb the harmony of a great national union."

This policy symbolizes with that of the Papist, (who to avoid the exposure of their errors, refuse to give the Bible to the world without priestly comment, or the authoritative interpretations of the church) and in its principle, appears to us essentially unfaithful. Such liberty, taken with any code of civil laws, would be considered treasonable.

In extending her jurisdiction over tribes and nations, using different dialects, the British government authorized a particular code of laws for the East India Company, which defined and guarded the rights and privileges and enforced the civil duties of all her new subjects. Suppose the magistrate with whom their proclamation was intrusted, to conceal abuses, or favor some party interest, or from a misapprehension of his responsibility, should suppress some of its enactments, alleging them to be unimportant, that citizens in different provinces, desiring more specific information, might make personal application to him, or to his inferior officers, or to inquire of any of their better informed fellow citizens;—would not such a magistrate transcend his powers? In withholding the knowledge of a single law, would he not betray his trust and render himself liable to degradation and punishment? The same code of laws has been issued for every province of the extending kingdom of the Redeemer. The missionary of the cross is sent over the whole extent of his claimed dominion to publish these laws—he has no discretionary power—he may not amend or suppress a single precept of that code, or withhold the sense of a single term, unless its rendering be impossible. But how glaring would be the inconsistency of this plea in the application of this license, especially contemplated. The old testament, beset with the difficulties of a more ancient literature, can be translated; metaphysical and recondite terms can be rendered, the teachings of Moses and the Prophets can be given; but the records of a later and plainer dispensation, words descriptive of physical acts, the plainest in any language, the instructions of the Great Teacher himself, cannot be made intelligible. Nay, the parables and discourses of Christ, on subjects the most sublime and abstruse can be translated; but a precept designed for universal observance, and adapted to the comprehension of the meanest capacity, cannot be expressed, and therefore must be concealed from the heathen. Says a missionary, soon after receiving intelligence that unless our versions were altered, and the precept of baptism withheld, we could no longer receive aid from the American Bible Society; a native Christian entered my study, and seeing letters in my hand, and anxiety depicted on my countenance, inquired, "What news?" I informed him of the decision of the Board. "How would they have it?" he asked. I repeated the great commission with the proposed transfer. He sat down, covering his face with his hands, and burst into tears—at length he looked up and said, "Kibhuje,"—"who will understand." The policy that thus withholds the knowledge of a law, according to the principle of jurisprudence universally acknowledged, becomes responsible for its transgression, and attacks the supremacy of its authority.

Nor should we underrate the importance of a principle, from the infrequency and supposed unimportance of the circumstances of its application. A few pounds were a trifling tax for the flourishing colonies of the New World to pay, but the right to take ten implied the right to take a thousand, a right that might exhaust their resources, and reduce them to perpetual vassalage. The alteration or concealment of a few words of Scripture may appear to be of trifling importance; but the right to suppress one precept, or conceal one word, implies the right to conceal a hundred, and there are no truths, but might be blotted out; no ordinances, but might be abrogated, and no precept, but might be annulled by this principle. It was only its enlarged application that subverted the primitive institutions of christianity, and established the Papacy, and it is its partial application, that is still supporting the buried and defective schemes of Christianity throughout the world. And the difference in foreign translations, arising from a departure from the divine standard, deemed so unimportant by many, will influence the purity of christian faith and practice, raise barriers to the union, and minister to the schisms of the church for centuries.

Dissenting from such a policy, as unfaithful in principle, and disastrous in its far reaching consequences, the American and Foreign Bible Society has proposed, as its distinctive principle, the supremacy of the sacred scriptures, regarding the attempt of a translator, so to trim his course as to preserve the consistency of tradition, harmonize conflicting creeds, and please differing patrons, like the effort of an ancient mariner to guide his bark, by ever changing clouds, instead of the faithful light of the fixed stars, it binds him to the unvarying direction of the inspired originals. With this accords the instruction of our missionary Board to translators. "Ascertain the exact meaning of the original text, express that meaning as exactly as possible, and transfer no word that is capable of translation." Such was the sentiment of the devoted Tindal—"I call God to record, as against the day we shall appear before our Lord Jesus Christ, to give reckoning of our doings, that I never altered one syllable of God's word, against my conscience, nor would do this if all that is in earth, whether it be honor, pleasure or riches, may be given me." Such, also, was the sentiment of the learned and lamented Carson—"I would rather part with my right arm, than not faithfully and honestly translate every word of the book of God." Acting upon this principle, the society has adopted the message of instruction, given to the Prophet—"Thus saith the Lord, speak unto all the cities of Judah, all the words that I command you to speak unto them, diminish not a word."

"Go to the rude huts of the Aborigines, stand upon the banks of the Ganges or Irrawadah, wend your way into the Karen jungles, mingle in the crowded population of China, lift up your voice on the shores of Africa, or in the Islands of the ocean, and speak all the words I command you, diminish not a word." Can a Society, thus carrying out the design, and adhering to the great Catholic principles of revelation, be called sectarian—if this be sectarianism, it allies its adherents with that ancient sect, every where spoken against; and we rejoice in sharing its reproach.

The American and Foreign Bible Society has only scrupulously observed the supremacy of divine authority, that characterized the ministry of the Prophets and of Christ, and has distinguished the most eminent reformers. A prominent design in the mission of the prophets, was to publish the Word of God and invest it with paramount authority. And when its meaning was obscured by the associated authority of uninspired writings, Jesus appeared to restore the authority of laws made void by tradition. And after the canons of the Church had usurped their place, Luther was raised up to recall again the attention of the world to the only true standard of religious faith and practice. A controlling principle of the reformation was the Bible, and the Bible only is the religion of Christians; and its moral force was expended in exalting the Scriptures against human authority. All the controversies that have ensued throughout Christendom in asserting the independence of religious communities against national establishments, and the rights of conscience against proscriptive hierarchies, have tended to the same result, and in their relation to the reformation in Germany have been like the remote rumbling sound and distant trembling of the earth after the principal shock of an earthquake, or the reverberations echoing amid distant mountains that follow a heavy cannonading. In this great work of progressive reformation we humbly claim, the American and Foreign Bible Society is co-operating. A distinguished prelate has published the opinion that Providence raised up a particular denomination to restore a discarded ordinance. Extending the application of this opinion, we believe Providence has raised up the American and Foreign Bible Society through that denomination to co-operate in the establishment of the supremacy of the Word of God in all ordinances and doctrines. Its prospective influence may be overlooked like the agencies of all great reformations in their incipient developement on account of the simplicity of its principle.

When the despised Nazarine commenced his ministry in Judea, little did his contemporaries apprehend that he was inculcating a principle of religious faith that was destined to subvert all other systems of religion, and establish itself over the world. When Luther began to assert the supremacy of the Word of God, little did his adversaries imagine that he was elevating a principle that in its application was destined to subvert the papacy. When Roger Williams, claiming liberty of conscience, sought a refuge for religious freedom in the wilderness, his persecutors had not the remotest conception to what "that thing" might grow. But we now trace the most marked and wonderful designs of Providence in the circumstances that gave name to the state and city in which we are now assembled. The venerable edifice in which we are convened, yonder seminary of learning, and thousands of Christian temples and churches throughout this land are monuments of the fame and memorials of the principles of Roger Williams. Though its adversaries may smile at the supposed credulity of the declaration, we believe the American and Foreign Bible Society, elevating as its distinctive feature, the supremacy of the Scriptures, laboring for their universal circulation, and constituting a bond of union to those who exalt them above the canons of tradition, is destined to become one of the firmest bulwarks of divine institutions. Though America should cease to be an asylum and defence of liberty, her star-spangled banner to float on the breeze, a signal of hope to the oppressed, this institution shall remain a stronghold of primitive christianity. Its standard, seen from afar, shall inspire the hope of the heathen, ready to perish; of the victim of intolerance, denied the liberty of conscience; and of all throughout the world who pray, "thy kingdom come;" while its ensign waves over thousands of Israel, emblazoning on its folds the motto "the word of God, the word of God, alone and for ever."

The Rev. Rollin H. Neale, of Boston, in seconding the motion, for the acceptance of the Secretary's Report, spoke as follows:

Mr. President:—I am not accustomed to make speeches on these public occasions; and following my inclinations, I have made it a rule generally, in the presence of wiser and more experienced brethren, to keep silent; but having been present at the formation of this society, and, as Luke says on another occasion, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, and forasmuch as many have taken in hand, to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us, it seemed good to me also, not to write in order, but to speak in my turn, most excellent Theophilus.

Sir, the object of this society is to circulate the Bible, the pure, unadulterated word of God. I know of no enterprise, more noble and glorious, one more adapted to unite all hearts, and to call, for its support and success—ful prosecution, the undivided energies of the whole church. The ancient Greeks had one sentence which they believed to have descended from heaven, and they caused it to be written in letters of gold, and inscribed in a conspicuous place, on one of their most magnificent temples, that all might read it; but we have here, not a single sentence merely, but a whole volume, written by men who spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost—a book full of interest to the scholar, and of comfort and hope to the christian, adapted, more than all other books, to ameliorate the condition of man in this world and to guide him to a better.

I recollect when I was in Washington city, there was a man came occasionally into the congregation, of the name of Evans, who, from his appearance, down cast look, and blank gaze, was evidently below the common standard of mental power. He seemed ignorant, not only of religion, but of every thing else; and answered most exactly to Pollock's description of a man who never had a dozen thoughts in all his life. But, sir, he came to meeting. He got a Bible and read it; it was the only book he did read, and after a while there was a marked change in his appearance. His countenance began to light up. His form was more erect. His eye beamed with intelligence, and while his heart was warm with love to God and his Saviour, he was in mind as well as in heart a new man. His character and whole appearance was entirely changed. Now, such is the transforming, elevating power of the Bible. It is a book of thought, full of hints, sketches, outlines, facts, interesting history, admirable biography, which the ignorant may understand, and on which the most intelligent may work for ages, and still find them an exhaustless store-house of instruction.

When I was visiting the Christians in Denmark, having previously heard of their history and trials, and their firm, unwavering faith, my heart was full to overflowing. I wanted to talk with them, and I did so. But I was unacquainted with their language, and most of the time that I was with them, there was no interpreter present. Here was a difficulty. Our hearts were full of thoughts and emotions, but how should we express them? We hit upon this expedient. Whatever I wished to say to them, I pointed it out in a Danish Bible; and whatever they wished to say to me, they pointed it out in the English Bible. Thus we carried on the conversation by means of the Bible, and it answered every purpose. There is no thought, no religious emotion, no sentiments of gratitude and love, which are not here most happily expressed. Its style of thought and language, varied and wild, smooth and rough, pure, and as strong, simple, and as sublime, as the ever diversified face of nature herself, is adapted to men of every nation, and of every tongue, and is sure to be understood and responded to by every pious heart. There are occasions, as every pastor can testify, when the Bible enables us to address sentiments to the soul, for which there is no other language adequate. When speaking to a person under conviction of his sin, and inquiring what he shall do to be saved, and especially when called upon to administer counsel or consolation at the bedside of the dying, on such occasions nothing but the Bible answers. We must use, not the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth, speaking in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. The sentiments, and the language of inspiration, and they alone, meet the case. They give hope to the inquirer, and comfort to the dying, and are evermore the food and nourishment, the life and joy of spiritual minds.

A few evenings since, a half a dozen sailors, just returned from a voyage to the Mediterranean, came into my meeting and gave an account of their recent conversion. They related an astonishingly correct, old-fashioned orthodox experience, and were also, decidedly baptist in sentiment. I inquired the circumstances of their history, and the means of instruction which they had enjoyed. Their spiritual instructor was present, a sailor, the only professor of religion on board, when they left New York. He rose, and gave an account of the circumstances. Said he, I told them to read the Bible, and they did so. I could not give them information, being but an humble sailor myself. I never said any thing on baptism. I never informed them, indeed, to what denomination I belonged. I dwelt, in conversation with them, only on two ideas, the total depravity of the human heart, and salvation by the blood of Christ. That was all they learned except from the sacred oracles. They drew, with their own pitcher, from a living fountain, and they came home, not only new creatures in Christ Jesus, but with correct views of gospel doctrine, and fully confirmed in the ordinances as they have been delivered unto us.

Professor Knowles used to say that of all people in the world, the Baptists have most reason to love the Bible, and join with all classes, and denominations, in giving it a wide and extensive circulation. For if I was influenced only by sectarianism, a desire only to increase the number of that church among whom I have the happiness and honor to belong, I would rejoice in every movement that should multiply and circulate copies of the sacred writings. The rise of the Baptists in Germany, may be traced to this cause. We sent no missionaries among them. I became acquainted when there, with one very large and flourishing church, in the kingdom of Wurtemberg, who, at the time of their origin, had never heard of the Baptist denomination at all. A few pious individuals of the established Lutheran Church, dissatisfied with its forms, and its coldness, withdrew for the purpose of praying and reading the Bible by themselves. This practice they kept up, reading and praying, and praying and reading, explaining and expounding, one verse by reference to another, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. They were proceeding thus, when they heard of the imprisonment of Oncken, of Hamburg, for preaching Baptist sentiments. Ah, said they, one to another, that man must have had the same difficulties which had occurred to us in the course of our scripture readings. They accordingly sent for him and were baptized; and constitute now one of the largest and most flourishing churches in Germany. Indeed, one grand reason why our missions in Germany are more prosperous and successful than in France and Greece, is because that, even in the established church, the Bible is held in respect. Notwithstanding a bold and false philosophy, and an unhallowed criticism has entered the theological schools of Germany, and made sad havoc of a pure faith, and simple-hearted piety, there is still an outward respect, at least, paid to the old Protestant doctrine. The remembrance of Luther secures a reverence for the Bible. When the minister names his text, or reads a chapter, the whole congregation rises, out of respect to the voice of him who speaketh from heaven. With all the faults of Germany, this is a sort of anchor to that nation. So long as the Bible is not displaced; so long as the people are taught to read and respect it, some will derive benefit from it, and find it the power of God unto salvation!

With these views, I rejoice in the existence of this society, and my earnest prayer is for your success and prosperity. When the Chinese convert, who returned with Brother Dean, came before the Board, his first speech was, to say how glad he was to see the faces of those who had sent the gospel to him, and to his nation. That declaration touched a chord which reverberated through every heart. The sweetest emotions that ever arise in the human bosom, are those that are occasioned by the thought of having been instrumental in saving a soul from death. There is no surer way to secure these pleasures, these rich consolations, that will be carried with us to the eternal world, and constitute a part of the joys of Heaven, than in diffusing the light of divine truth, proclaiming the glorious gospel of the blessed God, and sending the Bible to the nations of the earth.

Rev. Wm. Dean, Missionary from China, offered the following resolution and remarks:—

“Resolved, That whereas the providence of God has graciously opened the vast empire of China as a field for Bible distribution, where three hundred and sixty millions of the human family, amid the prevalence of numerous dialects, may nevertheless in one language read the word of God, it becomes the duty and high privilege of the Churches to co-operate with the American and Foreign Bible Society by their fervent prayers and liberal benefactions.”

The first idea here presented is the vast multitude of men contemplated by the resolution. More than three hundred millions, or one-third of the entire population of the world. During the first five or six years of my intercourse with the Chinese, I was disposed to think that their numbers had been over estimated. But from further acquaintance and better facilities for ascertaining the truth, I am of opinion that we are safe in the conclusion that there are, at least, three hundred millions of human beings in China.

This empire, which till recently, has been self-secluded from the christian world, is now opened. The celebrated wall of brick, which forms the northern boundary of the provinces, has ever presented to those who would enter China, but a slight obstacle, compared with the more insuperable wall of prejudice and national exclusion which has long guarded the southern frontier. This latter wall has been broken down. We do not say that this wall has been entirely removed, so that there is not left one stone upon another, but a gateway has been opened through which the saints of God may pass and take possession of the land. This is not limited to one, but there are five, and these are not narrow but broad, and now the teachers of Christianity may pass through these open doors, and find a residence for themselves and their families within the empire, where they may enjoy the privilege of proclaiming, without restraint, to listening multitudes, and handing the precious gift to crowds of men who stand with outstretched hands to receive the word of God. And now the church of Christ occupies a position analagous to that of a friend who calls at your door and knocks for admission. The porter opens the door and bids him walk in—but he hesitates. The Church has long been knocking at the bolted gates of China, and now God has, by a providence of his own selecting, opened the door—of the means employed for opening the door we have now nothing to do, any more than we have with the means which brought Joseph into Egypt,—but it is enough for us to know that God has opened the door, and he now bids us walk in—the angel of mercy points to a bleeding Saviour, and by all the considerations connected with the cross, bids us walk in—the Chinese themselves, in all the friendship and hospitality of their hearts, bid us walk in—and shall we longer stand upon the threshold?

The next idea noticed by the resolution is, that this empire has been opened by the providence of God. I love to think of the providence of God as connected with every event of my life, and with every circumstance bearing upon the interest of the Redeemer's Kingdom. The providence of that God who possesses unlimited power and exercises an uncontrolled dominion—a dominion as wide as the world and as high as heaven. There is nothing so minute as to evade his notice, there is nothing so mighty as to baffle his control. Not a sparrow falls to the ground without his notice. There is not a wind that blows, nor a sun that rises—not a king that reigns nor an empire that falls, but by his appointment. It is the providence of that God who has opened to us the empire of China, and he is now saying to us, in language which cannot be misunderstood, "walk in!"

The next idea contemplated in the resolution is, the existence of numerous dialects, but the prevalence of one language throughout the empire.

The language of China is like itself, but unlike all others. It is neither alphabetical nor strictly symbolical. It is read from right to left, not like the Hebrew, horizontally, but as the school-boy reads his spelling lesson, perpendicularly. Each character represents a word, and of these there are in the language about forty thousand. More than thirty thousand of these are found in the Dictionary of Kang-Hi, and the remainder may be considered obsolete. The Chinese language has neither declension of nouns or conjugation of verbs. The same character, in the same form may be used for various parts of speech, according to its position in a sentence, while the same sound is applied to different characters of different significations. Thus a hundred characters or more may be expressed by the same sound, except that eight of these may be distinguished by different intonations. As for example ma, signifies hemp; má, a horse; mà, to scold. and mā, to wipe. But after this deduction, there remains a great number of different characters expressed by the same sound, while each retains his own peculiar signification. This glance at the language will suffice to show some of the difficulties in acquiring it, but while there are forty thousand characters in the language, a knowledge of one-fourth this number will enable one to read any common book in Chinese. The number of readers in China may include seven or eight-tenths of the male population; but we seldom meet with a female in China who can read. The fact that none but literary graduates are eligible to a civil appointment, serves as a stimulus to learning, and most of the boys whose parents are able to give them the time and means learn to read, but their method of education is such that with many who could repeat the sounds of the characters contained in a book, were they interrogated as the Eunuch was by Philip, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" would necessarily reply, "how can I, except some one interpret?" So that, in giving to them the Bible, we need to send them the living teacher to explain its contents.

The colloquial medium is divided into various families of dialects, and these are subdivided into various members. There is not only a distinct dialect for a province, but in some provinces there are two or three distinct dialects, differing as widely from each other, as English, French, and German. Even the Mandarin or court language, as spoken in different places, differs so much as to become in each place almost a distinct dialect.

The next idea in the resolution refers to the duty of the Churches in giving them the Bible. The duty of the Churches—not the clergy or the deacons, or a few of the leading members, but the Churches,—and in this work, no member, however humble his station or feeble his capacity, is exempt from a part. A mistake on this point, and a want of co-operation on the part of every member of the Churches, satisfactorily accounts for the want of success attending our benevolent and christian efforts. Let every member of the Churches give according to his ability, and there would be no want of men or means in giving the Bible to the heathen. The duty of co-operation is involved in the very profession of our attachment to Christ.

But the resolution speaks of it as a high privilege. I suppose no christian who hears me would hesitate to say that it would be a privilege to go in person, and place a Bible in the hands of a heathen who was desirous to read the new doctrine, but if you are not allowed to do this in person, it may be your privilege to do it by proxy.

Again, it is said in the resolution, "It is the duty of the Churches to co-operate with the American and Foreign Bible Society, by their  fervent prayers and liberal benefactions." Let the Churches observe the latter of these and the former will follow. It has generally been said, if you can enlist the prayers and sympathies of a man in behalf of an object, you may then expect his contributions, but is it not the other way?—secure the money of a man for a benevolent purpose, and do you not then expect that his prayers and sympathies will follow?—and we have reason to fear that prayers unaccompanied by christian effort, will never reach the ear of Jehovah, and will never call down blessings upon the heathen.

The Rev. Eugenio Kincaid, in offering the last resolution, said :

MR. PRESIDENT :—The sentiment contained in the resolution meets my entire approbation, and knowing my missionary brethren entertain the same views, I could not withhold my testimony. We are all of one mind, and see eye to eye on this subject—to give to the heathen as clearly, and as fully as we can, in their own language, the word of God, seems to us a duty too plain to be overlooked, and of too grave a character to be disregarded. I have tried again and again to picture to myself the countenances of the Apostles, standing in one of our great christian assemblies, and listening to a discussion on the propriety of translating or transferring the word of God. I fancy a frown darkens the brow of every Apostle—grief lies heavy upon every lineament of the face, and a holy indignation flashes in every eye.—“All scripture,” say they, “is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for instruction, and for correction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto every good work.” If the man of God have not access to the scriptures, how can he be thoroughly furnished? How can he know the will of his Divine Master? How can he put on the whole armor of God? To transfer any part of the scriptures, is to leave that part unintelligible, and is an impeachment of the Divine Wisdom. God has given us a revelation of his will, and bid us publish it in all the languages of the earth—and dare we conceal any part of that revelation under barbarous terms? Shall any part of Divine revelation lie waste and useless? Shall God have spoken in vain, or shall his voice be heard? But if the man of God is to hear it, he must have it in a language which he understands. Shall we hold up our lamps to illuminate the pathway of the sun? Shall we bring our wisdom to correct the wisdom of the Eternal? All that God has spoken is truth, and around every truth is a halo of glory. Who will sit in judgment over the counsels of the Most High? Will the Missionary, who is translating the Bible for unborn millions? Or will he be faithful to God, faithful to his own soul, and faithful to unnumbered millions? “Teach them,” said the risen Saviour, “to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you,—and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.” “All things!”—No discretionary power is given,—no revelation can be made. “This is my beloved Son, hear ye him,” is language coming out from the excellent glory. Let no authority on earth be regarded but the authority of the Messiah. “All things whatsoever he has commanded,” stand out in blazing characters before the universe. “He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.” The universe is called upon to give audience,—“For there are three that bear record in Heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost, and these three are one. And there are three that bear witness on earth, the Spirit, the water, and the blood, and these three agree in one.” Away with tradition—away with the authority of man—concede that one command of Jesus may be given up, or what is the same thing, be left untranslated, and you put into the hand of antichrist a weapon before which you cannot stand. You abandon one fortress of Zion, and immediately on that fortress float the dark banners of the “man of sin.” His motto is, “down with the Bible.”—Or let it lie buried in a language which cannot be read by the people. This Society has taken the high and holy position that the Bible, the entire Bible, shall be given to the millions of our race. Against this position, let traditionists bring up their creeds, and set in array the decisions of their councils. Let the "man of sin" pour forth his wrath now. This position is a rock, against which the gates of hell cannot prevail. This position was assumed by Luther,—he appealed to the Bible—it is one of the great principles of the Reformation. He demanded the Bible in the language of the people, and this demand shook the foundations of Papal Rome. We demand the Bible—the entire Bible—in the languages of Burmah, China, Siam, and Assam. Why, Sir, we are translating the word of God into seven languages, and embracing more than three hundred millions of the human family. These translations are to guide and instruct those great nations through all coming generations. How great the enterprise—how holy the work—how awfully solemn the responsibility. Judge ye, in performing this great work, is it better to obey God than man? In Burmah alone, we have about sixty native preachers. They are sent out to preach the things of the kingdom to their countrymen. Many of them are two or three hundred miles from any missionary, for months together. Their only guide is the Bible, and if scattered over its pages, words are left untranslated, how can they be "workmen that need not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth?"—how can they be "thoroughly furnished unto every good work?" No, Sir, we cannot, we dare not give them a mutilated Bible. One day I had a pressing invitation to call at the palace of the Mek a ra, Prince, the most learned Burman in the world, and uncle of the present reigning monarch of Ava. His private secretary urged my attendance as being much desired by the Prince. I went at evening, and found him sitting in his private apartment, with a Burman Testament open before him. He said, Teacher, here is a passage I wish you to explain, for I cannot understand it. He had many places marked for explanation. His wife, the Princess, came in, and sat a little behind him, leaning on his shoulder,—and his seven daughters and two sons—some of them grown up—and all listened with eager attention to every question put by the father, and to the explanations given. Nearly all the passages marked were in Paul's epistle to the Romans. I have read, he remarked, the Psalms of David, and they are full of beauty, and highly poetic; but this book is so deep I cannot understand it. Now suppose he had read in the 6th of Romans, and come to the passage, "Know ye not that as many of us as were ——— into Jesus Christ were ——— into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by ——— into death," &c. He would ask, what does this mean? Here is a word I do not understand. Here is a word in Burman characters, but it has no meaning in our language. What is the meaning of this word, baptized? Suppose this word had been left untranslated; he would have had his finger upon it, would have inquired the reason. What should I have told him? That we thought it best not to translate it? Then he would inquire, why?—he would have pressed me for a reason. What reason could I give? It can be translated as easily as metanoeo, ekklesia, oikos, or any other word in the Greek language. What reason could I give for concealing a part of God's word? I should stand in a most humiliating attitude.

When the action of the British and Foreign Bible Society was made known in Burmah, we felt sad, knowing it was designed to crush the translations of our English brethren in the great peninsula of Hindostan; but we said, in America there is no dominant priesthood, and no state religion, so that no such example will be imitated. But when the news reached us, that the American Bible Society had taken the same ground, we were ashamed, and resolved never to bow to such dictation—never to enter into any compromise to mutilate the Bible—to keep back from the heathen a part of God's Revelation. We would employ copyists, and have only one Bible in a church, rather than submit to such a measure,—a measure, which, if followed out to its legitimate results, is subversive of the Divine authority. The distinguishing principle of this Society, to give faithful translations of the entire Bible, to the heathen, is dear to the missionary. On this principle, he can plant himself amid the millions of heathendom, and feel secure in the approbation of Him who is King of kings, and Lord of lords.

FROM REV. D. L. BRAYTON.

MERGUT, Oct. 5th, 1844.

My Dear Br. Babcock:—Yours of March 30th is before me. I have read it with a full heart, but am almost afraid to reply, lest I should write something that will do harm instead of good. I need not dwell upon the fact, that I feel deeply interested in the welfare of your Society. That there should be the least symptom of its flagging is DISTRESSING. Distressing, because we know that there is wealth enough in the American churches to sustain that and every other existing institution, and to multiply them even an hundred fold. Did Christians in America give any thing near in proportion to these converted heathen, it would all be done with the greatest ease. I will mention the case of the church at Ulah, on the Tenasserim river. Not that I select this as a remarkable case: no indeed, for I have no doubt but others give equally as much, or even more, but I take this case simply because I am personally acquainted with all its members, and know their pecuniary circumstances. There is a little church of twenty-one members. The most favored one among them, in regard to money, is a government officer, receiving a monthly salary of twenty-five rupees, about twelve dollars. With this he has a large family to support, besides a vast deal of company in consequence of his being a public officer. Aside from his salary, I don't suppose that every thing he has in the world, take his house and all, would sell for fifty rupees.

The first Monday in May last, this church formed themselves into a Missionary Society, to pay monthly fifteen rupees, five and a half anas, or about seven dollars. They have thus far punctually paid their subscriptions, and that too, without any collectors or dunning. They seem to delight in so doing, and our monthly concert is our most interesting meeting.

You have probably before this, heard more or less of the Selongs, a people among whom we commenced missionary operations, about nine months since. Their language has been reduced to writing by Br. E. A. Stevens, and for the past three months I have had a class of six of their young men, who have been learning to read their own language. During this time I have prepared for them a Spelling-book, and Catechism of the Creation; Fall, and recovery by Christ, together with a few hymns, all of which are nearly ready for the press, and will probably be printed in a few months.

The Karen Mission is still interesting, but as Br. Ingalla and myself were talking the other evening, how can we expect that there will at present be a general turning to God! The churches at large are not prepared to sustain such a result. Suppose, for instance, that there should be a general turning in this small city of Mergui; there would be required at once, some fifteen or twenty school-houses, with teachers; some half dozen chapels, with pastors, &c. &c. Where is the preparation for such a result? For two years past, both in private letters and public papers, I have had accounts of great and thrillingly interesting missionary meetings, and of the great increase of missionary feeling among our churches generally. But where is the fruit of this increased missionary spirit? For this, I have looked in vain. I see no increase of donations—I see no more missionaries flying to secure the dying heathen from the flames of an eternal hell. What can it mean?—Are these great meetings, and this increase of missionary feeling all smoke? One thing is very clearly revealed. That christianity which does not result in the entire consecration of body, soul, and property to God, is a christianity which will not stand the test of the last great day. We are burdened, oppressed, cast down for the want of more laborers. But it is for us to clear our skirts. If we do this, and the heathen perish for the want of the bread of life, where will the blame rest? Upon whom will the guilt fall? Let every christian settle this before God, in view of the Judgment day.

I have long felt that there is a great want of the circulation of missionary intelligence. You publish interesting and thrilling facts, but they reach only a very, very small portion of professed christians. Why was it, that, in the case of the temperance reformation, the whole Union was so soon electrified? Simply because temperance publications were sent into every nook and corner, whether they were requested or not. By this means, thousands read their heart-rending facts, who otherwise would never have dreamed that such things could ever have existed in such a land. Why cannot something like this be done for missions? Surely it cannot be for the want of facts to publish. Then let these facts go—send them far and wide, and you will soon be repaid an hundred fold.

Yours affectionately,

D. L. BRAYTON.

FROM DR. MACGOWAN, OF NINGPO, CHINA.

OCTOBER 29, 1844.

Rev. Dr. Babcock, Secretary of the Am. and For. Bible Society.

MY DEAR BROTHER: I herewith send you several specimens of scripture prescription cards, in Chinese, which I have employed for several months in my hospital at Ningpo. This humble mode of communicating a knowledge of the divine oracles, has been attended with such encouraging results, as to induce me to continue the use of the cards. Part of the sheet is filled with appropriate passages of scripture, such as the following: "God so loved the world," etc.; "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God," etc., and the ten commandments. The blank space is for a memorandum of the treatment and remarks on the progress of the case, in English. The cards, which are highly valued, are kept by the patient, who presents them whenever he appears before the physician. All who can read, commit the passages of scripture to memory; the first to recite them to me was a young Buddhist priest, who, by the time that his body was relieved from suffering, had his mind filled with sufficient bible truth to teach him that Jesus came to save sinners. In this manner, though my knowledge of the language is exceedingly imperfect, I am already enabled to perform some direct missionary work.

The natives of Ningpo never take offence at the most open attempts to promulgate the gospel; they readily assent to the excellence of christianity, and are very lukewarm in the defence of all their superstitions. While they are too polite to object to the new doctrine, they are too indifferent to religion of any kind, to be seriously impressed with the message we have brought them. Yet if the South Sea Islanders and the Karens be excepted, there are, perhaps, no people among whom the missionary can labor with equal prospect of success, when once master of the language.

Some pious native colporteur, who, while distributing the bible, will be able to explain and exhort, is much needed. The importance of employing native colporteurs in distributing religious books, is manifest from the fact, that but a small portion of the Chinese are able to read with facility. A contrary opinion prevails, as the Chinese have so often been described as a reading people; but so far as my observations have extended, (from the Chukiang to the Yangtze'kiang,) I have found that the ability to read well, is by no means common. Perhaps not more than five per cent. of the adult male population are good readers. Out of eight hundred patients, I found but twenty who professed to read native authors indiscriminately. Among the laboring people, who form the mass of the population, the ability to read is extremely rare. The priesthood are nearly as ignorant as the agriculturists and tradesmen. I spent a few days in a celebrated monastery at Puto, ("The Worshipping Island," which is exclusively occupied by priests and their servants,) and found that the abbot was the only reader on the island, and he could read but "seven tenths"—for so the Chinese express themselves—while some can read but "one tenth," others, far better educated, can read "nine tenths."

As it regards the women of China, I have not yet been able to hear of one who could read; even literary men and mandarins have almost derided me for advocating the instruction of females. Hence it becomes necessary for Bible and Tract Societies to employ native colporteurs, who will be able to read and explain their books to the ignorant.

With the last page concludes all that I have thought worth publishing, unless you think the following, in your own language, be an item of interest, viz.: In December last, in anticipation of a nearly total eclipse of the sun, which was to prevail over the greater part of China, I had placards struck off, with the ten commandments and a minute account of the phenomenon, the precise time of its appearance, etc. These were posted in town and country, in the house and by the way side. The eclipse came off per advertisement, to the amazement of the good people of Ningpo; all of whom heard for once the law from Sinai. Do you, my dear brother, labor to send them the better covenant—sealed on Calvary—and you will certainly be abundantly rewarded, even here.

I shall always be glad to hear from you, but cannot promise to write frequently: an annual, or at most a semi-annual letter, is all that I can find time to pen.

With fraternal regard, believe me, sincerely yours,

D. I. MACGOWAN.

FROM REV. E. L. ABBOTT.

SANDOWAY, NOV. 11, 1844.

MY DEAR SIR: I am in due receipt of yours of May 29th, 1843. I have ever felt a deep interest in the American and Foreign Bible Society, because I believe it is a Society founded in the truth. Its supporters are the only people on earth who maintain the true Protestant principle—"The Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible;" and wo betide the day when they shall compromise their distinguishing characteristic, or prove recreant to the solemn charge committed to their keeping by the great Head of the church!

That great protestant principle was on the point of being sacrificed to expediency; when, thanks be to God, witnesses were at hand, faithful and true, who embraced it in the name of heaven, and gave it refuge and protection in the American and Foreign Bible Society. May that Society maintain the principle in honor, and to the glory of God! If there is a Society on earth demanding the hearty, liberal, prayerful support of every Baptist, of every true Protestant, it is the American and Foreign Bible Society; and I honor the men—rather thank God who gave its founders so much light and wisdom.

My dear brother Babcock, you have my hearty good-will, and I will endeavor to carry out your suggestions and see what I can do. I cannot promise for a certainty. My health is gone; just scribbling this page has distressed me, although it has taken but a few minutes. Bronchial consumption is evidently my disease. I have lost the use of my voice, perhaps for ever; a decided pulmonary symptom not very fearful, perhaps not past hope.

In a few days I am going again to the distant jungles. I can whisper yet, and although cautioned by physicians and friends, &c., the voice of my heart speaks distinctly. I may not be able to do any thing to make up a report for your Society, but I will keep it in mind.

A christian salutation to all who love our Lord in sincerity.

Yours affectionately,

E. L. ABBOTT.

FROM REV. CYRUS BARKER.

GOWHATTY, JAN. 30. 1845.

To the Rev. R. Babcock,

MY DEAR BROTHER: I have had the pleasure of receiving your letter in behalf of the Bible cause, and be assured, it would give me great pleasure to do you, as an individual, or the Society, whose organ you are, any favor in my power. I am very sorry, however, to have to tell you in the outset, that Assam is very barren of the information you ask for, and truly a valley of dry bones. On receiving your letter, I was forcibly reminded of a remark made, I think, by one of the Burmese converts, on being requested to exhort christians to aid the mission cause. He said, has not Jesus Christ commanded them to do it? That young man took Christ and his commands as he found them in the Bible, and they became the rule of his action. But what can be said to affect such as are not moved by the voice of Jesus, which the dead heard and sprung to life? Love to Christ, and that alone, will give life and energy to the soul of any Society whose object it is to make him known. It is to be hoped the day is fast passing away when true christians will require any thing more weighty than the Saviour's words to constrain them to act. I have given away many tracts and portions of scripture through the aid, directly or indirectly, of your Society. Our Bengalee books are supplied by the Baptist missionaries in Calcutta, to whose aid your Society came when they were abandoned by the American Bible Society. The demand for books with us has been greater this year than it has been any previous one. This may arise in part from our location at this place, which brings us in contact with a greater population and more reading people than we have before found. But this is not the sole cause of an increased demand for books. There is a settled conviction in the minds of not a few, that our scriptures are to supersede the lying tales of Hindooism, and bring about a thorough and permanent reform in this country. Many call at my house for books, and when I go out, I always take a good supply with me, and sometimes the people are quite clamorous for them. Last August I visited a celebrated temple in this district, where no books had been before distributed. There were about four thousand people in the village. I was informed by the gentleman who was in civil charge at the place, that the people were very bigoted Hindoos, and they would probably all take to their heels and run, if I presented them with a book. The experiment was made, however, and the people made such a rush upon me, that I was obliged to stop distributing two or three times, until they became more quiet. This is by no means the case uniformly. It was a novelty, and perhaps were I to visit the place again within a year, I should be able to give away but few, if any. They indeed told me, that if after reading the books they found them against their religion, they would not entertain them. No doubt many of them will be as good as their word, and put them by as soon as they ascertain their true character. But we feel quite assured that some of them will be read, and leave an impression which will eventually be felt. About nine months ago, I visited a large and densely populated village in this vicinity for the first time. There were many Brahmins in the place, and a good number could read. They were very anxious to receive books, and their wants were supplied. At the end of a few months I visited them again, and had scarcely a request for a book. A very large fire broke out on the day I left the village on my first visit, and the people had been made to believe the fire was a judgment upon them for having received our books, and this was their reason for not wishing more. I now have a school in that village of about sixty scholars, the most of whom are Brahmins, who read the scriptures. And they have kept on with them for the last four or five months beyond my expectation. When I was in Upper Assam, the people who took books were all anxious to obtain large ones. They are very acquisitive, and it is something for them to possess a book, even though they care but little about what it contains. But in this place there has been a departure from the old rule. On some occasions when I have been out in the markets and used the Catechism, they have requested me to give them that book, which is the smallest of all the books which we distribute. Several voices would be heard at once, give me the religious book, or Religious Conversation. The True Refuge has become well known in this place. It lays the axe at the root of Hindooism, and exposes the vices of the Hindoo deities, and explains the way of salvation by Christ. In consequence, it is a most objectionable book to the Gosains and Brahmins, but the common people have been more ready to receive that than any other book, and in very many instances a special request has been made for it. You may hereafter expect more from us, when the people shall have acquired more knowledge of the word of God. It will then appear valuable to them, and a generation will arise to bless those who have exerted themselves to collect funds to print and distribute Bibles. If any would wish to feel the importance of the Bible cause more, let them ask themselves what we could do without the translations of the Bible which your Society furnishes. A very little could be done; much less than could be done in America in those places where the Bible is not in the hands of the people. The preacher there speaks to men of his own caste, whose wants he well understands, and he can so adapt his instructions as to do immense good. They have a common knowledge of, and common faith in, the Bible. But here there is no foundation for faith in the word of God, and missionaries never can do all that is necessary to lay that foundation by preaching. They could not approach it, even could each missionary multiply himself by a hundred, and be constantly on the move, preaching in season and out of season. The people are in jungles, and places never visited by the missionary, where the sound of the Sabbath bell does not come. Nothing can meet their wants and save them from ruin, but the Bible. Give them this, and as far as it is in the power of a few men, teach it to them, and then the fruit can be gathered. To expect such interesting accounts of the achievements of the Bible, as spring up under your eye in America, is expecting fruit before the tree is planted. There is scarcely one in all this valley of dry bones who has the life of the Spirit of God in him, or any just conception of what the gospel is. For those who have it in their power to supply you with the means of giving the word of God to the world, to draw back or relax their efforts because of the absence of some fitful exciting cause; some tale of woe or some wonder of success, would be to act most unworthily, and betray a deficiency of that love by which faith worketh: which overcometh not a few obstacles, or a little selfishness only, but the world. O that Christians might arise—that you—that I—that all, might arise to the honor of living to God in the New Testament signification of the term.

Wishing you the hearty, continued, and increased co-operation of all the friends of the Redeemer, in labors, alms, and prayers, I remain, with kindest Christian love,

Your affectionate Brother in Christ,

CYRUS BARKER.

FROM I. J. ROBERTS.

CANTON, 14th, December, 1844.

I am happy to inform you that your colporteur, Chow, is again at his post, and does not find any difficulty in going publicly from shop to shop, in Canton, distributing the word of God, and stopping at convenient times and places to preach to the people. This I little expected to see so soon, when I first came to Canton: and indeed we have thus far had no hindrance whatever to our onward progress in the work of the Lord. And now he is willing to accompany me to Futsan, about eighteen or twenty miles up the river, to a very large city, and distribute books; and there is no difficulty whatever, in going to Whampoa, and the villages round about there, which have many inhabitants. Indeed, I know not the limit to my field. Our boats and bounds according to treaty, have not been set yet, and when they are, it is most likely they will be liberally large, to persons who conduct themselves with propriety. But my limits consist more in the number of my books, than latitude and longitude of territory; for I have had no chance yet to make any thing like a general distribution of the scriptures. Indeed I don't think that I myself have yet distributed a thousand copies in Canton, of any portion of the scriptures, for want of books.

CHOW'S JOURNAL.

Canton.

15th December, 1844. Sunday.—Early this morning after prayer, Teacher Lo, Chow, and Tukhe, went into the street to preach the gospel. The first shop we took a seat in was visited by several tens of persons, to whom I preached Jesus, and they seemed gratified, and I distributed among them twenty volumes of scripture. We returned to our new chapel where many having heard of our distributing, flowed in to hear the doctrines. The brethren consecutively preached to them, and gave them books. Then others came, and we explained to them, and gave them books. Thus the goers went and the comers came in one continual succession—one made the thing known to ten, and ten to a hundred; the near being pleased the distant came—even until after breakfast it was thus. At one time having a congregation of several tens of hearers, we knelt down and prayed, and I took up the subject, and explained to them most clearly, and then we distributed books: altogether in the chapel I distributed about one hundred volumes.

A 11 o'clock Teacher Lo, Chow, Cheng and Tukhe, went to hold service at Wong-sung Hong, our former residence. After service Chow and Lo went to Honam, and distributed books from shop to shop, one book at each. When we had distributed to a temple, we went in and preached to the people, and distributed books. Again went to a vacant house for watchmen, and again preached and distributed books. While on the Honam side, altogether gave away one hundred and twenty volumes. Then we crossed back to the chapel, where again we met with several to listen to the doctrines, which having again explained, we gave them books. After dinner I myself went to several shops, explaining and distributing books—ten volumes,—returned, and united in family worship. To day have distributed two hundred and fifty volumes.

FROM REV. I. J. ROBERTS.

CANTON.

Dear Brother Babcock.—Please excuse a short letter, or only part of a letter—for my chronic headach has beset me somewhat, for some days, and prevented me from writing very much. Yet my health has greatly improved since I have been in Canton, so that it might be said to be renewed like the eagle's. I feel quite happy in my work, and feel persuaded that I am in the road to usefulness: but when it will come in its full power, remains with the Lord; but I still look for, and believe there will be a mighty shaking in this valley of dry bones ere long! Yours truly,

The Committee, appointed by the Board of Managers, of the American and Foreign Bible Society, February 5th, 1845, at the request of William Colgate, to examine his account, with "The Trust left in the United States of America, by Wm. Ward, for the education of Hindoo Young Men, candidates for the Christian Ministry," of which trust he is now the only surviving trustee, beg leave to Report:

That they have attended to the duty assigned them: they have examined said account, with the complete vouchers thereof, and find it to be correct; leaving in the hands of Wm. Colgate, as Trustee, Ten Thousand Dollars, in certificates of New York, five per cent, State Stock: and that they further find a balance of One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-Two Dollars, and fifty-seven cents, to be due to the said Wm. Colgate, for moneys advanced by him, at different periods, beyond the amount of Dividends accruing from the State Stocks aforesaid.

All which is respectfully submitted:

Judgment on the wicked.

Elijah's coming and office.

CHAPTER IV.

1 God's judgment on the wicked, 2 and his blessing on the good. 4 He exhorteth to the study of the law, 5 and telleth of Elijah's coming and office.

FOR behold, the day cometh, that I shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch.

2 ¶ But unto you that fear my name, shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 ¶ And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 ¶ Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.

5 ¶ Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD:

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

PSALM I.

The happiness of the godly.

BLESSED is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

2 But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

3 And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

4 The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

6 For the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

PSALM II.

The kingdom of Christ.

WHY do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing?

2 The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the LORD, and against his Anointed, saying,

3 Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us.

4 He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

5 Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure.

6 Yet have I set my King upon my holy hill of Zion.

7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee.

8 Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession.

9 Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

10 Be wise now therefore, O ye kings: be instructed, ye judges of the earth.

11 Serve the LORD with fear, and rejoice with trembling.

12 Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little. Blessed are all they that put their trust in him.

PSALM III.

The security of God's protection.

A Psalm of David, when he fled from Absalom his son.

LORD, how are they increased that trouble me? many are they that rise up against me.

2 Many there be which say of my soul, There is no help for him in God. Selah.

3 But thou, O LORD, art a shield for me; my glory, and the lifter up of my head.

4 I cried unto the LORD with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy hill. Selah.

5 I laid me down and slept; I awaked; for the LORD sustained me.

6 I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people, that have set themselves against me round about.

7 Arise, O LORD; save me, O my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone; thou hast broken the teeth of the ungodly.

8 Salvation belongeth unto the LORD: thy blessing is upon thy people. Selah.

The First Book of MOSES, called GENESIS.

CHAP. I

The creation of Heaven and Earth.

IN the beginning God created the Heaven, and the Earth.

2 And the earth was without form, and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

3 And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.

4 And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness.

5 And God called the light, Day, and the darkness he called Night: and the evening and the morning were the first day.

6 ¶ And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters: and let it divide the waters from the waters.

7 And God made the firmament; and divided the waters, which were under the firmament, from the waters, which were above the firmament: and it was so.

8 And God called the firmament, Heaven: and the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 ¶ And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was so.

10 And God called the dry land, earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he, Seas: and God saw that it was good.

11 And God said, Let the Earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree, yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so.

12 And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 ¶ And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide the day from the night: and let them be for signs and for seasons, and for days and years.

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God made two great lights:

the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth:

18 And to rule over the day, and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20 And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

21 And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

22 And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24 ¶ And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so.

25 And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth, after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

26 ¶ And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

27 So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

28 And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it, and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

29 ¶ And God said, Behold, I have

A. D. 66.

1 Confirming them in hope of the increase of God's promises, and good works, to make their calling sure: knowing that his death is at hand: 16 and Christ, who is the true Son of God, by the apostles' beholding his majesty, and by the testimony of the Father, and the prophets.

2 Simon Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained all precious faith with us through the righteousness of God and our Saviour Jesus Christ:

3 Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord,

4 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to his glory and virtue:

5 Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge;

6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall:

11 For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

17 And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

20 He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly: Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

21 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen

PREAMBLE AND CONSTITUTION

OF THE

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

WHEREAS the inspired Scriptures, the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, are the only authoritative Divine Standard containing the revelation of God for the whole human family: And whereas, the council of Trent, in 1546, declares that a Latin translation, called the Vulgate, "shall be held as authentic, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever," and the Rheimish Testament was translated from the Vulgate into English in 1582,—the translators declaring that the Vulgate "is not only better than all other Latin translations, but than the Greek text itself in those places where they disagree;" which assumptions have been generally repudiated by all enlightened Christians, not in the Romish church;—

And whereas, The American Bible Society, in 1836, approved of the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principle of their translation to the common English version; at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this Society can consistently use and circulate said versions in their several schools and communities."

The remonstrants against this resolution, believing it to be a virtual abandonment of the great principle of Protestantism, and the adoption of that of the Council of Trent, as well as a departure from the basis of the original compact of the Society, which states their object to be, "the dissemination of the Scriptures in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required," and having in vain taken every Christian measure to prevent its passage and enforcement, were constrained to form, provisionally, in 1836, and fully organize in 1837, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY: FOUNDED UPON THE PRINCIPLE, that the originals in the Hebrew and Greek are the only authentic standards of the Sacred Scriptures; and that aid for the translating, printing, or distributing of them in foreign languages, should be afforded to such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text; it being understood that no words are to be transferred which are susceptible of being literally translated.

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. The name of this Society shall be, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually shall be a member.

ART. IV. Each contributor of thirty dollars at one time shall be a member for life.

ART. V. Each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars shall be a life director, and such life directors as are members in good standing in their respective churches, shall be members of the Board.

ART. VI. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such Societies shall be ex-officio directors of this.

ART. VII. A Board of thirty-six Managers shall be appointed to conduct the business of the Society, twenty-four of whom shall reside in the city of New-York, or its vicinity; the whole Board to be elected annually by the Society, and to hold their office until superseded by a new election. The Board shall have power to fill such vacancies as may occur in their number.

ART. VIII. The President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries and Treasurer, shall be ex-officio members of the Board.

ART. IX. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, five of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. X. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life, or directors for life.

ART. XI. At the meetings of the Society, and of the Board of Managers, the President, or, in his absence, the Vice-President first upon the list then present, and in the absence of all the Vice-Presidents, the Treasurer, and in his absence, such member as shall be chosen for that purpose, shall preside.

ART. XII. The Annual Meeting of the Society, shall be held at New-York, on the day before the last Wednesday in April in each year, or at any other time or place at the option of the Society; when the accounts of the Treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year, by the members entitled to vote on the Treasurer's books the beginning of the said month.

ART. XIII. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call a special meeting of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given.

ART. XIV. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XV. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

TENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Society held its Tenth Anniversary in the Meeting House of the First Baptist Church, Broome-street, N. Y., on Tuesday, May 11, 1847.

The Society was called to order by the President at 9 o'clock, A. M. After singing, prayer was offered by bro. James E. Welch, of New Jersey.

Brethren Aaron Perkins, of Poughkeepsie, John Peck, of Cazenovia, Lewis A. Dunn, of Vt., S. J. Drake, of N. J., S. D. Phelps, of New Haven, Asa Wilbur, of Boston, and Warren Carter, of N. Y. city, were appointed a Committee to nominate a Board of Officers and Managers for the ensuing year.

While the Nominating Committee were preparing their report, brethren Horace Seaver, of Mass., and Ira R. Steward, of N. Y., engaged in prayer.

The Com. on Nominations reported the list of Officers and Managers for the ensuing year, who were unanimously elected. See p. 4.

The time and place of the next Annual Meeting of the Society, were left with the Board of Managers.

Public exercises commenced at 10 A. M. Bro. Isaac Wescott, of N. Y., read a part of the 119th Psalm, and bro. Henry V. Jones, of Newark, N. J., engaged in prayer.

The Treasurer, William Colgate, read his report, and on motion of Nathan C. Platt, of N. Y. city, seconded by Thomas Purser, of Brooklyn, was adopted and ordered to be printed under the direction of the Board of Managers.

The President then addressed the meeting.

Bro. Wm. H. Wyckoff, Corresponding Secretary, read an Abstract of the Annual Report, and on motion of Edward Lathrop, of N. Y., seconded by E. L. Abbott, missionary from Arracan, it was

Resolved, That the Annual Report, an abstract of which has now been read, be printed and circulated under the direction of the Board of Managers.

On motion of bro. Thomas Taylor, of Phila., seconded by Luke Barker, M. D., of N. Y., it was

Resolved, That as the Holy Scriptures we circulate are able to make men wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus, we ought to pursue the great work of translating and disseminating the Bible, confident that through the blessing of God, our labor shall not be in vain in the Lord.

On motion of Rufus Babcock, of N. Bedford, seconded by Benj. M. Hill, Cor. Sec'y of Am. Bap. H. M. Society, it was

Resolved, That, as the best interests of our country demand the universal diffusion of the sacred Scriptures; so it is prominently incumbent upon those who have evinced praiseworthy unwillingness to incur,—in evangelizing the distant heathen,—the Saviour's rebuke for breaking one of the least of his commandments and teaching men so—to bestir themselves in the work of HOME DISTRIBUTION, lest they should draw down on themselves the condemnation of violating the second great commandment—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

Adjourned, with benediction by the President.

E. S. WHITNEY, Rec. Sec'y.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Brethren and Friends of the Bible cause! We welcome you to another anniversary of the AMERICAN and FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY. Although some of the Southern Auxiliaries have withdrawn from our Union, and we have not been able to obtain several bequests, for want of a charter—yet the receipts of the current year exceed those of the corresponding twelve months of the preceding year, and we have therefore good reason to thank God and take courage.

Unity of purpose and great harmony of action have characterized the meetings of your Board of Managers, and their various and oftentimes onerous duties, have been discharged with promptitude and cheerfulness.

Our opponents, by their relentless and persevering hostility, have frustrated our oft-repeated efforts to procure from the state legislature an act of incorporation; and we must now wait until, according to the provisions of the new constitution, an act shall be passed under which all the religious and benevolent institutions in the State may secure a name in law. We shall then be competent to receive and hold moneys bequeathed us by the friends of God and man, even though we should persist in maintaining that Jesus Christ was immersed by John the Baptist, and that the patrons of this Society ought not to be disfranchised for following HIM as dear children.

All that has been said or done against this Society, has been excused or justified from the fact that it was called into existence by Baptists, and great pains have been taken to impress this fact upon the public mind. Who denies it? What other denomination is prepared to take for its motto—THE BIBLE TRANSLATED? Not one! Were this sentiment universally received and obeyed by real christians—the one Lord, one Faith, and one Baptism, of the New Testament, would no longer be a dead letter, but a living and descriptive truth. But whatever may be said about the organization of the Society, we hope and pray that the principle upon which it is founded may not be confined to the Baptists, but speedily come to be an axiom in the creed and practice of all bible translators. God forbid that his word should be bound! Let it run, and have free course, and be glorified!

The Hanserd Knolly's Society of England, which takes its name from a worthy minister of the gospel who, in his day, earnestly contended for the faith once delivered to the saints, has published several of the works of early Baptist writers. I have read them with pleasure and profit, and from the editor's advertisement select the following eloquent sentences, as containing a great, and to Baptists a most encouraging, historical fact. "To the Baptists belongs the high honor of first asserting in this land, and of establishing on the immutable basis of just argument and scripture rule, the right of every man to worship God as conscience dictates, in submission only to divine command. These pioneers of the soul's freedom fell 'martyrs for conscience' sake;'—it were ingratitude to withhold a coronal of deserved commendation, wreathed from the bright leaves and blossoms of the tree they planted in sorrow, and watered with their blood; but under whose shadow it is our happiness to live."

Some ignorantly suppose that liberty of conscience was a doctrine of the reformation—far from it! It is a doctrine of the Baptists of the first century—has been held by them ever since, and their adherence to it in the 16th and 17th centuries called forth upon their heads a torrent of abuse and persecution from the so called reformed churches. "It was the crime of the Baptists that they rejected secular interference in the church of God; it was the boast and aim of the reformers everywhere to employ it: the natural fruit of the one was persecution, of the other liberty! There is not a confession of faith, nor a creed formed by any of the reformers, which does not give to the magistrate a coercive power in religion, and almost every one at the same time curses the resisting Baptist." Nevertheless, one has chased a thousand, and two have put ten thousand to flight, and in spite of crowned heads, councils, and diets; of persecutions, sufferings, and "fiery martyrdoms, which attended and lit up the labors of these calumniated men," FREEDOM TO WORSHIP GOD is now an admitted right. The high honor of first asserting it, not only in England but in this happy land, belongs to the Baptists; to God be all the glory!

Liberty of conscience and the bible translated, are kindred truths, alike essential and important in the kingdom of Christ. If man has a right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, subject only to the command of God, he has an equal right to know what the Lord would have him to do. We were separated from the American Bible Society for conscience' sake: let us not then be lightly reproached or condemned. They decided to act upon the truth concealing principle, and not translate all the bible, but only so much as would harmonize with the views of the different sects composing the Society: we adhered, as in conscience bound, to the truth revealing principle, and THE BIBLE TRANSLATED is the basis of our separate action. Are we not standing on a sure foundation? What though many cry out shame upon us! We must bear the shame rather than sell the truth. We must look to Jesus, who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and then we shall neither faint nor grow weary in our great work. We shall go forward, as the unflinching and indomitable defenders of liberty of conscience have done before us, being confident of this very thing, that the God of the bible will vindicate his own word. The joy set before us is the triumph of our principle of translation, which shall ultimately give to all the nations of earth, our own as well as others, pure versions of the sacred scriptures. Then the watchmen upon the walls of Zion shall see eye to eye, and the Redeemer shall be glorified in the heartfelt union of his people—when they shall take his holy book as their only rule of faith and practice, and throw away to the moles and to the bats unscriptural dogmas and mere human traditions.

In the further prosecution of our labor of love, a conflict severe and protracted must be anticipated. We stand alone, opposed by all the pædobaptist Bible Societies in the world. We have religious bigotry, and numbers, and wealth, and national establishments against us—Infant sprinkling must be perpetuated, or they must crumble and decay; and the transfer dogma will be used to the utmost. China is to be a great battle field. The British and Foreign Bible Society have pledged to the pædobaptist missionaries there, any amount of money necessary to revise and print the Chinese bible—conformed to the English bible—and they even propose to call it The received Chinese version, although our missionaries testify that baptism is not only veiled, as in the English scriptures, but is truly and clearly perversed, by these transfer brethren. Their version can never be received by us. The same course has been adopted with the Greek scriptures, and open violations of the sacred text have been resorted to, to cover up the first command of Zion's King to his believing children. This system will be carried on, until believers' baptism, although written in the New Testament as with a sunbeam, shall be either mystified, or totally blotted out of every transfer version. In this matter we stand alone witnesses for Christ. But the path of duty is plain, and I feel sorrow in my heart for the immersed believer who is either ashamed or afraid to come up with us to the help of the Lord against the mighty. Buy the truth and sell it not, oh ye followers of the Lamb.

Brethren and friends! if God be for us, who can be, finally and successfully, against us?

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again,
The eternal years of God are hers;
But error, wounded, writhes in pain,
And dies among his worshippers.

Be ye therefore steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

TENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The American and Foreign Bible Society has completed another year of its existence. Once more in the multitude of God's tender mercies, is the Board of Managers permitted to greet its numerous members with affectionate salutation.

The history of the year presents events and circumstances of a striking character. Both in heathen and christian lands, God has signally blessed the distribution of His word. Paganism has sustained blow upon blow, until its systems of delusion totter to the fall. Romanist and Protestant are found accessible to the truth, and many of them have already bowed to the sceptre of King Immanuel. Light is breaking upon all parts of the earth, and the powers of darkness are shaken. For facts and details regarding the progress of this class of events and circumstances, reference is made to the last Periodical of the Board, and to the Correspondence appended to this Report.

Under God, it depends upon christians to prosecute the victories already gained for the truth, and to add new conquests to the dominions of the saints. Circumstances, however, do not always favor that union of effort and action, which secures the greatest strength, and is most conducive to the accomplishment of the grandest and most glorious enterprises. To satisfy the views and wishes of many real friends to the principle of our organization, it was deemed expedient at the meeting of the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention in June last, to clothe the Boards of that missionary body with power to collect and disburse money for bible distribution. This measure was accompanied by resolutions, unanimously adopted, expressive of the most implicit confidence in this Society, and the most earnest desires for its continued prosperity.

Subsequently to the action of the Convention, five southern state societies have, with similar manifestations of regard and confidence toward the Parent Institution, withdrawn from their auxiliary relation, and united themselves directly with the Missionary Boards. Others have with perfect unanimity declared their continued adherence to this organization. All, we believe, are determined to purchase their books for domestic distribution exclusively from us. It may be premature to anticipate, but we cherish the hope, which nothing has occurred to diminish, but much to increase and strengthen, that the uniform course of christian kindness hitherto pursued, accompanying the steady prosecution of the one legitimate business of the Society, will ultimately result in winning back the cordial co-operation of old friends and adding many new ones to an Institution, which justly claims the unanimous and efficient support of all who love, and desire to circulate, the pure word of God.

DOMESTIC OPERATIONS.

By consulting the list of prices, it may be seen that the number and variety of our books, have been considerably enlarged. This was rendered necessary by two circumstances. The general demand for English scriptures had considerably increased, which constantly brought us from auxiliaries orders for descriptions that we could not furnish. The withdrawal of auxiliaryship on the part of several state societies, left their connexion with us exclusively dependent upon our ability to supply their demands for books, whilst the very separation from us, led some of those societies to a more direct and extensive attention to domestic distribution, to secure more energetic and united action among themselves. This immediately produced new calls for varieties not possessed by us, with the announcement in some instances accompanying, that these varieties being indispensably needed, must be sought elsewhere, unless they could be supplied from our depository.

Impressed with the necessity of meeting the rapidly growing demand, and profoundly convinced of the importance of your foreign operations, the Board have endeavored to attain the desired object without incurring a large outlay for stereotype plates. No new plates have been ordered during the year, but the varieties of stock have been increased principally by purchases and contracts for specified descriptions, executed on advantageous terms by different societies and companies in Europe and this country.

One set of plates has been purchased. The uncommonly cheap terms on which they were offered, their excellent condition, and the demand for the particular description which they furnish, have combined to induce this outlay.

It is thought best on the present occasion, to make a passing allusion to the importance of our domestic operations. Had they never been commenced, the curious and inexplicable spectacle would now have been exhibited, of millions of people co-operating with, upholding and sanctioning a Society, whose principles are directly opposed to their views of right. An ineffectual endeavor has sometimes been made to draw such a line of demarcation between domestic and foreign distribution, that the way may seem clear to unite with an institution in the former, and abjure the principles by which it conducts the latter, or to assist in the one class of operations, and not to aid in the support of the other. Such a line may be imagined in theory; it does not exist in practice. It resembles an attempt to contribute towards the support and countenance of a country directly adverse in its principles and proceedings to our national interests, accompanied by a stipulation, that the money contributed should be expended upon the home government, and not in support of its foreign policy. Every addition of strength to the home government, would indirectly enlarge the means of the state for maintaining that policy; and if such a course of reasoning and action should become universal in our land, the moral effect would embrace more than the certain and utter paralyzation of our own government, and the complete triumph of the other. In the eyes of the whole civilized world, it would exhibit an explicit and decided condemnation of our own government, expressed by the co-operation of the whole people with a foreign opponent.

In the case of a bible society, co-operation in part, also constantly tends towards co-operation in full. Domestic operations are maintained by an auxiliary, partly by purchase and sale, and partly by gratuitous donation. In each case the publications of the Parent Institution are extensively circulated, and wherever seen, extend information and sympathy concerning its operations. Every gratuitous appropriation by the parent to the auxiliary, imposes an obligation upon all the members to contribute to its funds. Every bible and every testament, gratuitously bestowed, or sold at a reduced price, ought to awaken a sense of gratitude in the recipient, and to dispose him, when he possesses the means, to add his donation. Small sums are seldom designated, but pass into the general fund. Thus the constant tendency of co-operation, however partial may be the original design, is to sustain the institution in all its departments. Indeed it may be assumed, if not as a set of collateral axioms, as a concatenation of propositions indisputably established by argument and exemplified by fact, that sympathy accompanies co-operation; contribution follows sympathy; and the ultimate tendency—almost the inevitable result, is an identity of interests, including support and countenance in all general features of policy and proceeding.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS.

The foreign operations of the year closing on the 1st of May, 1847, are detailed under the respective names of the countries in which they have been conducted. The appropriations for such purposes, during the same period, are embraced in the following enumeration.

To the Bible Translation Society for Bengali and other Scriptures, .	$2000 00
“ General Baptist Miss. Society for Oriya Scriptures, . . .	1000 00
“ English “ “ “ Scripture distrib'n in the Bahamas, .	74 93
“ Am. Bap. Miss. Union for Peguan and Sho Karen Scriptures, .	2000 00
“ “ “ “ Bible distrib'n in the Cherokee Nation, .	100 00
“ “ “ “ modern Greek New Testament . . .	250 00
“ “ “ “ missionaries in Greece, . . .	53 03
“ Indian Miss. Association for bible distrib'n in the Choctaw Nation, .	27 75
“ J. G. Oacken for stereotype plates, salaries of colporteurs, and bible [distribution, . . . . .	2500 00

“ “ “ “ missionaries to China, . . .	9 57
“ Nova Scotia Home and Foreign Mission Board, . . . .	9 74
	$8,374 42

Another appropriation to Germany has been made, but as it is not yet paid, it is not here recorded. Nineteen hundred and ten copies of gospels have also been appropriated to the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention, for the use of missionaries in Canton, China. These do not appear in the above account, because their cost has not yet been ascertained.

INDIA.—CALCUTTA.

At the commencement of the fiscal year now closing, the sum of $2,000 was appropriated to the Bible Translation Society, "to aid in printing and distributing the Sacred Scriptures by the Calcutta Baptist Missionaries." Information of the fact was immediately addressed to the missionaries through the ordinary channels of intelligence, but it appears not to have been received by them, when the letter, from which the following extended extract is made, was dated. The contents of this extract are so full and explicit regarding the disbursement of our funds, and so expressive of the confidence with which the missionaries rely upon our aid in the maintenance of their present and prospective operations, that we feel justified in inviting particular attention to its statements on the part of all who read the Report.

MY DEAR BROTHER:

Since the date of my last we have been enabled to complete the whole Bible in Bengali. The edition consists of 500 copies in quarto, and 2,500 in large octavo, or 3 000 in all. Also, three editions of the New Testament in the same language, giving an aggregate of 8,500 entire Testaments, beside 5,000 copies of the Four Gospels and the Acts together. Of single Gospels in Bengali, we have printed 15,000 each of Matthew, Mark, and Luke; 10,000 of the Acts, and 5,000 of Luke and Acts together are nearly completed—15,000 of John will follow. We have in the press 5,000 of Genesis and part of Exodus; similar editions of the Proverbs, and of Isaiah and Daniel, will immediately follow.

A new edition of the Testament in Hindui is in the press, consisting of 2,500 copies of the entire Testament, 1,500 of the Gospel and Acts together, and 4,000 each of the same books separately. In Hindustani, in the Persian character, we completed a few months ago the four Gospels, and are going on with the Epistles. In Sanskrit, a new edition of the Proverbs has been recently printed, and one of the entire Testament is now in hand. We hope shortly to commence a new edition of the entire Bible in Bengali, and also to commence an edition of the Bible in Sanskrit. The distributions, during 1845, were upwards of 55,000; this year they have not been so extensive, but by the end of the year, I believe, they will not fall short of 40,000 volumes. Hitherto the circulation of the sacred oracles among the people, has had the effect of creating a growing desire among them for still more ample supplies. Considering how wedded the people are to idolatry, and how opposed the word of God is to all their long cherished habits, it is wonderful that there should be such a desire among them to obtain the scriptures. We may surely hope that the great Author of the Bible intends to overrule this desire to possess the scriptures, whatever be the motive, for the good of the people and his own glory.

I had hoped, long ere this, to have published a new report of the translations, in which, of course, a statement of accounts would have appeared. This desirable object I hope ere long to accomplish; in the mean time you will like to know how the contributions your Society has so kindly sent us, have been expended. We have, as stated in my last, hitherto kept your contributions separate from our general Translation Fund, and I have charged to your account such proportions of different editions of the sacred scriptures, as we hoped would be met by such contributions, and at the same time afford satisfaction to your Society. This plan, as you may suppose, has led us to anticipate your kind appropriations. Our hopes of continued assistance from you have perhaps been too large and too sanguine, and have induced us to calculate rather too much on the amount you would from year to year contribute; and hence we may have placed too many items to the debit of your Society. I will, however, here give you a brief abstract, commencing from the date of the account given in the last page of our third Report, and showing the present balance, and then leave it to you to say whether we have erred in expecting too much from our friends in America, or not.

The account as per our printed report showed a balance against your Society on the 1st February, 1843, of cash receipts, . . . . .

1191 6 4

Since then a number of bills have from time to time been made out, of which the following is an abstract:

Towards this we had the pleasure of receiving through the Rev. I. Angus in the close of 1843, cash receipts, 6461 14 7

Again in the close of 1845, . . . . . 5113 10 0

11575 8 7

Balance, cash receipts,

Thus leaving a balance in excess of what we have received, of nearly 8,500 rupees, or about 4,250 dollars. I hope we have not calculated too much on the liberality of our American friends, but trust your excellent Society will not only make appropriations to clear off this amount, but also to enable us to prosecute the great work to which divine Providence has especially called us. The works to which we stand pledged, as the entire Bible in Sanskrit, and new edition of the whole Bible in Bengali, in addition to constantly keeping up supplies of the New Testament scripture in the principal languages of the country, will make acceptable all the aid you can afford, and at the same time call for constant and efficient assistance from our friends in England and elsewhere. It occurs to mind, that Mr. Angus stated in a letter received some months ago, that the American and Foreign Bible Society had promised to contribute towards the Sanskrit Bible to the extent of, if I mistake not, £500. I hope the five thousand and odd rupees received in the latter end of 1845, acknowledged above, were not intended to be appropriated to that object. If they were we shall be in some difficulty, unless your Society will generously allow that to stand as a contribution towards our operations generally, as we have regarded it, or else grant us other appropriations from which we may replace that amount. I shall look for your reply with some anxiety, though the assistance your Society has heretofore rendered, encourages me to hope you will not fail to do all I solicit. No, you and many thousands more, are too much interested in the glorious work, and too fully pledged to labor for its promotion, to allow me to think that you will disappoint the hopes reposed in you.

In reply to your inquiry, whether any thing was done by bro. Yates towards a correct English version of the sacred scriptures, I am sorry to have to answer in the negative; excepting his translations into one or other of the languages of this country, and particularly that of the Bible into Bengali, we have no detailed exposition of his views as to the meaning of the sacred text, or of the manner in which the import of the original should be expressed in another language. Had his very valuable life been spared, we had it in contemplation to publish an edition of the Greek text of the New Testament, with an English version, in order to convey to our friends in England and America, as far as possible, an idea of what our versions present to the people of this country, as the mind of the Spirit or the word of God. His lamented death has caused a change in our plan. We no longer intend to publish the New Testament in Greek, but we still think it desirable to bring out an edition in English. The text of this will be prepared by our esteemed bro. Wenger, whose familiarity with the original, extensive reading, and sound judgment, as well as his having been long associated in the work of translation with our late bro. Yates, fit him eminently for the work. Other brethren will assist as it goes through the press. Should it be of no further or more general service, it will enable those who sustain our efforts to judge how far our versions are likely to be deserving of their continued countenance, as faithfully representing the mind of God as revealed in his word.

Praying that an abundant blessing may rest on all your efforts to pro-note the circulation of the word of God; that your Society may obtain increasing support, and also entreating that, as God may prosper you, you will think of and aid us in this distant part of the world,

I remain, dear sir, yours in Christian bonds,

J. THOMAS.

ORISSA.

At the commencement of the year, an appropriation of $1,000 was made "to the General Baptist Missionary Society to aid in printing and circulating the sacred scriptures in Orissa, under the supervision of Rev. Amos Sutton." A highly interesting letter was subsequently received from him, dated Cuttack, Feb. 24th, 1846. The whole of it was published in the Periodical for October, and therefore need not to appear in the Report. It informed us of the completion of the last revision of the Oriya Bible. This momentous undertaking has occupied his attention during a series of years, and its successful termination is to be hailed as an occurrence of high note in the history of biblical literature. A particular sentiment of the letter, is so excellent and judicious, and so aptly expressed and illustrated, that we feel obliged to repeat it here, although it has been already quoted in the Appeal of the Board.

"I am not in circumstances to collect facts relating to individual instances of conversion through the circulation of the scriptures. Every now and then, distinct allusion is made to cases of their usefulness, by the converts themselves, when relating their experience; but I confess that for one, I lay much less stress on such matters than formerly. The usefulness of our scriptures is indisputable. We could do nothing efficiently without them. Their influence resembles the showers of heaven, and the glorious sun, in maturing the produce of the earth. All that we require is a judicious use of them, so that on the one hand profusion may not tend to the undervaluing of them, nor on the other, parsimony to an injurious withholding of the blessing."

BURMAH.

In accordance with the plan of former years, we here present the full statistical table of scripture issues, prepared and transmitted by bro. Osgood, for the year 1845.

Since the foregoing was transmitted, bro. Osgood has returned to this country on account of the debilitated state of his health leaving bro. Ranney in charge of the mission press. Early in the year your Board appropriated to the Missionary Union the sum of $500 for the Peguan, and $500 for the Sho Karen scrip tures. Subsequently a letter was received from bro. Ranney, dated July 23d, 1846, applying on behalf of the mission for an appropriation to print a large edition of the Peguan New Testament, the translation of which had been completed by brother Haswell. The application was referred for reciprocal consideration to the Executive Committee of the Missionary Union, and the result of their deliberations upon it was a renewal of the application, associated with a statement of the needs of other missions for similar purposes for the year commencing 1st of April, 1847.

Considering the case of the Peguan scriptures the most pressing, the Board immediately made an appropriation of $1000 for that specific object, which was paid out of the first available funds.

CHINA.

The interest in China as a field for the most extensive and promising biblical operations, continues unabated, although circumstances have occurred tending to diminish the zeal with which such operations are at the present time prosecuted by Baptist missionaries. As some of these missionaries have become more familiar with the native language, and have witnessed the effect produced by the perusal of versions now in use upon the minds of converts, they begin to express doubts about the expediency of giving extensive circulation to books that evidently abound in error. At the same time they seem to be more than ever impressed with the importance of giving the pure word of God to the Chinese, and with the abundant and inviting facilities afforded for scripture distribution. In a letter received from Dr. Devan, under date of February 20th, 1846, are the following expressions :

" With regard to the respective merits or demerits of the various versions, have seen no reason to change my views from those expressed in your printed report for 1844, except that I look with more and more distrust upon Medhurst's version, because of its paraphrastic or free character. It certainly is not a faithful version; nevertheless, I believe it to be as intelligible, if not more so, than any other version of the Holy Scriptures. Indeed, it is that version which is now being circulated in China by all the evangelical missions that engage at all in the work of bible circulation.

"The American and Foreign Bible Society at this moment stands in a very peculiar attitude with regard to the Chinese, as well as to the world at large. It has in employ more christian colporteurs in China than all other societies or missions of an evangelical order put together. (When I say 'it,' I speak rather of American Baptists as a body.) But it has at the same time adopted as its rule of action, 'the Bible translated,' whereas there do not yet exist the Chinese scriptures literally translated. Indeed, the sheets herewith forwarded, prove to you that the distinctive ordinance of our denomination is not merely veiled, as in the English scriptures, but is truly and clearly perverted. My object in addressing you on this subject is to put you in possession of the errors of the different versions in respect to Baptism, and at the same time to throw upon you the responsibility of deciding whether you will permit your colporteurs to circulate these erroneous doctrines. It will be necessary however for you to bear in mind that the dilemma is,—you must either circulate such as we have, or none at all. It almost amounts to this, will you retain colporteurs or not in this land?"

This letter is accompanied by full tables, embracing every instance in the New Testament in which βαπτίζω and its cognates occur, and giving the translation of each passage in Chinese as it is respectively found in the versions of Marshman, Morrison, Medhurst, and Gutzlaff. The Chinese expression has in each case annexed a literal rendering in English. Upon these tables it is sufficient to remark that, throughout the numerous places in which baptism is spoken of, Marshman invariably employs words or phrases significant of immersion; Morrison almost invariably, those which denote washing, once immersion, and once sinking; Medhurst and Gutzlaff, interchangeably, the washing ceremony, ceremonial washing, and washing ceremonial act. In Gutzlaff's revised edition of 1846, the idea of a dipping ceremony prevails, occasionally varied by that of a ceremonial washing.

The writer adds,

"The pecuniary assistance which the support of our colporteurs by the American and Foreign Bible Society renders to this mission, is a matter of such importance, that we can with very great difficulty dispense with it. Indeed I am not sure but that the withdrawal of your aid, may compel the mission to discharge some of our help. Although this contingency is before me. I yet feel it my duty to let you know the actual nature of the versions your colporteurs circulate, and you must act your pleasure.

"I remark among other things not yet given to the public, that Medhurst's and Gutzlaff's version of 'prophet' προφητης is sometimes rendered foreknowing and sometimes 'holy man.' This latter is almost always employed in Medhurst's version, the one now every where distributed. This places the prophets exactly on a par with Confucius :—the words 'holy man' as used, imply a man innately learned ; one who has no need of study.

"The colporteurs of the Am. and Foreign Bible Society, have freely circulated the scriptures such as we have, and also many tracts. Every where in a greater or less degree has the name of Jesus been heard, and we wait with uplifted eye for the Lord to cause the seed thus broad cast to bear a rich harvest to his glory. I feel that you can and ought to assist your colporteurs by remembering them and their labors at the throne of grace. Commend me to the dear brethren of the Board, and do assure them of our entire willingness to co-operate with them in their labor of love. Every day am I so impressed with the necessity of a special influence from above to convince a sinner of the error of his way, that I am daily leaning more and more upon the word of Jehovah—that sure word which is able to make wise unto eternal life.

I am yours in the bonds of Christian love,

THOS. T. DEVAN."

The subject thus brought before your attention, is so important in itself, and so intimately connected with the prospective operations of the Society, that we have thought proper to treat it in a special article under the head of "Chinese Bible."

Voluminous journals from colporteurs have been received. Their general tone indicates great eagerness on the part of the people to obtain the scriptures, and deep interest in perusing them. Much of the time of the colporteurs seems to be occupied in answering questions suggested by the new doctrine. The Chinese can scarcely credit the idea, that the quest for money is not the motive of the missionaries and their assistants. When they really comprehend, that money is contributed by poor people and persons in moderate circumstances in America, to distribute the scriptures gratuitously in China, for the welfare of their souls, the idea awakens their admiration, and they are immediately ready to admit, that the doctrine which produces such fruit, must be good.

The first part of the following extract from a letter of bro. I. J. Roberts, under date of September 12th, 1846, accompanying the journal of colporteur Chin, clearly indicates the reason why it would be inexpedient to occupy the pages of the Report with such documents. The remark about "variety" is in some measure applicable to all, and yet they are useful to your Board, as showing the character and amount of labor performed, and the individual characteristics of each person employed.

P. S.—This assistant I hope is a good and will become a useful man, but you will perceive there is very little variety in his journals. He is a man of very little learning—was originally taken from the working and not the reading class; but I think he will improve. He has had considerable trouble in some way or other since his marriage, but I hope he may do good and be useful. My own health has been very good this summer, but the assistants I think have been unusually sickly. We however through mercy are making some progress. We have several inquirers, some of whom, at least, I hope may come to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus, and be baptized ere long. We have just finished our new chapel, and got the last bell that bro. Allen sent me to ringing in its belfry; I have also just added a floating chapel on the river, to my other facilities of doing good. We keep up our weekly services yet among the old men at their poor house. I visited them to-day and witnessed rather more than usual interest. I still hope that the Lord may quicken their hearts with his Holy Spirit and bring them in at the eleventh hour!

Yours, most affectionately,

I. J. ROBERTS.

Canton, September 12th, 1846.

The missionaries of the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention at Canton, have received from this Society through the hands of Dr. Devan, 1910 copies of gospels for personal distribution. Bro. I. J. Roberts, a missionary of that convention, has also maintained four colporteurs at your expense, and been supplied with all the scriptures required by them in their daily labors. A small appropriation, principally of English scriptures, was also made to the Southern Convention, upon application of Rev. T. W. Toby, for the use of the missionaries sailing in the Ashburton.

The missionaries of the Am. Baptist Missionary Union have maintained four colporteurs at your expense, and been supplied with books for distribution as they needed. For particulars respecting these operations, we refer to the letters of Dr. Devan and S. C. Clopton, which appear as Nos. 2 and 3 in the Correspondence.

We cannot leave this subject without attempting to express our sympathies in the loss sustained by the Missionary Union and by the christian world, in the decease of sister Lydia H. Devan, the beloved and accomplished partner of the laborious brother who, for many years, sustained a share in the deliberations and active duties of this Board, but who now, bereaved and stricken, endures the toils and privations of missionary life in China. Eminently qualified for her work, having with extraordinary rapidity, in little more than two years, acquired a facility in the use of the native language, which enabled her—the first christian female ever so favored—to address an assembly of her adopted country-women in their own tongue, she fell, just as she seemed to be ready to prosecute the enterprise which she had undertaken. The tree was plucked up by the roots, laden with choicest fruits just ripening to maturity. The providence is to us inscrutably mysterious: but we know that it is for the best, and with awe and humility we adore the wisdom which we cannot comprehend, and look forward with hope to the time when in this dispensation, as in many others, faith shall be exchanged for sight.

CHINESE BIBLE.

Among the many important objects claiming the attention of this Society, is one which, on serious contemplation, looms up before the mind in a vastness of proportion, that throws others into the shade. It is the preparation of a correct version of the holy scriptures in the Chinese language.

From the length of time since the first attempt was made by Marshman to translate the bible into Chinese, and the successive efforts of Morrison, Medhurst, and Gutzlaff, many suppose that the Chinese scriptures are at least equal in accuracy and fidelity to the Bengali and the Burman. This, however, is very far from being the fact. So sensible are others of the deficiency, that the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the London Missionary Society, have directed to it their most solicitous attention. The officers of the latter institution, have brought it most prominently before their missionaries in China by transmitting to them, with manifest approval, a series of resolutions, passed by the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, October 24th, 1845.

“ Resolved, That an urgent request be addressed to the Directors of the London Missionary Society, to call the attention of their missionaries to the importance of proceeding with the revision of the New Testament, on the principles laid down in the circular received from Hong Kong, with as little delay as practicable, and to authorize them to consider this, if not their exclusive, at least their primary work.

"That the Directors of the London Missionary Society be informed that the Committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society are quite prepared to contribute a large share of the expenses that will be incurred by the adoption of the view given above, and indeed to take upon themselves the whole expenses of the missionaries, if their whole time is devoted to the work.

"That it be further pressed upon the Directors of the London Missionary Society to urge their Missionaries to print portions of the New Testament, as far as they are prepared, and to assure them of the readiness of this Society to defray the expenses of printing such editions, or to assist by sending out a printer, whose whole expenses shall be defrayed if his time be exclusively devoted to the printing of the scriptures, or in such proportion as he may give up his time and labor to the work.

"That this Committee having received in this conference, as well as from former communications with the London Missionary Society, and from the Directors of the Missionary Societies in America, sufficient information as to the competency of the parties now engaged in the revision, can cheerfully leave it to the united judgment of the missionaries to determine when the revision of any part of the Chinese New Testament may be considered sufficiently perfect to justify their being printed.

"That it seems highly advisable that the missionaries should have an opportunity of conferring together at an early period, at Hong Kong, or such other place as may be deemed most convenient, and that as the distances at which they reside from each other will involve considerable expense in attending the Conference, such expense be borne by this Society."

In accordance with these resolutions, arrangements were made by the missionaries of the London Society and others, to hold a union meeting of all delegated by their respective missions, at the city of Shanghai, in September last, for the revision of the Chinese scriptures. The time of the proposed meeting was subsequently changed. Whether it has yet taken place, we have not learned. The Baptist missionaries in China, although they have been invited, cannot consistently unite in the enterprise, as the history of bible operations within the last few years leaves no room to hope, that the simple principle of strictly translating the sacred scriptures from their originals, would be uniformly observed. The circumstances have here been presented to evince the effort and zeal put forth by other denominations, for an object of such superlative magnitude.

With this is most strangely contrasted the supineness of Baptists. The first translation of the holy scriptures into the Chinese tongue, was the work of a Baptist missionary. That his work should have been defective and faulty, so as almost to be laid aside by his successors in the missionary field, is not wonderful. He prepared it at a distance from China! But it is wonderful, that no Baptist Missionary Society in Great Britain or this country, has ever seriously directed its attention to the improvement of the work, or the substitution of a better. It furnishes the greatest matter for wonder and utter astonishment, that at the present time there is not a Baptist missionary in China devoting his energies to the work of biblical translation!

When it is considered, that the Chinese are characteristically fond of books; that they have the highest reverence for learning, and the fondest attachment for those great names that have distinguished the country by their literary productions: it must be evident, that the denomination of christians which furnishes them with a standard bible, lays, so far as human instrumentalities are concerned, the surest foundation for permanent success. It is admitted that in the progress of the work, the same general notoriety and public eclat are not to be expected, as from the founding of churches and the erection of meeting houses, but those who look at distant results and ultimate usefulness, should be willing to forego a measure of present advantages.

AFRICA.

Biblical operations in Africa have hitherto been extremely limited, but the prospect for the future is gradually brightening. The subjoined extract from a letter addressed by bro. Ivory Clark to the Corresponding Secretary, dated Bexley, January 23, 1847, furnishes full information of past proceedings and present operations in this department of missionary labor.

"I have been able to retain my knowledge of the Greek and perhaps to add something to it. I find a knowledge of the Greek Testament indispensable in translating the New Testament into the Bassa language. We invariably make the Greek the basis of our translation.

In addition to a Spelling-book, Catechism, a small book on the Ten Commandments, (which also give a concise and simple view of the plan of salvation) a book containing portions of the Old and New Testament, we have translated Matthew and John's gospels and the Acts of the Apostles. We hope this year to print a small dictionary in Bassa and English, Romans, Corinthians and Galatians. Our printing was suspended last year on account of poor health and want of paper. We shall probably need this year three hundred dollars in our printing department. If your Society can furnish us this sum, it will do the Mission a great favor: We are also destitute of paper." "We do not need a large quantity [of paper] as our editions will be small. As to our faithfulness in translating we trust we have not been wanting in effort, nor in availing ourselves of the help we have at command, nor in careful reviews and re-reviews, but we are not vain enough to presume that we have even a good translation. We have endeavored to give the sense of God's word so that it may be easily understood by the natives. In this we have the gratification of success.

The Bassa country is contained in that territory of land claimed by the American Colonization Society. It extends from Monrovia on the sea coast to the Po river, a distance of more than one hundred miles, and from the ocean to the Kplei country a distance of one hundred and twenty-five miles. The number of Bassa people is probably one hundred thousand, and the number contiguous who can understand the Bassa language about fifty thousand, so that the number accessible to the Missionary who understands the Bassa language is one hundred and fifty thousand.

None of these people can read with two or three exceptions, but those who have been taught in our schools. Probably about one hundred of them can read the scriptures in their own language. More than half of this number can read them both in Bassa and in English.

We have seventy-five children in our schools, fifty of whom can read the scriptures. We have three schools. If we had the means, we might increase them tenfold.

The natives listen attentively to the reading of the scriptures, and some of the unconverted manifest a deep interest in reading them. One of the principal men at the Zuzo station, is much interested in the study of the scriptures. I was there about one year ago when the school had been in operation a year and a half, and in my preaching alluded to the flood. After service this man brought his book and read me the whole history of that event with much interest and ease. He is now able to read and write both in Bassa and English.

We cannot circulate many copies of the scriptures, as we first have to make readers. Something may be done by employing persons to read the scriptures to the people and we have attempted something in this way.

Yours in Christ,

IVORY CLARKE.

GREECE.

From the organization of the Society, Greece was regarded as presenting an inviting theatre for biblical operations; but, until the present year, no plan has been prosecuted, contemplating a corrected version of Greek scriptures. Bro. R. F. Buel is known to be eminently qualified, by natural abilities and habits of study, for the peculiar and responsible office of translator ; and, when first designated for Greece, the hope was entertained, that he would be specially directed by Providence to this department of missionary labor. The hope has not been disappointed. Those who have been most intimate with his course since he entered the field, and who are best qualified to judge, esteem him as signally marked out for usefulness in pursuits of such a character. Correspondence has been maintained with him upon the subject, and it is now our agreeable privilege to announce, that he has commenced, and is steadily prosecuting, in connexion with his other missionary duties, the momentous task of preparing a corrected version of the sacred scriptures in modern Greek. As developing some of the circumstances which, under an all-wise Providence, conduced to this result, and also the progress of the work, we here present several extracts from his correspondence.

The first is taken from the Missionary Magazine of October, 1846, and is dated Piræus, April 20, 1846.

Mr. Lowndes will return shortly to Athens, to resume the revision of the Modern Greek Scriptures, which has been interrupted a few weeks by the death of his eldest daughter, at Malta.

I recently took occasion to show to one of the translators of this version of the scriptures in modern Greek, commonly called the Bambas translation—printed in Athens in the spring of 1844—a list of corrections on some sixteen passages in the New Testament, touching the baptismal question. In four of these passages, Mark 7 : 4, 8, Mark 6 : 14, and Luke 11 : 38, baptizo, and its cognate words, and in the remaining instances, the accompanying preposition, or other words in regimen, are so translated as to conceal or pervert the true meaning of this much abused word, and to entail upon it a signification which it is utterly impossible for it to bear, either in the ancient or the modern Greek. I was not surprised to learn that the native Greek translators had reluctantly submitted to these changes, "after a good deal of debate" with the superintendent or agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society, one year ago deceased. "They at last deferred to his wishes, as he appeared to be strenuous for a dogma of his church!" This translator has marked, for his amended edition, several of these passages, restoring, for elegance sake, if not for conscience sake also, the original text. And if allowed, he will restore it in the others. The chief reason for translating baptizo at all, was, that the word is now appropriated to express an ecclesiastical ceremony, and naturally suggests that ceremony. And as the passages at Mark 7 : 4, and Luke 11 : 38, have no reference to the ordinance of baptism, a different word was sought for. The impropriety of this was quickly admitted ; for if the original word had been left untouched, the reader would instantly see from the connexion, that christian baptism is not alluded to.' He never mistakes the meaning of those passages in the original, and why should he mistake it when the ancient word is retained in the translation? Any possible translation of baptizo, in Greek, must be a mistranslation, for there is no equivalent word for it in the language. The verb louo, (to wash) said of the body, would have more nearly "conformed to the English;" but what shall we say of nipto. (to wash.) spoken of the hands and face?! A year or two will elapse ere the revised edition will be printed. In the meanwhile, I have no doubt that the British and Foreign Bible Society will listen to the united request of Baptists and Pædobaptists at Athens, that the original text be restored.

The next is dated from the same place, October 10th, 1846, and is addressed to the Corresponding Secretary of this Society.

DEAR BROTHER :

It has not been in my power, until to-day, to write you answers to the two highly important communications received from the American and Foreign Bible Society, containing a proposal for the publication, under its patronage, of an improved version of the New Testament in modern Greek. Your letter of the 23d May, received the 6th July, and the letter of Rev. Dr. Babcock of 21st January, received April 10th, in both which this subject is presented, could not receive all the consideration they demanded before the lapse of weeks and months. There is now much less reason for hesitation respecting the course to be pursued. Providential indications seem clearly to point out the path of duty, and to bring to light important facilities for achieving the object, in which, I am happy to know, the Society has taken a lively interest.

Since the receipt of Dr. Babcock's letter in the spring, there has been sufficient opportunity to ascertain from the Agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society, during his summer residence at Athens, his views and intentions relative to the present version of the New Testament by Mr. Bambas. Specimen translations from the New Testament have been obtained from eminent scholars here, which have aided me to judge of the merits and defects of the present version, and of the practicability of making a better one. The assistance of a translator has been secured, in whose abilities I can place entire confidence, and the whole subject has been freely discussed in correspondence with bro. Arnold, at Corfu. After these preliminary steps, I take pleasure in recommending that the Bible Society undertake without delay, the preparation of a version of the New Testament in the modern Greek, and publish the same in a small portable form.

As there is no stereotype printing in this country, the work, if stereotyped, must be published in America. To this no obstacles appear, if the work of correcting typographical errors can be accurately done.

The following estimate approximates very nearly the actual expense of publishing, in Athens, an edition of ten thousand copies, taking as a model for size and type, the Testament published in Cambridge, England, 1843 :

Printing . . .	$350 00
Paper . . .	647 00	at $1 80 per ream.
Binding, . . .	1,000 00	half binding, in paper, with leather backs and corners.
Correcting Proof	12 00
	<hr/> $2009 00	[Smaller editions in this proportion.]

The paper usually comes from Italy ; Athenian prices vary from $1 80 to $2, for good qualities.

The binding done here may be strong and durable, though coarse and homely.

I would strongly recommend that some integral portion of the Testament be published separately, for the use of the schools; and in case the entire book is stereotyped, the same plates could be used for both. Let the portion selected be, for example, the Gospel of Luke and the Acts of the Apostles.

I felt encouraged by the tone of the letters from the Bible Society to commence the last mentioned work, without waiting for further instructions; and before a reply to this can reach me, the writings of Luke the Evangelist will be ready, I hope, either to print here, or to send to America to be stereotyped. The work of examining the translation as it proceeds, will not interfere with any missionary duties.

It thus appears that brother Buel's charitable anticipations, expressed in the letter of April 20th, were not realized. Those who have carefully read our Periodical, No. 24, will remember that this result was predicted. It requires but little penetration to discover the real cause of opposition to pure and correct versions of scripture. The plea advanced, is, the desire of uniformity. The English bible transfers βαπτίζω, and is used by all denominations. Therefore let all other versions transfer the word, and all denominations can equally employ them.

But the modern Greek language has βαπτίζω itself. The word is vernacular, and therefore requires no change. Still in this very language changes are made by the advocates of uniformity. In one case another word, with a different meaning, is substituted for the vernacular, and in others the "accompanying preposition, or other words in regimen are so translated as to conceal or pervert its true meaning."

The inference is unavoidable, that the true cause of opposition is, a reluctance to allow scripture to speak for itself in the vernacular tongues of the nations of the earth, upon one particular subject.

Upon the reception of the letter of October 10th, your Board granted the sum of $250, to aid bro. Buel in translating and printing the Greek Testament in modern Greek. They also complied with another request of his in the same letter, for a box of English Bibles and Testaments, to be used principally in his schools.

The following extract from a letter, dated Piræus, Feb. 7th, 1847, acknowledges the reception of the money, and states the progress of the work.

Wm. H. Wyckoff, Esq., Cor. Sec. A. & F. B. S., New-York.

DEAR BROTHER:—The 30th January I had the pleasure of receiving your letter of the 5th Dec., enclosing a Bill of Exchange for $250, from the Treasurer of the Bible Society, and yesterday I received the duplicate or second of Exchange, in his note of the 2d January. I will thank you to communicate the same to Mr. Colgate, the Treasurer, with my kind regards.

This remittance will be convenient for making occasional payments to my translator, without drawing on the funds of the Missionary Union. He has already completed the first copy of Luke's Gospel, and is now employed upon the Acts of the Apostles. When the writings of Luke will be ready to print I cannot now say definitely.

The views and suggestions of the Board, as contained in your letter, seem to me wise and judicious in every particular; and "by the good hand of our God upon us," both the smaller work and the New Testament complete, in a style acceptable to the people, will be ready ere long for circulation, both to the advantage of the cause of truth, and with comfort to ourselves.

A close inspection of the latest and best translation shows that it admits of improvements almost innumerable. Of course our work is not so much to amend the existing translation, as to write a new one.

The remainder of this letter, containing some highly interesting intelligence, appears in the Correspondence annexed to this Report.

GERMANY.

Since the date of the last Report biblical operations have been prosecuted in Germany with a view to their gradual and ultimately extensive enlargement. The broad openings for scripture distribution, the awakened and increasing zeal for christian liberty, and the growing desire for the possession and study of the word of God, convince your board, that, while no suitable effort for the present prosecution of the work should be neglected, all measures should be adopted and prosecuted with a far-sighted reference to future results. It is gratifying to be enabled to state, that the views of bro. Oncken in this respect fully coincide with those of the Board. In accordance therewith, stereotype plates for Luther's version of the holy scriptures have been completed with a degree of care and a regard for accuracy and beauty, which we are assured, will render the book uncommonly attractive. A duplicate set has been cast, and is probably now on the way to this country, to enable us to furnish cheap copies of the Bible to the German population among us.

When it is considered, that this portion of our adopted people is estimated already to surpass the whole population of the Union at the era of the Declaration of Independence, and that immigration from their native land to these shores, is steadily progressing, if not rapidly increasing, it must be admitted to be the duty of American christians to see them fully provided with the bread of life. Among those who have already migrated, are to be found some who have been under the direct instruction of Oncken; and several are said to have been in his employ as tract colporteurs. Such men are well fitted to perform similar service in behalf of this Society; and we anticipate, that it will ere long appear so manifestly an obligation of duty, not to neglect facilities for doing good, thus placed by Providence in our very path, that, either the Parent Institution, or some of its prominent auxiliaries, will be compelled to enter upon this new sphere of usefulness. With a view to these evident foreshadowings of future forms of duty, as well as to the present obligation to furnish the word of life to the destitute, the Society, by securing a duplicate set of Oncken's plates, has, at the least possible expense, made provision for issuing German scriptures in this country at as cheap rates as English scriptures of the same description.

Brother Oncken, upon his own urgent application, has been privileged to employ six colporteurs at the Society's expense; but with his habitual caution and discretion, he had not at the date of his last letter, Feb. 17, 1847,* actually sent into the field more than three, so desirous was he of securing the best men, and placing them in the most eligible positions. At the same time, he intimated his wish to possess the privilege of appointing two more, in addition to the six, making eight in all. The doubtful manner in which he expresses himself in relation to obtaining this additional privilege, is to be attributed to the facts, that when he formerly applied for ten, the Board were obliged, in view of its scanty resources, to limit him to six, and that instructions were given him to be scrupulously careful in the choice of men.

An edition of five thousand copies of the bible from the new plates in the hands of bro. O. has been for some time in press, and is probably now issued, and partly distributed. To meet the expense of it, and also the cost of the duplicate set of plates, and the salaries of colporteurs, the Board have transmitted the sum of $2500, and appropriated $1000 more, which they are not yet able to send for want of funds.

One application of our esteemed brother, we have been obliged to defer, not on account of any want of conviction of its prospective usefulness, but because we knew not how far your liberalities regarding Germany could be predicated as the ground of our action. He wishes to cast plates for a convenient, portable testament, of a smaller size than the bible. No one can doubt the need of the book ; but each of you must be aware, that eight colporteurs, when all at work, will distribute many thousand copies of the Bible in the course of a year, and that if you extend your operations in Germany, as the door seems to be opened before you, a far greater outlay will be needed next year than last. Are you willing to incur the hazard ?

NEW FIELDS OF LABOR.

"The field is the world" is the only proper motto of this Society, when contemplating the prospect of its operations in the course of years. But such is the present limitation of its resources, that it is obliged to portion out national districts of the great domain, and to call these "fields," as it successively attempts to occupy them.

In this view it looks forward with strong hope to the period, as not far distant, when it shall embrace the larger portion of continental Europe, and Central and Southern America, within the circuit of its direct operations. It has not escaped the observation of the christian philanthropist, that the darkest superstitions of Romanism are maintained in Southern Europe, and especially in Italy, by the exclusion of the light of inspired truth; and that the gradual progress of general intelligence is awakening a portion of the higher ranks of the people to the expediency of giving free circulation to the bible and religious books. The measures of the present Pontiff, which are generally regarded only in the light of a salutary civil and political reformation, however designed by him, must conduce to a more general diffusion of knowledge with the increased facilities for its dissemination which they create and sustain. As contributing to the same result, we contemplate with equal satisfaction the recall from exile of many political offenders, who during their sojourn in Protestant countries, have made themselves acquainted with the elements and sources of national and individual prosperity, and have been led to trace them to the possession of the Bible and the observation of its precepts.

From the combined operation of these and other causes, there is abundant reason to anticipate, that the facilities for scripture distribution in Italy will ere long be enlarged to the full extent of the disposition of christians to employ them.

In anticipation of such probabilities, it seems advisable that measures should be adopted and prosecuted, so far as they can be without expense, to provide a sound and accurate version of Italian scriptures, and to prepare for the occupation of the field, so soon as Providence shall bid us enter.

In a still clearer light is presented the necessity of preparing for the press a corrected version of Spanish scriptures. The facilities for their circulation in Central and South America, are at the present time so great as to justly demand immediate attention, even though there was no such prospect, as there is, of introducing them into Spain.

Since your last meeting measures have been vigorously prosecuted to correct the French testament, and to prepare a version which the friends of the Society will delight to disseminate. We hope ere the lapse of another year to inform you of the satisfactory completion of the work. The opportunities enjoyed by us, for circulating French Scriptures, are uncommonly great. To the call from France and Hayti, is to be added the demand upon our christian sympathies and exertions from that much neglected portion of the population, who use the French tongue, in Canada, Nova Scotia and some of our southern states.

AGENCIES.

Brethren A. Maclay, H. Seaver, L. Leonard, G. Williams, L. C. Carr, have been employed in agencies during the entire year: James Farquharson, B. H. Clift, Lewis Du Pre and S. Mervin Smith, the greater part of the year: and J. Ballard and C. A. Clark, smaller portions of time, the latter less than two months. It is an uncommon circumstance to be recorded in the history of the year, that six of these agents have at different periods been the subjects of much bodily indisposition, so as to be laid aside for a time from service, two of them having been brought to the very borders of the grave, from which it has pleased the God of grace again to raise them. So far as human probabilities can be calculated, had they not been checked by this untoward circumstance, the receipts of the year would have been much greater. But He who ruleth in the armies of heaven and among the inhabitants of earth, often disappoints and overrules His servants, as in the present instance, to make them feel that the success of the wisest plans of human instrumentality, depends eventually upon His will.

LIFE MEMBERS AND LIFE DIRECTORS.

The additions of the year to the list of Life Members, amount to 309, making the whole number 2229.

New Life Directors 26; whole number 315.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY.

The varieties of our publications have been increased during the year, by the addition of more than twenty different descriptions of Bibles and Testaments: Among these we notice as claiming particular attention a beautiful Paragraph Bible, and a Paragraph Testament, the large Pica Psalms, published with the Testament of the same type, and a Royal Quarto Bible with References, Indices, &c.

The publications of the current year, amount to 18,320 Bibles, and 26,200 Testaments. Total 44,520.

The whole number hitherto published at the Depository, amount to 211,639,

ISSUES.

The issues of the year have been 12,983 Bibles, and 27,053 Testaments. Total 40,036.

BOOKS ON HAND.

An account of stock was taken on the 20th of April, which comprised 10,081 Bibles and 12,699 Testaments, bound. Total 22,777. Of the Bibles 69 were German, 276 Welch: Testaments 1,115 German, 520 Welch.

LIBRARY.

Forty-seven volumes have been presented for the Library. These make the whole number contributed, 1493.

LEGACIES.

The number and amount of legacies received this year by the Society, compare unfavorably with those of former years. They are as follows:—

James Wetherbee . . .	$25 00	Sarah J. Blandin . . .	$5 00
Andrew Cole . . .	191 12	J. Houston . . .	5 00
Charlotte Cole . . .	10 00	Nicholas Brown . . .	200 00
Daniel Cobb . . .	5 00	Joshua Butts . . .	250 00
Wm. Spencer . . .	106 93	John McLallen . . .	50 00
Miss E. Simms . . .	10 00	Richard Dubois . . .	100 00
Betsey Hayks . . .	100 00	Miss D. Hathhorn . . .	6 25
Lewis Porter . . .	:	100 00

The Board take special pleasure in inviting attention to the last mentioned. The testator is not yet deceased. He has adopted the wise and liberal policy of paying his legacies to benevolent societies before his death. By this means he secures the appropriation of his bequests to the Societies for which he designs them, and he has the privilege of knowing that his money has been properly expended, and, we hope, will enjoy the additional privilege of contemplating some of its fruits before he is called to his account.

We trust that the example will not be lost. Many thousands of dollars bequeathed to benevolent institutions, have never reached their treasuries. A policy like that of bro. Porter, would preclude the interference of worldly heirs, and the technicalities and subtleties of law, from preventing or obstructing the design of testators.

RECEIPTS.

The gross amount of receipts falls somewhat short of that reported last year. When, however, it is considered that scarcely any agency has been maintained in Southern states, and that the little employed during the early part of the year, was rendered singularly inefficient, by the withdrawal of state auxiliaries from connexion with the Society, the smallness of apparent diminution in our receipts furnishes matter for surprise and gratitude. When to this are added the facts, that those which appeared in the last Report, spread over a greater space than a single year, as the period of closing accounts had been advanced with the change of the Anniversary from April to May, and that a legacy of more than thirteen hundred dollars likewise swelled the same account, a review of all the circumstances tends to increase the encouragements of the Society, and to enlarge and brighten the prospects of future years.

The gross receipts of the preceding year, from 1st of May, 1845, to 1st of May, 1846, were $31,206 88. Those from the 1st of May, 1846, to 1st of May, 1847, amount to $31,739 94, being an actual increase for a similar period of time.

PROPOSED ENLARGEMENT OF RECEIPTS.

It is incumbent upon those who are entrusted with the management of benevolent operations, earnestly to search out means and modes whereby contributions to the funds may, while constitutionally employed, accomplish the greatest possible amount of good. In the conscientious discharge of this duty, the Board are required to recommend to the Society the serious and prayerful consideration of the following facts and circumstances, and the inferences thence legitimately deduced.

The annual receipts into the treasury for several successive years have somewhat exceeded the sum of $30,000. For the collection and proper disbursement of this sum, a certain amount of machinery is indispensable. Whatever may be thought of the duty of churches or individuals, there are few exceptions to the general rule, that little is done for the bible cause in a district of country which agents do not visit. In order fairly to equalize the burden of contribution upon the benevolent, and generally to diffuse intelligence concerning the principles and proceedings of the Society, a number of agents must constantly be maintained.

In another part of the Report it has been shown, that a sufficient stock of books of proper varieties, to meet the wants of auxiliaries and friendly societies, must always be kept on hand. The correspondence of the Society is extensive and increasing, so as, in connexion with other duties properly associated with the same department, to require the exclusive attention of the Secretary. The book business, therefore, and the accounts have to be entirely entrusted to other hands. These circumstances, taken in the aggregate, necessarily induce a large annual expenditure, which, however unavoidable, presents in the view of the Managers a painful disproportion to the amount of receipts. The appropriate remedy has been with them an object of solicitous inquiry. Committee after committee has been appointed to investigate and report upon the expenditures. The more scrutinizing the investigation, the more thorough becomes the conviction, that the business of the Society cannot, under existing circumstances, be more economically conducted, and that any attempt materially to diminish expenses, would be detrimental to the best interests of the institution.

Still there does appear to your Board to be a remedy; and the more the subject is considered, the more palpably and impressively does that remedy present itself to their consideration.

The painful difficulty upon which they have been dwelling is the disproportion between expenditures and receipts. Since, as has been stated, the former cannot without detriment be diminished, the only mode of rectifying the defect in our operations, is to increase the latter. And on this point your Board have the pleasure of stating their conviction, that a very great enlargement of receipts would not materially increase the expenses of the business. Should every individual and every church double or even triple the amount of their contributions, the toil and expenses necessarily incurred in the conduct of our operations, would scarcely be perceptibly enhanced.

This view of the subject the Board would most earnestly and affectionately commend to the prayerful reflection, and consequent action, of every member and friend of the Society, and of every lover of God's word. The soundest principles of christian economy, the clearest deductions of the philosophy of benevolence, combine with the scripture injunctions to liberality, in enforcing the duty, TO ENLARGE THE RECEIPTS OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY. They ought during the ensuing year to be raised at least above forty thousand dollars.

This subject cannot be dismissed without allusion to another view, in which it is presented. The calls upon this institution for the ensuing year, are very far greater than at any preceding period of its history. It is now nearly twelve months since any thing has been appropriated to aid in the printing and the distribution of the sacred scriptures in India. We have been accustomed annually to grant for those purposes sums varying from $3000 to $6000. All the versions of Carey, Yates, Sutton, and Wenger, depend in part upon our appropriations for their support and circulation. From the length of time since we have sent any thing for these objects, we ought this year to endeavor to raise for them at least $6000.

The American Baptist Missionary Union has applied to us for the sum of $8,000 for scriptures in various languages. This does not embrace the $300 needed for Africa, and only $1,500 for Germany, where there will probably be required besides, for the support of our colporteurs and scripture distribution by them, at least $5,000. One thousand dollars of the sum asked for the Peguan scriptures has been appropriated and paid to the Union. The printing of the French Testament will require an expenditure of $1,500, and we need an additional sum to print German scriptures from the duplicate set of plates, cast under the superintendence of bro. Oncken, and sent to us to supply the countrymen of that excellent brother in our own land. In these demands we include no conjectural estimate of calls that may come upon us during the year, although some have annually occurred in our past history, and we have reason to anticipate others from different quarters.

We have recorded only such as are now before us, and require our earliest attention. Yet these unitedly amount to considerably more than $20,000, more than double our customary amount of foreign appropriations.

In connexion then with the view which we have presented, that the soundest principles of economical benevolence demand a large increase of our receipts, let it be borne in mind, that the calls upon us for appropriations for foreign languages, imperatively require it. And let it also be remembered that, if our statements concerning the business of the institution be well founded, almost the whole increase of receipts will be directly available, and may be changed, dollar for dollar, into copies of the sacred scriptures for gratuitous distribution, principally in heathen lands.

CONCLUSION.

In closing the Report, your Board feel called upon to remind you that the success of all schemes of benevolence, however well planned, discreetly conducted, and energetically sustained, must constantly depend upon the blessing of Him "who knoweth the end from the beginning, and bringeth the most secret counsel to pass." The American and Foreign Bible Society originated with prayer. It has been fostered and encouraged by the fervent supplications of God's people. Hitherto it has prospered; and its present prospects are fairer than the retrospect of its history. But the gourd that was nourished amid the darkness of the night, withered under the parching heat of noon; and many an enterprise that has flourished amid difficulty and adversity, has shrunk into nothingness, after it had successfully emerged into the sunlight of apparent prosperity. If ever this Society required to be sustained by the prayers of christians, it is at the present period, when its fields of labor are about to be multiplied and enlarged, and when the disposition of its numerous supporters appears to coincide with the manifest requisitions of duty, greatly to increase its receipts, and thus extend its operations. Remember then, ye who love the Lord, THE BIBLE SOCIETY, whenever you approach the throne of the heavenly grace:—make mention of it in the Monthly Concert—at the family altar—in the secret closet—and may the blessing of Jehovah-Jireh descend upon it in answer to your supplications.

EXTRACT FROM LETTER OF R. F. BUEL.

PIREUS, Feb. 13, 1847.

Rev. Mr. Lowndes writes me from Malta, the 6th February—"I find the number of Scriptures distributed from the Depositories at Malta, Athens, and Corfu, since I took charge in the summer of 1845, amounts to more than twenty-one thousand copies. Many of these have been retailed out in different places, and are in frequent use." The largest portion of these twenty-one thousand, Mr. L. says, which have been distributed in a year and a half, are in the Greek language.

A bill has just passed the Greek Chambers, creating twenty-nine Bishopricks for the kingdom of Greece. The bill, in its original form, proposed forty-nine! The whole number of living bishops does not exceed seventeen. Some of the priests, soon to be installed, are known to be favorable to the translated scriptures, and have all ready applied for them in considerable quantities. The bishops are appointed by the king, upon the recommendation of the Holy Synod, which consists of five archbishops, or high priests. In place of the canonical fees hitherto received, they are paid from the ecclesiastical treasury an annual stipend of $300. They are also entitled to the fees hitherto received whenever they officiate at religious ceremonies. Besides this, they may charge a quarter of a dollar for every permission to marry, and $3 50 for every bill of divorce. The whole sum, stipend, fees and charges, is supposed to amount to at least $2,000 per annum; and, when superannuated, they may retire upon a pension of $400. A reformatory feature in the law is, that "all payments heretofore made to the bishops by curates, monks, and people, for investitures and as gratuities, are abolished.

The increase of these bishops is quite as liberal as the poverty of the country permits, and their own necessities require. "The possession of this, and of the higher grades of ecclesiastical distinction is confined to the monastic order, for the orthodox church," as says one of her own writers, M. Stourelza, "regards her bishops as holocausts smoking on the high places," an atonement for the sins of her children; and she believes that the holiness of the sacrifice can only be perfected by celibacy.—[Waddington on the Greek Church.] In the Russian Greek Church a parish priest or curate is not permitted to live in celibacy. The delicate power of auricular confession the people will not confide to a celibate. The strong hand of Peter the Great corrected, at least in the inferior clergy, that "departure from the faith."

But in the kingdom of Greece the mass of the clergy exhibit the leprous taint of all the sins that were, "in latter times," to mark "departure from the faith." The sin of "forbidding to marry," ranks among those of which "the Spirit speaketh expressly." Accordingly, no bishop, priest, or deacon, is allowed to marry. If priests are sometimes found in married life, they entered it previous to taking deacon's orders. But the rank of bishop is denied to the married priest. Such are the "Canons of the Church"—an enormous piece of patchwork, fabricated from age to age, chiefly by the seven Oecumenical Councils. In their Synodical Councils, the first departures from the faith were stamped with the sanction of law, and riveted on the conscience of coming generations.

But I have neither time nor space at present to continue this subject further. Begging a daily remembrance in your prayers, and my kind regards to Mr. Cone and other dear brethren of my acquaintance, with whom you are acting in New York, I remain your brother in Christ,

RUFUS F. BUEL.

LETTER FROM T. T. DEVAN.

CANTON, JULY 23, 1846.

My Dear Brother Wyckoff:

I received through your treasurer a bill of lading, for $1000 per the Houque, which was appropriated in April last by the American and Foreign Bible Society for scripture operations by the China Baptist Mission. The cash itself I have not yet received, but expect to do so in a day or two. The receipt of this money will enable this mission to act more freely in bible operations, than it has for some time past. I have ordered from the printer, of Gutzlaff's amended version, 2000 copies of Matthew; 2000 copies of Mark; 2000 copies of Luke; 2000 copies of Acts; and 2000 copies of John, of Goddard's version. These I think will last us for a little while, that is to say, until explicit directions shall be received from the Am. and Foreign Bible Society Board as to the principles by which we are to be guided as to the selection of versions to be distributed by their funds. I have this day received also fifty copies of the Old Testament, ordered on the strength of your funds; twenty of which are to be forwarded to Bangkok for distribution among the members of the Chinese church under the pastorate of bro. Goddard. Ten of them, together with ten copies of the New Testament, are to be forwarded to Ningpo for distribution under the eye of bro. Macgowan, and twenty I have reserved for distribution here. The cost of the Old Testament is about forty-three cents each copy.

Since the generous aid of your Society has been substantially felt by this mission, I have most freely indulged myself in the circulation of the scriptures. Many thousands have been distributed, and many more persons appear to be anxious to receive, than I am to give. The fact is, there is absolutely no limit to even a judicious and careful circulation of the word in China, other than that which the mere physical weakness of the circulators necessarily imposes. Hundreds and thousands are now reading the word, whereas a year ago there were but scores who saw it.

The name of Jesus has now become in my neighborhood as commonly and as lightly used as in the streets of New-York; though in the one case the people wittingly blaspheme that holy name, which one day they will acknowledge as their judge,—whereas in the other case, “they know not what they do,” except that the foreigners’ books elevate him as a Saviour, and that all our talk is about that name.

With regard to colporteurs, I would say that at Hong Kong there are two—at Ningpo one—under my direction at Canton one—under bro. Robert’s care four, all of whom receive their support direct from the funds of the Am. and Foreign Bible Society in my hands. The frequent change necessary to be made in the employment of colporteurs by the mission sometimes at very short notice will throw more doubt upon the expediency, if not the possibility, of the Board legislating upon this matter. I nevertheless await with some interest the views of the Board upon the subject.

With much love to the brethren of the Board, individually and collectively, I remain Yours in Christian affection,

T. T. DEVAN.

LETTER OF S. C. CLOPTON.

CANTON, CHINA, November 28th, 1846.

MY DEAR BRO. WYCKOFF.

Soon after our arrival here, we received from Dr. Devan, about 1910 copies of the gospels published in Chinese, which very valuable and timely present, we were requested to acknowledge, as a grant from the American and Foreign Bible Society. Having enjoyed the luxury of already distributing more than one half of them to this heathen, idolatrous people, we are prepared to return heartfelt thanks for the same; and we do now, through you, acknowledge the gift, not only as very valuable, but, in our present circumstances, as timely in the first degree. They are just what we need. We give away from thirty to fifty at every preaching we have in our chapel, which occurs twice a week, to as many individuals ready to receive them, and also able to read them.—We often have a little business with Chinamen personally, to whom it affords us no little pleasure to give a copy of the gospels. We also make a little tour occasionally, along the streets of this populous city, and distribute a few copies of this precious treasure, as judiciously as we can. I said we make a little tour occasionally. This is true, for we feel obliged to do it; our treasure is now become so small, that when I go to it, I feel almost as did the widow of Zarephath, the morning before she went to gather two sticks to bake the last handful of meal she had. When I go to it, I feel as though there was but one more handful. However we pray to God continually, and trust that that handful will remain a handful, whilst we withal use it judiciously. But I am trespassing; accept our hearty thanks, and believe me to be in behalf of our little band, with whom you are personally acquainted,

Yours, with much affection and esteem,

S. C. CLOPTON.

W. H. WYCKOFF, Cor. Sec. of Am. & For. Bible Soc.

EXTRACT FROM LETTER OF DR. J. MACGOWAN.

Ningpo, June 21st, 1846.

You are aware that there are, or were less than a century ago, a body of Jews in the centre of this empire, supposed, on good authority, to have settled here long anterior to the advent of the Saviour, and who have preserved the ceremonies of their religion and some knowledge of the God of their fathers through unknown centuries, though surrounded by idolaters. As they are known to be in possession of copies of the sacred scriptures, it has occurred to me that it would be an object worthy a Bible Society to send a mission to these people, copy their sacred writings, or purchase them, and get such information about their history as they could give—and above all, to put into their hands the precious New Testament, bringing life and immortality to light. Who knows but they may be designed by God to perform an important part in the evangelization of China. The expense would not be more than two hundred dollars, I think. If you do not approve my sending one of my assistants into the interior and at the expense of the Amer. and Foreign Bible Society, I should like you to mention the subject to the officers of the Am. Baptist Jews Society. Such is the interest felt in these people now in Europe, that something will be done, ere long, by others, if the Baptists do not take the matter in hand. We have the agents to send, and are nearer to the places where they are supposed to be, than any other missionaries on the coast of China.

LETTER FROM J. G. ONCKEN.

LONDON, Nov. 12th, 1846.

My Dear Brother :

A thousand hearty thanks to you and the dear brethren composing the Board of the Am. and Foreign Bible Society, for the prompt and generous decision with which they have met my wishes in reference to Germany, conveyed in your very acceptable letter, dated August 6th. I cannot tell what I felt, when I read your gratifying communications: I received them as a new pledge of our gracious Lord, that we were to be honored to a much further extent, than we had been, of spreading the glad tidings of salvation. One brother has, in consequence of the receipt of your letter, been appointed to labor in the circulation of the scriptures, in connexion with bro. Lehmann, at Berlin, and others will be appointed on my return home.

I have received interesting letters from the brethren Straube, of Breslaw, and Ehlert, of Elbing; the former had ventured a third time across the Austrian frontiers—this last time with full one hundred tracts tied around his body, which were all safely placed in the hands of the peasants, with whom he met and prayed in the woods, and who received the contraband with grateful hearts. Bro. Straube had previously smuggled a few copies of the holy scriptures into Austria, and circulated them among these peasants. Within a fortnight after the tracts had been distributed they were all taken from the people, and the recipients were cast into prison for a fortnight, at the instigation of the priests. Our dear brother will however continue to embrace every opportunity to introduce the light of the gospel into this almost impenetrable darkness. One of these poor Austrian peasants made several days' journey to see Straube, having read one of our tracts. I have requested bro. Straube to remove to Breslaw, where he will have a larger field of labor, than in the village where he resided before, whilst at the same time he will render essential service to the little church, which, since its formation last summer, when I had the joy of immersing the first converts there, has had to rejoice in the addition of several other converts.

Brother Ehlert has made several tours along the vistula, and preached and circulated the scriptures both in German and Polish among Protestants and Roman Catholics. The priests are making all the resistance in their power to the spread of the Gospel among the people, but in many instances the people are superior to their threats of purgatory, &c. I have purchased at the expense of your society, two hundred Polish bibles, and one hundred and fifty testaments, at half price, from the British and Foreign Bible Society. But these Poles are so wretchedly poor, that it is impossible to sell them at half price. Should your directors approve of this measure, and be able to allow a little assistance—I mean for the circulation of the Polish scriptures, we should then be able to extend our efforts among this unhappy people. Two good tracts in Polish have already left the press, and others will soon follow.

I have ordered a copy of the stereotype plates of the German octavo bible, to be forwarded to you as soon as it is ready. It will cost about $800. It will be a very handsome copy. The money for this will be required about the middle or end of January, 1847. Several sheets of the copy from which I am printing, have arrived at Hamburg, and the press is now hard at work to have the first edition of 5000 copies thrown off. If I am not mistaken, I stated on a former occasion that it would require some additional help to bring this edition out. But I hope the $1000 granted, as stated in your letter of 6th August, will suffice for the present.

I regret that I cannot convey any favorable intelligence about the two Monsters; though the work in Denmark has been maintained. I am, alas! banished from that country, or else I should have visited the churches. I have here, however, a worthy Danish brother, sound in the faith, and of an humble spirit, whom I hope the Lord has separated to the work of an evangelist. I wish him to be engaged, both in Denmark and Norway, and hope that he will go over with me to Hamburg in a few weeks. One of our colporteurs has just returned from a tour through various German states, Switzerland and Elsass, on which he immersed thirty-five converts. I must now bid you farewell! With my affectionate brotherly love to yourself and the Directors,

Yours in Jesus,

J. G. ONCKEN.

EXTRACTS FROM REV. J. G. ONCKEN.

HAMBURG, Feb. 17th, 1847.

Wm. H. Wyckoff, Esq., Cor. Sec. of the A. & F. B. S., New-York.

MY DEAR BROTHER:

"I have now appointed the following three brethren: Straube, who is laboring in Silesia, both among Romanists and Protestants; Ehlerl at Allenstein, in Prussian Poland, where he is circulating the scriptures in the Polish and German languages, both among Protestants and Roman Catholics; and Klinker at Berlin, under the direction of brother Lehmann. The two former brethren are converted Catholics, and Ehlerl is perfectly conversant with Polish, which makes his labors particularly valuable among that wretched and forlorn people. I trust your committee will rejoice in having a door opened among the poor Poles, by which they are called upon in God's gracious Providence to enter and enrich many perishing souls with the word of life. I have in consequence purchased 450 copies of the Holy Scriptures in that language, and sent them to bro. Ehlerl. The British and Foreign Bible Society kindly gave these scriptures at half price. In the ensuing summer I shall require a new supply, and I hope your committee will render me the necessary assistance to carry out my plans. The three other brethren will be engaged, as soon as I can find men of the right stamp, and when I have made my choice of the fields of labor, which under the Holy Spirit's blessing, promise the greatest degree of success. Stettin, however, will, I think, be one of the new stations, the field being there most promising; and unless you assure me in your next, that the directors will employ one or two in addition to the six, I shall keep at least one in reserve for the south of Germany and Switzerland, where we need such an agency greatly; but which cannot be appointed till I have visited these places. We could employ many more brethren in other parts, but we thank God that so much has been already accomplished and hope the best for the future. But whilst our transatlantic brethren supply us with means to carry out our plans, we are, I hope, not idle ourselves. We contemplate, feeble as our temporal means are, to organize a Missionary Society among our own churches, and send forth as many brethren as possible. The Lord calls on us, by the success which attends our efforts, to stretch every nerve; and I trust love to him and compassion for the souls of men will constrain us to respond to that call, to our utmost ability. The present favorable time should be well employed in spreading the gospel far and wide, for we know not how soon it may terminate."

"Tell the brethren composing your board, that I could not ask so much of them, in furtherance of our work, but from the fact that God is blessing us much in the conversion of precious souls to Christ. About five hundred souls rescued from going down to the shades of eternal death, were added to our churches last year. All these and thousands of others have been benefited by your labors on the continent, and with such facts before them, I trust the Board will continue to render me every assistance in their power to extend the field of labor.

With many hearty thanks for what the Board has already done for my country, and affectionate regards to yourself and others,

I remain yours, in the best of bonds,

J. G. ONCKEN.

A DONATION OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS, THE PROCEEDS OF A QUARTER OF A DOLLAR.

Danville, Ky., April 7th, 1847.

ELDER I. M. ALLEN :

Dear Sir—Enclosed I send you a draft on the Bank of America at New-York, for one hundred and fifty dollars, being a donation to the American and Foreign Bible Society, by Elder Ephraim A. Smith, of Kentucky, now laboring as a minister of the word of God in South Carolina. This donation is the sum of a small per-centage arising from the sale of bibles and testaments by this devoted servant of God in his travels during the last twelve or fifteen years. Soon after he confessed the name of Christ, he determined to devote himself wholly to the work of the Lord by disseminating the sacred scriptures, and by laboring, chiefly in private and unobtrusively, to direct the attention of saint and sinner, to the unspeakable joys of communion with God in his gracious promises; and he was truly, before we in this country ever heard of such a one, an original colporteur. With staff in hand, and a small lot of books on his shoulder, he has traversed the moral wastes of the crowded city, and visited the remote habitation of the mountaineer, and in truth has become "all things to all men," that he might be the humble means of turning some to the knowledge of the Lord. He even started on his first tour without means more than would have paid his expenses for a day, but he had not proceeded far from his father's house, when he found in his path a single quarter of a dollar. He regarded this as providential, and though but a trifling sum, he determined to devote the profits of that little coin, arising from the sale of Bibles and Testaments, to the cause of the Lord, and this sum of $150, is the proceeds of that single quarter of a dollar. In transmitting this amount left to my care, I could not forbear, as my intimacy with him has been that of a brother,—I could not forbear mentioning these few incidents in the manner of life of bro. Smith, as possessing some interest, and as an example of what may, from a small beginning, be done for the cause of our common Lord. May his self-denying and godly example be followed by many.

Truly,

SAMUEL AYRES.

The following statistical account of operations in China, has been received since the Report was completed.

Hong Kong, (Dec. 26th, 1846.

MY DEAR BRO. WYCKOFF: During the year that is just closing, I have from time to time informed you of the changes which have occurred among your colporteurs in China. Before, however, I present you a table of their names, times of service and other circumstances connected with them for the full year, I beg leave to draw your attention to the following abstract of the printing which has been done by this mission at the expense of the American and Foreign Bible Society in the year 1846.

Books.	No. of Copies.	Pages.
Old Testament,	50	69,000
Matthew,	3,500	273,000
Mark,	3,500	175,000
Luke,	3,500	287,000
John,	12,500	725,000
Acts,	3,500	280,000
Total,	26,550	1,809,000

The Old Testaments were not printed for general circulation, but were purchased to supply a copy to each professing christian connected with our churches. Half of them were sent to bro. Goddard for the supply of the church at Bangkok; fifteen of them were distributed at Canton and Hong Kong, and the remaining ten were forwarded to Ningpo for distribution, through bro. Macgowan. Of the other scriptures there have been distributed at Hong Kong, 1500 by Hok Heng and Atui, your colporteurs; at Canton 25,000 copies, as follows: through bro. Roberts and his assistants, 11,810 copies: and under my supervision, say somewhere about 10,000 copies; and I left for the use of brethren Clopton and Peary 2,500 copies for use at Canton, and the balance we have brought with us to Hong Kong.

We are preparing to publish a large edition of the gospel by Mathew. The blocks have not yet come from the block cutter's hands, but as soon as received, orders will be given to strike off 10,000 copies, chiefly for distribution under the direction of bro. Roberts.

I am aware that bro. Macgowan at Ningpo has also employed your colporteurs, who are under his eye in the work of scripture distribution, and that he has made purchases on your account. But as I am unable to get his report, I must refer you to the Board at Boston, who will doubtless send you a minute of the expenditures, made by him on Am. and Foreign Bible Society account.

ANNIVERSARY ADDRESSES.

ADDRESS OF BROTHER EDWARD LATHROP, OF NEW-YORK.

We have not come up here to day, Mr. President, to be taught that it is our duty to give the Bible to the world. Nor have we met to reiterate and dwell upon the admitted truth, that the world, in so far as we withhold the Bible from it, must suffer manifold evils in this life, and incomparably more in the life to come.

With these unquestionable truths pressing upon our hearts, we have assembled on this anniversary occasion to review the doings of the past year, to offer our grateful acknowledgements to the Father of Mercies for what he has enabled us to accomplish toward the furtherance of the gospel; and to gather, from passing events, the substantial facts which shall serve as landmarks and beacons to guide us right on in our mission to the nations of the earth.

As it seems to me, sir, the great question which we are now called upon to consider, is this,

What do the signs of the times warrant us to undertake in the farther prosecution of our work?

In attempting a reply to this question, I am happy to be able to concur so fully in the opinion of the Board, as expressed in the Report, an abstract of which has now been read.

Existing facts do authorize us to enlarge the field of our operations.

I speak not now with reference so much to the extension of our territorial limits, but rather with reference to the extension and the vigorous prosecution of our work in those departments of the field upon which we have already entered, or which we have all along regarded as claiming our immediate and most earnest attention. And lest I should trench upon the ground which other brethren may occupy to-day, I shall confine my view to the European field, and to that which includes the southernmost portion of our own continent.

This society, as we must all feel, has accomplished a great and a blessed work in the aid it has furnished toward the translation and the distribution of the scriptures in the languages and dialects of the Asiatic nations.

Of course, no friend of the cause will think of abandoning, or of curtailing our operations in that interesting section of the field; China, especially, now accessible in all her ports through the agency of native colporteurs, stretches out before us as a domain, which, I need not say, is vast enough and important enough to enlist the energies and the co-operation of the entire christian world. And there are those, perhaps, among the friends of the bible who are ready to conclude, in view of the extent of this field, that here we ought to pause—here we ought to concentrate our forces, and make one united and vigorous onset against the venerable and decrepit superstitions of that mighty empire. But, sir, China—the geography of the Chinese to the contrary notwithstanding—is not quite all the world. There are a few “outside barbarians” whom we cannot overlook—whom it would be suicidal in us to overlook, in our survey of the field of our immediate and active operations.

The condition of continental Europe, at this moment, presents to the eye of the christian philanthropist a state of things which cannot but be regarded as most auspicious to the progress and success of evangelical principles, should efforts, corresponding with the growing demand for truth, be now put forth.

The thoughtful and observing tell us—and multiplying facts force the conviction upon us all—that the present is emphatically an age of revolution. And what affords us, in the contemplation of this circumstance, the truest pleasure, and the liveliest hope, is, that the spirit of revolution now abroad, is concerned, not simply with the demolition of one despotic throne, or one form of physical oppression, for the uprearing of other and more dreaded tyrannies, but that this spirit is concerned directly and pre-eminently with the upheaving of one set of opinions for the introduction of other opinions more consonant with the nature of man, and his relations to the future life.

The idea, somehow or other, has got hold of the nations—and it is not strange that the friction of truth for so many ages, should have severed some of the links which have held the human soul in bondage—the idea has got hold of the nations, that liberty, in its true and best sense, is the birthright of humanity; and this idea naturally and necessarily leads the way to another, viz: that of the individual and direct responsibility of every man to God; and this idea, once fully developed, will create a demand for the sacred scriptures, which all the bible societies in christendom would find it difficult to supply. This right of private judgment, as none of us can doubt, is beginning to be understood by the people every where to an extent unparalleled in the past history of the world. Under the accumulated rubbish of Papal forms, and mummeries, and ignorance—under the crushing weight of domination, both civil and ecclesiastical, there is an energy at work—a restless and indestructible principle which neither thrones nor armies, nor sacerdotal ingenuity can much longer keep down or appease.

But, sir, while, on the one hand, the sentiment now beginning to agitate the world, may be regarded as affording encouragement and hope to the friends of spiritual freedom, it ought, on the other hand, to awaken our liveliest apprehension, lest, for want of the sanctifying and controlling element, this sentiment should take a wrong direction, and develop itself, rather in military revolution and violence, than in the bloodless emancipation of the intellect and heart from the tyranny of superstition and sin. Guided aright, the growing aspirations of the nations will lead them to a victory and a liberty worth struggling for; misdirected, these aspirations can end in nothing but confusion and disappointment.

And what star, sir, shall guide the discontented and chafed spirits that are running to and fro, in pursuit of better governments, and a better religion than those under which they now groan? What chart shall we spread out before these our inquiring brethren, if not the Bible—the only chart—the only star that can point the way to liberty, either civil or religious?

Here, then, is the attitude which we, in common with other kindred institutions, occupy in relation to the imploring world around us. The times in which we live are auspicious, and yet critical. The tide of events now rolling in upon us, “taken at the flood,” may lead on to a happy and a glorious issue to our race; neglected now—the golden opportunity permitted to pass by unimproved, and soon, the waters, disturbed by political agitation and strife, may be too turbulent for the peaceful bark which we would launch upon their bosom. And I submit to you, sir; I submit to all who hear me, whether we are true to our professed object—whether we consult wisely the speedy triumph of the cause of truth, if we neglect to enter the now opening doors of Europe, or if we do not greatly enlarge our operations in those nations, from which, as radiating points, the light of life may go forth into all the earth?

The operations of this society in Europe, if we except a very little that has been done for Greece, have been confined, hitherto, to Germany and the neighboring kingdoms. And what, sir, are the encouraging facts, as connected with bible distribution, which our efforts in Germany have brought to light?

I hazard nothing in saying that, in so far as the progress of true evangelical principles is concerned, the land of the Reformation presented, a few years since, and even now presents as formidable obstacles as any so called christian nation in continental Europe. Between the inveterate prejudices of Romanism, and the equal antagonism of a corrupt Protestantism, truth had well nigh been driven from the centre and heart of Europe. But we are beginning to witness the dawn of a better day. With the blessing of God upon the labors of the feeble band who have gone forth amid reproach and persecution, scattering the good seed of the kingdom, truth is again asserting its supremacy, and now, the facilities for disseminating truth “are limited only by the means.”

We are all familiar with the rise of the Baptist cause in Germany.

The history of the revival of pure christianity in that country, furnishes abundant testimony as to the fact, that among the instrumentalities which have been chiefly blessed in arousing the public mind to inquiry and investigation, the simple distribution of the uncorrupted scriptures stands forth conspicuous. And what, already do we behold? We see forty churches of Christ, reared upon the true apostolic basis, with more than two thousand members, all of whom are, or may become, our efficient coadjutors in spreading far and wide the knowledge of salvation as they have received it.

“Most of our members,” says the beloved Oncken, “not only the brethren, but also the sisters—not only the old but also the young, are all employed in making known the blessed gospel.”

In the true spirit of primitive christianity these brethren are traversing Germany, and Denmark, and Prussia, preaching the word, and circulating as their means will permit, the precious volume.

We see them venturing even to cross the confines of Austria, with the gospel buckled to their bodies, and confined under their clothes. We see them entering Poland to make known to that unhappy and degraded people a better liberty than that which they have lost. From the shores of the Baltic to Switzerland and Hungary, and from the Rhine to the Vistula, the disciples of Germany, and Denmark, and Holland, are opening the way—have already opened the way, for us to enter and possess the land. Among these christians are hundreds who are ready to act as our colporteurs in distributing the bible among the more than thirty millions of Germans, or those who speak the German language, who can now be reached through this simple instrumentality.

Are we not loudly called upon, sir, to extend our operations in this whitening field?

From Germany we turn to Italy. And would, sir, that I could utter, without trespassing upon the patience of the audience, all that I have it in my heart to say with respect to Italy. But I cannot. There are one or two things, however, touching this interesting people, which I must be permitted to suggest.

We have labored too long under a false impression, with respect both to the religious condition and spirit of Italy, and the facilities that are afforded for the introduction and circulation of the scriptures in many, at least, of the Italian States.

Italy, sir, not even excepting the estates of the church, where alone the Roman pontiff has absolute sovereignty, and which does not contain more than about one-tenth of the population of the entire states—Italy is not the passive and willing slave of the Pope that we have taken her to be. The Italian heart is moved to its very core with an irrepressible yearning after liberty—freedom both from political and spiritual despotism. The people are disgusted with a religion which is seen and felt to be the cause of their degradation. They are in love with the idea of soul emancipation, and they turn to the bible as their only remaining hope.

We have it on good authority that the booksellers in many parts of Italy, so great is the demand for the scriptures, are willing, for the sake of the enormous profit which they make, to sell the prohibited books in any quantity, even at the risk of seizure and confiscation.

A few days ago I had the pleasure of reading an extract of a letter, recently received by a clergyman in Boston, in which a strong appeal is made in behalf of an Italian gentleman, now in Smyrna. "He proposes to introduce the testament into Italy, through his numerous acquaintance and former correspondents, many of whom would heartily co-operate in the undertaking in the conviction that the last hope of their country is bound up in that book."

"My friend is of the opinion," adds the writer, "that the enthusiasm with which the common people generally speak of the gospel, though they have never read it, added to the fact of its being a forbidden fruit, would make them receive it with joy, read it with care, and conceal it with jealousy."

We wonder not, sir, that his late holiness, Gregory XVI., in view of facts like these, should have warned the faithful in his encyclical letter of 1844, against bibles and all bible societies. "You are not ignorant, venerable brethren," exclaims the indignant successor of St. Peter, "you are not ignorant of the tendency of the proceedings of these societies"—"Their object is to translate the books of the divine scriptures into all the vulgar tongues—to issue immense numbers of copies—to disseminate them indiscriminately among infidels and christians, and to entice every individual to peruse them without guide."—"Admonish the flock, venerable brethren, of the snares laid for them by the bible societies."—"Having gravely and maturely weighed the whole matter, we again, venerable brethren, with apostolic authority, condemn them."

The Italians, Mr. President, love religious liberty more than they dread the wrath of the Pope.

As to the facilities for entering Italy, they are abundant, sir, as we could desire. All that is needed is the Bible for Italy.

"On the south side of the Alps, in a single Swiss canton," says Dr. Marriott, who speaks from personal observation, "are nine Italian speaking protestant communities, through which the gospel can be easily introduced into Italy." Nor ought we to forget, in addition to this, that there are some 800,000 Italians inhabiting free territories on the borders of "enslaved Italy," in which territories any number of bible depositories may be established. We ought not to overlook the fact, moreover, that there are scattered all over Europe, not less than 300,000 Italians, many of them refugees or exiles, among whom multitudes are to be found who would gladly unite in the work of bible distribution, in the hope of regenerating their country. Italy regenerated! and the shackles would fall from one-fifth of the human family who now groan under her spiritual despotism. And yet, sir, we have done nothing, hitherto, for Italy!

I had hoped to speak, (but I find that my time will not permit) of other departments of the European field, which now claim our vigorous efforts, and from which, as central points, the word of the Lord may have "free course and be glorified."

I had intended particularly to refer to France, where the sentiment of religious liberty is also rapidly progressing, and where, as the Report just read, informs us we have done nothing for want of a correct version of the French scriptures. Such a version, we are happy to learn, is now in process of preparation, and we trust that it will not be long ere it shall begin to circulate, not only in France, but also in Hayti, where, by the new constitution recently adopted, religious freedom is guarantied to all classes of the people.

Greece, also, presents to us, at this moment, a most inviting field of labor.

In Greece we have no opposition to encounter from the government, and, what is better, we have but little to fear from the church. In a letter from one of the friends of the cause in Greece, we have the intelligence, as an encouraging sign of the times, that the Chambers have recently created twenty-nine bishoprics for the kingdom of Greece, and that, of the priests soon to be installed, several "are known to be favorable to the translated scriptures, and have already applied for them in large quantities." Greece, sir, waits to be set free. Shall we not give her a better than Athenian liberty?

Nor ought I to omit, at this point, to mention Spain. Spain, which, as some one has remarked, "never changes," has, in one respect, at least, wofully disappointed those who would not that she should change. As to her religious sentiment and her spiritual servility, Spain is not the same Spain to-day that she was two centuries ago. We know, at least, that but a few years since, an agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society actually published the gospel in the heart of Spain; opened a shop for the sale of New Testaments in the capital of Spain; posted handbills in the streets calling the attention of the people to the fact, and after having disposed of 1300 copies of the Word of God to the citizens of Madrid alone, escaped unharmed, and in the face of day, from the field of his successful adventure.

Ought we, sir, to regard Spain, as we have too long regarded Italy, as hopelessly lost?

But from Spain, we turn, more confidently, to the millions of our nearer neighbors, for whom the bible in the Spanish language is urgently demanded.

In Southern and Central America, and especially in the latter, we have the strongest assurances, that the way for the extensive circulation of the scriptures is already prepared. Where, twelve years ago, a dozen copies of the bible could not be distributed, the demand now, is, not for hundreds, but for thousands of copies.

And what shall we say of Mexico? God, Mr. President, often makes the wrath of man to praise him. He sometimes uses cannon-shot and musket-balls, as he does the hail, and the pestilence, and lightning—as instruments, "fulfilling his word." And whatever our opinions as to the motives by which men have been actuated in the origin and prosecution of the war now being carried on against a sister republic—whatever our opinion as to the injustice or the political bearings of this war, one thing, we are satisfied, is evident; the wall of partition which has heretofore shut out the bible from Mexico, is broken down. Nor is it possible that Mexico herself, when the smoke of her battle-fields, shall have rolled away, can fail to perceive what that element of social progress is, for want of which, she has remained for centuries, the deluded and abject slave of the mightiest tyranny that earth ever knew.

We cannot any longer keep out of Mexico, sir, if we would. We have got to attack the strong-holds of Mexico; and oh! let us do this, henceforward, with bibles, rather than with bullets.

And thus, whichever way we turn, we are deeply impressed with the conviction, that our work, as a bible society, is but just begun. We have entered, as yet, but the outskirts of our field. Every breeze that comes to us, bears on its wings some urgent appeal for our succor. Earth in all her languages—with all her tongues, speaks to us, cries to us, importunes us. How, sir, shall we escape the responsibility which the knowledge of these facts imposes. But we do not desire to escape it.

In the prosecution of this great work, I am aware that means, exceeding by much our former calculations, are demanded. And the question properly arises, Are our means adequate to such an enlargement of our operations as we have contemplated? We have got all the means, sir, that are requisite. When I say we, I do not speak of the American and Foreign Bible Society, as such.—This society, I believe, cannot boast of much surplus funds in the treasury. I mean, we, the people—the great Baptist denomination of America. We have got the means; and all that is necessary to the securing of these means, as it appears to me, is, that the friends of the bible, and of humanity should open their eyes to the developments of his providence which God is every where bringing to our notice. I repeat it, sir, the christians of America cannot longer slumber over this subject, if we will but give them facts.

I envy not the condition of that man who lives in the nineteenth century without doing something for the spread of the gospel. Into the ear of such an one I cannot do better than to whisper the inquiry of the venerable missionary, who addressed us, by proxy, from this platform, just one year ago, "In this momentous era, can any believer in the christian religion hope to lie down in the grave, and pass quietly to paradise without having made some effort to diffuse the light of the bible throughout the world?"

REMARKS OF ELDER TAYLOR.

Resolved, That as the Holy Scriptures we circulate are able to make men wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus, we ought to pursue the great work of translating and disseminating the Bible, confident that through the blessing of God, our labor will not be in vain in the Lord.

After a few introductory remarks Mr. T. said—With me, Mr. President, it is a favorite thought that the great Head of the church has committed the conversion of the world to his people, and that to accomplish this object he has furnished them with his powerful word to wield as an instrument in the salvation of man. Grant that he is profoundly ignorant as well as desperately wicked, and none can depict his wretched state in darker colors than the facts warrant, yet it ought not to be forgotten that the Bible is admirably adapted as an instrument to enlighten his mind, renew his heart and meliorate his condition. It has indeed been framed and fitted by infinite wisdom for this very end. And from the nice and perfect adaptation of its matter and style to the constitution of our moral nature, it never fails when brought by means of faith into direct contact with the soul, to exercise a quickening and transforming influence on the conscience, the will, the temper and the life. What a wonderful book sir, is the Bible! "How comes it that so small a volume has exerted more influence on the human mind and on the social system than all other books put together? Whence comes it that this book has achieved such marvellous changes in the opinions and habits of mankind,—has banished idol-worship, has abolished infanticide, has put down polygamy and divorce, exalted the condition of woman, raised the standard of public morality, created for families that blessed thing, a christian home, and crowned its other triumphs by causing benevolent institutions to spring up as with the wand of enchantment?"

What other engine of moral and social improvement has operated so long, and yet lost none of its virtue? Since it appeared, many boasted plans of human melioration have been tried and failed; many codes of jurisprudence have arisen, and run their course and expired. Empire after empire has been launched on the tide of time and gone down, leaving no trace on the waters. But this blessed Book is still going about doing good, leavening society with its holy principles, cheering the sorrowful with its consolations, strengthening the tempted, encouraging the penitent, calming the troubled spirit and smoothing the pillow of death." And it is now, as ever, able to make wise unto salvation through faith in Christ. Its trophies are numerous as the dew drops of the morning. It is indeed perfect, converting the soul, making wise the simple, enlightening the eyes and rejoicing the heart. And whence comes all this moral and spiritual energy but from Him, whose word it is and whose Son it reveals. The sinner, sir, we are assured can never be awakened and converted but by an agency that is Divine. Without this there will be night with all the portentous dimness of her murky reign; there will be sleep, fastened by a necromantic spell which nothing human can disturb; there will be darkness, deep, settled, impervious and palpable. The Divine Spirit, however, operates through the word, and by it, and with it upon the hearts of the children of men, and is the one efficacious source of all that is holy and redeeming in the character and the circumstances of man. It is the word that quickens—it is the word that sanctifies—it is the word that begets men into the blissful family of God. It is heaven's appointed instrument of the world's regeneration. And the secret of all its mighty influence is, that God's saving power is in it, and accompanies it, and acts through it upon all who believe.

If we may judge, sir, by the action of the churches, all are agreed that God never works but by the instrumentality of the Gospel, in the conversion of sinners to his Son. Are not all concerned to send forth missionaries of the cross? Are not all desirous to furnish the Bible to every child of man? And are not all praying, "O send out thy light and thy truth"? Whether men will be converted to Christ, who have never heard of him—whether they will love an unknown as well as an unseen Saviour—and whether they will attain to the knowledge of God and eternal life, without the living oracles, are questions which need not be mooted in these times. In theory, possibly some may take the affirmative, but in practice all exemplify the negative of these questions. I have heard, sir, of persons laboring under so singular a hallucination of mind as to conclude that God would supply all their natural wants without any exertion on their part. They expected the joy of harvest without the labor of the sowing season. And I have read of a few who had such entire confidence in their do-nothing system as to make trial of it, and to the credit of their consistency they held on to it till they were literally starved out of it. But sir, if there are professed disciples of Christ who believe that Pagans will come to the knowledge of the truth and be saved without the word of God, yet there are none whose faith is strong enough to induce them to monopolize the Bible, or to act as if they possessed patents for the use of the Holy Scriptures. It is too late in the christian era to fold our arms in listless indifference and expect God to work without the instrumentality of divine and saving truth. It has been, as I humbly conceive, well said by Dr. Jenkins in his masterly work "On the Union of the Holy Spirit and the Church in the Conversion of the World," that "where the word is not, there the converting presence and the saving influences of the Holy Spirit are not. Where the word is introduced, there his presence and influences are introduced. Where the word is rejected or lost there his presence and influences are lost. In the word, the influence of the Holy Spirit is ever present without fluctuation, diminution or uncertainty; present as surely and abidingly as magnetism in the loadstone or light in the presence of the sun, or to use scriptural metaphors as vitality in a seed, or the waters of salvation in a well."

Sir, we possess the weapons formed and attempered in heaven, wherewith to wage a successful warfare against sin and superstition, and we have proved on many a hard fought field that they are mighty through God. We have the incorruptible seed, and wherever it has been sown in faith, watered with tears and breathed upon with prayer, it has been productive of an abundant spiritual harvest. Where is the desert so arid, it will not cause to blossom as the rose? Where the wilderness so barren, it will not transform into the garden of the Lord? Does it become us then to permit any despondency to paralyze our exertions? Shall we circulate the Holy Scriptures with a niggardly hand, under the unbelieving impression that they will return unto God void and not prosper in the thing whereunto he has appointed them? The world is pleading with us—its sins are pleading, its miseries are pleading, its thick-coming destinies are pleading, all pleading with us to shake off our lethargy and to awake to the high duty of diffusing the word of life amongst the nations of the earth. I am afraid sir, we are of little faith in the efficiency of the Bible as the instrument with which God works in the conversion of men, or we should not rest contented until we had given to every child of man that Word which would direct them to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world. On every side I hear that more funds are greatly needed to carry on this work, and yet we have those in our churches who live in princely mansions, fare sumptuously every day, array themselves in costly apparel and indulge in a thousand luxuries which are but inviting disease and hastening death. According to the genuine meaning of the scriptural idea, it is to be feared "they are sowing to their flesh." O sir, with one half the self-denial practised which christianity requires, and we might presently fill the world with the knowledge of the Lord; with but a tithe of the zeal of the apostles of Christ, and every creature under heaven would soon hear the glorious gospel of the blessed God.

As one not belonging to your religious denomination, Mr. President, perhaps I may be permitted to take this occasion to say, that I have ever esteemed the Baptists for their unflinching advocacy of the true principles of civil and religious liberty. I honor them too, sir, for their earnest contention for the spirituality of Christ's kingdom. And not the less is my admiration excited by their late conduct in sacrificing friendship, and love for truth and principle, in their separation from the American Bible Society and their formation of this Society. Sir, with your principles, and they are based on immutable truth and justice, I see not how you could do otherwise than to determine, at any cost, to give the Bible, faithfully and fully translated, to the world. It is not in dispute whether baptizo signifies to immerse, and why then is all this umbrage taken when your missionaries translate it accordingly. It is in dispute whether the Greek term signifies to sprinkle or to pour, and hence your agents cannot render it by these expressions. They must, therefore, leave the word untranslated, or translate it into each language by a word equivalent to immersion. To pursue the former course would be to leave the heathen reader in ignorance respecting an ordinance of Christ, while to adopt the latter is but to follow the solid convictions of their own minds, and the admissions of all their opponents as to the correctness of the translation. I do trust, sir, that all the different parties in this country, who practise baptism as a divine ordinance, and not the modern substitutes of sprinkling and pouring, will make common cause with the American and Foreign Bible Society in this matter. The opponents of this Society are ours as well as yours, and in one mighty phalanx, we ought to go forth to the conflict.

I would, sir, that any thing I could say, might enkindle the ardor of all the friends of "the Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible." The Bible is a universal boon to mankind; and we who believe in its inspiration and efficiency, ought to do our utmost to secure it pure and unmutated, and to give it extension and effect. It is not written for any particular nation or age. It does not depend, for its authority or its vouchers, upon any church, or all churches. It stands upon its own peculiar evidences; and no more requires the endorsement of the church to make it current, than the sun requires the authority of the astronomers to warrant our belief in its existence, or our perception of its light and heat. The Bible, sir, belongs to the world, like the air, the ocean, the rivers, and the fountains of waters. It is a common light, a common blessing, the imperishable heirloom of humanity! our whole inheritance lies there. No party can claim any special property in it; none has any right to monopolize it, or dogmatize upon its contents. It adequately vindicates its own claims by the light and truth and love which never forsake it. Happily it has long since achieved for itself an emancipation from the priestcraft which had restricted its circulation, and dictated its import to the world. It has since been gradually diffusing its light, and advancing towards that universal dissemination which its own prophecies foreshadow as certain, and the auguries of these times indicate as near. Great and auspicious events to mankind seem to be trembling for their birth-hour. But whatever character they may give to the eras which have yet to revolve, our own times have received their appropriate stamp; they can hardly miss the designation of the BIBLE AGE.

REMARKS (SUBSTANTIALLY) OF REV. DR. BABCOCK.

Resolved, That as the best interests of our country demand the universal diffusion of the Sacred Scriptures; so it is pre-eminently incumbent upon those who have evinced praiseworthy unwillingness to incur—in evangelizing distant heathen—the Saviour's rebuke for breaking one of the least of His commandments; and teaching men so—to bestir themselves in the work of HOME DISTRIBUTION, lest they should draw down on themselves the condemnation of violating the second great commandment—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

You know, Mr. President, how much easier it is on each of the four or five points or comparisons embraced in this resolution, to make a full speech of half an hour, than to condense what is most desirable to be said on this subject in fifteen or twenty minutes. Yet the necessities of this occasion seem to demand the latter.

The resolution itself is an abbreviated argument, and I shall esteem myself happy if in the fewest words possible I can just expand this argument, so as to leave a fair and intelligible exhibition of it on your minds.

This argument takes for granted that the best interests of our country require the universal diffusion of the scriptures among its millions of families. It might be shown from the reason of the case, that a self-governed republic cannot safely dispense with the purifying, enlightening, and controlling power of the bible. That if despotisms and oligarchies may succeed for ages, yet there can be no safety and perpetuity of free institutions, except what results from such an enlightened reverence for truth and righteousness as the bible is pre-eminently adapted to secure. Men—the mass of men—must reverence truth and duty, or the whole foundations of a republic are loosened, and you prepare the way for the upheaving of all that is sacred and dear, the oscillation and destruction of all hope of self-government. How perfectly well the bible is adapted to enlighten, to purify, to control the masses of men, all who are acquainted with its peerless contents, will readily admit.

Nor are we obliged to rely on this theory as resulting from the reason of the case. Abundant facts and experiments confirm this view.

The Puritans and the Dutch settlers who originally emigrated to this country, had learned from the bible to appreciate the value, and of course to use civil liberty—and after a little experimenting, they learned to prize and seek religious liberty also. Hence they successfully established a free self-governed republic.

France, led on by our success, also tried the experiment, and after the most reckless plunges in the dark, like a blind, mad giant, she went to the contrary extreme—hugged for years a military despotism of the most grinding character, till her Emperor, that proud son of destiny, as he regarded himself—having aroused nearly all Europe against his colossal schemes of ambitious aggrandisement, found his own sun of glory going down in clouds and blood at Waterloo, and left France to fall back into the arms of an imbecile, stupid, hereditary monarchy. She had no diffusion of the scriptures throughout the mass of her population, and hence her unfitness, her incapacity for self-government. So too, of the American republics of the South; how unfitted they have proved themselves for success. So true is it universally, that the tree of liberty will not flourish unless the tree of life is planted by its side.

Notwithstanding all that has been done for supplying the necessity of scripture diffusion in our country, much destitution still exists, and where there is such rapid progression in population (and from such sources) it will continue to exist. In official duties connected with your service, I have examined personally nearly all the states of our Union. I speak what I do know, therefore, and testify what I have seen, in saying there is much painful, dangerous destitution of the bible at home. Not to speak now of the newer states, not less than two of the original thirteen were found to exhibit an aggregate destitution of three score thousand families. In one of these, the friends and supporters, by preference, of this society, are more numerous than all the other religious sects combined. What an appeal does such a case make to our patriotism!

Nor this alone, or chiefly. Leaving out of account entirely the bearing of Scripture distribution on the best interest of our political relations, leaving all the momentous questions of freedom or anarchy, or despotism, to take care of themselves, look at man's immortal nature and destiny. If there be a God who acts as Governor, both rewarder and punisher—if holiness is his law and requirement—if without it none can see him in peace—and if men can only be sanctified by the truth, then pre-eminently do the claims of diffusing this truth tower above all others.

On whom do these claims most emphatically rest? In other words, are there any special claims on one class rather than another! This resolution seems to imply that there is—let us see. On the ground of their professions—on the ground of consistency, and with comparative regard to the great over the small, the near over the remote—it might be seen at a glance how these claims are substantiated.

I should love to expand these topics did time permit. Sure I am that they could, in more skilful hands, be made to tell with wondrous efficiency. Every ear among us would tingle, and every heart would feel—and I would fain hope, even against hope, that every hand would promptly, generously, aid the good endeavor to give the Bible universal diffusion at home, as well as to send it into the most promising openings abroad.

In the origin of our Society, peculiar circumstances gave very special prominence to the foreign field, and ever since, down to the very last year in which the old society, (who have excluded us from equal participation with them in that which we had equally aided to found and sustain) received twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars additional to former princely sums from one of our own brethren, who confided in their integrity and honor to carry out with impartial fidelity their professions as they had begun; this fact has induced some of our less considerate friends, in practice at least, to say, let us leave to that society the whole work of home supply. This would be like attempting to throw on a neighbor who had robbed you, the feeding, the care, the education of your own children; because he had, however unjustly and wrongfully, taken possession of what should have been yours to employ for these purposes. It really seems to me that any good and considerate parent would recoil at once from this idea.

Why should we be partakers of other men's sins? Why not, after having most emphatically borne testimony against corruptions of God's word—against those who, when asked for bread, digestible, intelligible food from heaven, would give a stone—an unmeaning, transferred, barbarous word,—from all this, and like popish perversions, why should we not keep ourselves pure? Especially after we had besought them to separate their home operations from their foreign (in which latter we could no longer participate,) so that by our joining the former, we need not defile and degrade ourselves with the latter, and had been coldly refused; after all the wrong and injury they have attempted most unfairly against us in the matter of our incorporation, why should we not forgive them—as the gospel demands we should all injurers—and leave them;—leave them entirely? We can do our own work in our own way, or by ourselves, if not as easily and as well as in conjunction, why at least all the wrong and injury and inconvenience must rest on those who have caused it.

And now if the million of communicants of those four or five different denominations, who in mass cannot but greatly prefer our Bible organization (to say nothing of many individuals of the more candid and unselfish character, who also prefer it in others,) with an equal number of adherents, who in such a work may be relied on to aid,—why if all these, or even one quarter, would annually give to this cause one fourth of a dollar on an average—the price of your cheapest Bibles—and this were judiciously divided, on the principle of loving our neighbor as ourselves, how soon would the reflex influence of so grand an effort do more than all creeds to cause harmony and coherence among us; more than all spasmodic excitements to cherish the habit of liberality; more than a thousand eloquent, wordy arguments, to convince the erring churches and the unbelieving world of the truth and divinity of the high mission on which our Master has sent us, for their renovation and improvement.

How unutterably important, too, that you who are intrusted with the official management of this enterprise, should keep to the broad and well defined platform of your fundamental principle, ever regarding and treating with a sacred equality and impartiality all who adopt it, and persevere in sustaining its noble objects. There are times when this steady adherence in the midst of environing excitements, is not a little difficult. May that good Providence which brought you into organized existence, and has so far watched over and blessed you, keep your eye single, your heart pure, your hand and foot steady to the end.

LETTER FROM BRO. J. G. ONCKEN.

The following communication from Rev. J. G. Oncken, of Germany, to the Treasurer of the Society, will be read with gratitude to the God of all grace, by every friend of our bible enterprise. A large amount of good has already been accomplished by the distribution of the sacred scriptures through brother Oncken and his faithful co. adjutors, and fields of usefulness seem to be opening to them on every hand. It is obvious that twenty thousand dollars might this year be easily and judiciously expended in the circulation of LUTHER'S German Bible alone, in Europe and the United States; and when it is recollected that the German population in this country now exceeds two millions and a half, the necessity of prompt and energetic action in this matter should arrest the attention of the patriot as well as of those who care for the souls of their fellow men.

HAMBURG, 22d April, 1847.

MY DEAR BROTHER:

Your very acceptable and timely remittances have come duly to hand, viz:

January 16, 1847,	£100 0 0
February 2, 1847,	218 7 11
March, 31, 1847,	214 5 9

These sums have been placed to the credit of the society, and will, when due, enable me to meet all the demands which will be made on me on behalf of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

I am at present in the greatest want of bibles; those belonging to the society having been all circulated, while the new edition has not yet left the press. The work is however rapidly drawing to a close, and in about six weeks I hope to have bound copies. The duplicate stereotype plates I expect to be here at the beginning of May, when they will be shipped by the first vessel sailing for your port.

To you, my dear brother, and all the members of the Board, I am greatly indebted for the powerful aid given to our mission by the appointment of six colporteurs, and the sums appropriated for the circulation of the holy scriptures in Germany. Though it is true that God has been pleased to destine the preaching of the gospel to be the primary means by which the Spirit of God is pleased to convert sinners to Christ; yet that instrumentality sinks or rises, in proportion as the preacher has been taught the nature of his message by the word and Spirit of the living God. And then how infinitely important are the labors of your society in reference to the new-born babes, who are now, thank God, multiplying like the morning dew. They are to be nourished with the sincere milk of the word. No other book but the bible will satisfy such as have been brought from death to life by bible preaching, and your society comes to our relief, and the hunger raised after Christ and his truth can thus be satisfied. And then alas! there are the millions around us, who, by cunningly devised fables, have no more of christianity than its name; obtained by illegitimate means;—they are perishing in their sins; notwithstanding the symbolical books of their communities, in which they are assured that, when sprinkled, they were born again and received into covenant with God. This soul-destroying delusion begins to be more warmly defended than ever before; of course by the evangelical party of the state churches—the Lichtfreunde and others need no conversion of any kind. The precious bible contains the only cure for all these delusions, and its diffusion, along with our other efforts to spread the whole truth, is so important in the heavenly machinery now in operation that without it we could not proceed either with success or with safety.

God is abundantly blessing us in the conversion of many sinners—not less than ten have applied within the last three weeks, and upwards of twenty converts have been immersed at Hamburg alone, and added to the church since January; and from other parts we receive also most pleasing intelligence. From six places in Hesse Cassel, we have received pressing invitations to come and immerse new converts. And if ever there was a favorable time to extend the Redeemer's cause in Germany it is now. The great temporal distress, and the powerful political and religious excitements of all classes, are a loud call on the disciples of Christ to be up and doing. We still look to your noble institution for succor: and having sown here together, though often in tears, we know, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it, we shall at last reap in joy.

The Lord the Spirit give us a heart for so great, so glorious a prospect. Finally, my warmest thanks for your affectionate invitation, of which, should I ever reach your happy shores, I shall avail myself. I have my hands here so full, that nothing but sheer necessity can induce me to leave for so long a time. It is certain I shall not cross the Atlantic this year. After I have completed my tour to the south and France, I shall be compelled to beg for a month or two in Scotland to meet present emergencies. We are now busy in fitting our new place up.

This evening, and about this hour, thirteen years ago, our beloved brother Sears immersed us in the name of our triune God.—What has God wrought since then! Eternal blessings be on his name! But farewell, my dear brother,

Yours in Jesus, J. G. ONCKEN.

Extract from the Report of the London Bap. Missionary Soc., April, 1847.

Though in the work of biblical translation the Committee have had to deplore the loss of Dr. Yates, they devoutly recognize the hand of God in preserving him till others were raised up to enter upon his labors. Early last year Mr. Leslie entered upon the work of revising and carrying through the press the New Testament in Hindi. The printing has advanced to the commencement of John, whilst of Matthew 8000 copies, and of Mark 4000 copies, have been struck off for separate distribution.

In Bengali an edition of the New Testament, of 4000 copies, has been completed. There have also been printed, for separate distribution, of the gospel by Matthew 15,000 copies, of Mark 15,000 copies, of Luke 15,000 copies, of the Acts 10,000 copies, of Luke and Acts together 5000 copies, of Genesis, with part of Exodus, 5000 copies, whilst an edition of the gospel by John, of 15,000 copies, is now in the press.

In Sanscrit a new edition of the book of Proverbs, of 3000 copies, issued from the press in the early part of the year, whilst an edition of the New Testament, of 2500 copies, has advanced to the fourteenth chapter of Mark.

In all there have been issued from the press during the year: In Sanscrit 3,000 volumes; In Bengali, 69,000 do.; in Hindi, 12,000 do.; Total, 84,000 volumes; being, for the most part, single gospels.

The number of volumes which have been issued from the depository for distribution amounts to 45,685.

These operations in printing and distributing the word of God in the languages of India, continue to be supported by donations received from the Bible translation Society and other friends in England, and from the American and Foreign Bible Society.

Judgment on the wicked.

CHAPTER IV.

1 God's judgment on the wicked, 3 and his blessing on the good. 4 He exhorteth to the study of the law, 5 and telleth of Elijah's coming and office.

FOR behold, the day cometh, that I shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch.

2 ¶ But unto you that fear my name, shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

Elijah's coming and office.

3 And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 ¶ Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.

5 ¶ Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord:

6 And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Society held its Eleventh Anniversary in the meeting house of the First Baptist church, Broome-st., New-York, on Friday, May 12th, 1848.

The Society was called to order by the President, at 9 o'clock, A. M. After singing, prayer was offered by brethren John Peck, of Cazenovia, and James M. Challis, of New Jersey.

The President introduced the principal business of the meeting by announcing that a General Law had been passed by the Legislature of the State of New York for the "Incorporation of benevolent, charitable, scientific, and missionary Societies;" that on the 31st inst., the friends of the Society had complied with the provisions of the Act and become a Body Corporate, known in Law as the AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The Recording Secretary then read the proceedings of the Board of Managers of May 31, 1848, accepting a Charter under the General Law; altering their Constitution and By-Laws, in conformity thereto; giving a list of the names of Officers and Managers contained in the Certificate filed in the Clerk's office of the City and County of New-York, and in the office of the Secretary of State, Albany; and recommending the Society at its approaching Anniversary to sanction and confirm the same.

Whereupon, on motion of Bro. Levi Tucker, of Buffalo, seconded by Bro. H. Seaver of Massachusetts, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the Society confirm the action of the Board of Managers with reference to the Charter and adopt the modified Constitution as recorded on their Minutes of May 3d, 1848, and the list of Officers and Managers to serve for the ensuing year.

On motion of Bro. W. W. Everts, seconded by Bro. E. Lathrop, of New-York city, it was

Resolved, That a Committee of three be appointed to confer with similar Committees from the Missionary and Publication Societies to make requisite arrangements, if practicable, for holding their respective anniversaries at the same time and place.

Brethren W. H. Wyckoff, N. Y., Greenleaf S. Webb, Phil., and L. Tucker, of Buffalo, were appointed said Committee.

Time and place of next annual meeting was left with the Board of Managers.

Prayer by Bro. Sampson of Mass.

---

PUBLIC EXERCISES.

Public exercises commenced at 10 A. M. Bro. Cornelius P. Wyckoff, of Auburn, N. Y., read the 3d chapter of 2d Tim., and Bro. John Bates, of Banbridge, Ireland, engaged in prayer.

The President then addressed the meeting.

The Treasurer's Report was read, and on motion of D. A. Bokce, of Brooklyn, seconded by Wm. W. Tuld, N. Y., was adopted, and ordered to be printed under the direction of the Board of Managers.

Bro. W. H. Wyckoff, Cor. Sec., read an abstract of the Annual Report, and on motion of Bro. J. Dowling, of N. Y., seconded by Bro. A. Bennet, of Homer, it was

Resolved, That the Report, an abstract of which has been read, be printed and circulated under the direction of the Board.

On motion of Bro. John H. Raymond, of Madison University, seconded by Bro. G. S. Webb, of Philadelphia, it was

Resolved, In view of the indispensable necessity and divine efficacy of the Scriptures in the economy of human salvation, that the work of translating, printing, and distributing Bibles, should be prosecuted with augmented vigor, both abroad and at home.

On motion of Bro. Charles Thompson, of Rochester, seconded by Bro. Adam Wilson of Maine, it was

Resolved, That the political, social, and religious elevation of mankind, can be accomplished only by the universal dissemination and influence of the Sacred Scriptures.

Adjourned with benediction by the President.

E. S. WHITNEY, Rec. Sec.

OF THE
AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

WHEREAS, the inspired Scriptures, the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, are the only authoritative Divine Standard containing the revelation of God for the whole human family: And whereas, the council of Trent, in 1546, declares that a Latin translation, called the Vulgate, "shall be held as authentic, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever," and the Rheimish Testament was translated from the Vulgate into English in 1582,—the translators declaring that the Vulgate "is not only better than all other Latin translations, but than the Greek text itself in those places where they disagree;" which assumptions have been generally repudiated by all enlightened Christians, not in the Romish church:"

And whereas, The American Bible Society, in 1836, approved of the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principle of their translation to the common English version; at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this Society can consistently use and circulate said versions in their several schools and communities."

The remonstrants against this resolution, believing it to be a virtual abandonment of the great principle of Protestantism, and the adoption of that of the Council of Trent, as well as a departure from the basis of the original compact of the Society, which states their object to be, "the dissemination of the Scriptures in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required," and having in vain taken every Christian measure to prevent its passage and enforcement, were constrained to form, provisionally, in 1836, and fully organize in 1837, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY: FOUNDED UPON THE PRINCIPLE, that the originals in the Hebrew and Greek are the only authentic standards of the Sacred Scriptures; and that aid for the translating, printing, or distributing of them in foreign languages, should be afforded to such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text; it being understood that no words are to be transferred which are susceptible of being literally translated.

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. The name of this Society shall be, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually shall be a member; each contributor of thirty dollars, a member for life; and each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars, a director for life. Life-directors shall have the privilege of participating in the deliberations of the Board.

ART. IV. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such Societies shall, while in office, have the privilege of life-directors.

ART. V. A Board of twenty-five Managers, residing in the city of New-York or its vicinity, shall be annually elected to conduct the business of the Society, with power to fill their own vacancies.

ART. VI. The President, one Vice-President, the Secretaries, and Treasurer, shall be members of the Board.

ART. VII. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, a majority of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. VIII. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life, or directors for life.

ART. IX. The Annual Meeting of the Society, shall be held at New-York, on the day after the second Thursday in May in each year, or at any other time or place at the option of the Society; when the accounts of the Treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year, by the members entitled to vote on the Treasurer's books the beginning of the said month.

ART. X. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call a special meeting of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given.

ART. XI. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XII. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

FRIENDS OF THE BIBLE CAUSE.—We address you upon the present occasion with feelings of peculiar pleasure. At several previous Anniversaries it was our painful duty to inform you that all our efforts to obtain a charter had been defeated. To-day it is our privilege to announce the gratifying fact that on the 12th of April, 1848, the Legislature of the State of New-York passed "An Act for the Incorporation of Benevolent, Charitable, Scientific, and Missionary Societies," and having complied with the provisions of this Act, we became a body corporate on the 3d of May, 1848; and as heretofore known in fact, are henceforth known in law, as THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY—a name which accurately defines the character of our benevolent association, whose single object is to "aid in the wider circulation of the Sacred Scriptures in all lands." The Act is not in all respects such as we could have wished; we are nevertheless satisfied to stand upon the same platform with our fellow citizens. We abhor monopolies; we never asked special favors, and now render thanks to the God of the Bible that, in his own way and in his own time, he has removed lets and hindrances from our path, and has brought us into the enjoyment of equal rights.

Your Board of Managers, during the year, have devoted themselves with untiring zeal to the duties devolved upon them; in their outgoings and incomings the Lord has shielded them, and death has been permitted to make no inroad upon their number.

You will learn from the Treasurer's Report that the receipts of the past year compare favorably with the years that have gone before; and from the Report of the Board of Managers, the interesting details of which I will not anticipate, you will see not only that the "fields are white unto the harvest," but are also so numerous and extensive that instead of sowing Bibles by hundreds, we must sow them by thousands and tens of thousands, until the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth.

Deeply impressed by the perusal of Br. Judson's letter, dated Rangoon, June 13, 1847, we beg leave to direct your attention especially to the closing paragraph. "It is my growing conviction," says this venerable missionary, and accomplished Bible translator, "that the Baptist churches in America are behind the age in missionary spirit. They now and then make a spasmodic effort to throw off a nightmare debt of some years' accumulation, and then sink back into unconscious repose. Then come paralyzing orders to retrench; new enterprises are checked in their very conception, and applicants for missionary employ are advised to wait, and soon become merged in the ministry at home. Several cases of that sort I encountered during my late visit to the United States. This state of things cannot last always. The Baptist missions will probably pass into the hands of other denominations, or be temporarily suspended; and those who have occupied the van will fall back into the rear." Must these mortifying anticipations be realized? After having taken possession of some of the strongholds of the enemy, must our brethren be driven from their posts? Forbid it, mighty God!

It is known to you all, that to sustain the faithful versions of our missionaries in Asia was the occasion, in the allwise providence of God, of calling this society into existence. We have contributed, since our organization, more than one hundred thousand dollars to print and circulate these versions, and we must put forth yet mightier efforts to strengthen the hands and encourage the hearts of our brethren, that by God's blessing they may still occupy the van, and maintain their position unto the death. Ultimate victory is certain. We must multiply copies of the Bible—the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God. Thus armed, missionaries and colporteurs "shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace; the mountains and hills shall break forth before them into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands; the wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." That this will be the glorious result we may not doubt, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

Another year of Bible operations has transpired. Another annual period of man's existence has passed, and multitudes of the race still remain in ignorance of the Being that formed them, and of the Savior who died for the redemption of sinners! The Board of Managers of the American and Foreign Bible Society, have, during this period, done their utmost to extend the knowledge of salvation by the dissemination of the word of God. They have the happiness to reflect that their efforts have not been in vain: that many thousands, through their instrumentality, have been put into possession of those Scriptures that are able to make them wise unto salvation through faith in Jesus Christ; and that some, at least, of the number, have received the truth in the love of it, and are now exemplifying it in their lives on earth, or enjoying the ultimate blessings of salvation in a better world.

The operations of the year, have been more extended than those of any preceding period. A part of what was noticed by anticipation in the last report, may now be presented as a cheering reality. The Society has commenced in earnest the enterprise of publishing corrected versions of European Scriptures. All that is done in these, is so much added to the sum and extent of our former operations, none of which have been relinquished or diminished.

In looking over the general field, the conviction is forced upon the mind that, while the Society is to a certain degree prosperous, while it is enlarging its plans and extending its usefulness from year to year, it still accomplishes so little in proportion to what is required by the wants of the heathen and the destitution in semi-christian countries, that, in connexion with a grateful acknowledgment of what God has permitted us to do, we are bound to put forth renewed and greatly increased efforts in so important, so noble, and so hallowed an enterprise.

Under the respective departments in which such information is appropriately detailed, it may be seen that there have been published in foreign countries' upon appropriations furnished by this institution previously to May, 1846, three hundred thousand volumes of sacred Scriptures, 300,000, and at our Depository in in this city up to the present date, 262,734. The two sums united, make the gross amount of 562,734 volumes.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS.

Our foreign operations have always been regarded with peculiar interest. The Society was originated with the grand design, to secure the circulation of pure versions of the sacred Scriptures throughout the world. It is gratifying to be permitted to state, that probably more has been done during the past year for this object than in any similar period of the Society's history. The gross amount of foreign appropriations, indeed, is not so great as it has been in particular years, although it far exceeds the amount designated last year for such purposes. But so enlarged and comprehensive a policy has been pursued by your Board, that every version for the support of which application has been made, and every missionary in behalf of whom assistance has been asked by the body that sustains him, have received aid and encouragement from this Society; and at the same time the most vigorous, and, in some instances successful, efforts have been made to increase the number of versions conformed to the original language of inspiration. It should not, however, be understood that all, or nearly all, that was required to be done for the foreign field, has been accomplished. A competent enlargement of means would have enabled us to effect far more for the cause of God and righteousness, but it is believed that, with the resources at their disposal, your Board have effected all that was in their power.

Efforts have been made to ascertain with as great accuracy as practicable, the number and descriptions of books that have been issued at the expense of this Society from its origin till the present time. It is a matter of deep regret that in some of the missions where Scriptures have been published with appropriations made by us, a rigid discrimination has not always been maintained between the moneys received from this Society and others accruing from different sources. Care is now taken to prevent such neglect in future. In consequence of its existence in the earlier history of your operations, it is now found to be impracticable to ascertain with certainty the numbers of copies issued at your expense in foreign lands, and in some instances an approximation to the truth can be reached only by estimates.

By the letter of Bro. J. Thomas, it may be seen that the books credited to the account of the American and Foreign Bible Society as published with appropriations made by it to the English Baptist Missionary Society, amounted in April, 1847, to 120,102 volumes, varying in size from 60 or 100 pages to 1100. The appropriations which met the expense of these volumes were all made previously to May 1st, 1846. From this date we hope to be able to secure accurate statistical accounts in all cases of the number of volumes in foreign languages published with your money. Previously to this date you had granted for the use of the missionaries of the English Baptist Missionary Society $36,000; for that of those connected with the American Baptist Triennial Convention, and the Missionary Union $102,109; and of those sustained by the General Baptist Missionary Society $6,300. Estimating the whole according to the data furnished by Bro. Thomas on behalf of the English Missionary Society, we would suppose that there have been published with these united sums no less than 481,772 volumes of sacred Scriptures. But as we are aware that a portion of the money appropriated to the Triennial Convention was employed in the expense of translation, we have reduced the whole estimate to 300,000. This may be regarded as an unreasonably great reduction, but we prefer in matters of statistics, to confine our representations far within the limits of probability, rather than to incur the danger of error.

The following is the list of ### FOREIGN APPROPRIATIONS.

To the Grand Ligne Mission, Canada, in English Scriptures, . . . .	37 46
To the army in Mexico, in English Scriptures, . . . .	76 75

Several appropriations of Chinese and English Scriptures have been made to the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention for the use of its Missionaries in China, and some payments have been made for the support of Colporteurs, but the whole account has not yet been received, and an estimate of the amount is not attempted.

INDIA.—CALCUTTA.

The epoch of the commencement of modern missions is associated with the name of Carey, and with the versions which he made in the languages of Asia. These versions, subsequently improved by Yates and Wenger, who have also added others, equally valuable, have always been regarded by us with the most kindly interest. It was the refusal of support by existing Bible Societies to one of them, the Bengali, that gave occasion for the organization of this Institution, and also of the Bible Translation

Society. Almost every year we have been privileged to do something for the circulation of these versions. In September last an urgent appeal for aid in their behalf, was received in a letter from the Secretary of the English Baptist Missionary Society. After alluding to the condition of that Society, he says,

"Our brethren in Calcutta go on with their work, looking to us, and especially to you. It seems cruel to curtail their labors; and cruel to speak of curtailing them unless it is necessary. This question, however, we cannot decide without hearing from you.

"The demands increase; and openings increase; and funds diminish. If we may rely on your accustomed grant, and especially if we may rely upon the sum you used to favor us with, it will be a great relief to our brethren in Calcutta, and it will save us from a most distressing alternative. But for our American brethren, Calcutta must do less; very much less, if you be not able to aid us."

Subsequently, a still more urgent appeal reached us, in the form of a statement of facts, from the missionaries themselves. The letter is written by brother J. Thomas, addressed to your Corresponding Secretary, and dated Calcutta, Nov. 3d, 1847. The copious extracts which we make from it are justified by the information which it communicates, concerning the use to which your appropriations have been applied.

"It has been a cause of much regret to me that the opportunity I hoped for has been so long in coming, but I felt that I could not write until I was prepared to afford the information you requested in your letter of July 14th, 1846. to my esteemed colleague, Mr. Wenger. The proper preparation of the statement you required I could not intrust to other hands, and my own numerous, varied, and incessant engagements, have prevented the earlier accomplishment of what you requested and I have so much desired.

"I have carefully gone through the accounts from the period when we were favored with the amount of the first appropriation of your Society, and the following is the result:

STATEMENT OF SCRIPTURES PRINTED.

"The proportion of Scriptures printed for the American and Foreign Bible Society, or the cost of which had been placed to its account, previously to April 22d, 1847, the date of the abstract of accounts printed in our last or Fourth Report on the Translations, amounted to one hundred and twenty thousand one hundred and two books (120,102), ranging from a single gospel of 60 to 100 pages, to the large octavo or quarto Bible of more than 1100 pages.

"Distributed into languages, the following is the proportion in each :

Armenian, . . . . .	944
Bengali, . . . . .	21,762
Hindustani, . . . . .	45,931
Hindi, . . . . .	14,750
Sanskrit, . . . . .	25,381
Persian, . . . . .	11,334
	120,102

"Of these, 88,585 consisted of single gospels, or the Book of Proverbs, bound in a similar manner, and 31,517 were volumes bound either in cloth or leather.

Cost of Printing.

The cost incurred in printing these Scriptures in six different languages and as many distinct characters, has been . . .	Rs.70,259 9 2
Towards this sum we received at different times . . .	67,476 1 8
Leaving a balance due, at date of the Report, of . . .	2,783 7 6

"The above you will find agrees exactly with the abstract account appended to the Report, but I must candidly inform you that that account does not comprehend all the items we had placed to the account of your Society. In the fond hope, and, I might say, confident expectation that one, if not two, appropriations had been made, and would shortly be remitted, we had ventured to place the following items to the account of your Society :

One-third cost of printing 3000 copies of the Epistles in Bengali, to complete that number of Testaments, including binding . . .	Rs.920 3 6
One-fourth cost of 3000 copies of the Gospels and the Acts, and 4000 entire Testaments in Bengali . . .	1,913 9 6
One-fourth cost of 8000 each, of Matthew, Mark, and John, and 9500 of Luke and Acts in Hindustani, and binding 20,000 single gospels and Acts, 1500 Luke and Acts, and 1500 Gospels and Acts together, or in all, 23,000 books, . . .	1,753 10 9
One-third cost of 4500 copies of the Testament, with ref., in Bengali, . . .	1,941 6 9
Co's Rupees . . . . .	6,523 14 6

"These items, added to the foregoing, will make the number of books printed 130,102, of which upwards of 36,000 are volumes of considerable size; and the entire cost Rs.76,788 7 8, leaving a balance against your Society of Rs.9312 6 0. This sum is so large that we did not consider it prudent to bring forward the items in the printed report, lest we should subject ourselves to blame for having so largely calculated on the liberality of our friends and supporters in America.

Monies Received.

"As already intimated, it was in the firm persuasion that renewed appropriations for our assistance would be made by your Society, and be probably here by the time the works were executed at press, that we ventured to proceed with our work and endeavor to provide for the increasing demands for the word of life; but we have been disappointed in our expectations—the hoped for remittances have not come to hand, and we have felt at some loss what to do. We, however, are encouraged by your last kind letters to hope on.

"I must entreat that you will not attribute my writing so seldom to any want of due consideration of your kindness, but to the overwhelming nature of my duties. We need, greatly need, all the aid you can give. Our distributions during the present year have been upwards of fifty thousand. Our stores are getting low, so that we must immediately put to press editions of 15,000 or 20,000 of the single gospels in Bengali, and we must have new editions of the entire Testament in that language, as the stock on hand will hardly suffice for the demands on our depository while another edition can be got through the press.

"We have now in the press the Bible in Sanskrit; the New Testament in Sanskrit; the Bible in Bengali; the New Testament in Hindi Debna-gri character, and the Gospels and Acts in Hindi Kaithi character. The New Testament Scriptures in Hindustani and Persian, must be put to press as soon as we can make the necessary arrangements. All these are in addition to the large editions of the New Testament Scriptures in Bengali, already mentioned.

From this you will see that we really need all the assistance you can possibly render. If we do not write many letters, it is because we are so occupied in doing the work that we cannot find time for writing letters.

Hoping soon to hear from you, and to receive many proofs of our being remembered by the A. & F. B. Society,

I remain, yours truly,

J. THOMAS.

P. S. I had almost forgotten to thank you for the grant of English Scriptures, and to say that a new supply will be acceptable. We are entirely out of the Testaments, which have been extensively used in schools. A few of the large and well bound Bibles, with references, will be acceptable. These we have sold at about the prices entered in your list. A few of the inferior kinds and Testaments have also been sold, but for the most part they have been supplied gratuitously to schools, or for any sums however small, the teachers could obtain. Many native youths are anxious to get the English Scriptures—and the small sized Testaments are very convenient, as they can readily conceal them from their bigoted and suspicious relatives. I think we cannot too widely circulate the incorruptible seed among the rising generation.

In view of such facts and appeals your Board feel that they have fallen far short of the necessities of the case, in appropriating only $2500 for the use of the Calcutta missionaries. But they have proceeded in this to the extent of their ability, and even beyond their ability, for they have overdrawn your Treasurer in making this appropriation. If this is contrary to the usual policy of the Society, our friends must bear in mind that nearly two years had elapsed since the last appropriation to the Calcutta missionaries, and we could not endure that the versions of Carey, and Yates, and Wenger, should be kept from circulation for want of pecuniary aid. It must not be forgotten, however, that the aid rendered is exceedingly small compared with the need, and that duty seems to require an early and liberal appropriation for the same purpose.

ORISSA.

In our last Periodical appeared a stirring extract from a letter, addressed to the Corresponding Secretary by our esteemed brother, Amos Sutton, under date of Cuttack, March 29th, 1847. We have space to repeat only two or three expressive sentences. Speaking of the invaluable benefits of Bible distribution in heathen lands, he says,

"All other means of doing good may be compared to stars and moons which derive all their light and power from this. The real value of it can be only properly appreciated by supposing this sun of the system to be obscured, and then contemplating the unavoidable results."

"Our sub-station at Rhunditta, from which three persons, while I write, are asking for baptism, and which has furnished three native preachers, received its first holy light from the gospel of Mark."

One remark of the letter will affect every reader with sadness :

"I write with difficulty, owing to an affection of the chest."

We have subsequently been informed through Bro. Pike, Secretary of the General Baptist Missionary Society, that Bro. Sutton is expected to leave the field of his arduous labors in search of health, and will probably again visit this country. His welcome among christians will be universal. Bro. S. states that, since September, 1842, they have published in separate editions,

5000	copies of Luke,
5000	" Matthew,
5000	" Luke,
5000	" John,
5000	" Mark,
2500	" New Testament.
27,500

These have all been published at the expense of the American and Foreign Bible Society, besides other portions of scripture which have been charged to our appropriations, but of the specific number of which an account has not been rendered to us.

Your Board have appropriated one thousand dollars to the General Baptist Missionary Society, at least one half of which is designated for their mission in China, and the remainder for the use of Bro. Sutton and his fellow missionaries in publishing Oriya scriptures.

BURMAH.—MAULMAIN

From the very full statistical tables, for 1846, furnished by Bro. Ranney who has charge of the mission press at Maulmain, we make extracts on the next page.

Bro. Ranney mentions among works in press, but not completed during that year, 3000 copies of the Peguan N. Testament, for the expense of which appropriations have been made since the last anniversary, amounting to $2000.

In a letter to the Secretary dated August, 20th 1847, he states, "I am happy to inform you that the printing of the Peguan New Testament is completed. I am now printing an edition of 500 copies of the Acts of the Apostles." He estimates the expense of the latter at $50, and the expense of scriptures in Sgau Karen and in Pgho Karen—both of which they are preparing for the press, at $4,319 34.

Brother Vinton is now in this country, engaged in revising the Sgau Karen New Testament, and making a Pgho translation simultaneously. A letter received a day or two since, says that he has begun Acts. As fast as he completes a book, copied by the assistants in both dialects, it is dispatched overland, in order that, after being again revised by brethren Mason and Binney, it may be put immediately to press, it being in great demand.

In a letter dated February 25, 1847, the greater part of which was published in the last Periodical, Bro. Ranney thus expresses the views of the missionaries regarding the employment of colporteurs.

"With regard to colporteurs, it is believed that several might be employed with advantage. There are few people unwilling to hear, and there can be no doubt that intelligent colporteurs, such as may be selected among the Burmese, Karens, and Peguans, would, under the divine blessing, do much good. The number of from six to eight is recommended for your support at a salary from Rupees 7 to Rupees 15 per month, $3 18 to $6 82."

Since the last anniversary the Board have appropriated $2000 for the Peguan scriptures, and $1000 for the Karen.

TAVOY.

A highly interesting letter, upon bible operations, from Bro. Mason, dated Tavoy, December 23d, 1847, was published in the Periodical for October. We extract two or three sentences.

"When we turn to the Church, however, we see clear enough that the Bible, and the Bible interpreted, with God's blessing, is the only means for the advancement of its members in the christian graces. In this respect there has been a wonderful improvement since the New Testament has been printed, and yet I cannot lay hold of any thing that would appear striking or wonderful in a report.

"Our best assistants are those that understand the Bible best,—our best christians those that pore most over its sacred pages."

Most of the printing for Tavoy is now done at Maulmain, and is comprised in the statistics furnished by Bro. Ranney. But we have a printed report of the Tavoy Missionary Society, for July 15th, 1846, in which mention is made of their distinct printing department to which they still pay considerable attention. One remark contained in this report we regard as full of meaning.

"Another way in which we are slowly preparing the way for the Karen churches to support themselves, is the selling to them, in part, their books. No great sums have as yet been realized from this source, but we are bringing the people to recognize particularly the principle, that they must ultimately pay for all."

The Board believe that in almost all cases in which a full or partial return for scriptures distributed, can be obtained, there is great er probability that the books will be valued and read. This remark applies both to domestic and foreign distribution.

ASAM.

In the report of the American Baptist Mission in Asam it is stated that

"All translations of scripture have been published at the expense of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

"Tracts and portions of scripture have been largely distributed during the year, and in this department there is a wide and open field for usefulness. * * * The truth of God thus communicated, though silent and unseen, is operative, and its influence we believe will at length appear."

We make the following extract from the

SIAM.

It was confidently expected that Bro. Goddard would long ere this, have removed to China and devoted himself exclusively to the translation of the sacred scriptures into Chinese. But in this expectation your Board have again been disappointed. Bro. Goddard writes in reference to this subject under date of Bangkok, June 16th, 1847.

MY DEAR SIR,

In my last, of Oct. 19th, in reply to yours of May 25th, 1846, I expressed an expectation of soon being able, in accordance with your wishes and to some extent in accordance with my own views of duty, to remove to China and devote myself chiefly to the translation of the scriptures. I regret to say that the way does not yet seem opened by providence. The circumstances of this Mission are such that it does not seem at all proper for me to leave. Brother and Sister Jencks suffer considerably from feeble health, and doubtless will continue to suffer until further acclimated. I am however happy to add that Brother Chandler and wife are enjoying better health than at some former time and the prospect of their continuance is more favorable. I am trying to do a little here in the line of translation. I still feel an unabated interest in the work and desire to have a standard version for the use of our missions. I shall do what I can in present circumstances, but it will be far less than I desire, and I fear less than others expect. I sometimes feel borne down with the multiplicity of my cares—not that they are so numerous or trying as that they would be burdensome with the health, spirits, and encouragement which I used to enjoy in my native land. But under the long influence of this tropical sun I am too much unstrung to bear a great multiplicity of cares without confusion. It is to me a source of regret and sometimes discouragement, that I am able to accomplish so little, while using up so much of the charities of the churches. I have not been able to satisfy my mind nor my conscience as to the amount of labor which I accomplish. I trust we shall share your prayers, both that we may know the path of duty and be enabled to walk therein. Mrs. Goddard often suffers from ill health. We have just been spending three weeks on board ship at anchor in the harbor, for her health and also for my own relaxation, and have returned considerably invigorated by the cool sea breezes. I may add that our chief native assistant is now about to leave for China, and in consequence more of my time will be required for direct missionary work. We desired to retain him, but having been long absent he could not feel satisfied not to go.

Please give my christian regards to the Society, and let me hear from you as often as convenient.

With kind regards I remain,

Yours truly,

J. GODDARD.

Bro. Goddard also wrote to the Missionary Union, under date of July 1st, 1848:

"In the translation of the scriptures, considerable has been done in the investigation and settlement of difficult questions relative to the usage of important words. The gospel by John has been thoroughly revised and is now ready to be printed. Matthew and part of Luke have also been carefully revised, but need still another examination before publication. Two of the native assistants, who are good scholars, rendered much assistance in the work of revision. They have gone over a considerable portion of the New Testament, and noted alterations which they judged necessary to render the style plain and idiomatic, leaving it to me to compare it with the original; after which we unitedly endeavored to render the whole both idiomatic and literal.

"A Chinese and English vocabulary in the Tie Chiu dialect has been prepared during the past year, to meet the urgent necessities of missionaries engaged in that dialect. About half of it [94 pages] has been printed; a large portion of the type has been set by Bro. Jencks and myself, for want of a person who could be spared from other work capable of composing English.

CHINA.

In conformity with the wishes of the Missionary Union the colporteurs supported at your expense under the direction of its missionaries in China, have been transferred to that body. Early in the year, Bro. Devan, who had been so efficient and successful in the work of scripture distribution, was obliged by the declining state of his health to leave that field of his labors, and to return to this country, from which he has been sent by the Union as a missionary to France. Bro. Clopton, who gave promise of great usefulness in the missionary field, and was deeply interested in bible operations, has been summoned from his work to receive his reward. His colleagues at Canton, in the employ of the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention, have received from this Society all the scriptures for which they have applied. From the annual report received within the year from Chow, a colporteur sustained at your expense under the direction of Bro. Roberts, we make a brief extract.

"During the past year I have distributed scripture portions 7,868 volumes. Thanks to the true God for His grace, and to the Savior for His merits, who have added to my life one more peaceful year: also grateful acknowledgments to the Bible Society for granting me one more year's allowance."

Bro. Dean wrote Dec. 29th, 1847 :—"A revised copy of the Acts of the Apostles, with references has been prepared, of which the blocks are cut, and it is now being printed. We are now employed in a revision of Matthew with explanatory notes, somewhat after the manner of Ripley's notes. The work is about half done. We have in employ, a Sew Chae, or literary graduate, to aid in correcting the style of the notes, and feel encouraged to believe that they may afford important aid to the Chinese reader in understanding the scriptures. We were induced to commence this work chiefly on account of the extreme difficulty in understanding the scriptures by the Chinese. without explanations either written or oral : the latter of course the best.

Bro. Dean appears to have in mind to carry out this plan for the entire New Testament, devoting some portion of each week to the preparation of notes ; to which he is the more inclined from inability to preach continually on account of an affection of the throat.

Brethren Hudson and Jarrom, missionaries at Ningpo, of the General Baptist Missionary Society, appear to be very anxious to enter upon the work of scripture distribution. Brother Hudson writes : " The Old Testament is exceedingly scarce, and it is difficult to obtain a complete copy of the sacred scriptures in the Chinese language."

An extract from his appeal for aid, addressed to this Society through the Secretary, may be seen in the Correspondence. Of the appropriation of $1000 to the General Baptist Missionary Society, the Board have designated " at least $500 for the use of its Missionaries at Ningpo."

Your Board have also appropriated $1000 to the Missionary Union for Chinese scriptures.

CHEROKEE SCRIPTURES.

The portions of the bible in Cherokee, translated by Baptist Missionaries and printed by Bro. Upham, are—Genesis, Luke, Mark, 1st and 2d Thessalonians, Philemon, Titus and Jude. Of these, were printed in 1847,

Tract form of Thessalonians, Philemon, Titus, and Jude, 2d edition,
12mo.	4,000 copies,	48,000pp.
Thessalonians for New Testament edition, 12mo.,	4,000 "	60,000 "
Translations of Mark for New Test. edition, "	5,000 "	140,000 "
Tract form do "	5,000 "	160,000 "

The translation of the Cherokee New Testament, by Bro. E. Jones and son, was completed last year.

EUROPEAN SCRIPTURES.

The Society is steadily and successfully prosecuting its purpose, to circulate the scriptures in their purity among the nations of Europe. The object increases in apparent importance and in profound interest, the longer it is contemplated. It is indeed a matter of grave astonishment to your Board, that earlier and more decided and extended efforts have not been made by those who hold the truth in the love of it, to supersede, in every part of the European continent, inaccurate and imperfect versions of scripture by those that more exactly express the sense of the original. Your Board have the gratification of presenting the following statement of their proceedings in this enterprise.

GERMAN SCRIPTURES.

In the last Report, it was stated, that Luther's Bible, which is regarded as the purest and most evangelical version in the German language, had been stereotyped in octavo form, under the superintendence of Bro. Oncken, and that duplicate sets of plates had been cast, one of which was then expected in this country. We have the pleasure of adding, that the plates expected have been received, in good condition, and an edition of 2000 copies has been printed from them, part of which are already bound and ready for circulation. It is only justice to say that the book is an uncommonly handsome volume for the price at which it is sold, $1 00 per copy. Since it was printed, a responsible brother has pledged $200 per annum for the support of a German colporteur in this city, and the Board have appointed a man well recommended, who has commenced his labors.

From the plates in the hands of Bro. Oncken, 5000 copies have been printed, and the greater part of them distributed. He has also been authorized to stereotype a portable Testament of the same version, and to send to us a duplicate set of the plates. From the known numbers of Germans in this country, and from the providential indications of the past year, your Board are of opinion that we shall be called upon extensively to supply this portion of our population with the word of God.

The colportage system, conducted by your Board in Germany, meets the largest expectations of success. In the Correspondence annexed to the Report, are copious extracts from the journals of persons in your employ. When it is considered that some of the most efficient and successful of these colporteurs were a few years ago the benighted supporters of that hierarchy of anti-christian darkness which they are now endeavoring to overthrow by the diffusion of the light of scripture, there is found in the fact much to encourage the hope, that the reign of papal error in continental Europe is sustaining a gradual curtailment of its boundaries, and that every increase of effort on the part of God's people, put forth with liberality and with faith, will eventuate in winning new conquests from the dominions of the Man of Sin.

The following letter from Bro. Onckon, furnishes a succinct view of the state of our operations in Germany.

HAMBURG, FEB. 11, 1848.

Mr. Wm. H. Wyckoff, Cor. Sec. A. and F. B. Society,

MY DEAR BROTHER,—As indisposition keeps me at home, and prevents me from entering on my usual duties, I embrace the opportunity thus afforded of acknowledging your valuable communications, dated Aug. 30, Oct. 15, Nov. 3, and Dec. 2, 1847, as also the remittance of £205 19s, by your worthy Treasurer.

For your frequent communications, the interest you continue to take in the prosperity of the work intrusted to our hands, and the good wishes and prayers with which you accompany us in our efforts for the extension of Christ's kingdom, I tender you my warmest acknowledgments. To the respected brethren who direct the affairs of the A. and F. B. Society, I beg to renew my grateful thanks, for myself, my fellow laborers, and for the churches generally. We all are indebted to the Board for their very prompt and efficient aid, enabling us to circulate, far and wide, that precious book, which by the Holy Spirit's teaching, has not only made us what we are as christians and preachers of the everlasting gospel, but by whose eternal truths, every triumph which has cheered us in our conflict, has been achieved, and by which we have formed connexions and gained an influence, in connexion with our general missionary labors, which could not have been realized without it. Indeed, so important does the A. and F. B. Society appear to me in connexion with our movement in Germany, that if the Great Head of his church had assigned no other labor to that institution than what it already has accomplished here, it would have been amply rewarded. It is not the mere circulation of so many thousand copies of the Holy Scriptures annually, that I would point out, but the manner in which and by whom they have been circulated. A vast number of the individuals who have been enriched with the word of God, have heard at the same time, from lips and hearts moved by the Spirit of the Lord, not a mutilated gospel, with all kinds of human appendages, but the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, as far as God has taught them from his own blessed word. And what has been the result? In very many instances the verbal message has led the hearers to search the scriptures, and frequently I have heard the people say, "What you have told us, we find it all in the Bible."

Let me now call your attention to the primary object of your Society—the circulation of the word of God. 5040 copies left the depot during the past year, and have been distributed in most parts of Germany, Hungary, Switzerland, Elsass, Denmark, and Poland. Jews and Gentiles—Protestants and Roman Catholics, have been enriched with heaven's best gift; and sinners from each of these classes have experienced, that the word of the Lord is like a hammer breaking the heart of stone, and then like a precious balm, healing the wounded spirit. No—no, we dare not ask in the voice of complaint, "Who has believed our report?" &c. But rather exclaim, with holy and grateful astonishment, "Who has begotten us these?" The Lord and his Spirit has been with us, and the poor, feeble, despised messengers of God's truth, have seen the grace of God, in the change effected in the character and lives of many once the willing slaves of Satan and their own wicked propensities. The joint labor of preaching, colportage, and tract distribution, has been crowned by our heavenly Father in the conversion of nearly three hundred never dying souls, who have been added to our churches, and I doubt not, in the conversion of many more, whom we shall not know till we meet them in glory, or in Christ's glorious reign on earth. To the Triune Jehovah be all the glory, for these displays of his electing, redeeming, and converting grace, and may it stimulate all of us to bolder exertion and more entire dependence on sovereign grace, and we shall see yet greater things than these.

You, my dear brother, and the Directors, will be glad to learn, that I have now six colporteurs in the field at the Society's expense:

Brother Kramme, who travels in Hanover and the adjoining countries as seller of pewter spoons, &c.; he has only a small remuneration, as only part of his time is devoted to the objects of the Society.

Brother Ehlerl labors at Allenstein, in Prussian Poland, and visits the Menonites occasionally along the Vistula.

Brother Straube is stationed near Landeck, in Silesia; he travels far and wide, and is frequently at Breslau. I wish much he could be placed at Breslau, both for the benefit of our little church there, and the more extensive field of labor in the circulation of the Scriptures; but that would require $150 per annum.

Brother Klincker, at Berlin, of whom I have already sent in journals.

Brother Schlesier has been appointed for Schleswig Holstein; and from what has been done the first six months, I expect good results.

Brother Engel, at Stettin. This is the only brother with whom I am not personally acquainted; but Bro. Henriels, the pastor of the church there, is such a judicious man, that I have not the slightest doubt Brother Engel (Angel) will, by God's blessing, be made to many, with his message of mercy and love, an angel of light and life.

I have in fact four other brethren employed as colporteurs, who are principally engaged in the circulation of the Scriptures of your Society; but having received two donations of £100 each from friends in England, I can support them for the present. When my funds are exhausted, I shall apply to the Board for farther aid. In the mean time it would, however, be well for me to know if the Board would support one or two additional brethren, should new openings call for this. As to the brethren whose names I have given, I believe them to be all men of God, who are seeking his glory in the conversion of sinners to Christ. There is no earthly inducement to enter on the self-denying and laborious work of a colporteur, who is incessantly exposed to trials and difficulties altogether unknown on your side of the Atlantic. From the annexed account, you will see that there is a balance of 3936 marks and 2 schillings due to the Society. A part of this has been already expended for binding, and before this reaches you more will have been given out for colporteur's salaries, which are paid a quarter in advance. I will now state my wants :

1. A second edition of 5000 8vo. Bibles, printing and paper.	Marks	6600
2. Duplicate sets of plates for the New Testament, about $600	"	1966
3. An edition of 20,000 Testaments from these plates, printing and paper,	"	4000
4. I would strongly recommend the purchase of 5000 copies of a pocket Bible, which have been offered me by Hassel of Elberfeldt, at 1 shilling sterling, or about £1000,	"	4250
		16,816

The binding I have not charged, as this can be defrayed out of the returns. The 8vo. Bibles are not wanted immediately, but it is not desirable to have them bound when newly printed. I regret exceedingly, that for want of the stereotype plate, which you promised to send, I cannot have the two sets of plates cast forthwith. The stock of Testaments will be soon exhausted, and in order that the labors of the colporteurs may not be impeded, I have transferred my own private stock, 3500 copies, to the Society, charging you with the cost price. But even this additional supply will not last long, and I beseech you to send the plate by the first steamer, to Mr. Joseph Rothery, 71 Aldermanbury, London. I fear almost that before it arrives, I shall have started again on, alas! a begging tour to Scotland, as we are in want of some help for our chapel, which cannot be had, it seems, without going from house to house for it. Was I not afraid of being detained a whole year in America, I should at once have started in that direction.

At present it is out of the question to separate $1500 worth of books from the Society's stock for the Union; till we have the new editions out, this cannot be done.

I have made such arrangements with one of my best bookbinders, that from May next there will be a considerable reduction in the price of binding. The incidental expenses of the Society have been very heavy the past year, but this arises from the removing of the depot and warehouse, and the new fittings, painting, &c., at the new place. The charges for rent are also somewhat higher, having to pay a higher rent than before. But for the fact that the expenses of the depot are divided into four shares, the expenses would have been nearly four times more. I state these things by way of explanation.

I must now bid you farewell. With affectionate regard to yourself and your respected Board, I remain yours, in the best of bonds,

J. G. ONCKEN.

In this country also the circumstances should be noted, that a large proportion of the German bibles already distributed by this Society, have been joyfully received, and are believingly read, by those who a short time ago were groping in the darkness of Romanism. Many thousands more it is believed, are so far loosed from the fatal chain of error, that they are willing to receive and to study the sacred word, although they have not become sufficiently enlightened to see their need of it, nor sufficiently interested to seek for it. Their hands are free, although their minds are still in bondage. They have learned to hate ecclesiastical despotism, although they have not yet been taught by the Spirit to love the truth. To such your Board desire to extend the hand of christian charity, and not at a distance to exclaim "Be ye warmed and fed," but to carry to them that precious gospel in which they may find the robe of Christ's righteousness to cover their spiritual nakedness, and the bread of eternal life to feed their famishing souls. The Board rejoice that the means are placed at their disposal to support one colporteur among our own German population, and they hope and pray, that means for such purposes may be increased many fold.

FRENCH SCRIPTURES.

Since the last meeting of the Society, political events have transpired in France, which impart a new interest to biblical operations in that country. It is not the province of this report to embrace disquisitions upon the rise and fall of dynasties, or the changes of civil government, yet it appears to be a matter of christian duty to observe the religious tendencies of new social developments, and to trace in them the influence of the expansive benevolence of God's people in the circulation of His truth. And it cannot have escaped the observation of the thoughtful, that each successive revolution in France has been characterized with less of sanguinary ferocity than the one preceding, and has been accompanied with a more encouraging prospect of unqualified religious freedom. The evident tendency is, beyond the limits of toleration, to the christian liberty which permits every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. A far sounder code of morality, and a healthier condition of the elements of society, exist in France than at the period of the Grand Revolution. While this may in part be justly regarded as resulting from the diffusion of general intelligence, it must be mainly attributed to the direct and collateral influences of the Sacred Scriptures. The hundreds of thousands of copies which have been circulated of late years, and which have been eagerly sought and read by multitudes, have not only been blessed to the salvation of many souls, but have been made the means of elevating the tone of morals, cherishing the domestic and social virtues, and spreading a broad and sure foundation of principle, in extensive communities where but comparatively few have been brought to embrace the whole truth "as it is in Jesus." Such facts furnish to the christian and philanthropist additional reasons for exertion and liberality in giving the truth to the world.

There has been no want of diligence in prosecuting the purposes of the Society with reference to the French Scriptures. A competent scholar was early appointed by your Board to correct and prepare for the press a version of the French Testament. The version of De Sacy was selected, on account of the idiomatic and popular character of the style, and also because of the probabilities of its favorable reception among Romanists, and the corrections have been made exclusively from the original Greek. It is believed that if the book thus corrected, should be found in any respect defective, such defect will not consist in the inculcation of religious error. While passing through the press, it is undergoing careful examination, and when the first edition is printed, copies will be placed in the hands of eminent French scholars in Europe and this country, for criticism, in order that its deficiencies, if any, may be discovered and corrected before it is stereotyped. In printing, the paragraph form has been chosen, as best adapted to set forth and impress upon the mind of the reader the meaning of the inspired writers. The book is expected to be issued in a few months.

ITALIAN SCRIPTURES.

A happy concurrence of the most remarkable providences, has engaged in the service of the Society for the translation of the Italian Scriptures, a scholar eminently qualified for so important and responsible an undertaking. The following testimony to his competency, is one out of numerous testimonials received from persons whose judgment and integrity justify reliance upon their statements :

“ He writes his own language with all the elegance of the most refined taste, accompanied with remarkable energy and perspicuity; and while his style is, as I observed, elegant and refined, it is also concise and altogether devoid of any unnecessary ornament—qualifications. I should think, very desirable in a translator of the holy volume. He is known to be a first rate Italian scholar. He is a good Greek scholar, and is acquainted not only with the Hebrew, but also with the Syriac and Chaldee languages. I can speak freely of his character as a christian, which is of no small importance in such a work; and I can conscientiously assert, that he is a person of such exalted integrity, and so sincere and single minded in the work he has before him, that he would not be capable of undertaking any work that he did not feel perfectly convinced he could accomplish faithfully.”

GREEK SCRIPTURES.

We had hoped, ere this, to receive intelligence of the correction and publication of the Modern Greek Testament, of the commencement of which enterprise information was given in the last Report. But circumstances of a peculiarly embarrassing character retarded the operations of Bro. Buel. In a letter dated Piræus, Dec. 10th, 1847, he states,

“ The gospel of Luke was waiting its final revision some two months since.”

But the difficulties in which the mission began to be involved by the local authorities, as early as August, subsequently so increased, as to cause a virtual suspension of such labors, until the 29th of December, when Bro. Buel sustained his trial before the Court of Appeals, which reversed the judgment of a local tribunal, and granted him an honorable and triumphant acquittal. The state of his feelings, both antecedent and subsequent to this happy deliverance is thus expressed in a letter to the Secretary, dated December 29th, 1847 :

“ But to come to our religious experience during these scenes, it seemed to be the kind of treatment that we most needed. It is a good thing to be shut up unto prayer ; to have every earthly hope and prop wrested from us ; to trust in God alone. We had nearly come to the Red Sea, the mountains on either hand, and the Egyptian host behind. The issue of the prosecution, involving the liberty of opening our mouths for God and his truth, was left to the caprice of men who apparently had every motive to pass an unfavorable judgment.

“ The beauty and appropriateness of the Psalms never before appeared in a light so distinct and striking. We could feel an unwonted delight and comfort in communion with “ the man who had seen affliction.” And when the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream. We felt that our deliverance was in answer to the prayer of the righteous man that availeth much.”

Since his acquittal, Bro. Buel has recommenced his work, and we hope that he will not be again interrupted before its completion.

DOMESTIC OPERATIONS.

In the early history of the Society, when the union of domestic with foreign operations was established as the fundamental basis of its policy, the position of the Board in respect to its auxiliaries, was peculiar and difficult. From the terms employed by the Society in respect to the English version, the Board conceived themselves bound to confine their issues to accurate copies of the authorized edition of 1611. These, it was found, did not give satisfaction to the auxiliaries, and subsequently a more expansive policy was approved by the Society, and adopted and prosecuted by the Board. Numerous improvements and corrections were immediately made in the plates of Scriptures then in use, and in the year 1843-’44, an octavo small pica Bible was stereotyped, embodying these and other important improvements, adding greatly to its accuracy and value. The length of time and critical care and attention expended in preparing this for the press, encouraged the hope that it might serve as a standard for the subsequent publications of the society. This hope has not been disappointed. The examination of years to which it has been subjected, has led to the detection of a smaller number of errors than its most sanguine friends anticipated, and the Board have finally adopted it as the standard ; errors, as they may be discovered, to be excepted and corrected. A resolution has also been passed to correct the plates of our other books as it can be conveniently and economically effected, so as eventually to secure a desirable uniformity in our publications.

But in order that such uniformity be complete, it is requisite that all our issues should be made from our own plates. The necessity of supplying auxiliaries with a competent variety of sizes, compelled the Board early to have recourse to purchase, or to procure the printing of editions from plates in the possession of others. But the purpose is ever steadily prosecuted, gradually to substitute plates of our own for each needed description. Of course such substitution can only be slowly accomplished. On the one hand the policy of the Society will not permit it to incur debt, and on the other, the wants of the foreign field necessarily absorb a very large proportion of its limited income. The Board have this year, however, the pleasure of announcing that, while they have done far more than last year in foreign operations, they have also made larger additions to the stock of stereotype plates. They have under way, and have partly finished, and paid for, plates for a duodecimo nonpareil Bible, and also for a duodecimo reference Bible for Sabbath schools. They hope before the close of the year now commencing, to have both completed and in use.

It is pleasurable to be permitted to record the fact, that the number of auxiliaries sustaining depositories, has greatly increased within the year. At the same time the views of the Society, in reference to depositories and the sale of books, begin to be more generally understood and approved. But as too wide circulation cannot be given to them, the Board deem it proper that some distinct expression of them should occasionally appear in the Annual Report.

It is contrary to the policy of the Society to establish a depository in its own name, or dependent upon it for support or supervision, except at the Bible Rooms in New York city ; but it is its interest and desire to have them established by auxiliaries in every county in the United States. And the Board esteem the enterprise seldom difficult and never impracticable, where members or decided friends of the society can be found.

It is especially desirable that associations should adopt measures for the organization of county societies, with their respective depositories. Each county depository should keep on hand a full assortment of our books. A frequent correspondence should be maintained with the Rooms, and so far as practicable, cash should be paid for all purchases. If a portion of the books are purchased on credit, that credit ought not to exceed three, or at most, six months. It is directly infringing the rules of the society for credit ever to be extended beyond six months. Cash payments are always most serviceable to the cause of benevolence. In no instance are books sold by the American and Foreign Bible Society on commission.

DOMESTIC APPROPRIATIONS.

The Scriptures gratuitously appropriated for the home field, since the date of the last report, amount in value to $1359 27. Of this sum, $690 18 is for books drawn by members and directors.

PUBLICATIONS.

The Publications of the year amount to 17,018 Bibles and 33,877 Testaments. Total, 50,895. The whole number hitherto published by the society at the Depository, is 262,734.

ISSUES.

The Issues of the year have been 14,157 Bibles and 29,662 Testaments. Total 43,819.

BOOKS ON HAND.

On the 6th of April, the stock of books at the Depository, amounted to 13,145 Bibles and 16,934 Testaments. Total, 30,079. Of the Bibles 267 were German, and 1076 Welsh; Testaments 1170 German, and 1001 Welsh.

LIBRARY.

Fifty-one volumes have been added to the Library since the 1st of May, making the whole number contributed from the origin of the Society, 1544.

LEGACIES.

Few and comparatively small legacies have been received.

Deacon Lewis Porter, of Covert, Seneca Co., N. Y., has made a second payment in advance of the legacy bequeathed to this Society in his will, . . .	$100 00
The estate of Josiah Stagg, late of Pantton, Vt., has paid . . .	20 00
" " " Mrs. Lewis Langdon, of New Haven, Ct., has paid . . .	60 00
" " " Nicholas Brown, of Providence, R. I., has paid 6th instalment, . . .	200 00
" " " Jonas Welsh, of Boston, Mass., has paid . . .	100 00
" " " James Vanderpool, of Newark, N. J., has paid . . .	500 00
" " " Deacon Phelps, of Ames, Montgomery Co., N. Y., has paid 6th instalment, . . .	25 00
	<hr/> $1,005 00

RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The receipts and operations of the society are evidently on the increase. The fiscal year just closed was shorter than any of its predecessors, consisting of only eleven months and six days. In this time a larger amount of money has been received than in any period of the same length since the Society was organized. It exceeds the amount received during the same period last year, by more than $3300.

The disbursements have been still greater in proportion. Not only is the balance with which the society commenced the year, exhausted, but the pressing need of appropriations for the foreign field has compelled the Board to overdraw the treasury. The summary, up to the 6th of April, stands,

Balance from last year, . . . . .	2,013 66
Receipts, . . . . .	$31,521 14
Disbursements, . . . . .	34,421 92
Treasury overdrawn, . . . . .	887 12

AGENCIES.

Our system of agency has cost less than the year preceding by about $1200. Brethren A. Maclay, H. Seaver, Gibbon Williams, James Farquharson, S. Mervin Smith, and C. A. Clark, have been employed during the entire year, and Brethren Lewis Leonard, J. J. Woolsey, and E. A. Smith, during a part of the time. The last mentioned is a voluntary agent of the society.

LIFE MEMBERS AND DIRECTORS.

Three hundred and nine members have been added to the list, making the whole number 2536. New Life Directors, 13 ; whole number, 316.

INCORPORATION.

A law for the incorporation of benevolent, charitable, scientific and missionary societies, was enacted near the close of the last session of the Legislature ; and, in accordance with its provisions, the requisite steps have been taken, to incorporate the American and Foreign Bible Society.

CONCLUSION.

The results of the year are encouraging. They have been attained without noise, without excitement, with no special appeal for aid, with no loud-sounding cry of alarm. They demonstrate that a steady, unobtrusive, but persevering prosecution of systematic effort, is preferable to the irregular, spasmodic energy of excited impulsiveness. Your Board believe that religious benevolence is a matter of principle ; that principle, to be steadfast, should be founded on an intelligent sense of duty, and should be cultivated with a view no less to its permanent strength and growth, than to its temporary effects. The vine, that by unwonted stimulants, is made to yield an extraordinary harvest of grapes, is little more in after years than a sickly monument of exhausted energies ; while the one which is properly cultivated, pruned and trimmed, every season adds to the number and richness of its juicy clusters. Your Board are endeavoring so to prosecute their business, as every year to increase the receipts and extend the operations of the Society ; and at the same time so to cultivate the field of benevolence, as to make its agents increasingly welcome in their annual visits to contributors.

Still it is not to be denied that the amount raised for the Bible cause is very far below its just claims, and the abundant ability of those who ought to be interested in it. It is a melancholy truth and one that should penetrate the heart of every lover of the sacred scriptures, that this Society is every year obliged to forego large and inviting opportunities of doing good for want of the pecuniary means. The warm-hearted believer, when he presses his Bible to his bosom and feels that it is Heaven's precious boon to man, should remember, that the American and Foreign Bible Society cannot give that book to whom it would, because the contributions to its funds are so limited. The humble, grateful soul, who feels that he owes his all to the Lord that bought him, should reflect that what he holds in stewardship on earth was intrusted to him for usefulness; and that no mode of usefulness can be greater, none more pleasing to the Master, none more permanently beneficial to mankind, than to give extensive circulation to the record of a Savior's dying love, the sacred volume that testifies of Jesus.

ANNIVERSARY ADDRESSES.

ADDRESS OF BRO. D. A. BOKEE.

Bro. D. A. Bokee sustained the Treasurer's Report by the following remarks :

MR. PRESIDENT :

I desire to ask the acceptance of the Treasurer's Report :—and I might content myself in offering a resolution to that effect, by simply referring to the document itself and submitting the resolution to your consideration : but, sir, the results of the Society's operations for the last, and the favorable auspices under which it commences the new year, would seem to demand a few passing remarks : in making them, in my own imperfect manner, I shall tax your indulgence for but a very short time.

The Report contains abundant evidence, not only that the interest hitherto felt in the Society's prosperity remains undiminished, as indicated in the increased amount of contributions, but also that it is enlarging the sphere of its usefulness, as established by the fact of its greatly increased expenditure. But, sir, while all should feel grateful for these results, there is one other fact established which calls for self-abasement—it is, that the means furnished, have not been adequate to the demand, and the Society is left in debt. The thought most prominent in reference to this condition of the finances is, that men in the prosecution of charitable and benevolent designs, do not exercise the same degree of energy or of self-denial that they do in their worldly avocations. In all the enterprises of the day connected with mercantile or mechanical operations, there is exhibited no want of talent and zeal, there is no lack of means to insure success. Indeed, projects regarded as chimerical, will find friends and advocates, and will be justified, if no better argument in their favor can be adduced, because this is the age of progress. We do indeed live, sir, in a progressive age—but instead of being only now at the commencement, I apprehend, we are far advanced into it. It will only be necessary, I think, to contrast the condition of man as he existed prior to the fifteenth century, with what it is now, to feel assured of the correctness of this position—then, with governments despotic and tyrannical ; now, each striving to establish the principles of liberty and equality—then, the mind chained and fettered ; now, no limit seems to be fixed to its aspirations—then, “ darkness covered the earth, and gross darkness the people ”—now, light and knowledge are being diffused through every part of the habitable globe. And to what, sir, I would ask, is mainly to be attributed this great, this wonderful change ? I answer, to the discovery of the art of printing. It was then, as if through the darkened clouds which had for ages veiled the light of knowledge, burst forth the latent energies of the mind; then the unchained faculties walked abroad through the wide fields of speculation and inquiry; the laws of nature yielded to the penetrating scrutiny of the philosopher; the rights of man, were explored and brought to light by the civilian, and society assumed a new character under the influence of political and religious liberty.

The discovery of this art, it is said by a celebrated author, was not the result of philosophical sagacity, but rather to be attributed to accident—to chance—sir, I think you will agree with me, that we are indebted for it, to an ever wise, an ever merciful God; and that it was designed to be, in the hands of his people, the means of conveying to all, a knowledge of him who ever liveth and reigneth, and before whom every knee must bend. And it is an interesting fact that the first work printed was the bible, and that those countries, which have been most engaged in its printing and circulation are the most enlightened and happy.

Professing then to be the people of God, shall it be that while millions are yet destitute of his word, we should withhold the necessary means of accomplishing the great work with which we are intrusted? It cannot be, and I trust sir, that from this time forth, the treasury of the American and Foreign Bible Society will be kept full and overflowing.

Sir, I use the name of this Society in full, and I do most heartily congratulate you that it can be used not only as a name acknowledged by ourselves, but that it must be used by others, because it is a name in Law. Did the occasion suit and time permit, I might advert to the obstacles which have hitherto interposed to prevent the acknowledgment of the Society's rights. I might speak of the opposition which was made in the Legislature, and by parties, too, who professed to have a common interest in the cause in which this Society is engaged. But, sir, this is an occasion not at all suited to such topics: it is one which rather calls for thankfulness on our part. For though we have been engaged in a conflict, we have not been subdued; on the contrary, though appearances were against us, we are still the victors. I say, sir, we have abundant cause to be thankful, and we should be stimulated thereby to put forth all our efforts to publish and disseminate the word of life to the destitute, not only of our own but of foreign lands.

ADDRESS OF BRO. DOWLING.

In moving the acceptance of the Report of the Board, Bro. John Dowling, thus addressed the Society:

MR. PRESIDENT:—In moving the acceptance and adoption of the Report which has just been read, permit me to commence by congratulating you, sir, and the Society upon the interesting fact which that Report announces, viz; that the American and Foreign Bible Society is now a chartered institution. It is unnecessary that I should here recapitulate the series of struggles and defeats which the Society has been called to pass through, before we have reached this long-wished for consummation of our hopes. Twice in the legislature of this state, through the influence of those from whom better things might have been expected, were our reasonable expectations denied; though in each case the good sense and native justice of the members of the legislature secured us a majority of more than two to one of all the votes that were cast, viz: in 1845, 75 to 36; and in 1846, 65 to 32. The cause of our failure was the want of the constitutional majority, of two-thirds of all the members elected.

When one of these defeats was announced at the anniversary of this Society, two years ago, it was remarked by the eloquent preacher of the annual sermon—"We are not to be turned aside from our work by the opposition of those who would cripple our machinery by denying us the legal protection which is accorded to others. Through their influence, justice may for a time be delayed; but right will ultimately triumph. 'Vincimur in prelio, sed non in bello,' that is, 'we are vanquished in the battle, but not in the war.' "

Happy am I, this day, to congratulate you, Mr. President, that we can now change the language of hope for that of triumph, and with a slight alteration of the quotation of Bro. Stow, we can say, Victi in prelio, vicimus in bello. Though vanquished in the skirmish, we've conquered in the war! To HIM who "giveth power to the faint, and to them who have no might increaseth strength," is our gratitude due for this consummation of our wishes and our hopes.

Yet, sir, you well know that this victory has not been achieved without the most arduous exertions and the most untiring perseverance. Your motto as a Board, and that of the honorable gentlemen in our state legislature who have so nobly stood by you in this battle for the right, has been, "NO SURRENDER." Defeated in one effort, you have instantly followed it by a more vigorous onset. Beaten back in one attack—though every such victory to your adversaries was a defeat—you have instantly marshalled your ranks for another. And when a change of tactics was necessary, your able generals advised such a change, and victory was the result. When the opposition of our adversaries denied us, by their beggarly minority, a special Act of Incorporation, then, sir, our friends in the legislature resolved upon a change of that law which rendered such a special act necessary; and such a change was triumphantly achieved; and that general law of Incorporation was passed, which has been to-day announced, and by which we have now become an incorporated institution. "Never give up!" has been your watchword, and such perseverance, as was meet, has been crowned with success. A noble motto this, and nobly have its praises been sung by that original genius, Martin Farquhar Tupper,

*Never give up ! There are turnings and changes,
Helping the hopeful a hundred to one,
And through the changes high Wisdom arranges,
Ever successful are those who hope on.*

*Never give up ! For the wisest is boldest,
Knowing that Providence mingles the cup;
And of all maxims the best, as the oldest,
Is the true watchword, NEVER GIVE UP !*

Some may suppose that we have little cause for exultation, since we have at last, only won the boon, (I will rather say the right) which we sought by a general act, which confers the same right upon every similar institution which may be formed. To this, sir, we reply, that we consider it the glory of this act, that it gives equal rights to all. This is all that we have been asking, and with this we are more than content. Sir, I prefer this general law to a special act, because in future there will be no necessity for any institution of benevolence, before it can enjoy the right of claiming a legacy left to it, to go cringing and petitioning to an earthly legislature to obtain that right; and that, too, at the risk of being embarrassed and delayed, as we have been, by those whose views of religious liberty, judging from this specimen, are a century behind the age. The world has at length made the discovery, sir, that the church and state are the best friends to each other, when they exist independent of each other and are not linked in too close companionship. I heard a capital illustration of this truth the other day, from a witty Irish gentleman, now in this city. A loving couple of natives of the Emerald Isle, after several years of kind companionship, happened to have a little bit of a tiff; one evening they were sitting in moody silence, one on one side of the fire and the other on the other, when presently the cat and the dog came in, and took up their stations at their feet. The good woman after contemplating some time this picture of canine and feline harmony, looked up to her frowning husband and began to make some sign of reconciliation—"I've been thinking, honey dear," said she, at length, "what a shame it is that you and I should fall out, when the cat and the dog agree so peacefully together." The husband looked up rather sulkily and replied, "Sure enough, Nelly, and that may be, but it is'nt a fair comparison—tie 'em together and then see how they'll act."

Sir, we live in a land, where church and state agree very well, because they are kept distinct from each other. Even the Puseyites of England, since the famous Hampden controversy, have, at length, discovered that this unhallowed union has its bitter as well as its sweet. We in this land of liberty can look across the water and contemplate this cat and dog union with infinite amusement. They are tied together and see how they act! Long distant be the day, sir, when in happy America, by the predominance of any one denomination over another, or by the interference of any religious party with the rights of any other, by attempts to monopolize those privileges which belong equally to all—any, even the remotest, approach may be made to a union such as that!

And what, some may inquire, are the great principles upon which the American and Foreign Bible Society is founded, and for faithfully maintaining which we have been compelled to run the gauntlet of opposition through hosts of adversaries, in our exertions to become a chartered institution? I need not tell those who are old enough to have witnessed the birth of this Society, what those principles are. They have been reiterated again and again. But we are not to forget, that our churches are increasing, and our membership is multiplying. For the sake, therefore, of the numerous young converts, who in the past winter, and for the past few years have been gathered into our churches, I shall be excused for briefly recapitulating those principles. They may be summed up in the following four propositions.

1. The Bible the word of God, and not the traditions of men, as the standard of our faith, and the tribunal of ultimate appeal in matters of doctrine and practice.

The Romanists and Puseyites place tradition, which they call the "unwritten word of God," upon an equality with the scriptures, and maintain that they "form together a united rule of faith." We believe that the bible only is our rule of faith, and that no doctrine is to be received as an article of faith, which may not be plainly proved by the bible. Hence most of the supporters of this Society differ not only from the avowed traditionists of Rome and of Oxford, but from those who practise infant sprinkling; a rite of which not the slightest allusion or mention is made in the sacred scripture, and which is just as much dependant upon mere tradition as priestly celibacy, auricular confession, or papal supremacy.

I am reminded, by the presence here to-day of the Rev. Mr. Bates, from Ireland, of a somewhat striking, yet very natural result, of a search after infant baptism in the pages of the bible. In a certain neighborhood in the north of Ireland, considerable excitement had been produced by the agitation of the question—public and private baptism, (i. e. of infants)—among several Presbyterian congregations. A pamphlet was published on the subject, entitled—if I remember right—"A Plea for Public Baptism." This discussion set the people to thinking and examining their bibles, and the result was that so far from finding in the scriptures a decision of the question, whether infants should be baptized in public or in private, many made the discovery that from Genesis to Revelation the baptism of infants was not in a single instance mentioned. Several followed out their conscientious convictions upon making this, to them, unexpected discovery, and this was the origin of the Baptist church of Banbridge, of which Brother Bates is the pastor. In thus doing they merely acted out the genuine protestant principle, the bible the only rule of faith.

2. The second great principle is—The Bible as God gave it, the only authentic standard; and not as man may have mutilated or obscured it.

The Romish church makes a Latin version the standard, a merely human and a very imperfect performance, and in the Council of Trent, in 1546, pronounced a curse upon all who refuse to bow to its decision in this respect. For this reason it is that all Romish versions of the scriptures are made, not from the inspired Hebrew and Greek, but from the Latin vulgate. In like manner, the American Bible Society, in 1836, declared themselves "at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principle of their translation to the common English version;" thus, in our opinion, departing from the only defensible principle of translation—The bible as God gave it, in the inspired Hebrew and Greek original, the only authentic standard. It should be known, at least to every Baptist, that it was for refusing to accept the imperfect, instead of the perfect standard, and for declining to instruct our missionaries in all their translations among the heathen to "conform to the principle of the English version," by leaving the words relating to baptism untranslated, that we were excluded from all participation in the funds of the American Bible Society, and compelled to form another, in which we might act out unfettered, this great principle—the bible as God gave it, the only authentic standard.

3. This remark leads to a third principle of our Society—The Bible translated—wholly translated, and not a part in the vernacular tongues, and a part in Hebrew or in Greek.

Much has been said, in connexion with this subject, of the principle of transfer and the principle of translation; and the inquiry is often made by the more recent members of our churches, what is the precise idea we attach to these terms. For their sakes permit a word or two of explanation. To transfer from Greek into Burman, is simply to print the Greek word in Burman type. So also in any other language. To translate is to give the meaning of the word by a Burman word of the same signification. Now in order to compromise the difference of opinion relative to Baptism, we were required by the resolution of 1836, to leave it untranslated, and in every case where it occurs to give the heathen a Greek word. This we could not, we dared not do. Hence the origin of our Society. To show the absurdity of this principle of transfer let me give you an example or two proving how easy it would be, in this way to cover up every doctrine of the bible. Thus to please the Socinian, we might be required, upon this principle, to translate John 1: 1:—"In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was Theos." To please the Universalist, Matthew 25: 46, "and these shall go away into aionion punishment, but the righteous into life eternal." Or Mark 9: 43, 44:—"Into the fire asbestos where their worm teleuteth not, and their fire is not abennuted." Or to compromise between the Arminian and the Calvinist, Acts 13: 48, "As many as were telagmenad to eternal life believed."

Some two years ago I had a fine opportunity of showing the absurdity of this principle of transfer, in an address on this subject delivered at Pittsfield. Immediately in front of me was seated his Excellency, Gov. Briggs, who had just issued his annual proclamation for a day of Thanksgiving. I held a copy of it in my hand, and upon the supposition that it had been written in Greek, inquired what the audience would think of a translation like this; "I do appoint Thursday, the 20th day of November, as a day of eucharistias and dozas." Those who knew Greek would understand that these words meant thanksgiving and praise, but those who did not would be ignorant whether it meant a day of thanksgiving, or a day of fasting, or a day of festivity, dancing and mirth. Every one can see that it would be an insult to an earthly governor to give a pretended translation like this. And what shall we say then, to a settled plan thus to treat the proclamation of the king of heaven and of earth, whenever he chooses to speak on a subject that may be unwelcome or distasteful to us. To my own mind, sir, it appears like daring impiety thus to prohibit God from saying what HE chooses to the world. As well might Moses have arrested the hand that was writing upon the tables of stone, and exclaimed—You shan't write that word!

Let others do as they will, we dare not thus cover up the words of God. The bible translated is our motto—wholly translated. God meant his revelation for all nations, and it is not for us to decide that there are certain words which are not to be included in that revelation at all. It is scarcely necessary to add the truism that a word in an unknown tongue is not revealed at all to a people till it is translated into their language.

4. The last principle of our Society—and for this we claim no pre-eminence above other Bible Societies—the Bible for the world, not for favored nations or for favored classes, but for all mankind in every nation and of every class.

The Papist priesthood, in every land where public sentiment is not too enlightened to allow it, forbid the scriptures in the vulgar tongue to the people, pretending a tender zeal for their welfare, "lest they who are unlearned should wrest the scriptures to their own destruction." There is a mistaken opinion gaining ground in the community, since the accession of the present Pope, that Popery is changing its character, and is not now that Bible-hating, Heretic-cursing system that it has been for many long centuries past. Mr. President, let me tell you and this audience, that no mistake could be more egregious than this. No, Sir, Popery, as a religious system, glories in her unchangeableness; and although the spirit of the age may produce some changes in the political government of the Roman states, hitherto the most oppressed, degraded and down trodden of all the nations of Europe; yet, we may rest well assured that the self-styled successor of St. Peter, will never relinquish one iota of his claims to lock up the Bible from the people and to tyrannize over the consciences of men, as God's vicegerent upon earth. I agree, therefore, with the sentiment of an able article, which I read some time ago in the New-York Recorder, entitled, I believe—"The Papacy and liberty antagonistic"—yes, Sir, unchangeably and for ever antagonistic! At our last anniversary, the speaker who so ably performed the part assigned to me, to-day, quoted the following condemnation of Bible Societies from a Bull of Pope Gregory XVI, issued in 1844. "You are not ignorant, venerable brethren," exclaims the indignant successor of St. Peter, "you are not ignorant of the tendency of the proceedings of these societies"—"Their object is to translate the books of the divine scriptures into all the vulgar tongues—to issue immense numbers of copies—to disseminate them indiscriminately among infidels and christians, and to entice every individual to peruse them without guide."—"Admonish the flock, venerable brethren, of the snares laid for them by the Bible Societies."—"Having gravely and maturely weighed the whole matter, we again, venerable brethren, with apostolic authority, condemn them."

Probably, during the address of Brother Lathrop, there were many who were ready to say—all that may be true of Gregory XVI. but shall we not soon see better things of the new Pope? Surely Pius IX will not follow in the steps of his predecessor. Sir, I could have told the audience from the very best authority, that such expectation would be vain. Pius IX's bull, from which I will now give you an extract, had already been issued, and though not, at that time, extensively published, I was at that moment in possession of an authenticated copy "given at Rome, in the first year of our pontificate."—And what does this "Apostle of Liberty" ('') as he has been styled, say about the liberty of forming Bible Societies, and of circulating Bibles, and the liberty of reading them in the vulgar tongues? Hear him!

"You are already well acquainted, venerable brethren, with other monsters of error, and the frauds with which the children of the present age strive bitterly to beset the Catholic religion and the divine authority of the church; to oppose its laws, and to trample on the rights of the sacred as well as of the civil power. To this point tend those guilty conspiracies against this Roman chair of the blessed Peter, on which Christ laid the irremovable foundations of his church.

"This, also, is the tendency of those insidious Bible Societies, which, renewing the crafts of the ancient heretics, cease not to obtrude upon all kinds of men, even the least instructed, gratuitously and at immense expense, copies in vast numbers of the books of the Sacred Scriptures, translated, against the holiest rules of the church into various vulgar tongues, and very often with the most perverse and erroneous interpretations, to the end that divine tradition, the doctrine of the fathers and the authority of the Catholic church being rejected, every man may interpret the revelations of the Almighty according to his own private judgment, and perverting their sense, fall into the most dangerous errors. Which societies, emulous of our predecessor, Gregory XVI., of blessed memory, to whose place we have been permitted to succeed without his merits, reproved by his apostolic letter, we desire equally to condemn."

Don't suspect me, sir, of forging this document, as though such an emanation were impossible, from so liberal a Pope as Pius IX. No, sir, this is a portion of the veritable bull of the wonderful, the magnificent, the glorious "apostle of Liberty," Pope Pius IX.—Yes, of the same usurper of the rights of God upon earth (as every Pope must necessarily be) who has been lauded to the skies, and honored with the title of "Holiness" and "venerable father" at glorification meetings at the Tabernacle in this city, as well as in many other cities of the Union. Sir, I ask, could it have been possible that protestant politicians, and Bible Society Members (if I mistake not) who made eloquent speeches in favor of this "Apostle of Liberty" had ever read the above condemnation of Bible Societies? If they had read it, and had no ulterior motives in their eloquent orations why, then, sir, all I can say is, that their conduct was one of the most extraordinary instances of returning good for evil that ever I heard of. Attracted by something more than curiosity, I was present at the glorification meeting in the Tabernacle, and amused myself a part of the evening, by reading over to myself the bull, of which I have given you an extract, and which I had carried in my pocket to the meeting. I made no attempt to read any part of that bull to the audience, but I could not help thinking what a fluttering it would have caused had the above extract been read aloud, and then the question been asked, whether it was quite consistent for Bible loving Americans thus to exalt to the very heavens a man who, in one single sentence, undeniably proved himself to be a bitter hater of Bible Societies, a foe to the liberty of Bible circulation, and Bible reading (in the vulgar tongue), and to the right of private judgment?

After the relation of an appropriate anecdote, the speaker closed his address, by urgently appealing to the audience to encourage this noble institution, in spite of Popes, and priests, and bulls and devils, to give the Bible to the world.

ADDRESS OF BRO. J. H. RAYMOND.

Resolved, in view of the indispensable necessity and divine efficacy of the scriptures in the economy of human salvation, that the work of translating, printing and distributing bibles should go on, with augmented vigor, both abroad and at home.

I was much struck with the testimony borne to the value of the scriptures, as an instrument of evangelization, in a letter from Bro. Sutton, missionary in Orissa, published in connexion with your last Annual Report: "I am not in circumstances to collect facts relating to individual instances of conversion through the circulation of the scriptures. Every now and then, distinct allusion is made to cases of their usefulness, by the converts themselves, when relating their experience, but I confess that for one, I lay much less stress on such matters than formerly. The usefulness of our sacred scriptures is indisputable. We could do nothing efficiently without them. Their influence resembles the showers of heaven and the glorious sun in maturing the produce of the earth."

We are all too apt, I apprehend, to lay undue stress on particular facts—on "individual instances of conversion," and other known cases of spiritual benefit—in our endeavors to trace the movements of divine grace in the world. We want to see the fruits of our labors—immediate and palpable fruits—such as may be handled and counted, and whose sum total will tell, statistically, in the newspapers or the Anniversary Reports. Well, sir, let us thank God that he does not withhold such encouragement. The blessed effects which we can actually trace out and recount, are enough to fill our hearts with constant joy and to keep us ever doing in this blessed service. But is this all? Shall we limit the Holy One to these particular, visible, countable results? Shall we hope to reckon by units, tens, and hundreds, the sum of his precious thoughts of mercy to our sinful race? Is the conversion of individuals only, embraced in his sovereign counsels—or that of nations also, and ultimately of the world? No, sir, it is not in human arithmetic to compute the rate of his progress, whose goings forth are prepared as the morning; or to determine by what we can see, how much God is pleased to accomplish by our instrumentality. To me this is a cheering thought, and it has special force in relation to the work of your Society. You cannot report all that God is doing by your instrumentality. All! not an infinitesimal fraction of it will you, or the world know, until that day when the books of the Great Registrar are opened, and your astonished eyes behold it there—there recorded—there passed to your credit, and (wonder of mercies) acknowledged by our blessed Master as His debt, saying, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me." Figures cannot tell the story. Particular facts, however numerous and thrilling, can give but a faint idea of the vast, and varied, and wonderful recuperative progress which God is carrying forward in this fallen world, and in the advancement of which your bibles, sir, are this day working mightily, and multitudinously, the wide world over.

The sower scattereth his seed with a free and confident hand, because he knows what he is sowing—not mere dead matter, not sand or gravel, but grain—in every kernel wrapped up a living gem, the promise of thirty, sixty or a hundred fold. Have we no similar encouragement in sowing bibles? What is a bible? What is in it? To be sure, it is only a book—and it is very easy to overlook the power which lies hidden in a book. We see it lying there before us, insensate and inert, and we confound it with the material objects amidst which it lies, and which it outwardly resembles. We forget, sir, that "Seasoned life of man"—to use one of Milton's great expressions—which is "preserved and stored up" therein. "For books," says he, (speaking merely of human productions,) "are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a progeny of life in them, to be as active as that soul was, whose progeny they are; nay, they do preserve as in a vial the purest efficacy and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. They are as lively and as vigorously productive, as those fabulous dragon's teeth, and being sown up and down, may chance to spring up armed men." And, sir, when our spirits are brought into actual contact with this living principle in books—I mean of course "books which are books"—we feel its power and own the description just. Spite of ourselves, the spell of a master is upon us. We think his thoughts; we imbibe his spirit; we embrace his views. Our opinions, and our purposes, our affections and our lives are changed. Old habits abandoned, new associations sought, objects of pursuit and modes of pursuing them alike changed—the whole man, in short, transformed—these are the testimonies that we all are bearing, day by day, to the magic power of books. Not individuals alone, but nations own their sway. The spirit of an age, the history, the character, and fate of an entire people, may have been determined by a book.

And if all this is true of mere human productions, what shall we say of that book into which God has breathed his life? May we venture to affirm of the scriptures, that "they do contain a progeny of life in them, to be as active as that INFINITE Spirit is, whose progeny they are? that they do preserve, as in a vial, the purest efficacy and extraction of that Intellect DIVINE that bred them?" It were indeed much to say; but who shall gainsay it? The Bible! sings an old christian poet,

"It is the Book of God. What if I should Say God of books?
 Let him that looks
 Angry at that expression, as too bold,
 His thoughts in silence smother,
 Ti'll he find such another."—Herbert.

Yes, sir, it is the GOD OF BOOKS—for it is the word, the utterance direct, the personal unfolding and self-communication of the Infinite Mind—and as such above the ministry and above the church—immeasurably and for ever above them—not only as the sole standard of religious truth, but as the ultimate source of all religious motive, and the medium of all divine and saving influences on the fallen souls of men. Theopneust—God-inbreathed, God-animated, God-pervaded—every sentence radiant with His wisdom, and palpitating with His love. O, who can measure the power of such a book?

I see the dark idolater, away off in the depths of his own benighted land, seated beneath the shadow of some templed grove, or by the side of some hallowed stream, whose gliding waters image the flow of his own unresting thoughts. A copy of these strange scriptures have made their way to his hands, and there he sits and reads them. Hour after hour, day after day, I see him sit and read and ponder. As I contemplate him thus engaged, sir, my heart swells with unutterable emotions and with a lively hope. God is talking with him. In that little book, as in an ante chamber of the skies, he meets the King of Kings, who with an unveiled face reveals to him his glory and his grace; shows him the path of life; teaches, and warns, and woos him from the ways of iniquity to the wisdom of the just. O who shall tell how often God is indeed present at such interviews in the highest sense—present in the person and with the power of his Holy Spirit, to work by the word that sovereign change on the soul, whose fruit shall be holiness unto eternal life? God knows, sir; and angels know, whose harps I will not doubt rejoice every year—if not rather every month or every day—over repenting sinners both in pagan and in papal lands, whose names are never written among the disciples on earth, never counted in the summary of "results" which gladden the friends of the Bible on these annual festivals of love. Such is the working of the hidden leaven; such are the uncounted conquests of the Bible.

But, sir, the power of the Bible is felt on a yet larger scale. We are told of a time approaching when "a nation shall be born in a day"—yea, when "many nations shall come and say, come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us his ways and we will walk in his paths." And the prophet tells us by what instrumentality this amazing phenomenon will be brought to pass, when he adds: "For the law (i. e. the Bible) shall go forth of Zion, even the word of the Lord from Jerusalem."

Before a whole nation can be converted to God, a vast preliminary work must be wrought: a work diffusive and pervading—and though at first stopping short of actual conversion in most individuals, yet none the less essential to the ultimate establishment of the gospel in that land. I refer, sir, to the almost imperceptible diffusion among a people of those great fundamental religious ideas, those first truths, which lie at the base of all true religion, and which nowhere receive so clear, so free, so impressive an exhibition as in the Book of Books. These truths need no elaborate advocacy to commend them to the rational soul. They carry a light within them—they need only an introduction and a lodgment in the mind. They ally themselves, intimately and indissolubly, with the profoundest intuitions, the most ineradicable convictions of a rational nature. And through ten thousand channels of intercommunion and sympathy, they spread from mind to mind, until (we know not how) they become the property of the whole nation. The consequence must be, a general undermining of popular confidence in the ancient superstitions—preparing the way for an explosion of the whole system when God's time shall have come, or for its gradual falling to pieces and dispersion before the spreading light of the gospel, as the night-mist breaks up and disappears (even while we watch it) at the coming of the day.

All false religions—however powerful their hold on the imagination, the passions, or the superstitious fears of our race,—still labor under one fatal disadvantage—that, viz., of being at bottom irrational and untrue. The reason of man will continually re-assert its supremacy; and his enlarging experience and intercourse will be constantly exposing the necessary falsehoods of a system founded in ignorance, alike of the true system of nature and the real history of mankind. Hence, in process of time, a division must always take place between the thinking part of a heathen nation and the credulous vulgar; and as intelligence gradually spreads among the people, so must a distrust of the ancient faith, until the whole mass is ready to sink of its own weight into disuse and contempt. Such, as you well know, sir, was the case with the old classic mythology about the time of the Saviour's advent. Neander has pictured the age with the pencil of a master. "The old religion," he says, "could not maintain its ground before an inquiring intellect; and to the wit of those who held nothing sacred, (as E. S. Lucian) it was an easy matter to make all religion a matter of ridicule, by coupling it with the vapid and contradictory superstitions of the people." You remember, too, how rapidly the degradation of those superstitions was precipitated by the introduction of the gospel, and how swiftly its light chased their shadowy fragments from the minds of the nations, like the broken images of a departing dream.

I fancy, sir, that we live in a similar age, and are soon to see the same scene re-enacted on a broader scale, and with yet more triumphant results. Christianity has again become aggressive—her designs are, as at the first, comprehensive, and her hope in God. The word of the Lord is again unbound. It goes forth from Jerusalem. It is demanding and obtaining freer course. Cord after cord is snapped asunder. It runs, and it will be glorified. It finds the nations in a similar condition—the leading superstitions of the whole world "antiquated and in their dotage," the old foundations of thought broken up, the whole mass of mind heaving with strange stupendous throes, the billows of opinion dashing wildly against each other, and all things portending the birth of a new order of things—the presence and power of a new-creating spirit. Immemorial barriers of national prejudice are broken down, and nations melt together into one; commerce, not only of commodities, but of thought, is becoming free and unrestricted; the light of science is spreading, and truth in a thousand ways asserting and vindicating its supremacy. It is not strange that men are becoming dissatisfied with their religions. In almost every heathen land, we find the division already made between those who tremble and worship, and those who think and doubt. In many, a third class is forming, of those who boldly question or openly despise. Some men of intelligent and ingenuous minds; men ambitious of intellectual eminence, or constitutionally fond of improvement and reform; men of matured powers, in advance of those around them in the wisdom of experience or reflection: such men are to be found in all the nations, to whom your Bibles, sir, have come and will come, with enlightening and convincing power. They may not be converted, but they must be more or less enlightened; and in the same degree must they become, willingly or unwillingly, reflectors and radiators of the true light, which shineth there amid the darkness, though peradventure the darkness as yet comprehends it not.

If now we turn our eyes from heathen lands to nominal Christendom, we behold a scene of still more startling interest. The power of anti-christ, but partly broken by the great Reformation, and still sufficient to hold in servitude the struggling nations of Europe, now gives way. Beaten back by the rising tides of liberty, long held in check, but now swollen to resistless fury, Rome seeks to make good a new position. It is the beginning of her end. And the Bible which began, will complete the Reformation.

In the agitations of the sixteenth century, Luther was but a circumstance—an accident. So was Melancthon, Zuingli, Calvin, Tyndale. It was the bible which made them what they were, which gave them utterance, and prepared multitudes to receive their testimony. All of protestantism that is worth preserving—that is not worse than worthless—is but a conclusion to which the bible is the premise. This the first protestants understood, and had those who bear their names and build their sepulchres, but half their earnest faith in the scriptures, but half their willingness to let the word speak out and be obeyed, the work had been much farther advanced this day, at least out of Rome; and protestant christianity have been prepared to meet with far more vigor and success the exigencies of these exciting times.

Why, sir, what thorough going bible men those old Reformers were! I have imagined the eye of Tyndale falling on your vignette, and motto. An open bible! he would understand its value. The Bible translated! he would take its meaning, sir, nor would his faith have staggered. His principle was yours. In vain did the king proclaim, "it is inexpedient for the people to have the scriptures in English," and in vain did the clergy echo, "By this translation shall we lose all those aunciente christen wordes, penance, charitye, confession, grace, priest, church, &c." The sacred scriptures in English, were just what Tyndale purposed in his heart to give the people—and out must go the good old christen words—because they were not English (would to heaven, sir, he had made a cleaner sweep!) and what was his support under censures and persecutions, civil and ecclesiastical, to which his faithfulness subjected him. Hear him, sir: “I calle God to record agaynst the day we shall appeare before our Lord Jesus Christ to geve reckonyng of our doings, that I never altered one syllable of Godes worde, nor wold this day, if all that is in earth might be given me.” Ah! sir, to this man, “The Bible translated” would be sacred words. God give to all who love his memory, the same mind.

He would have been as quick to understand your policy of printing and distributing, as his great enemy, Sir Thomas More, complains of the inundation of Bibles poured into England from Tyndale's presses on the continent: “Whyche bookes, albeit that they neither can be there printed without greate coste nor here solde without great adventure and perell, yet cease they not with money sent from hence to print them there and send them hyther by the whole fatles full at once, and in some places looking for no lucre, cast them abroad by night.” Yea, “some of these pestylen bookes were thrown in the strete and left at manys dores, that where they durst not offer their poison to selle, they wold of their charitee poison men for naught.” We might almost fancy we heard some Romish cure in central or southern Europe, groaning over the pestilential pertinacity of your travelling colporteurs. And when I remember the results of that old experiment, I feel sure, sir, that you are right in your measures, and right in your desires to enlarge your operations both abroad and at home. I pray God that “money in plenty may be sent you to print them here and send them every where by the whole fatles full at once.” And in the words of Tyndale himself, “I calle on all Christen men and women to pray that the word of God may be unbound and delyvered from the powers of Anti-Christ, and renne gloriously among alle peple. Amen.”

ADDRESS OF BRO. CHARLES THOMPSON.

MR. PRESIDENT.—I am sufficiently familiar with public life to know that apologies from public speakers are not worth much, else I might most properly refer to the situation which I am called upon to occupy, in the absence of the gentleman who was appointed to speak to this resolution. I might most truthfully say that I am necessarily unprepared, but the words of one of our poets presented themselves to my thoughts

———“A cause like this needs no apology
Truth, Justice, Reason, Love and Liberty,—
The eternal links that bind the world, are in it;
And he who breaks their sanction, breaks all law,
And infinite connexion.”

The resolution which I have to propose, refers to the influence of the Bible on the political, social, and religious elevation of mankind; would that the honorable gentleman had been present to discuss this great theme; for what a range have we here. It embraces man's whole being. What is there that is not comprehended? Past, present, and future! The physical, the moral, and the intellectual; all are included. Man, in community with his fellow men; in the interest of his domestic constitution, and in the sublime realities of his own wondrous destiny. These all are included and affected. But it is not merely that the political, social and religious interests are involved, the resolution speaks of "elevation:" man's elevation in each of these positions by the Bible. On this we need not theorize; it is in history. The whole history of the past confirms the proposition before us. From the lowest depths of barbarism, through the whole intervening space up to the most refined civilization, it will be found that man is enlightened, happy and free, in the most direct proportion to the presence and influence of the Bible. In ancient or modern times where do you find a nation that does not illustrate this? It is historical fact. An unanswerable and triumphant argument.

The gentleman who has just sat down, suggested to my mind, two great subjects. He quoted from Milton. And what distinguished Milton? What gave him a name, and such a name? Was it not the Bible? In all his mighty works, in poetry or prose, he is seen deeply drinking from the fount of Divine Inspiration. The Bible. To that Sacred Book his genius stood indebted, and the "Paradise Lost," exhibits the illuminations which he gathered from it. But of all that Milton wrote, his memorable letter to the Duke of Savoy respecting the persecutions in the valley of Piedmont is the noblest, rich in eloquence, and fervent with the love of liberty. He acted with Cromwell and his co-patriots, against superstition and tyranny, and they fought under the light of God's Book.

The return of Charles the 2d and the Stuarts was a fearful epoch, but the history of Bartholomew's day is a great event illustrating the overruling hand of God, as it furnished new proofs of the influence of the Book.

Professor Raymond has told you that "Luther was a circumstance,"—true, and that was a circumstance when Luther entered the library of his college and laid his hand for the first time, on a Bible. Yes, that was a glorious circumstance, for light and liberty for the world were then called up,—Luther and the Bible have a page of mighty import to man.

Mr. President, we ought to understand our position as to this political, social, and religious influence of the Bible. It concerns us greatly to realize correct views.

Every thing dear to us is involved. On the presence of the Bible depends our all, as men, as immortals. The onward movement of this cause may be surrounded with difficulty. We have had battles to fight, and shall have more. What then? Are we discouraged? No. Let us be strong in the principles which we avow; bold and courageous in the spirit which we foster. History tells us that in the noble struggles of the Swiss Patriots against the oppression of the Austrian, a small band of Swiss found themselves opposed to hordes of the tyrant foe; trembling and paralysed in conscious weakness they stood, when Ardfeldt, inspired with the burning love of liberty, and death defying, shouted aloud,—“Make way for Liberty”—and impetuously rushed forward, followed by his devoted band, into the midst of the Austrian phalanx. He fell mangled, but the wild impetuosity of the attack disordered the Austrians, and they fled, utterly routed. The events of that day are amongst the first of the great records of battles. Sir, it is this warm and fearless heart we need, the heart that will nerve the strong hand for action, to secure the Bible for ourselves,—to give it to the world. There are no difficulties of which we need indulge anxiety. It is true we hear much of Catholicism; we know its history, and have reason to feel, but not fear.

Pagan Mythology speaks of a Temple whose deity, and whose worship held a fearful spell over the destiny of men. A terribly mysterious awe spread over all minds. Tradition told that if the image could but be broken, the spell would be dissolved, but death in some horrid form would attend the adventure.

On a day when the multitude were assembled, one man with daring spirit resolved to make the experiment. He believed that the image could be broken, and that he should not die. He announced his purpose. In breathless terror the people gazed whilst he advanced, and lifted his arm—he struck. The image trembled under the blow—and he stood untouched. He struck again, and the image rocked with many vibrations, he fell not. A third time he struck, and it fell, broken, and shattered. The people looked, but the actor died not. Now, exclaimed he, we are free. We have already struck one blow, and a second, against this image that has struck terror amongst millions, with God’s Book in hand, let us prepare for one more final blow. Superstition must fall before the truth of God.

In the support of this institution, Sir, much depends upon the spirit of its supporters. Let there be a fervent attachment to the Bible in our own hearts; let all christians feel a supreme value and love for it; then will it be generously circulated. When John Rogers was accused before a Popish tribunal of heresy inasmuch as he had a Bible, and loved and read it, he was ordered to give it up, but in the face of imprisonment and death, he refused. After much suffering he was finally brought out to the stake. The faggots had been kindled that were to consume him. The fire had commenced its horrid process on his flesh, when amidst the spiral flames of martyrdom he was observed slowly to draw out something from the folds of his garment, and raise it to his lips,—it was his loved Bible. He fervently kissed it, and whilst in this act of sublime devotion, he was seen to fall in the blazing heap.

Oh that a portion of this martyr love were to possess our hearts, and the hearts of all God’s people; then would the Book of God be sent forth; then would our Society rise, borne on by generous hearts, to bless the whole world of man.

AN OUTLINE
OF
MR. TURNBULL'S DISCOURSE
BEFORE THE
AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

---

EZEKIEL XXI: 27.

I WILL OVERTURN, OVERTURN, OVERTURN IT: UNTIL HE COME WHOSE RIGHT IT IS;
AND I WILL GIVE IT HIM.

Society, like the individual man, has a life and a responsibility. It is under law to God, and must bear the consequences of its actions. Violating the great principles of righteousness, it wrongs itself, and in the end secures its destruction. Hence the history of all national decays, of all the festering evils and curses of society, of all the collisions and overturnings which vex the world, and cover communities and states with blasting and desolation.

This great fact or principle is distinctly recognised in the Holy Scriptures. "The Lord reigneth"—is its language. "God himself is judge." He presides not only over all internal emotions, but over all external doings. Nations equally with individuals are subject to his sway. Jehovah, so to speak, has thrown around society a bulwark of necessary law within which it may heave and dash without ever transcending its limits. Evermore the circle returns upon itself. All action has its consequences. They are as certain as God. If it be ruin, why then ruin is inevitable. Over that sea of human passion broods the stern law of an absolute necessity. An invisible divinity is there, a sacred Nemesis presiding over the whole, and determining the rise, decline and fall of empires. It is impossible then for kingdoms and communities to violate the principles of right, to reject the Divine rule, and trample upon the interests of humanity, without entailing upon themselves untold evils and final ruin. "The nation and kingdom;" says God, by the mouth of his prophet, that will not serve me shall perish, yea, that nation shall be utterly wasted.

Here then we discover the fundamental law of revolutions or overturnings. They are established as a part of the Divine plan, and shall never cease, until the law of God, which enthrones freedom and righteousness as the life of every well regulated state, becomes supreme and universal. "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it—until he come whose right it is, and I will give it him!"

Thus overturnings or revolutions mark the whole course of history; for tyranny has succeeded tyranny, now of the one, then of the few, and anon of the many. At one time a monarchy, at another a republic, has played the fearful game. Periods of repose, like oases in the desert, have intervened. But change and revolution thus far have been the lot of society, overturning has followed overturning. Desolation has trod upon desolation.

Thus fell the great empires of antiquity. Chaldea, Assyria, Egypt, Persia, Palestine, Greece and Rome, passed away in blood and ruin. Long contests and stormy revolutions for ages agitated Italy, one of the finest countries in Europe, but doomed to interminable woes. Now the Gaul and the Spaniard, anon the German, with his strong hand and stolid heart, and in default of these, the native princes and even popes oppressed the land. And now, what do we see? All Italy, from the green slopes of her Alpine barriers to the orange groves of Calabria convulsed with revolution. All Europe indeed has felt the electric trill. Revolution is passing like lightning from cloud to cloud, or the tread of an earthquake under ground, "from Alps to Appenines," from the blue Seine to the rolling Danube.

Moreover, who does not in all this see the hand of God? Is it not a work of justice, of a divine Avenger, or a divine Reformer? No matter if blood should flow. No matter even if it should end for the present in desolation and wo, or in a mere change of tyrannies, falsehood and wrongs. God is visibly there, as visibly as if we saw the gleam of his lightning, or the flash of his sword,

"When God arises with an awful frown
To punish lust, or pluck presumption down,
When gifts perverted or not duly prized,
Pleasure o'ervalued, or his grace despised Provoke the vengeance of his righteous hand
To pour down wrath upon a thankless land,
He will be found impartially severe,
Too just to wink, or speak the guilty clear."*

What is to be the present or immediate issue in France, Germany or Italy, we cannot tell. Rest may or may not come to the weary nations. Wars, civil or international may or may not be the result. For much that is doubtful yet remains in the character of them all, especially of the French and the Italians. One mightier and more august reform, perhaps revolution, must occur in the church of continental Europe, which is yet the church of the dark ages, before the nations can enjoy permanent peace and freedom. "The huge, overshadowing train of error," to use the language of Milton; "which has almost swept all the stars out of the firmament of the church," must be broken, "the word of God sought out of dusty corners where profane falsehood and neglect have thrown it," and a true christian "Evangel" proclaimed among the people, and another "bright and blissful Reformation by divine power, strike through the settled night of anti-christian ignorance and tyranny, before a true and lasting freedom imbathe all souls with the fragraney of heaven." But this too is predestined in the counsels of the Almighty. The time is yet to come when the earth shall be "filled with the glory of the Lord." Startling changes and stormy revolutions may intervene, but they will only prepare the way of the Lord, and hasten the glory of the latter days. The travail and groaning of this sin-smitten earth must cease, and instead thereof the song of gratulation from unnumbered myriads come up to heaven, and meet a response from the peaceful dwellers there, who,

On their harps shall lean to hear
A sweeter note than ours can bear.

But in order to apply this subject to the immediate interest of the society, on whose behalf we are met, we proceed to remark, that this change and transformation in this season of harmony and repose long predicted and long desired, shall be brought about, as all else under the government of God, by the use of suitable agencies. We have no reason to expect it, in an absolute way, as a miracle wrought by an invisible hand, but through the action of some spiritual force or forces well defined and permanently established among men. Now, where can these be found if not in the word and ordinances of God, that is in the bible and the church? Has not the Almighty imbodyed in these his own august characters, his own omnipotent will? And as the Church rests upon the Word, and not the Word upon the Church, ought we not to recognise the Word as the primal force, the source and spring of all other forces which are to regenerate the race? Doubtless the Word and the Church are indissoluble, their powers are coincident and work to the accomplishment of a common result. But where there is no bible there is no Church, and consequently no religion. Darkness covers the earth and gross darkness the people. On the other hand, wherever the bible exists thence spring religion and a church. Doubtless the one acts and reacts upon the other, and both are necessary to the salvation of the world. The Church diffuses the bible, the bible diffuses the Church. The Word quick and powerful, the Church pure and faithful, go forth hand in hand to emancipate the nations. But the Word first, the Word as the basis of the whole, the Word infallible and divine; then the Church upon it, and by it, and with it, bearing witness and reflecting it with mild and steady radiance, to the ends of the earth. On this ground the preaching of the gospel is but the preaching of the Word. The heathen need the living preacher, but they equally need the Word. For what is the preacher, however pious and eloquent, without a bible? The bible can win its way without a preacher, though slowly and laboriously; but the preacher is powerless without the "living oracles." On this ground we hail the divine volume, in other words, christianity, which is its essence and source, as the polar star of the nations.

"Only star which rose
On time, and o'er its dark and sullen waves
As generation, drifting swiftly by,
Succeeded generation, threw a ray
Of heaven's own light."

Here the individual man finds the means of moral restoration. From this source he gathers support and cheer, elevation and eternal joy. This is the experience of man in all ages and in all climes. "Here," he can say with a great and erring, yet reclaimed and rejoicing spirit, "I have met every where copious sources of truth and power and purifying impulses—words for my inmost thoughts, songs for my joy, utterances for my hidden griefs, and pleadings for my shame and my nakedness.* No matter who or what the man is, whether an ignorant savage like Africaner, or a profound philosopher like Newton, an occupant of a throne or a dweller in a hovel, he finds here a power which transforms him, a power which envelops and sustains, gladdens and glorifies his spirit. "As if on some dark night," says the writer just quoted, "a pilgrim suddenly beholding a bright star moving before him, should stop in fear and perplexity. But lo! traveller after traveller passes by him, and each being questioned whither he is going, makes answer, 'I am following you guiding star.' The pilgrim quickens his own steps and presses onward in confidence. More confident still, will he be, if by the way side he should find here and there, each with his votive offering, and on each the name of some former pilgrim, and a record that there he had first seen, or began to follow the benignant star. No otherwise is it with the varied contents of the sacred volume. The hungry have found food, the thirsty a living spring, the feeble a staff, and the victorious way-farer songs of welcome and strains of music."*

As with individuals so also with states, the only effectual means of their restoration to purity and order, stability and repose, are lodged in that divine book; and just in proportion as they love and revere the bible will they be prosperous and happy. For more than a thousand years has it gone hand in hand with civilization, science and law. It has never fallen behind the age; nay, it has always gone before it, like the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night before Israel in the wilderness. Its great principle of order, submission, and freedom have been the stability of states. Its very presence among them has been a saving ark, a refuge and a rest. How far even beyond the present time gleams the light of that wonderful book, which describes and promises true freedom and fraternity—that divine and universal brotherhood of which the nations only dream. In a word the bible is the true salt of the earth, the vital force of communities and states! It alone regenerates while it preserves, preserves while it regenerates. The mind of God, and if we dare to say it, the heart of God is there, giving it authority and vital force. "There never," says Lord Bacon, "was found in any age of the world, either religion or law that did so highly exalt the public good as the bible." "We account the scriptures of God," is the testimony of Newton, "the most sublime philosophy." "Good and holy men," says Coleridge, "and the best and wisest of mankind, the kingly spirits of history, enthroned in the hearts of mighty nations, have borne witness to its influence, have declared it to be beyond compare the most perfect instrument of all the gifts, powers and tendencies by which the individual (and the state) are privileged to rise above themselves." To this we add one more testimony, that of La Force Lamartine, which we quote on this occasion not only on account of his transcendent genius, but of the peculiar position which he occupies at the present moment. "I believe in Christ, because he has introduced on earth the most holy, the most fruitful, and the most divine doctrine that ever shed its beams on human intelligence. Christ has spoken as reason speaks. The doctrine is known by its morality, in the same manner that a tree is known by its fruits; the fruits of christianity are infinite, perfect and divine, the author of which is the divine Word, as he so styled himse ."†

The greatest work, then, which in this age of reform and revolution, falls upon the christian and the lover of his race is to give the Word of God to the nations, to scatter it far and wide in all the European states, especially in France, Germany and Italy, and not only so, but in all lands, Papal and Mohammadan, heathen and idolatrous. Let a copy of the divine book be placed in every home throughout the world; "for the fairest flower that ever clomb a cottage window is not so fair a sight as the bible gleaming through the lower panes." The field is the world—a world yet to be redeemed by the power of celestial truth, and made to bloom like a new Eden under the smile of God. Then in their highest sense, liberty, equality and fraternity shall engirdle the globe, as with an atmosphere of light. Radiant and peaceful it will inhabit all its hills and vales, breathing in all that lives, and blushing into untold forms of grandeur and beauty. Then, on earth shall commence the new song of Moses and the Lamb, the melody of angels, the rhythm and eternal harmony of that music which fills all the heavenly spheres.

The time of rest, the promised Sabbath comes !
 Six thousand years of sorrow have well nigh
 Fulfilled their tardy and disastrous course
 Over a sinful world; and what remains
 Of this tempestuous state of human things,
 Is merely as the working of a sea,
 Before a calm, that rocks itself to rest.
 For he whose car the winds are, and the clouds,
 The dust that waits upon his sultry march
 When sin hath moved him, and his wrath is hot,
 Shall visit earth in mercy—shall descend
 Propitious in his chariot paved with love,
 And what the storms have blasted and defaced
 For man's revolt, shall with a smile repair.

* * * * *

One song employs all nations and they sing
 Worthy the Lamb, for he was slain for us.
 The dwellers in the vales, and on the rocks
 Shout to each other, and the mountain tops
 From distant mountains catch the flying joy,
 Till nation after nation taught the strain
 Earth rolls the rapturous hosanna round."

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER OF BRO. THOMAS H. HUDSON,
Missionary of the General Baptist Missionary Society, dated Ningpo, China, January 12th, 1847.

Through the medium of our respected friend, Dr. Macgowan, the American Medical Missionary at Ningpo, I have been kindly favored, by the "American and Foreign Bible Society, with a complete copy of the Sacred Scriptures in the Chinese language, for which I am exceedingly obliged to them, especially as this version appears to be an improvement upon others which have preceded it. It is indeed a privilege to have the whole Bible in the peculiar language of this ancient people—the language of so many millions of the human race;—and we trust the period will arrive when millions of copies shall be prepared and circulated through the length and breadth of the land. I feel it to be my duty to acknowledge your kindness, and to send you a few lines from these distant shores, and dark regions.

The Old Testament is exceedingly scarce, and it is difficult to obtain a complete copy of the Sacred Scriptures in the Chinese language. At least, I have found this to be the case, for though I have applied to various sources, I have not been able to obtain any considerable portions of the word of life. Dr. Ball, of Canton, kindly furnished us with a supply of St. John's gospel, and our Presbyterian friends have given us about one hundred copies each of John, Luke, and the Acts of the Apostles. These, with a considerable number of Tracts, together with several thousands of placards, which we have had printed, have supplied us tolerably well during the time of our residence in the city. Had we had books, or means of producing them, we might, perhaps, to considerable advantage, have circulated them more freely among a people so exceedingly anxious to obtain books. This, however, is the day of small things, and much prudence ought to be exercised in the distribution of religious publications, even among a reading people; we must learn to follow the order of nature and of Providence, proceeding by degrees, and gradually extending our operations, until we can more efficiently supply the spiritual wants of the destitute millions of this benighted land. Happy day, when every family, when every man shall have and diligently read the sacred pages of Divine Revelation!

Much has been said in relation to China, and the opening of this country has been made known through all the churches of the Saints in every land. For this event the pastors and churches long prayed, seeming to look with a wishful eye to these ends of the earth, and burning with holy zeal for an opportunity of entering "the celestial empire." Believing prayer has been answered, and the impediments to European intercourse have been removed. The door is opened; you may locate your Missionaries at five of the most important ports of the empire; and send thousands of copies of the Holy Scriptures, by means of the canals, to various parts of this vast country. Now is the period of vigorous and united action. Will the people of God dwell at ease in Zion, and become chargeable with inconsistency with China opened in answer to prayer rebuking them? or will they come forward heartily and unitedly to the help of the Lord—the help of the Lord against the mighty? The weapons of our warfare are prepared, and they are not carnal but spiritual, and through God mighty to the pulling down of strongholds. We believe that the faith of the church is in lively exercise, and that the love of a crucified Jesus will constrain his people to come up and possess the land.

It has been said that India is the pagan land where Satan's seat is; and it may be said, that the strong-holds—perhaps the strongest holds of Satan over mind—are to be found among the millions who are perishing for lack of evangelical knowledge here. "The Asiatics, in general, are to be compared with wood, whilst Europeans resemble iron; now as the former will remain a shapeless block, unless it is fashioned by iron; so also the Asiatics, without intercourse with enlightened men from the western ocean, will continue rude and uncultivated tribes." The Chinese cannot, with exact propriety, be denominated rude, uncultivated, and barbarous tribes; but they are pagans, and the whole of the Chinese mind, from the throne of the emperor to the cottage of the meanest peasant, is governed by a material fancy, a fatal necessity, or the gloomy spell of a gross idolatry. The millions are the slaves of Satan, and led captive by him at his will. When you think of the extent of country, and the overwhelming number of inhabitants, what a mass of spiritual wickedness in high places does China exhibit! Even the extent and population of a single province presents a field of labor which demands the sympathies, and should call forth the energies of the Christian Church. This city contains a dense population, and the province, according to the last census, is said to have 26,000,000 of people. Here you have a population equal to Great Britain, and much larger than the United States of America. You have a world of souls and a nation of Atheists, whose spiritual condition cries, "come over and help us." True, their systems of idolatry may not be so gross, nor their rites and superstition so cruel and obscene, as on the grassy plains of Hindoostan; but their Atheism and idolatry are as real, as wicked, and as fatal as those of any pagan land. Poison gilded with gold will not change its nature, or prevent its deadly effects. Whether you investigate the material notions of the Confucionists; or genii-creating and transforming wonders of the Taonists; or descend to examine the grosser fancies of the Buddhists—all are idolaters, and all are truly without God, without Christ, and without hope. The fact of their being somewhat more refined;—not so rude and barbarous as some other portions of the human family;—partially civilized, having order and government and various arts and institutions of civilized life;—and, being in their own peculiar way, an educated people,—not making known their ideas by knotted cords and counted beads, as their progenitors did,—all these facts combined with their complete alienation from the chief good, and their total destitution of all correct ideas of God and Jesus Christ, only tend more thoroughly to convince us of the folly and weakness of the human mind, when left to itself; of the absolute necessity of that Divine Revelation with which we have been favored; and of the propriety of adopting the most energetic measures to supply them fully with the light and truth of heavenly grace. The dignity of mind may be perceived amidst the most barbarous regions of Africa; it cannot be concealed amidst the grossest obscenities of Hindoostan; and in China, it has displayed its power wisely and energetically, in regard to matters which are confined to this world. In relation, however, to God and immortality, how has the fine gold become dim! The mighty has indeed fallen! The glory has departed; yet, she presents a stately aspect, exhibits a patriarchal form, and wears a splendid crown, though defiled and polluted by the wretched systems of unbelief, which vanity and pride have originated, and human depravity has diffused through all the veins of the nation's heart. The Chinese mind is stereotyped, and time will be required to pull down the ancient venerated fabric of superstition and folly, which philosophy and irreligion have reared; but the principle of change, so long strongly resisted, has at length been admitted, and the work of renovation has commenced. No religious casts, as in India, here obstruct the course of truth. Teach the mind of China, touch the conscience of this people, embrace her literature with evangelic truth, and you will awaken a surprising energy, and turn a key which will open a door for the church to realize her brightest triumphs. From the Isles of "the rising sun," and "the land of Sinim," they shall "fear the Lord," and "come to gain;" and India and China will ere long be redeemed to God, and present the most glorious trophies of redeeming grace.

The christian ministry can never be superseded, nor should the Saviour's command to preach the gospel to every creature ever be overlooked by those who would enlighten and bless pagan lands. The human heart, warmed by the love of Christ and touched with compassion for immortal souls, moving the living voice to declare the unsearchable riches of Jesus, will supply the most appropriate agency for reaching the consciences and awakening the dormant energies of the human family. Christian Missionaries must be sent forth, and must explain and unfold in various ways the lively oracles of God—and the gracious epistles of glad tidings to a lost world; for how should they believe on him of whom they have not heard, and how shall they hear without a preacher? Yet, the institution next in importance appears to be "the Bible Translation Society," which designs to give the pure and unadulterated word of truth to every family of the human race.

The Bible teaches no error and encourages no falsehood, either in politics, religion, or morals; but the special design of its circulation is the conversion of souls, and that object realized, other advantages will speedily follow. Men saved from death, not only live to God, and enjoy his favor, but become intelligent, holy, and happy in every community of which they form a part; and when they have finished with all earthly scenes, they will live for ever, and participate in the joys and fellowship of the paradise of God. No language which I can employ will sufficiently express the value and importance of the Bible Society in relation to this object in close connexion with Missionary operations, especially, in reference to millions here, who stand in so much need of the renovating and nourishing energies of the bread of life. The field of action is the world. The Bible is for the world. One-third of the world's population are the subjects of Taon-Thurang—the emperor of China;—and one half of the population of pagan nations will be found here in the gall of bitterness and in the bonds of iniquity. In crowded cities and densely populated provinces, you have numbers upon whom you may act by the word of truth. By the aid of canals, you may send hundreds of copies into the interior parts of the country to which a living teacher may not be able to go. You have a people who can read, and who will eagerly receive a christian book. Block-cutters, printers, and paper may be had on the spot almost to any extent. The Chinese have a written language of which they are excessively fond, and which can be read with equal ease in any, and in every, part of the vast empire of China. A Tract prepared here, or a portion of divine truth printed by the Missionaries at Ningpo, may be read at Canton in the south; at Peking in the north; in the Islands of Japan on the east; and at the extremity of the western borders of this land. No pagan country affords such facilities for a wide and hopeful diffusion of the gospel of Jesus, as the one which has so lately been thrown open to the benevolence and piety of the churches of America and Britain. The literati have their sacred books, and a host of commentaries, which are daily recited by the rising race. The Taonists and Buddhists have their books of instruction and their manuals of prayer, and spells, and, on festival occasions, you may purchase, for a few cash each, thousands of pictures of the gods whom they foolishly adore, accompanied with remarks to foster the superstitious notions of the deluded worshippers. The country abounds with what they appropriately denominate "small talk," or novels and romances of various kinds. There is a mighty agency at work, pervaded by a demon-spirit—to blind and ruin the souls of men, to increase their spiritual woes, and to hasten and complete that moral and eternal death, which it is the design of the word of God to prevent. And the Christian Missionary, aided from above, and assisted by the christian institutions of Britain and America, will, ere long, arrest the progress of this mighty evil, sap the foundations of this huge Babel, give a christian direction to the thought and feeling of this great people, and establish, on the ruins of every system of superstition and idolatry, the gracious kingdom of our blessed Lord. May the churches of the Saviour come up and possess the land! for "Jesus shall have the heathen for his inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for his possession."

LETTER OF BRO. WM. ROBINSON,

TO THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

VERY DEAR BRETHREN—Will you allow an old missionary, who has distributed to the natives of India, many volumes of the Scriptures provided by your liberality, to trouble you with a few lines? I am not, of course, personally acquainted with any of you; but I love you as disciples of Jesus Christ; I approve of your having formed yourselves into a separate Bible Society; I rejoice in your success and prospects, and I feel grateful for the assistance which you have rendered to our Mission in India. India is a wide field; it might well call into requisition the resources of the whole christian world; and it affords us, who have to mourn over the neglect with which India is now treated, very great pleasure to see you come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

The translation and circulation of the Scriptures, have formed a very prominent part of the operations of our mission in India, from its commencement to this day. It was well judged by our first missionaries, that the circulation of the Scriptures among the natives of India, was a matter of the first importance. Accordingly they acted upon this conviction to the day of their death; and, whatever changes the mission has undergone in other respects, this important object has always been most steadily kept in view. We are all of us convinced to this day, and some of us have had long experience, that the free circulation of the Scriptures is of prime importance in the evangelization of India. It is a mode of operation well adapted, perhaps I should say, peculiarly well adapted to India, for India has a reading population. In those countries, in which there is no written language, missionaries must, at first, depend wholly on oral instruction, and the good tidings which they bring are diffused but little, if any farther than they themselves can travel; but in India we can, by dispersing the Scriptures in larger or smaller volumes, instruct thousands whom we have never seen. There are winged seeds, that fly in all directions, and take root without the aid of man; man sows them not, yet they spring up. Such winged seeds are our volumes of Scripture, our New Testaments; our copies of Genesis, and the Psalms; our Gospel of Matthew in one volume, and our Gospel of Mark in another, and our Gospel of Luke in another, and John in another, and the Acts in another. These little volumes we scatter liberally, giving them to all who want them, providing they can read; hundreds of these are soon given away in the markets, and other large assemblies, and who can tell whither they go! They reach persons and places too, that we have never seen, and of which we have never heard, and they are read in many a hut, and in many an obscure village, where they would never have been known had it not been for this liberal distribution. Scatter the seed plentifully; "in the morning sow thy seed, and, in the evening, withhold not thy hand; for thou knowest not which will prosper, this or that." The circulation of the Scriptures is a method of disseminating divine truth peculiarly well adapted for India. This I have said above, and now I will give one proof of it, viz: Her learned men and others, who can read, are fond of reading and discussion. Put then the Scriptures into their hands, and they will read and discuss them; they will—but I may change the tense into the present, and even into the past, and say, they do read and discuss them, they have read and discussed them. Yes, the discussion of the great truths of Christianity is now, in many places, and among persons of some education, quite the order of the day; I tell you what I know, and what, I believe, every missionary in India will affirm. What a serious detriment to the mission, to the cause of God, would the stoppage of this liberal circulation of the Scriptures be! What a cloud would it bring over the prospects of the devoted missionary! 'What,' he would say, 'must I part with this most valuable auxiliary to my labors, and the gospel go no farther than I can carry it! Lamentable indeed! Must I no more indulge the pleasing reflection, that the Word of God is speaking, is pointing men to the Saviour in hundreds of places, where my voice cannot be heard! May God, in his great mercy to India forbid such a change!'

'But,' says a friend, who likes to walk by sight as well as by faith, to see as well as to believe, 'I should like to see, or at least to hear, what good has been done by this abundant circulation of the Scriptures,—by a plan of operations so expensive, and almost peculiar to India.' My dear friend, in order to satisfy you, and induce you to aid in the good cause, I will tell you a little of what I know. for I am an old man, and do not always depend on remote tradition for my information. Some of our first converts were brought to inquire, and eventually to believe on the Saviour, in consequence of tracts and portions of Scripture, which they received, and some of them in an indirect manner; not, I mean immediately from the hands of a missionary, but in some other way. The bread was cast upon the waters, and it floated to them; it was the bread of life, and they took it up and ate it. I can tell you of a church, the origin of which may be traced to the leaving of a New Testament at a shop, in a village. The missionary wished to give away this New Testament, but no one would have it; the Scriptures were not sought after then as they are now; so he laid it in a shop, and left it there for any one who might come to the shop and wish for it. The shop-keeper could have torn it up for waste paper, but he did not. After a time, a few hours, I believe, two or three men came to his shop, and saw the book; they opened it, and read it, and liked it, and took it away with them. The result was, that several persons from that village were eventually baptized; the men who took the Testament, and their wives. I knew the men and their wives too, and the church that sprung up from this little incident, is as palpable to the senses as an other church. Come to Calcutta, cross the river to a village called Howrah, and there you may see, assembled in a neat little chapel, the very church in question. 'But what is doing now, I want to know that too, before I give a hundred dollars towards this very liberal distribution of the Scriptures in India, for which you contend.' Very good, my friend, I wish you to know what is doing now. Do you see that extensive field, in which the seed so abundantly sown, has germinated? Will it not soon present a lovely green appearance, and eventually yield a luxuriant harvest? But that field was a few years ago a forest; its soil was untilled, and its trees unfelled. You are, perhaps, a plain practical man, more fond of realities than imaginations; yet stretch your imagination for once, and suppose that you have in that field a representation of India. India was once, in a moral sense, a forest; the gospel plough had never broken the soil; no, the most fatal errors, and most abominable idolatries, the growth of many centuries, covered the soil, while numerous Brahmans, like mighty forest trees densely crowded together, forbade the introduction of the gospel plough. Yes, these fatal errors, these abominable idolatries, these numerous and powerful Brahmans, offered defiance to our utmost efforts, but God has been with us, and that dense forest has been, in a great measure, felled; the soil has been cleared; the gospel plough has been driven in many places; much seed has been sown, and it has germinated; the blade now appears; in due time the full corn in the ear will be seen, and then will come the harvest, and what a most luxuriant harvest will India, populous, extensive India, yield! But the husbandman must have long patience, while he waits for the precious fruits of the ground, and so must the missionary have patience, and so must the missionary's friend, who honors God with his substance, who gives his money to the good cause, have patience; yea, God himself has patience, and let us imitate him.

But perhaps some will say: 'Tell us plainly what you mean; is there then an appearance of much good in India?' There is; the Scriptures are every where gladly received; it was not so at first; but now it would be a strange thing were a man to refuse a volume of the Scriptures, unless it was a small one, and he refused it for the purpose of getting a larger; nay, we have but to show the people that we have the Scriptures for distribution, and they will beg them, they will almost snatch them out of our hands. Many who have read parts of the Scripture say: "We like your books;" and, having read one, they will come and ask for another. It may be said with great truth, that the native mind is in a transition state. Granting that we have not many converts, yet good, much good has been done. The heaven is working; idolatry is sinking into disrepute, and many are beginning to think well of christianity. Such is the true state of things, and we want help, much help to enable us to continue this liberal distribution of the Scriptures. Let this be continued, and it will much accelerate the transition that is now taking place, and great results will eventually follow, greater than unbelief, or even much faith, dares to expect. One reason why India has yielded so little fruit, is doubtless this: It has been greatly, I fear, culpably neglected. Had missionaries been poured into India, as they have into the West Indies, how different would the state of India now have been! The paucity of missionaries in India, is indeed a powerful argument for a most liberal distribution of the Scriptures. So few are our missionaries now, that they can do but little towards preaching the gospel through the country, yet they can send the Scriptures in all directions, and to a vast extent; and the Word of God will speak for itself; every little volume is a preacher. But O! what millions of these little volumes are needed! Yea, and millions of large volumes too; and we hope, that you, who are one with ourselves, will still lend us your aid, and the more liberal that aid, the more we shall be able to effect, in the cause of our common Lord.

I expect much, as you can see, from a liberal distribution of the scriptures. I have seen its good effects in Dacca, my own station, and in the country round Dacca. I have occupied my present station about nine years, and I have witnessed a great change. I have with me four native assistants, and we extend our operations to a great distance from Dacca; and every where we see a change; the people hear willingly, and ask for books. Within a year from this time, we have distributed in the large field of our operations, not fewer than 16,000 volumes of the Scriptures, such volumes as above described, and 25,000 tracts; yet what are these among so many?

Allow me to sum up, in a few words, what I have been endeavoring to impress on your minds. India has a large population; many readers, and but few missionaries; hence the necessity of a most liberal distribution of the Scriptures, and I can with truth add, that India has profited very much by the many volumes of Scripture that have already been put into circulation.

Excuse, dear brethren, the very free manner in which a stranger has addressed you. I have grown gray in the good work; I have seen more than forty years in India, and I felt, that I could write freely to men who think as I do, feel as I do, and whose hearts are in the same great work. A few years more, and I may have a happy interview with some of you in a better world, where we may review our humble labors, and wish they had been a thousand fold more than they have. Dear brethren, farewell.

I am yours in Christ Jesus.

W. ROBINSON.

LETTER OF KO A BAK.

TO THE VENERABLE TEACHER IN NEW-YORK CITY.

Your humble servant, on a former occasion, by the protecting care of Heaven, in company with the Shepherd and his little girl, three of us, reached your honorable country, after which, Shepherd Dean and myself passed through more than ten provinces, and saw thousands, and tens of thousands of good men who worship God. Those and the men of our Central Kingdom are not alike. It is your servant's morning and evening prayer that the Great God would open the door for the doctrine, and cause us of the Middle Kingdom to cast away our idols and false gods, and worship the true God.

Now, in obedience to the instructions of the Shepherd, in every place, I make known the doctrine, and to teach men to worship God is the desire of my heart. Will the Venerable Teacher, in my behalf, present salutations to his honored family, and to each of the disciples, male and female, of your flock.

On a recent day, a teacher and teacheress from your country, came to the Middle Kingdom, which made my heart happy extremely.

To the Venerable Teacher—Great Man.

3d Moon, 20th day, from the Chinaman.

EXTRACTS FROM JOURNALS OF COLPORTEURS, IN THE EMPLOY OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Extracts from the journal of Heinrich Kramme, a Colporteur in Germany, dated Salzgitter, May 13th, 1847.

"On this journey I met a young man in whom the daylight had begun to dawn; he had found out something of his lost state, and had begun to try and amend his ways, hoping thus to save his soul. I believe that the Lord sent me to him to show him the way of salvation by Christ. I told him that conversion must come first—the improvement afterwards. I related to him my conversion; that I had for six years endeavored to better myself, but only became worse, till at last I threw myself at the feet of the Saviour as a lost sinner, to be saved by grace alone, through the great offering which Christ made upon Calvary. I told him that the Saviour is ready to receive every sinner, and that is only when he has changed our hearts and given us his Holy Spirit, that we can in his strength do any thing good. It seemed to be much blessed to him and he bought a testament; may the Lord bless it to his heart! Many other opportunities offered themselves for me to declare the word here, and I sold another bible and two testaments.

Another day I met a neglected Catholic young woman. I spoke to her on the condition of her heart, and showed her some bibles. She was soon convinced of her sinfulness; her eyes overflowed with tears; she wished to buy a testament, but her sins had brought her to such poverty that she could not pay for it. I could not let her go, so I gave her one."

At another house at which this colporteur had called to dispose of copies of the word of God, conversation was introduced concerning the truth. He thus details particulars of the conversation to show the condition of the common mind in many parts of the country.

"I then spoke to her on the state of her heart—but her mind was so dark she did not in the least understand anything. At last she said, "you certainly are one of the saints!" "Yes, my good woman," I replied, "have you not read that no others can be saved"—"to be spiritually minded is life and peace," but "to be carnally minded is death." After we had spoken a little longer together, she said, "can you me tell on whom the saints believe? A little way from here there are some such people, and they have always wished to persuade me to go there, but I do not like to.

"They believe on God, I know—but there is some one else on whom they believe; and I do not know how he is called." I said, "do you mean the Saviour of sinners?" "Yes, that is it, he is called the Saviour." I asked her if she did not then know the Saviour! "No," she said, "there are no such people here; we all believe on one God." I endeavored to show her that she had no God at all except that which she had made for herself; but the devil had so blinded her mind, that my endeavors seemed to be all in vain. Such is the knowledge which these poor people have of the Saviour, in the midst of a country called Christian! The reprobate heathens cannot be more ignorant of the Lord Jesus than thousands who bear the name of Christian."

This journal, after taking a general view of the openings in Germany for Scripture distribution thus closes—

"It really seems as if the Lord would now have mercy upon our poor Germany; for though on the one hand it is with the ungodly, the longer, the worse—yet on the other hand we hear continually of more who are inquiring "What must I do to be saved?" The pentecost wind of the Holy Ghost seems to blow through the most hidden corners of Germany; may we only be willing laborers in the Lord's vineyard, while it is called to-day, for the time draws near, when we shall no longer be able to work."

Extracts from the journal of Gustavo Ahlert, another colporteur in Germany.

JAN. 16, 1847.—Went to Elbing, 36 English miles, and disposed of one bible in Hagenan.

17th.—Spent the Sabbath in Elbing, and addressed the people.

18th.—Still in Elbing. Received the money for twelve bibles and five testaments sold here. Packed German and Polish bibles and testaments to take to Allenstein. Distributed five bibles and four testaments, and received the amount for them.

19th.—Crossed the Drawensee to the Three Roses in Greissings; staid the night.

20th.—Engaged there in distributing bibles. (Temperature, 14 degrees of cold.) At 8 in the evening arrived again in Allenstein. Collected old arrears for three bibles in Elbing."

The account of his daily labors, is all interesting, but we have room only for extracts sufficient to show the general character of the report.

APRIL 21st.—Travelled from Allenstein to Ekersdorf. Sold one bible in Polenik, one testament in Loocken, and two bibles and three testaments in Ekersdorf. In this village the desire for the word of God is great. I had several disputes about the Apocrypha not being in the bibles. I convinced them that the Apocrypha does not belong to the word of God.

22.—Made a tour of six miles, (about 28 English miles,) among the neighboring districts; sold six bibles and five testaments. Came in the evening to an inn in Ekersdorf; sold a testament to a Catholic who came from Schoneberg. Arrived late in the village of Horn, and slept on straw at a smith's.

23d.—Sold four bibles and one testament in Horn. Found that the people generally possessed no bibles; perhaps three in the entire village, (and those old and torn) a village containing five hundred inhabitants! The clergy have bibles in their book-cases, but the people are without.

* * * * *

MAY 6.—Disposed of two bibles in Prussian Holland. Gave some tracts to the poor people who work in the fields, as they were then resting. Also, sold one testament. I met the master of these people, near his own house, and would have given him a Christian tract; he asked me whether I thought he was crazy? I said I did not, but only wished to direct him to the Holy Scriptures; then seizing me by the head with both of his fists, he cried that I was "a foolish dog to stop people in the street." As I saw that he was foaming with rage, I thanked him for his compliment, and went on my way, glad that I had not had a beating. I arrived late at the inn at Neubof, but the innkeeper would not lodge me because I had no passport, and so many rogues were roaming about there and burning down the properties. Then I remembered that I had once been acquainted with the Lord of the Manor. I went to him and he gave me a certificate to stay there, though he is an enemy to the truth. (18 miles.)

7th.—Disposed of one bible and one testament in Himmelfahrt. Found more desire among the people. They came together in the village, and as I had left some bibles in Hageman, 9 miles distant, I went back and brought four, and six testaments. Though my foot continued to get worse, I reached Kimmelfahrt again safely, rejoiced to be able to dispose of some more bibles; I distributed four, and five testaments. I visited Mr. Zilgeh, the schoolmaster in Ekersdorf; he is a believer on the Lord Jesus. I sold him a testament. He accompanied me and we prayed together, and then I proceeded to Loocken, to the house of a dyer, who paid me the money which he owed me for a bible. (25 miles.)

8th.—Travelled eighteen miles to Allenstein, where I was obliged to rest my foot.

25th.—Took four Polish bibles and seven testaments with me on the journey to Waterburg. Sold one bible for 10 gr. in Lengainen. Left one testament with sister Schott; she sold it for 5 gr. The next day Archpriest Skrzykowski sent for her; he was already in possession of the testament which she had sold. As she entered, the priest said, "How is it that you can sell such books so cheap? where do you get them?" Sister Schott.—"That I cannot tell you—but you can convince yourself that it is the word of God." Priest.—"Aha! they come from the Allenstein Wiedertauffer," (Anabaptist.) Sister S.—"They are not Anabaptists; they only follow the scriptures." Priest.—"But I do not allow that such books be distributed in my parish." Sister S.—"How will you answer for that at the last judgment, if you deprive the poor Poles of the word of God, which alone can lead them to salvation?" Priest.—"Here I have already one testament from the man to whom you sold it yesterday for 5 gr. Have you any more such books?" Sister S.—"Here is another." Priest.—"How much does it cost?" Sister S.—"If you will buy it, it costs 10 gr. The poor have them for half price, and those who have nothing to pay with, have them gratis." Priest.—"Why then must I pay 10 gr.?" Sister S.—"You are well off, and can afford it." Priest.—"I will give 8 gr. for it, and then I shall have two copies." Sister S.—"Very well. The Bible Society is desirous that the Poles also should come to a knowledge of the word of God, and I am desirous of it too." At that moment the chaplain entered the room, and the Archpriest pointing to him, said:—"Why, even he does not understand the scriptures; how can you then know so much of them? It seems to me like the pigdrivers who stand listlessly together, while the pigs may go and feed first out of one trough and then out of another." Sister S.—"Reverend Sir, you compare God's holy word to the food of swine; I could not have expected this from you." Priest.—"Do you then understand it all?" Sister S.—"I wish sir, that you knew as much as I do. Truly, I know but very little of the Holy Scriptures, but I know that I shall be saved." Priest.—"I shall forbid my people ever to receive such books from you again." So ended the dispute.

When the Polish peasants heard that, they bought in Lengainen, two Polish bibles for 10 gr.; in Neunhaben, one testament for 10 gr., one for 4 gr., and one bible I gave in Lengainen. Others would have bought some, but they had not money enough. In Neunhaben there is one bible, and the Poles gather together, and one reads it aloud. This is often done."

JUNE 19th.—Sold 4 Bibles in Saalfeld. Towards evening, a butcher's dog flew at me and tore my trowsers, which were new two days before; if I had not had boots on, I should have been now a cripple, but its teeth slipped down their sides, and so only the trowsers suffered. The dog was killed, and the man fined 1 rte; his wife came to me weeping, and begged me to be content with 15 gr. for my loss; as the people were poor, and I must have employed the Commissioner of Justice to recover my loss, (the trowsers cost me 5 rte,) I determined to bear it, as another course might have made a bad impression, and been a hindrance to the spread of the Holy Bible and the kingdom of God. So I accepted the 15 gr.

20th.—Sold 1 Bible in Saalfeld. Travelled in company with the merchant Riesen and his wife in Elbing.

21st.—Sabbath-day.

22d.—Went to Saalfeld. Disposed of 1 Bible in Elbing, 1 Testament in Schenfeld, 4 Bibles in Happen.

23d.—Sold 1 Bible in Kindchen, 2 in Arendorf, 1 in Viginiltten, and 1 in Mohrunge, (18 miles.) In Mohrunge I visited the singer Wandski, who resides there, and the lady of Dr. Lauerhering and many other persons;—had much blessing.

JUNE 24.—Sold 1 Polish Bible in Tornareinen, (31 miles.) At 10 o'clock in the evening I reached my brethren in the Lord, in Allenstein. The total of the proceeds of the Bibles &c., that I have sold, as stated in my account with Mr. Oncken, is 6 Thaler. 4g. groschen 14 pfennige.

Great distress is prevailing in these parts, proving a frequent barrier to the spread of the Gospel, but I have sought to act up to the wisdom imparted to me by the Lord, trusting that he will bless by the outpourings of his Holy Spirit, the seed sown."

Extract from Journal of Bro. Klincker, another Colporteur in Germany.

"Friday, March 5th.—To-day I made a trial in the village of Tempelhof, two miles and a half from Berlin. It is a very fine village, all the houses are massively built, and look very handsome. I therefore thought to myself, here you will meet with little success. At the commencement it also appeared so to me, but it was not so, for I sold all the 8vo Bibles which I had with me, in a house, where the master and mistress, as well as the servants bought of me. I came to the wife of a farmer, who would by no means buy a Bible, but neither would she accept of a tract which I offered her. 'It is very strange,' I said to her, 'that a man can be so proud, and not want to take any thing that is offered him, for all we have is given us by God; if any one wants to give me something, I accept it thankfully.' She then took the tract, but I was in return obliged to accept a slice of bread which she had cut for me.

Thursday, March 11th.—The last week I was very successful in Tempelhof, I hardly entered a house at which I did not sell either Bibles or Testaments. Although I did not meet with any thing particular except the usual conversations, I was still every where listened to with great attention, as a general esteem for the word of God is prevalent at that place."

LETTER FROM BRO. J. G. ONCKEN.

Wm. H. Wyckoff, Cor. Sec. of the American & F. Bible Society, New York.

HAMBURG, June 1, 1847.

MY DEAR BROTHER:—I am in possession of your favor dated 24th March, and shall attend to your suggestions as far as practicable.

I have now the pleasure of sending you the 2d quarter's journal of Br. Klincker at Berlin, translated by my son Gerhard, but which will, I fear, be inferior to the production of my daughter. I have here and there applied my pen, so that you will at least be able to make out the sense. Br. Straube's 2nd quarter's journal is in the hands of my daughter, residing at Blackheath, near London, and I hope will soon be forwarded to you.

By the time this reaches you, the 5000 8vo. Bibles will have left the press, and as my stock is entirely exhausted, a large number will have to be bound without delay.

I expect the last sheets of the 2nd set of the stereotype plates here in a few days, and as you appear to be anxious to have them soon, I may probably send them via England pr. steamer.

I am now about to remove to a more central part of the city, with the Bible, Tract and Book Store, which will be attended with some expense to your Society for removing &c.

The premises are much better than the former, with only a trifling additional charge in the rent. I trust that a large number of Scriptures will be sold at the new place, to the more opulent. It will at least attract more notice than before.

We have just now introduced twelve copies of the Scriptures into one of our prisons. This was effected by the keeper, a beloved brother in the Lord.

In the midst of the fruitless warfare, among the opposing parties is the State Church, and among the politicians of our country, we are permitted to follow our dear Lord with Hosannas in the silent victories which he achieves, through his precious Gospel and the power of his Spirit, over the human heart. We continue to be greatly blessed, in the ingathering of precious souls, and if human nature was not so depraved as it is, the displays of God's power and rich free grace must produce feelings and actions more assimilated to the ardent love of the Redeemer in Glory, than what they are, feeble and wavering. The Lord endow us from on high, with primitive power, simplicity and devotedness; and we shall witness the scenes which transpired 1800 years ago once more.

In a month we hope to commence our labor in our new house.

Yours in the best of bonds,
J. G. ONCKEN.

LETTER FROM BRO. T. S. RANNEY.

Maulmain, August 20, 1847.

Wm. H. Wyckoff, Sec'y of the Am. & F. B. Society:

MY DEAR SIR—I have delayed writing your Society for some time, in the hope of first receiving an answer to my letter, addressed to your predecessor, of July 23d, 1846; but as we have already commenced reprinting the Sgau Karen New Testament, it is thought advisable to send you an estimate of its probable cost, and also a jike estimate of the cost of preparing and printing an edition of the same in the Pgho Karen language. The work of revising the Sgau Karen New Testament is in the hands of Rev. J. H. Vinton. He engages in it at the earnest request of the original translator, and with the approbation of all his associates. It is believed that the shortest possible time in which the revision can be prepared for the press, will be two years. In the mean time, the printing will proceed as fast as copy is furnished the press.

The health of Bro. Vinton's family, you will be pained to learn, has rendered it indispensable that they should return to America without delay. Their passage is engaged on board the ship Ocean Queen, bound to England, which is expected to sail in three or four weeks, and unless they fall in with an American ship at the Cape or St. Helena, they will proceed to America via England. Br. Vinton will take with him two Karens to assist him, and his determination is not to be turned aside from his work while in America. The thousands of Karen converts who are in want of the scriptures, while not a copy is to be had, even for the Theological Seminary, would seem an abundant reason why Br. V's determination should be strictly adhered to. As fast as the Sgau Karen is completed, it is to be transferred into the Pgho Karen, and one of Br. Vinton's assistants will be exclusively engaged in that work.

Br. and Sister Vinton are no common missionaries. They have endured labor and toil with almost unexampled devotedness, and no missionary has enjoyed the privilege of burying by baptism more converts than Br. V. Through their instrumentality, numerous churches have been raised up, scattered over a wide extent of territory, and he has the happiness of seeing also a flourishing institution in which many promising youth are in a course of preparation for the ministry. It was a happy occasion on last Lord's day to stand by the side of Br. V., at the water's edge, and witness the baptism, administered by Brethren Beecher and Harris, of thirty-three willing converts, the fruit of Br. V's labors, pupils in the schools, from these provinces, and from Burmah Proper.

It is depressing to our spirits, and never more so than at the present time, to see the ravages which toil and the enervating influence of a tropical climate, are making among our number. Our ranks are speedily thinning. The departure of Br. and Sister Vinton is to be followed in a few months by Br. and Sister Wade, his physician having assured Br. Wade that the only hope of saving him from blindness is his removal for life from this climate. Br. Mason, you are perhaps aware, started for America, but his trip to Calcutta having given him a little strength, he thought he might venture to return and labor on. For the sake of his future usefulness, all regret his return. He is quite unable to endure the least fatigue, and it is likely he will soon sink into the grave, unless he seeks the bracing influence of a cold climate. There are others remaining whose growing infirmities are circumscribing their labors painfully, and the remark is upon the lips of almost every one, "What is our mission coming too?" Bro. Judson has suffered exceedingly since his residence in Rangoon, but writes that he has sanguine hopes that he will be well again on returning to Maulmain, which event is expected within a month.

I am happy to inform you that the printing of the Peguan New Testament is completed. I am now printing an edition of 500 copies of the Acts of the Apostles, translated by Bro. Bullard before his death into the Pgho Karen language.

By the next favorable opportunity of sending direct to Maulmain, I should like to receive from the Bible Society a small invoice of bibles and testaments. The kinds most wanted are—of the bible, the 8vo edition, well bound, with and without marginal references, say in all, 12 copies; several copies of a neatly bound pocket edition, if you have one. All bibles sent should be of handsome and some of superior binding, as I have on hand plenty of plain sheep, which seldom sell. I have but three copies of the Testament left, and would like a limited supply of all kinds. I have frequent applications for gratuitous distribution of Testaments, and should like to supply such cases.

Very sincerely yours,

THO'S S. RANNEY,

LETTER FROM DR. DEVAN.

NEW-YORK, OCT. 18, 1847.

W. H. Wyckoff, Cor. Sec. of the Am. &amp; For. Bible Society.

MY DEAR BROTHER—As you have already been informed by me in a recent communication from Hong Kong, the Mission was engaged in the early part of the year in printing and distributing a large edition, (say 12,500 copies) of the Gospel of Matthew. The version employed was that of Medhurst revised and corrected so far as is possible in conformity with the fundamental principles of the A. & F. B. S. The edition dragged heavily through the press because of other work necessary to be performed and which engaged exclusive attention for the time being. There is, however, every reason to believe that, before this, the work is completed; and nearly all, if not all, the copies are in circulation. The greater part of this edition was to be put in circulation by the Canton missionaries of the Southern Bap. Conv.

At Hong Kong, Bro. Dean has been engaged during the former part of the year in the revision of Acts, with a view to its early publication and distribution at the expense of the A. & F. B. S.. He is preparing it with marginal references, a work wholly unprecedented in Scripture operations among the Chinese. When I left, the work was about half completed, and it is at this time doubtless in the hands of the printer, provided Bro. Dean possesses the requisite means for the purpose. Of this latter fact I have some doubt, for when I left, there were in the hands of the Mission only about $300, and with that he would necessarily be obliged to pay the wages of your colporteurs and furnish Scriptures for distribution by them, and I cannot reasonably suppose that a balance would be left sufficient to put forth even a moderate edition of Acts with references.

You are aware that the missionaries of some of the evangelical missions to China were to meet in September at Shanghai, to revise the Holy Scriptures with a view to their publication, as the joint work of protestant missionaries in China. The English Baptist missionaries, who reside at Ningpo, have, I believe, protested against any such measure; at any rate, they have jointly declared their non-fellowship with the undertaking as conducted on the principles to be followed by the revising committee.

The missionaries of the American Baptist Union have also unanimously signed and forwarded to the Secretary of said revising committee, Bp. Boone, a formal protest in the name of the Union and of the American and Foreign Bible Society, against any publication of the Chinese scriptures purporting to be the united work of the evangelical christian missionaries to that great empire. Not only have the sub committees at the different stations departed from the original stipulations adopted when the work of revision was agreed upon, and undertaken, but other reasons also exist which render it inexpedient for the Baptist missionaries virtually to impose any restrictions which would seem to interfere with a free right to emend or revise the version at a future day.

With affectionate regards,

Your brother in Christ,

T. T. DEVAN.

For the Incorporation of Benevolent, Charitable, Scientific, and Missionary Societies, passed April 12, 1848.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SECTION 1. Any five or more persons of full age, citizens of the United States, a majority of whom shall be citizens of this state, who shall desire to associate themselves for benevolent, charitable, scientific or missionary purposes, may make, sign and acknowledge before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds in this state, and file in the office of the secretary of state, and also in the office of the clerk of the county in which the business of such society is to be conducted, a certificate in writing, in which shall be stated the name or title by which such society shall be known in law, the particular business and objects of such society, the number of trustees, directors or managers to manage the same, and the names of the trustees, directors or managers of such society for the first year of its existence, but such certificate shall not be filed unless by the written consent and approbation of one of the justices of the supreme court of the district in which the place of business or principal office of such company or association shall be located, to be endorsed on such certificate.

§ 2. Upon filing a certificate as aforesaid, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged such certificate, and their associates and successors, shall thereupon by virtue of this act, be a body politic and corporate by the name stated in such certificate, and by that name they and their successors shall and may have succession, and shall be persons in law capable of suing and being sued; and they and their successors may have and use a common seal, and the same may alter and change at pleasure, and they and their successors, by their corporate name, shall, in law, be capable of taking, receiving, purchasing and holding real estate, for the purposes of their incorporation, and for no other purpose, to an amount not exceeding the sum of fifty thousand dollars in value, and personal estate, for like purposes, to an amount not exceeding the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars in value, but the clear annual income of such real und personal estate shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars; to make by-laws for the management of its affairs, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state, or of the United States; to elect and appoint the officers and agents of such society, for the management of its business, and to allow them a suitable compensation.

§ 3. The society so incorporated may annually elect from its members its trustees, directors or managers, at such time and place, and in such manner as may be specified in its by-laws, who shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of said society, a majority of whom shall be a quorum for the transaction of business; and whenever any vacancy shall happen among such trustees, directors or managers, by death, resignation, or neglect to serve, such vacancy shall be filled in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws of such society.

§ 4. In case it shall at any time happen that an election of trustees, directors or managers shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws, said society for that cause shall not be dissolved, but it shall and may be lawful on any other day to hold an election for trustees, directors or managers, in such manner as may be directed by the by-laws of such society.

§ 5. The provisions of this act shall not extend or apply to any association or individuals who shall in the certificate filed with the secretary of state, or with the county clerk, use or specify a name or style the same as that of any previously existing incorporated society in this state; nor shall they authorize the formation of any corporation which can be incorporated under the act entitled, An act to provide for the incorporation of religious societies, passed April 5, 1813, and the several acts amending the same; or the formation of any secret societies.

§ 6. Any corporation formed under this act, shall be capable of taking, holding or receiving any property, real or personal, by virtue of any devise or bequest contained in any last will or testament of any person whatsoever, the clear annual income of which devise or bequest shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars; provided, no person leaving a wife or child or parent shall devise or bequeath to such institution or corporation more than one fourth of his or her estate, after the payment of his or her debts, and such devise or bequest shall be valid to the extent of such one fourth, and no such devise or bequest shall be valid, in any will which shall not have been made and executed at least six months before the death of the testator.

§ 7. The trustees of any company or corporation organized under the provisions of this act, shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts due from said company or corporation contracted while they are trustees, provided said debts are payable within one year from the time they shall have been contracted, and provided a suit for the collection of the same shall be brought within one year after the debt shall become due and payable.

§ 8. All institutions formed under this act, together with their books and vouchers, shall be subject to the visitation and inspection of the justices of the supreme court, or by any person or persons who shall be appointed by the supreme court for that purpose, and it shall be the duty of the trustees, or a majority of them, in the month of December in each year, to make and file in the county clerk's office where the original certificate is filed, a certificate under their hands, stating the names of the trustees and officers of such association or corporation, with an inventory of the property, effects and liabilities thereof, with an affidavit of the truth of such certificate and inventory, and also an affidavit that such association or corporation has not been engaged directly or indirectly, in any other business than such as is set forth in the original certificate on file.

§ 9. Each corporation formed under this act shall possess the general powers conferred by, and be subject to the provisions and restrictions of the third title of the eighteenth chapter of the third part of the Revised Statutes.

§ 10. The Legislature may at any time, amend, annul or repeal any incorporation formed or created under this act.

Preamble and Constitution

OF THE ### AMERICAN & FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

WHEREAS, the inspired Scriptures, the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, are the only authoritative Divine standard containing the revelation of God for the whole human family : And whereas, the council of Trent, in 1546, declares that a Latin translation, called the Vulgate, "shall be held as authentic, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever," and the Rheimish Testament was translated from the Vulgate into English, in 1582,—the translators declaring that the Vulgate "is not only better than all other Latin translations, but than the Greek text itself in those places where they disagree;" which assumptions have been generally repudiated by all enlightened Christians, not in the Romish church."

And whereas, the American Bible Society, in 1836, approved of the following resolution, viz. :

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principle of their translation to the common English version ; at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this Society can consistently use and circulate said versions, in their several schools and communities."

The remonstrants against this resolution, believing it to be a virtual abandonment of the great principle of Protestantism, and the adoption of that of the Council of Trent, as well as a departure from the basis of the original compact of the Society, which states their object to be "the dissemination of the Scriptures in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required," and having in vain taken every Christian measure to prevent its passage and enforcement, were constrained to form, provisionally, in 1836, and fully organize in 1837, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY : FOUNDED UPON THE PRINCIPLE, that the originals in the Hebrew and Greek are the only authentic standards of the Sacred Scriptures ; and that aid for the translating, printing, or distributing of them in foreign languages, should be afforded to such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text ; it being understood that no words are to be transferred which are susceptible of being literally translated.

Constitution.

ARTICLE I. The name of this Society shall be, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually shall be a member; each contributor of thirty dollars, a member for life; and each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars, a director for life. Life-directors shall have the privilege of participating in the deliberations of the Board.

ART. IV. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society, shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such societies shall, while in office, have the privilege of life-directors.

ART. V. A Board of twenty-five Managers, residing in the city of New York, or its vicinity, shall be annually elected to conduct the business of the Society, with power to fill their own vacancies.

ART. VI. The President, one Vice-President, the Secretaries and Treasurer, shall be members of the Board.

ART. VII. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, a majority of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. VIII. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life or directors for life.

ART. IX. The Annual Meeting of the Society shall be held at New York, on the day after the second Thursday in May in each year, or at any other time or place, at the option of the Society; when the accounts of the Treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year, by the members entitled to vote on the treasurer's books the beginning of the said month.

ART. X. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call a special meeting of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given.

ART. XI. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XII. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

Twelfth Annual Meeting.

The Society held its Twelfth Anniversary in the Meeting House of the Oliver Street Baptist Church, New York, Friday, May 11th, 1849.

The society was called to order by the President, at 9 o'clock, A. M. After singing, prayer was offered by Bro. H. B. Ewell, of New York.

Brethren A. Bennett, of N. Y., P. P. Runyon, of N. J., T. G. Wright of N. H., W. C. Walker, of Conn., N. H. Bottom, of Vt., H. Seaver, of Mass., and E. Lathrop, of New York city, were appointed a committee to nominate a Board of Officers and Managers for the ensuing year.

While the nominating committee were preparing their report, Bro. Rogers, of N. J. engaged in prayer.

The following resolution offered, by Bro. Isaac Davis, President of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and seconded by Bro. C. G. Sommers of N. Y., was adopted.

Resolved, That the restriction laid by the Society upon the Board of Managers in 1838, "to use only the commonly received version in the distribution of the Scriptures in the English language," BE REMOVED.

The committee on nominations reported the list of Officers and Managers for the ensuing year, who were unanimously elected. See page 5.

The time and place of the next annual meeting was referred to the Board of Managers.

Public Exercises.

Public exercises commenced at 10, A. M. Bro. S. M. Osgood, Missionary from Maulmain, read the 62d chapter of Isaiah, and Bro. John Peck, of N. Y., engaged in prayer. The Treasurer's report was read, and on motion of Bro. Isaac Davis, of Mass., seconded by Bro. S. J. Drake, of N. J., was accepted and ordered to be printed.

The President then addressed the assembly.

Bro. W. H. Wyckoff, Corresponding Secretary, then read an abstract of the Annual Report, and on motion of Bro. T. Armitage, of N. Y., seconded by Bro. Joseph Ballard, of Brooklyn, it was

Resolved, That the Report, an abstract of which has been read, be printed and circulated, under the direction of the Board of Managers.

On motion of Bro. C. G. Sommers, of N. Y., seconded by Bro. Lemuel Porter, of Mass., it was

Resolved, That it is the privilege and the duty of all who cherish a proper regard for the simple apostolic form of the ordinances of Christ, to unite in maintaining, and rendering efficient, the efforts of a Society that prosecutes, as its single object, the circulation of the sacred scriptures in their purity.

On motion of Bro. Jonathan Wade, Missionary from Tavoy, seconded by Bro. Rufus Babcock, of Mass., it was

Resolved, That this Society, whose crowning glory consists in bowing to Divine authority, taking no lessons from human creeds, and knowing no standard but that which the Holy Spirit has given, ("He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.") by its persevering and successful endeavors to give to the heathen the Sacred Scriptures faithfully translated, commends itself to the sympathies and liberality of all who love the truth and desire its circulation.

Adjourned with the benediction by the President.

President's Address.

DEAR BRETHREN AND FRIENDS :

We are permitted to celebrate another anniversary of the AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY, under circumstances peculiarly gratifying and encouraging. The Report of the Treasurer just read, shews an increase of several thousand dollars over the receipts of preceding years; the number of our generous supporters is slowly but steadily multiplying; and our sphere of operation and usefulness is constantly enlarging.

Throughout the current year, your board of managers have attended both regular and special meetings with uniform punctuality; and although, under the charter, a majority of all the members is requisite for the legal transaction of business, yet they have never in a single instance failed to form a quorum. Union of sentiment and harmony of action have been enjoyed in a remarkable degree; and while several of our most zealous and efficient brethren have removed from the city and resigned their seats in the Board, their places have been promptly filled by other ardent friends of the bible cause. Not one of our managers has been removed by death—a fact which we record with gratitude.

The Baptist Board of Foreign Missions have instructed their missionaries who are, or shall be, engaged in translating the Scriptures, “to transfer no words which are capable of being literally translated.” THE BIBLE TRANSLATED, is the motto of our Society, shewing that in this matter, the fundamental principles of action of the two Institutions are identical. We have aided the Foreign mission therefore most cordially, from the time of our organization, and to our utmost ability, in giving pure versions of the lively oracles to the Heathen. In addition to the appropriations made for the printing and distribution of the Scriptures in Asia, we have this year been specially called upon to make vigorous efforts to multiply copies of the German Bible, to supply as far as practicable the destitute thousands to whom access has been afforded us, through the recent revolutions in Europe. The annual report will accurately detail what has been accomplished by Brother Oncken and his coadjutors, but I cannot deny myself the pleasure of repeating a few lines from his last communication to our corresponding Secretary. “Dear Brother;—let me thank you and the dear brethren composing the Board, for the increased interest which you and they have taken in the glorious work now going on in Germany. Blessed be God, that in his good providence your noble institution was called into existence to help forward one of the most glorious enterprises in the history of modern missions. What should we have done without your Society? Much has been already effected through the generous aid of your Board, and much more will be achieved, if we continue steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord.” We have here one more irrefragable proof, added to many that have gone before, that the same unerring finger of divine Providence which pointed Judson to Burmah, and directed Boardman to the Karens, with equal clearness marked out for us the path of duty and of privilege in the formation of the American and Foreign Bible Society. May the prayer of our brother be heard, and successive Boards of Managers be steadfast and unmovable until the Bible shall be translated into all the living languages of the earth!

Some of our brethren, who have really retarded the operations of the Society more than open enemies, declaim loudly against our distributing the Oracles of God at home; and although "a brother offended is harder to be won than a strong city, and their contentions are like the bars of a castle," it may be useful to record the following facts.

Our Society, during its existence, has expended considerably more than forty per cent of its entire income in supplying the destitute heathen with the sacred Scriptures, and not a dollar of our annual current expenses has ever been charged to the account of foreign distribution. The American Bible Society, on the contrary, has appropriated to this object less than ten per cent of its receipts, as far as we can ascertain from their printed Reports.

Domestic distribution is essential to the formation and well-being of auxiliaries, without which no Bible Society could long exist. What would the American or British and Foreign Bible Societies be without auxiliaries. Like a tree without roots, their resources would be dried up and their fruit soon cease. It is gratifying to state that while we have this year expended more than sixteen thousand dollars in foreign versions, the fourteen thousand dollars employed in the manufacture of English Bibles and Testaments has been more than returned for books sold, and in donations from auxiliaries.

To aid in supplying the inhabitants of our own country with the word of God, is an obvious duty; we must do what we can, in this department of benevolent effort, for such is the wonderful increase of our population, that after all that has been done by existing institutions, tens of thousands of families in the United States are still destitute of that precious book in which life and immortality are brought to light.

When this Society was organized, many prophesied that it would be short-lived: these prophecies have not been fulfilled. We said then, as we say now, If God be for us, who can be against us? If this work be of God, it cannot be overthrown! Who hath despised the day of small things? He who made of Abraham a great nation; He who from an almost equally small beginning has formed us into a mighty people, the "observed of all observers," can make our motto, THE BIBLE TRANSLATED, the controlling principle of action among all who shall be engaged in printing and distributing the inspired volume. Then men of all climes and kindreds, shall read in their own tongues wherein they were born, the mind and will of God; and the answer to the question Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? will no longer be given in an unknown language. The words of a faithful witness for God and truth, whose name has been already mentioned, should encourage us in our work;—"Blessed be God that we are his! His forever, in his Son! and that our labors in Him cannot be lost. May this precious certainty stimulate us to all that holy energy, which the shortness and uncertainty of life—the wants of sinners—the realities of eternity—THE GLORY OF CHRIST—are calculated to call forth."

The Corresponding Secretary then read an abstract of the Annual Report.

TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

IN presenting the TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT, the Board of Managers are naturally led to notice the remarkable providences, by which the year has been distinguished. No preceding year in the history of the Society has been so eventful. None has produced results, or set in operation causes, more likely to affect the Bible operations of future years.

The whole frame-work of government in Continental Europe, has been agitated and shattered. Organic changes have been effected in political constitutions; new principles have been admitted in the science of government; and laws have been established, largely modifying the relations of rulers and subjects.

These things concern us, inasmuch as they directly influence the demand for the sacred scriptures, and the facilities for their circulation. In the Periodical paper, published in October last, it was shown, that the combined tendency of the events alluded to, has been to open the way for the word of God; that the call for scripture distribution has been increased many-fold; and that the field of operations of this Society, and the claims upon its exertions and its liberalities, have been greatly enlarged. More distinct reference to these facts, will be made under the head of Foreign Operations.

In the meanwhile, a new and extraordinary condition of things has sprung into existence in our own country. Through the sudden excitement of that common appetite of civilized man, the love of gold, thousands, and tens of thousands, of our citizens are crowding from the Atlantic States towards the shores of the Pacific. The hurry of departure, the spirit of reckless adventure, and the nature of the stimulating motive, have sent numbers on their way to the region of anticipated wealth, without that word of life, which is requisite to instruct them in their duties to each other, as well as to secure to them the possession of the true riches—the treasures that never waste, and that can never be stolen or destroyed. Hence has resulted a new demand for scriptures in a part of our own country, a demand which, as indicated by appropriations already made, your Board have every disposition to meet as they may have facilities for sending the books with the requisite assurances that they will be properly dispensed.

At the same time the claims of the Asiatic missions have lost none of their interest, or their importance. On the contrary, the calls for aid in scripture operations have been constantly increasing. To meet those of the past year, and the enlarged demands from other quarters, would have required more than two-fold the usual amount of foreign appropriations.

Impelled by these circumstances, your Board have spared no proper exertions for the collection of funds. The results of the measures prosecuted, have been so far gratifying, as they indicate a growth of interest in the operations of the Society, and an enlargement of liberality in contributions for its necessities. But the review of the year, while on the whole encouraging, is far from affording satisfaction to a mind, thoroughly imbued with the love of Christ, and zealous for the salvation of souls. The addition to the ordinary receipts, is by no means commensurate with the extraordinary progress of demand. When twenty thousand dollars more could have been advantageously employed; nay, were urgently required; an advance of only three or four thousands upon the income of preceding years, is not a proper subject of unqualified gratulation.

In the last Annual Report the whole number of volumes published at the expense of this Society, was stated at 562,734. Additional reports for the foreign field, and the issues for the year from the Depository, raise the number to 686,696.

Foreign Operations.

The Board enjoy the gratification of announcing, that they have been enabled to accomplish more for the foreign field than in any period of similar length since the fifth year of the Society's existence. Their appropriations for this purpose have been the following:

To the Am. Bap. Miss. Union for the Karen Scriptures,	- - -	$1500 00
" " " " " Chinese,	" - - - -	2000 00
" " " " " Assamese,	" - - - -	1000 00

There has also been expended in this country for the publication of German scriptures, the sum of	- - - - - - - -	602 90
For French scriptures,	- - - - - - - -	636 35

In the Report of last year it was stated, that the books published in foreign lands at the expense of this Society, upon appropriations made previously to May 1st, 1846., amounted in all to more than 300,000 volumes. Full statistical reports have not since been received from all the missionary stations, where scripture operations are conducted at your expense, but the accounts that have reached us, enable us to add 93,598 volumes to the number mentioned above, making the whole, so far as ascertained, 393,598.

EUROPE.—GERMANY.—AUSTRIA.

While the last Annual Report was in the course of preparation, occurrences were transpiring in Europe, which have since with reason attracted the attention, and aroused the energies of the friends of the bible. For several years preceding, we had contemplated, with gradually increasing interest, the aspect of affairs in that quarter of the world, as they were likely to affect scripture operations. Those who have carefully considered the Reports and Periodicals of the Society for the last two years, must have been convinced that, while the Board had not diminished their exertions, or abated their desires, for the circulation of pure versions of the word of God among the heathen nations of Asia, they foresaw the necessity of a great augmentation of efforts for the bible evangelization of continental Europe. From time to time a new door was opened for successful effort, and the blast of the trumpet, calling on to victory, grew louder and louder. Having before contented themselves with occasionally printing an edition of the sacred volume, they now set themselves in earnest to the work of publication. After obtaining from Bro. Oncken the necessary estimates of expenditures, they authorized him to cast stereotype plates, to establish a depository, and employ colporteurs. They also engaged competent individuals to correct the French Testament, and to translate the Italian for the press, and made the requisite arrangements for printing, and subsequently stereotyping, these works, when their accuracy and faithfulness shall have been fairly ascertained.

But while the Board were thus steadily advancing, and preparing for extensive operations, God in his infinitely wise providence anticipated their expectations. Instead of opening here and there a door or a gate, He suddenly prostrated the walls of Jericho, and bid us go up and possess the land. Accumulated intelligence poured in upon us, that almost the whole of central Europe was open for bible operations, and call after call summoned us to send largely increased means for the publication and distribution of the word.

The Periodical for October last, contained several letters, and portions of letters, from Bro. Oncken, vividly depicting this new condition of affairs. We make from these some brief extracts, to which we add parts of letters since received ; all of which conduce to evince the magnitude and importance of the events alluded to, and the necessity of extraordinary efforts in view of them.

On the 10th of April, 1848, Bro. Oncken wrote from Hamburg :

"The mighty changes transpiring here, and throughout the whole of Germany, are, I trust, preparing the way for the general diffusion of the Gospel, and we shall stand in greater need of the powerful co-operation of the American and Foreign Bible Society, than at any previous period."

Subsequently, and at different periods, he says :

"A new era has broken in upon us, as Baptists especially. The year of our jubilee has come—our chains are broken—the lock has been removed from before our mouth, and what we have been compelled to teach and preach for the last twenty-five years by stealth, we may now proclaim from the house-top. The Press, that mighty engine, is free! And free—blessed be God!—is our tongue; and free our assemblies for the preaching of the gospel.

"There are at present so many claims on our assistance in furtherance of the good cause, that we hardly know what places to visit first. The cry, "come and help us," meets us from every point. The harvest is truly great, but alas! few are the laborers.

"Germany is, however, not the only field which we are called upon to occupy. Austria, into which not a single copy of the Holy Scriptures could have been introduced six months ago, without exposing oneself to the danger of several years' imprisonment, is now also open to the gospel."

On the 11th of August, he states :

"I have quite recently returned from a missionary tour into Prussia, Austria, and Hungary, and found every where a wide and open door for the spread of the gospel, and especially for the circulation of the Holy Scriptures. I have, in consequence of this, and as my stock of Bibles and Testaments will be soon exhausted, ordered the following Scriptures to be printed forthwith:—10,000 8vo. Bibles, 20,000 New Testaments.

"I shall require, as early as possible, $3000. We have now the whole of the land before us, to fill with the Gospel of Christ.

"I saw on my recent tour, four of the colporteurs of your Society; Straube, Klinker, Engel and Ehlert; all of them are actively engaged in their work, and meet with much success. In the mountains of Upper Silesia, at Voiglsdorf, I immersed nine converted Roman Catholics, the fruit of bro. Straube's labor. Had you, my dear brother, and some other brethren on your committee, been among us during the night in which I was engaged in examining these dear, simple-hearted people, and heard how one after another gave a reason for the hope in them, always referring to the Scriptures which, through your liberality, had been brought within their reach, I am persuaded your souls would have rejoiced with mine, in these displays of God's grace; and you would have felt that the sacrifices made by your Society, on behalf of Germany, were amply repaid.

"Our work—rather your work—is only now beginning. Austria and Hungary are now open for the Scriptures. And let me remind you that, as we employ only regular Christians, immersed believers in the Lord Jesus Christ, who circulate the Scriptures, we—you—accomplish a double work. Our brethren, the colporteurs, are men of a missionary spirit; and along with the circulation of God's Holy Word, they preach, as opportunities are presented. They preach, and spread, not a part of God's truth, but the whole truth, as far as they discern it from the sacred oracles.

"The cause is, in the midst of our political agitations, spreading in every direction; and we only want men and means, to occupy many most promising stations."

In a subsequent letter, addressed to the Treasurer, Bro. Oncken urged upon the Board a proposition to allow him immediately to print and circulate in Austria, at our expense 50,000 copies of the New Testament at a cost of $5000.

On the 13th of October, he wrote to the Secretary as follows:

"My stock of Testaments is nearly exhausted, as the circulation, both of Testaments and Bibles, is progressing with unexampled briskness. We are at present selling more at the depot in one day than at previous periods in a month.

Four new colporteurs have also been appointed,—one in East Friesland,—one in Mecklenburg,—one in Baden,—and one in Hesse,—although as yet I do not know how to support them permanently. But the favorable openings demanded it."

"The stock of Bibles will also be exhausted, before the present edition can be printed. I need therefore all the aid the Board can possibly give. My appeal through bro. Colgate, in behalf of Austria, will have been before the Board ere this reaches you, and, I trust, God will have influenced the hearts of our dear brethren for a favorable decision. I renew my appeal now. Beloved brethren, pity the millions in Catholic Austria without the bread of life."

After mentioning that a devoted brother had been sent to Vienna with scriptures and tracts, carrying several hundred copies of the former, published by this society, he adds:

They "are already in the hands of Roman Catholics. God will surely make good His promise, and accompany the precious seed with His gracious influences.

I am also in great want of a larger size Testament, such as the first edition 32 mo. (The new edition is 64 mo.) 20,000 copies of this will cost for paper, printing, and binding, $3000. I am afraid to ask this, but I must state my wants, believing that the Board will do what is in their power.

From every quarter appeals are made for laborers, but, although we have men, we have not the means for the extraordinary circumstances in which we are placed."

The last letter received from Bro. Oncken, was dated March 2nd, 1849. We have curtailed it for the Report as much as is compatible with the presentation of such portions as are indispensable to a full knowledge of our Scripture operations in Germany.

HAMBURG, MARCH 2d, 1849.

My dear Brother.—I ought long before this to have replied to your four last letters, dated Nov. 3d and 6th, Dec. 8th 1848, and Jan. 21st, but my engagements are so multiplying upon me, that at times I fear almost to sink beneath them. But let me now first thank you and the dear brethren composing the Board of the Society, for the increased interest which you and they have taken in the glorious work now going on in Germany. Blessed be God; that in his good providence your noble institution was called into existence to help forward one of the most glorious enterprises in the history of modern missions. What should we have done without your Society?

Much has been already effected through the generous aid of your Board, and much more will be achieved, if we continue steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord. Before I proceed then, dear brother, accept again for yourself, the Board, and all the friends of your Society in the United States, my own most hearty thanks, and those of my esteemed and beloved fellow laborers generally.

From the enclosed accounts you will see that there is a balance in my favor for 1848, of Marks 985,91-2; the last bill for £412,16,11, being placed to the credit of the Board for 1849. The amount received for Scriptures sold is Marks currency 4480,51-2; donations, 40,8.

10,000 Testaments and 5000 Psalms have been struck off from the new plates, of which 3000 are already bound and are mostly in circulation; 10,000 8vo. Bibles are now being printed, after which we shall proceed with the rest of the 50,000 Testaments. Our stock of Testaments and Bibles at the depot, is exceedingly low, and I am frequently driving the printers and bookbinders to speed their work.

The number of Scriptures circulated at the expense of your Society during 1848, amounted to 9258 copies, and from the Edinburg Society, 2393 copies. A set of stereotype plates of the New Testament 64 mo., was shipped for you by the Franklin, Capt. Roloffs, last week. The set for our use are excellent. The price for both sets including the correction of the proof sheets, is Marks 1799,14, or £106—one half of this should be refunded to us for Germany. Two sets of the New Testament in 32mo. would be about the same price, and if you wish a copy for America let me know, as early as possible, unless you have the books printed here. As to the 12mo Bible it is necessary that you should specify the exact size, name of the type, &c. As soon as I have these, I shall make the necessary inquiries as to price; but this is almost need less, as the work can be had at a moderate price. There is a general want felt of a New Testament in large type for the aged, and I would strongly urge this on the kind consideration of the Directors.

I was compelled to purchase 1000 Testaments, as my stock was quite exhausted before the new edition was ready, and I also purchased 600 pocket Bibles, for which there is a frequent demand. Your hints as to the defects in Luther's version, have been attended to, and before the present edition was put in the press, the plates underwent a strict revision. Both corrections and alterations have been made in the present edition, of which I shall send copies as soon as it has left the press. Brother Schlatter, formerly minister in the reformed Swiss Church, who assisted in this, is a thorough Greek and Hebrew scholar.

By an arrangement with one of the best bookbinders here, upwards of 1000 Marks have been saved in binding from May to December, 1848. In the present year double that amount will be saved to the Society.

A moderate number of your English Bibles and Testaments would be acceptable. Unbound copies would be preferred. Let me now give you a brief view of our labors in the circulation of the Scriptures during 1848.

The sales here at the Depot have been most encouraging, and more copies have been sold during the last four months in a week than formerly in a month or six weeks. Several of our brethren have been successively employed as colporteurs for Hamburg and its vicinity, by which many have been enriched with the word of life, whilst at the same time they have been verbally directed to Christ as the only refuge from the wrath to come. These brethren also directed their attention in particular, to the Baden, Bavarian, and other soldiers, as they passed through Hamburg after the war in Schleswig-Holstein, by which means not only many were induced to purchase a New Testament, but also to attend at our chapel.

It would be highly desirable to have a brother engaged as colporteur for Hamburg and its vicinity, but if he is to devote his whole time to the work, he would require at least $140 annually. Formerly we labored much among the seamen, and we have in former years circulated nearly 20,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures among them, but at present our hands are so fully employed, that, alas! we can pay little or no attention to them. A bible colporteur would find here among seamen and the numerous bargemen from the interior, an immense field of labor. With the wide and effectual doors, which the Lord in his grace and providence is opening in every direction for our general missionary work, the preaching of the Gospel, the demand for the Holy Scriptures must of necessity increase. But such is the powerful shaking among the dry bones in every direction, that we are utterly at a loss what to do, to meet the wants and the wishes of the people. Never before were our prospects so encouraging and our success so great. The Lord is constantly adding to our churches. To-morrow I expect to immerse here ten believers, and next week I shall have to visit Wismar again, where several believers are waiting to follow their Lord in this precious ordinance.

The brethren engaged as colporteurs, have labored with much zeal, nor has their work been in vain, for, independent of the circulation of the holy Scriptures, they have scattered the gospel far and wide, so that many thousands have heard the truth through them, by which sinners have been converted, and the foundation for the formation of churches has been laid in several places, whilst one church (at Anclam) has been formed and others have been faithfully sustained. You will find eight names on the list of colporteurs, to which the name of Cords must be added, who is laboring since last autumn with much success in East-Friesland, both among Germans and the Dutch.

Dear brother Straube is still prosecuting his work among the Catholics in Silesia, and the Lord continues to crown his efforts with his blessing. The little church at Vaugtsdorf, near Landeck, now amounting to eighteen baptized believers, all converts out of the Romish church, continue steadfast in the faith under brother Straube's instruction. I have particularly directed brother Straube to watch every opportunity for introducing the Scriptures into Austria, as brother Straube resides close upon the Austrian frontier.—Brother Engel, originally at Stettin, is now located at Anclam, just on the borders of Mecklenburg. He has labored with much success, especially in preaching the gospel. Eighteen converts at the above place have been immersed and formed into a church.

Brother Klinker has prosecuted his work at Berlin and in the surrounding villages; has met also with much encouragement, and is an indispensable assistant to brother Lehmann, as brother Klinker has taken the keeping of the accounts &c. for the Bible Society, entirely into his hands.

Brother Ehlert at Allenstein continues to labor among Polish Catholics and the Germans, but has been frequently discouraged by the opposition experienced from the Catholics. He wishes to remove to Elbing, but I shall encourage him to remain as long as possible at his present station, because the wretched people in this part of Polish Prussia are in the most deplorable ignorance imaginable. Brother Wolff, connected with a dear friend and brother in Back Pomerania, H. Von Belaw, though not a Baptist, is a dissenter, who for many years has been actively engaged in the spread of the gospel, and especially in the distribution of the scriptures. He was formerly colporteur of the Edinburg Bible Society, and I would strongly recommend to give him the little support which is stated in my account.

Brother Schlesier is truly devoted to his work; has sold a great number of Bibles and Testaments, and his labors generally have received the rich blessing of God, so that the materials for a church of Christ at Schleswig have been already gathered. I shall probably visit him, with a view of immersing several converts.

Brother Kramma is a valuable agent, as he is constantly travelling in his occupation, and is in every respect a man cut out for missionary work. He has met with much opposition, (once he was stoned,) but also with much encouragement. Our success in Hanover, where brother Kramma labors principally, has been in the past year glorious.—We have had a rich harvest of souls, and the Lord continues his blessing up to the present time.

Brother D. Bose, a Lutheran, at Gottingen, is a dear simple man, anxious to do good to the souls of his fellow men, and most indefatigable in the circulation of the Scriptures, and by his labors many copies get into the hands of the students, and others who would probably otherwise be destitute of that treasure. He also makes frequent excursions into the country, always on foot with his parcel of scriptures with him. The brethren Schlesier, Klinker, Straube, and Kramma, I had the pleasure of seeing here in January—they attended our conference of Pastors, Evangelists, Colporteurs, Deacons, and other brethren, from our churches in Germany and Denmark. Their journey here and back has of course been attended with some expense which we find it difficult to bear. The Board at Boston has kindly granted $150, towards defraying the expenses of their missionaries who attended this meeting. Perhaps your Board will also do something say $50—this would be enough. I might have paid the brethren out of the funds of your Society, but without your consent I would not do this. I must now draw to a close, and commending you, my dear brother, and the Board of the Society to the rich blessing of our glorified head, I remain in the best of bonds,

Yours, affectionately,

J. G. ONCKEN.

At the conference of brethren from our Baptist churches in Denmark and Germany, convened from January 18th to January 26th, about 50 brethren being present, it was unanimously resolved:—"That a vote of thanks, couched in the warmest expressions, be presented to the American and Foreign Bible Society for the prompt and powerful aid given to the churches of our denomination, by having supplied them richly with the holy Scriptures, thus promoting the great and glorious work in which we are engaged."

I can assure you my dear brother we all felt under what a debt of gratitude the Lord has placed us, in having raised up your Society and for having put it into the hearts of the brethren directing the affairs of the Society to devise such liberal things for Germany. I cannot add anything to the above, and I doubt not, it will be a little satisfaction to all the friends of the Institution in America, that their liberality to their German brethren, is duly appreciated. The great fact, however, must ever stand prominently out before our vision, to compel us to greater exertions. That many thousands—in a few years MILLIONS—in this country will be in possession of the word of God, that word which contains the will of our God. Once more farewell.

Yours, in Christ,

J. G. ONCKEN.

The Board have, within the year, appropriated to Bro. Oncken various sums, amounting in all to $6,128 31. They have, also, granted to the Missionary Union the sum of $1,000, to be expended in Scripture distribution through its missionaries and assistants, under Brother O's direction. The prospect is, that still larger sums will be needed during the present year.

Brother Oncken has been authorised to keep the colporteurs in employment ; one of them to be located in Hamburg ; to stereotype a 32mo. Testament and a 12mo. Bible ; and to print and distribute both Bibles and Testaments, as the means which we are able to place at his disposal may permit. There can be no doubt that the demand will very far exceed these means. It will be a happy circumstance if the contributors to the funds of this Society, can, at the close of the year, reviewing all the stirring events and interesting incidents detailed in the foregoing letters from Germany, and cherishing a proper sense of obligation to labor in that field of unlimited usefulness, enjoy the gratifying consciousness that they have done what they could.

FRANCE.

Owing to unanticipated, but unavoidable delays, the French Testament is not yet ready for distribution. In the meanwhile, openings have taken place in France, which render it extremely desirable that we should enter with vigor upon the cultivation of that field. From Bro. Devan, we have received several communications upon the subject, from one of which we made extracts in the last Periodical paper. For the support of the colporteurs employed by him in the circulation of Ostevald's version, the Board has appropriated, through the Missionary Union, the sum of $500.

THE ITALIAN SCRIPTURES.

The latest direct intelligence regarding the progress of translation by Dr. Achilli and his coadjutors, was published in the Periodical Paper. We have since understood that part of the work has been put to press in Rome, and will be issued in pamphlet form, in order that it may undergo criticism and revision before the whole is printed.

INDIA.—CALCUTTA.

No statistical accounts of Scripture operations in India, have reached us since the publication of our last report. We have, however, received a long and uncommonly interesting letter in relation to the English Testament, from Bro. Wenger, the successor of Carey and Yates, in the translation department at Calcutta. Brother Wenger expresses his intention, when the pressure of translation into the languages of the heathen is somewhat relieved, to give his attention, in part, to the preparation of a corrected English version, which may be of great service to other translators. This was a design long entertained by the lamented Yates, but he does not appear to have effected much towards its accomplishment. Brother Wenger says:

"I have made a few preparations for the work. The chief difficulty will have to be met at the commencement; for it appears to me that the first three gospels ought to be carefully compared, and so revised, that the difference between them might not be greater (nor less) in the English, than in the Greek. That difficulty overcome, the remainder would be comparatively easy."

The absorbing occupation of Bro. Wenger, at the present time, is the revision of the Sanscrit Bible, which was devolved exclusively upon him by the decease of Bro. Yates. He thus, at the close of his letter, alludes to his progress in that work.

"Of the Sanscrit Bible, a proof-sheet is now lying before me, which goes down to the twenty-fifth of Numbers. I hope, if God spares my life and health, to go on with the publication of it steadily, although the progress will be somewhat slow, owing to the great difficulty of the work. Of our labors in other departments you will, no doubt, obtain information from England, after the May meetings, so that it is not necessary for me to swell out this letter to a greater length.

"That the Lord may return a rich blessing into the bosom of his children who aid in the publication and dissemination of his own word, both in India and elsewhere; and that his favor may ever rest upon the American and Foreign Bible Society, is the sincere prayer of

"My dear brother,

"Your's sincerely,

"J. WENGER."

The sum of $1,000 has been appropriated for printing the Scriptures in the native languages of India.

ORIYA SCRIPTURES.

In the October Periodical we published a long and most deeply interesting letter from Bro. John Buckley, who has charge of the department of Bro. Amos Sutton, during the absence of the latter from India, on account of health. As we have not since received any communication from Orissa, we extract a few striking sentences from the letter, which was dated at Cuttack, May 25th, 1848.

"Your noble Society has rendered invaluable assistance to the Mission in Orissa, and as one of its missionaries, I thankfully avail myself of this, the first opportunity that has presented itself, of tendering you my heart-felt thanks, and of expressing my confident persuasion that that aid which has been so kindly and cheerfully rendered on past occasions will not be withheld in future. The fact that we have the whole word of God in the Oriya language, is in every respect, matter of boundless thanksgiving: the unspeakable importance of this will appear to every reflective person, from the extent of our operations, and the measure of success with which God has graciously crowned the humble labors of his servants.

"What should I do in my daily work without an Oriya bible? What a grievous hindrance it would be to our native preachers! What a barrier the absence of a translation of the Scriptures would be to the improvement in Christian knowledge of our church members and nominal Christians! Again I say, I thank you from my inmost heart for your kind aid in giving to Orissa's sons and daughters, the precious, priceless boon of God's word.

"You are probably aware that most of us spend the greater part of the cold season (the only part of the year when taking long journeys is safe, and living in tents is practicable), in country excursions, to make known the precious gospel; and in other parts of the year, with our native assistants, large festivals are visited, at which thousands and tens of thousands are gathered together. On these occasions, after preaching, tracts and gospels are given to such as appear able to read; and for myself, I must say, that while fervently thankful for the large amount of good effected by tracts, I entertain special confidence when engaged in distributing Christ's own word. At our last Conference ten thousand gospels were ordered to be printed for distribution. I trust you will not forget to pray that the Divine blessing may render them very useful."

After giving a detailed account of the conversion of a wealthy native, through reading a portion of Scripture, he adds:

"I had the pleasure to baptize this interesting convert. May the Lord keep him from all evil and preserve him unto His kingdom. I have often been struck with the fact, in conversing with inquirers and young converts, that Christ's own words powerfully impress them. Govinda furnishes an illustration. Again and again, in conversing with me, did he refer to the Lord's words recorded in the gospels. When I referred to the losses he would be likely to sustain by professing Christ before men (for a considerable inheritance will probably be alienated from him, and it is yet uncertain whether he will not be permanently separated from his wife and two lovely children), he instantly replied: 'Has not Christ said, 'If God so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you.' "

BURMAH.—MAULMAIN.

In the official application made by the Executive Committee of the Missionary Union for appropriations to the amount of $8,500, to cover the Scripture operations of 1848-9, the sum of $1,000 was requested for the translation of the Old Testament into Karen, $1,000 for the revision of the Karen New Testament, and $1,000 for printing the same. On the 6th of September, the Secretary of the Union wrote that from consultation with Brethren Vinton and Osgood, it was ascertained that "It will not cost less than $3,000 to print and bind an edition of four thousand copies in the Sgau, and $2,000 to do the same for an edition of two thousand copies in the Pgho dialect. More than one half of the work on these editions will be completed on April 1st, 1849. We, therefore, ask your Board for $2,500, for the printing of the New Testament in the Karen language, instead of $1,000 as stated in my letter of the 2nd inst."

Subsequent information, however, showed that there would be more detention in the work, than was at first anticipated, and that the burden of the expense would fall upon the year which has now commenced. Your Board, therefore, being unable to meet all the requests of the Missionary Union, deemed it judicious to postpone till the present year the greater part of the amount asked for the Karen Scriptures, and appropriated for that object, only the sum of $1,500. As a necessary result, there is a large increase in the demand from that quarter for aid, and an additional reason for exertion to enlarge the receipts of the year.

We have not received the usual tabular statement of printing done at the mission press at Maulmain during the year 1847, and we are only able in part to supply the deficiency. In that year, 3,000 copies of the Peguan New Testament, and 500 copies of the Acts of the Apostles, in Pgho-Karen were printed. The former consisted of 1,728,000 pages, and the latter of 52,500.

The tabular statement of Scripture printing for 1848, has reached us, accompanied by a brief letter from Bro. Ramsey, both of which we publish in full.

"MAULMAIN, JANUARY 23, 1849.

"MY DEAR SIR:

"Above, I have the pleasure to send you a statement of the issues of Scripture and parts of Scripture from Maulmain, during the year 1848. The nature of my occupation forbids me from mixing with the native population to any considerable extent, and I am, therefore, unable to furnish you with interesting facts and incidents which may have attended the distribution of the Scriptures; but from what I learn from my brethren, who are daily preaching and exhorting from house to house, it is evident that the truth is gaining a cheering ascendancy, that the attention of the people is more easily gained, and their minds more open to conviction. We are now printing a revised edition of the Sgau Karen New Testament (5,000 copies), and have reached, and nearly completed the gospel by John. I have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of an invoice of Bibles and Testaments from your Society, and to add that the books most handsomely bound, were at once taken. Of the pocket edition of the New Testament, with and without the Psalms, not a copy is left.

Very truly, yours,

THOMAS W. RANNEY.

By a letter from Bro. Vinton, dated April 18th, 1849, we are informed that the revision of the Karen New Testament has not progressed with the rapidity which was anticipated. He thus expresses himself:

"In the revision, I am sorry to say, that I have only just finished the fifth chapter of Hebrews, and that it will be about two months before I have got through with the last chapter of Revelations. I have been sadly interrupted in this great work, and the printing has been still more delayed."

TAVOY.

The Old Testament in Sgau Karen is progressing rapidly in the hands of Bro. Mason, who has, in a measure, recovered his health, and has obtained leave to return to Tavoy. The book will probably be printed at that station. The printing of the Pentateuch has been commenced.

ASSAM.

Brother Cutter has been somewhat interrupted in his operations by sickness, but at the last accounts the second edition of the New Testament in Assamese, was under way, and was expected soon to be issued from the press.

The following extract from a letter of Brother Cutter, dated October 16th, 1848, will explain the progress of Scripture printing, and the demand for distribution in Assam.

"I feel exceedingly anxious to remain in Assam till the new octavo edition of the New Testament, with our new type, can be carried through the Press. I hope we may commence upon it with the new year. The Testament has been completed and printed in parts; a second revised edition of 300 copies of the whole New Testament, is partly through the press, for distribution the coming cold season; also, an edition of the four gospels and Acts, 500 copies, and 1,200 copies extra of the Acts. These will all be finished before the year closes. We were compelled to issue this small edition just now, having been quite out of nearly all the parts first printed, and frequent calls made for them, which we could not supply. And in the excursions for preaching, which may be made the approaching cold season, scarcely any of the Scriptures could have been given, as the octavo edition, had we commenced upon it, would not have been one fourth completed. We wish to take that through more leisurely in order to secure the greatest possible accuracy, as well as cleanness and neatness in printing."

In compliance with the request of the Union, the sum of $1,000 has this year been appropriated to the translation and publication of Assamese Scriptures.

SIAM.

In a letter from Brother J. H. Chandler, written August 7th, 1847, but received after the date of our last Report, he states :

"The Siamese department of our mission still rests upon my hands. I do what I can in communicating the word of life orally and by the printed page. Within the last six months, I have distributed about 15,000 tracts and books. This is probably the greatest number ever given within so short a period. The call for tracts and books still continues, and we shall probably give away about 30,000 during the present missionary year."

Brother Jones, in a letter to the Missionary Union, under date of Bangkok, August 3d, 1848, remarks :

"Those parts of the New Testament which were printed off before I left here in 1845, were nearly all distributed. We designed, and the mission voted, to print a new edition of the New Testament at once; but the facts above stated, delayed the commencement of the work for several weeks; when, considering that an edition of 3,000 copies of Matthew and Mark, separately, had just been put into circulation, it seemed very desirable to have something of Old Testament history to render them intelligible. We, therefore, determined to commence a new edition of Old Testament Biography. This was accordingly done; and an extra edition of Joseph and Moses, 2,000 copies, has been struck off, and we are now distributing them. The whole work will be in two parts. The first part, to David, is nearly completed, and then we design to leave the second part until we have printed the third edition of the Acts. The Old Testament biography completed, we shall have published 23,000 copies of Joseph and Moses."

By a subsequent communication from Brother Chandler, we learn that the last form of the Acts of the Apostles was struck off September 21st, 1848. The edition consisted of 3,000 copies.

At the request of the Missionary Union, your Board has appropriated the sum of $1,500 for Siamese Scriptures.

CHINESE SCRIPTURES.

The importance and necessity of a correct version of the Bible in the Chinese language, have been more than once dwelt upon in our Annual Reports. The allusion to this subject in the following extract from a letter of a Baptist Missionary in China, dated July, 1848, is therefore not inappropriate to these pages :

"The discussion on the proper word in Chinese for rendering Elohi and Theos, I think, has now ceased.

The Pædo-Baptist Translation Committee at Shanghae are daily at work; sundays excepted, and are taking much pains as they proceed. They have now reached the eighth chapter of Mark. They hope to finish the four Gospels this year and to publish them, and to complete the whole New Testament by the end of 1849. The committee consists of Messrs. Bridgman, Medhurst, Boone, Stronach and Milne, the last having taken the place of Mr. Lowrie, who was murdered by pirates.

The importance of a Chinese version of the Bible by Baptists, is a subject for most serious consideration. I am more and more convinced that the American and Foreign Bible Society has a solemn responsibility resting upon it regarding this matter. In my opinion, they ought to take the subject up themselves in earnest. Let them send two well educated brethren for the express purpose of preparing, publishing and circulating the sacred scriptures in the Chinese language. Let them come out with wives, and for life, as do missionaries. Such are the facilities now to be had here, that they could commence preparing, though not publishing, in one year after their arrival. Our hearts are open to welcome such agents and to aid them all in our power.

Let the American and Foreign Bible Society wait no longer for the action of Missionary Societies, or missionaries, but take the matter up themselves, and the God of the Bible will be with them. I may remark that such agents should have the same salaries and allowances that Baptist missionaries have."

It affords us the most heartfelt pleasure to be permitted to state, that, in accordance with the pre-existing arrangement, to sustain the expense of which a special appropriation was several years ago made by this Society, brother Goddard has been transferred to China, where he is expected to devote his attention to biblical translation, and revision. The following is a letter from the Foreign Secretary of the Missionary Union upon this subject :

BAP. MISS. ROOMS, Boston, Feb. 22, 1849.

WM. H. WYCKOFF, Esq.

Cor. Sec. of American & Foreign Bible Society :

MY DEAR BROTHER,—You are perfectly right as to the arrangement made by your Board with the Acting Board for the transfer of Mr. Goddard to China. From its date to the present time, the important object contemplated in the proposed transfer has been kept steadily in view ; and, divine providence favoring the past year, Mr. Goddard has removed to China, and is expected to reside there permanently.

The Executive Committee, I am happy to state, adopted a resolution at their late meeting, attaching him to the station at Ningpo.

Mr. Goddard's labors at Ningpo, as contemplated in his original appointment, and subsequently in the arrangement with your Board, will be devoted pre-eminently to the work of translating the Chinese scriptures, a work for which by his natural endowments, and an extended and thorough course of classical and biblical study he has rare qualifications. Some progress you are aware, has already been made in the translation of the New Testament, and several books, including those prepared by Mr. Dean, whose scholarship and intimate knowledge of the Chinese entitle him to equal participation in the work, if other engagements permitted, are soon to be put in circulation. I am reluctant, indeed, to admit that time has been lost, (although it must be admitted that time has been lost since the days of Marshman,) except from the temporary failure of health ; inasmuch as Mr. Goddard has, from the beginning, had in view a thorough revision of the existing versions, and the preparation of a new and improved translation, and has applied himself with the utmost assiduity to the requisite preliminary study.

With much respect and affection,

Truly your brother,

S. PECK, Cor. Secretary.

Whilst Dr. Devan was in China, he acted as treasurer for this Society, and it was customary to remit to him money for scripture operations, which he expended in printing, and furnishing copies of the sacred word to Baptist missionaries, and in paying the salaries of colporteurs acting under their direction. His orders were to supply alike the wants in this department of the Missionaries of the American Baptist Missionary Union, and of the Southern Baptist Triennial Convention. When about to return to this country, he transferred the small balance on hand to brother Dean. In the meantime our Society, in conformity to the expressed wishes of the missionary bodies, had transferred to each the colporteurs in our employ acting under the direction of their respective missionaries, and had intimated their intention to make appropriations for the use of the missionaries upon the direct application of the boards by which they are sustained. The Missionary Union has, within the year, applied for $2000 for the translation and publication of Chinese scriptures, which sum has been cheerfully appropriated by the Board. Although our willingness to appropriate according to our means, has been expressed, in correspondence, to the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Convention, no application has hitherto been received from that quarter. It is understood that the expenses of their scripture operations, which are necessarily limited in the early years of missionary labor, are fully met by the amount of contributions specially designated for that object.

When brother Devan left Hong Kong, as may be seen in his letter of Oct. 18, 1847, published with our last Report, an edition of about 12,500 copies of Matthew was passing through the press, the greater part of which were to be furnished at our expense to the missionaries of the Southern Baptist Convention. Since then we learn by communications from brother Dean, that he has prepared blocks for John and the Acts, and has printed 7700 of the former, and 3000 of the latter, and has also printed 3000 copies of Matthew.

Brother Dean is also prosecuting the enterprise of publishing portions of the New Testament with notes, similar to those of Ripley, an enterprise which, without expressing an opinion on its expediency, your Board is not prepared to sustain by the expenditure of funds contributed for the general objects of the Society.

In the letter of brother Devan, already referred to, it is stated that "the Missionaries of the American Baptist Missionary Union have unanimously signed and forwarded to the Secretary" of the Committee on Revision at Shanghai, "a formal protest in the name of the Union and of the American and Foreign Bible Society against any publication of the Chinese scriptures purporting to be the united work of the Evangelical Missionaries to that great empire." We receive from this Committee periodical accounts of the progress of their labors, but for the latest information upon the subject we are indebted to a letter of brother Dean, under date of Dec. 18, 1848, from which we make the following extract :

"The Committee of Revision at Shanghai have advanced to the 7th chapter of John. When the New Testament will be printed is not easy to say, and it is not determined whether they may publish the Gospels when John is closed, or wait for the completion of the New Testament. How far we may be able to avail ourselves of the result of their labors, remains to be seen. We hope they may make some important advance in the work of Chinese translations. The committee is now composed of Drs. Medhurst and Bridgman, and Messrs. Stronach and Milne. Bishop Boone is not able to meet with them, but is giving some time to a "Fu Pa," or local translation of the New Testament, in which the members of his Mission are engaged.

Brother Hudson, who is laboring at Ningpo in the employ of the General Baptist Missionary Society of England, is engaged in revising and publishing Marshman's version of the Chinese scriptures."

CHEROKEE SCRIPTURES.

Considerable progress has been made in the publication of Cherokee Scriptures. In February, 1848, there were printed at the mission press, 6,000 copies of the Epistle to the Ephesians, in 24mo, containing 144,000 pages. In October, 5,000 copies of Galatians and 1st and 2d Peter, containing 240,000 pages ; in December, 5,000 copies of Philippians and Colossians, containing 120,000 pages.

We are surprised to learn that the whole New Testament in Cherokee, the translation of which was completed more than two years ago, has not yet been printed.

Domestic Operations.

These have been prosecuted with accustomed vigor. The nonpareil bible without references, and the nonpareil reference bible, both duodecimo, have been stereotyped and printed, and considerable numbers of the former have been issued from the depository. Both books are found to be highly satisfactory to our auxiliaries.

The adoption of a standard, to which allusion was made in the last report, and the determination to secure a desirable uniformity to our issues, have already led to extensive improvements. From this date, all copies printed from the stereotype plates of our small pica bible, large pica testament, small pica testament, (both testaments with, and without psalms,) nonpareil bible, and nonpareil reference bible, and our nonpareil Sunday-school testament, will precisely correspond. Our other books will be gradually brought to the same conformity.

The attention of the Board has been, to some extent, directed to the German portion of our population, and some effort has been made to meet their wants. Four colporteurs have been employed during the past year for different periods of time: brother A. Von Puttkammer at Buffalo, supported at the joint expense of the American Baptist Publication Society and this body; brother Sala at Pittsburg, jointly with the Brookline Baptist Church, Massachusetts; and bro. J. B. Schnell and S. A. Kesting exclusively sustained by this Society. These efforts are so far experimental, and the Board are not yet prepared to decide to what limit they should be extended.

Destruction of Property by Fire.

On the night of the 18th of November, 1848, it pleased the Lord to permit the devouring element to invade the premises of the Society at 350 Broome street. The compensation allowed by insurance companies for the damage sustained by us on the occasion, amounted to $1892 57. While this sum covered the bulk of our loss, it could not be expected to meet numerous minor particulars of damage and expense incident to such an occurrence, nor to furnish an equivalent for the partial disarrangement of affairs, and procrastination of business necessarily resulting.

As one of the unavoidable consequences of such a disaster, the property destroyed, principally consisting as it did of books and printed sheets, had to be replaced. This has largely increased the expenses of publication during the year, without any consequent enlargement of the stock on hand. Such a fact must be borne in mind in estimating the comparative expenditure for the year upon the domestic and foreign departments of the Society.

The same circumstance has likewise increased the incidental expenses of the depository.

Domestic Appropriations.

The extraordinary call for appropriations of Scriptures to individuals and companies going to California, has been promptly met by the Board, while every possible precaution has been taken to secure the proper use and distribution of the books. The grants have been entrusted only to members of evangelical churches, and Brother O. C. Wheeler, who is now stationed at San Francisco, as Missionary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, to whom, through that body, a considerable number of the books were appropriated, has been requested to oversee, as far as lies in his power, the distribution of those committed to others, and to take charge of any that may not be distributed. Probabilities, however, are adverse to the supposition, that the demand will be supplied, or nearly supplied, by the quantities already sent.

The Board have also, upon application, appropriated Scriptures to the American Baptist Home Mission Society, for the use of its missionaries in Oregon; to the American Tract Society, and to the American Baptist Publication Society, for distribution by their respective colporteurs; and to various auxiliaries, churches, and Sunday School organizations for the supply of the destitute.

The whole number of books gratuitously appropriated during the year for the domestic field, is 4,522 Bibles, and 11,078 Testaments. Their aggregate value amounts to $2,824 57, of which sum $728 28 is for books drawn by life members and directors on their annual quotas.

The principal donations have been thus distributed :

The rest of the books have been given in small appropriations of a miscellaneous character, to auxiliaries, Sunday School organizations, and benevolent societies.

Publications.

The Publications of the year amount to 30,364 volumes. Of these, 10,017 were Bibles, and 20,347 Testaments. The whole number of volumes hitherto published at the Depository, is 293,098.

Issues.

The issues have been 13,638 Bibles, and 26,590 Testaments. Total 40,228.

Books on Hand.

On the 5th of April the whole stock of books on hand, amounted to 11,000 Bibles, and 13,630 Testaments, making a total of 24,630. Of the Bibles 310 were German, and 992 Welsh ; Testaments 792 German, and 939 Welsh.

Library.

There have been added to the Library, 32 volumes, making the whole number received 1,576.

The legacies paid in during the year, have been as follows :

Agencies.

The most of our agents are permanent. During the last year, in consequence of the sickness of several, we were obliged to employ the temporary services of individuals to occupy their places. This has somewhat increased the expenses of the year, although they still scarcely surpass those of 1847, when our receipts amounted to less than $32,000.

Life Members and Directors.

Three hundred and thirty-four Life members and twenty-two life directors, have been added.

Receipts and Disbursements.

The receipts of the year amount to $39,840 86. This is a larger sum, by several thousands of dollars, than has ever before been received in one year. The disbursements amount to $38,321 79. The balance against the treasury at the beginning of the year was $887 12; the balance in favor at the close $631 95.

Demands of the New Year.

Whoever has attentively read the preceeding pages of this Report, must be convinced that far more is demanded, and reasonably expected, of the Society, than has hitherto been accomplished. In the advancing kingdom of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, the achievements of one year, only make room for those of the next. The cry is still "onward." In each of the countries where we have done much, we are now required to do more. And we may add that the Society is virtually pledged to far greater effort than in former years. We cannot remit or diminish our domestic operations. The foreign field has largely increased its demands upon us. For Germany your Board has been obliged to assume responsibilities, which will require the expenditure of from $10,000 to $12,000 before the close of another financial year. For the Karen Scriptures, $3,000 were requested for the past year over and above all that we were able to pay. This sum must be met, with the additional expenditures of the current year. We have no reason to suppose that the Missionary Union will need for other objects, less than usual. $7,500 were paid through it last year, and then, in the case of the Karens, fell short of the demand. For the revisions in India, from $5,000 to $6,000 were asked for last year. We could only spare $1,000. This year we should endeavor to show more liberality in the circulation of those Scriptures, in the preparation of which so much has been expended. They are the standing monuments of the life-long toil of Carey, Yates, Sutton and their assistants.

The value of such works can hardly be overated: the usefulness of their circulation is attested in every missionary letter from the shores of India.

Your Board do not attempt to define, by specific boundaries, the extent of the field which you are invited to cultivate, or to designate the amount of liberality required; but they feel very safe in assuring you that if the income of the Society be raised the present year to $50,000, that sum will not enable them to meet all the demands for expenditures in Scripture operations.

Conclusion.

The results of the year evince, that the American and Foreign Bible Society is gradually, but surely winning its way to extensive favor and enlarged prosperity. Its receipts have been greater, its operations larger, the interest in its behalf more deeply felt, and the intelligence of its proceedings more eagerly sought for, and more extensively read, than at any preceding period. These circumstances are to be attributed, partly to the extraordinary events of the year : but mainly, we believe, under God, to a growing appreciation of the merits and usefulness of the Society. The love of the bible ;—the impression of its excellence ;—the conviction of its necessity for the sanctification of saints, and the salvation of the world ; are sentiments common to the hearts of believers, and only requiring circumstances to prove their existence and to develop their intensity in consistent and efficient action. Accordingly it is found, that wherever the plans and proceedings of this institution are brought in contact with the hearts of the faithful, a corresponding sympathy is awakened, which secures to us permanent and devoted friends. Every year thus adds to the number of those, who pray for its success, and contribute for the support of its operation.

Still the Society constantly suffers from the influence of several causes, among which we may enumerate the following :

There is an almost universal and overweening confidence in its prosperity, which often induces its friends to relax their efforts in its behalf, unless they are personally addressed and urged to the work by an agent.

Connected with this, is a general conviction that the Society does not require more than a certain amount of funds, which, if supplied, will meet its utmost exigencies. In the same minds that cherish these views, there frequently exists the impression, that no positive responsibilities rest upon us ; in other words, that your Board are not necessarily obliged to make provision for any certain amount of expenditure, but that they may receive and disburse whatever the churches or individuals are disposed to give for scripture operations, without any peculiar solicitude about the amount, or any danger of evil consequences in case of deficiency.

It would occupy more space than can be allotted to such subjects in an Annual Report, to present the arguments which prove the unreasonableness of such views and impressions. Let it suffice to assure those who entertain them, that the Society can prosper, and accomplish its high and holy purposes, only if sustained by the individual, efficient, and untiring exertions of those who love its principles and desire its continued and increased usefulness: that its fields of operation are so varied and extensive, and present such claims to its regard, and such facilities for the advantageous employment of its means, that scarcely any limit can properly be placed to the amount of funds which it can judiciously and most usefully employ: and that the necessity of fulfilling contracts for printing the scriptures and supporting colporteurs, and of meeting the just expectations of missionaries and mission bodies in making the requisite appropriations to them for bible operations, imposes a weight of obligation and responsibility, which, in the estimation of your Board, can scarcely be increased. To stop the bible in its course through the press, to dismiss the colporteur in the midst of his useful toils, to disappoint the missionary when expecting the means of paying for the publication of the scriptures which he has laboriously translated and is now prepared to print—such are the inevitable consequences of a want of pecuniary means to meet our obligations and discharge our responsibilities—consequences, the evils of which can only be calculated by those, who can estimate the usefulness of the word of God, and the value of immortal souls.

LETTER OF BRO. STEVENS.

Missionary of the American Baptist Missionary Union.

MAULMAIN, July 21, 1848.

MY DEAN BROTHER:—Knowing the deep interest which the friends of the Bible feel in obtaining information illustrating the utility of circulating the scriptures, I am induced to send you a brief notice of Mg. Huran, a Burman, who is now studying the scriptures in this place.

Mg. Huran is between thirty and forty years of age, a man of good talents, of a sober, well-balanced mind, and was baptized by Dr. Judson about a year ago, during his short stay at Rangoon.

He was formerly strongly opposed to christianity, being disposed even to ridicule the idea that it should pretend to an equality with Bhoodism, and that the God of the Christians should be compared with Gaudama. He nevertheless married into a Christian family, and was gradually led, by the conversation of his father-in-law, and especially by the reading of the scriptures and tracts, which he found in his house, to see the folly of idolatry, and the true way of eternal life.

By these influences, he says, he was led to reflect on the images which he worshipped; that they are but the work of man; that although, according to custom, three priests in unison repeat over them a few Pali words, in order to infuse into them the spirit of the deity, and then pronounce them gods, they still are but the work of man, and therefore how can they help? The priests are but blind men leading the blind.

He was then led to contrast Gaudama with the God of the Christians. He was confessedly a man, and aiming to become God, during innumerable ages, passed through an infinite variety of states,—of brutes, men, gnats, thaggahs, Brahmas, &c.; and having at last subdued the five evil principles of the flesh, and attained to divine knowledge, yet confessed himself unable to tell the origin of the world; and after all, abandoning the universe, vanished into nothing. What help can such a god render to man?

But the God of the Christians is eternal, himself the creator of all things, and therefore must alone possess the supreme power of rewards and punishments.

Being led by considerations of this nature to apprehend his relations to God, conscious that he was destitute of all merit to justify a hope of future happiness, and learning from the scriptures that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, in compassion to man, gave up his life for them, he humbly and joyfully accepted of the salvation offered in the gospel to all those who believe.

From his own experience, thus briefly detailed, Mg. Huran has been led to feel that the distribution of the scriptures and tracts, is almost as important a means of promoting christianity as the direct preaching of the gospel. He is now studying the Bible with deep interest, and gives as much reason to hope that God has chosen him to become a valuable assistant, in due time, to propogate the blessed gospel in enslaved, benighted Burmah. I trust you will join us in praying that God will qualify him for abundant usefulness.

Yours sincerely,

E. A. STEVENS.

The following communication, addressed to one of our agents, may possibly incite some reader to imitate the example of the writer :

LETTER OF JUSTICE HILAR.

The Bible, the Holy Bible! The Book of God, wherein is made known to the children of men the majesty of his will, according to his good pleasure, which he hath purposed in himself; giving instruction upon themes which all the wisdom of this world, by searching, could not find out, without the knowledge revealed in this book; penetrating into the mysteries of nature, and regulating the laws of mutual duties of man to man, and to the eternal God, and concerning laws for the government of individuals and of communities: all which, when rightly understood and practised, is calculated to elevate man to much higher enjoyment, even in this life, and to incline him to live in peace with all men; and thus to abolish all manner of feuds, animosities, and war, that scourge of man and bane of happiness, and all immoral action, the cause of so much misery and wo, lamentation and mourning, the promoter of every evil: and when it is received into the heart, is able to make wise unto salvation, teaching to be pitiful, compassionate, generous and liberal.

Therefore the Bible enterprise, which has for its object the circulating of the Bible throughout the whole world, is the noblest, the most elevated and sublime, and the most glorious, of all the enterprises that ever engaged the attention of man, even in this day of enterprise and invention.

Who, then, that has been instructed by its truth in the love of it, and has tasted that the Lord is gracious, and has perceived the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge, would not wish to join and take a share in such an enterprise, especially when it is considered that no nation was ever truly civilized but by the influence of the gospel?

Now, as I have been taught by this blessed book, that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and that the liberal soul shall be made fat, and that God loveth a cheerful giver, I have enclosed $200, that I may have a share, and feel that I have an interest, in that glorious enterprise. And (though I do not belong to any religious society) I take this share in the Baptist Society, because they are more definite in rendering the sense of the original into their translations, without mutilation or transference, and appear more clear and open, and honest hearted in their instructions on some points; and because I think their tenets approach nearer the gospel, or primitive standard of the Church of the New Testament, than any other; and their forms based on more liberal principles, which tend to enlighten the minds (especially of us unlearned and ignorant folks) more clearly into the true notions of liberty and freedom, and to establish the doctrine of equal rights: and believe the influence of such sentiments has already done more toward emancipating man from tyranny and oppression, and giving liberty of conscience and freedom of opinion, and liberty to express it, than all other dogmas put together.

JUSTICE HILAR.

P. S.—Since writing the foregoing, I have seen the Eleventh Report of the Society, and certificates of membership, which excited an inclination to have a certificate of a share in so glorious an enterprise.

If a certificate of life membership can be granted to Justice Hilar, let it be consigned to the care of Bro. Noah Hooper, of Great Falls, N. H., who will probably write to you concerning it. And when Justice Hilar sees that certificate, it may incline him to do something more.

SHANGHAI, May 1st, 1848.

To W. H. Wykoff, Esq., &c. &c.:

DEAR SIR:—The delegates engaged in the revision of the translation of the Holy Scriptures into Chinese, now address to you their third letter, and report the progress of their work, since their last date, (March 2d,) from Matt. xi. 3, to Matt. xxi. 11.

The arguments, referred to when we last wrote as having been made ready for the press, have since been published, and copies thereof, by their respective authors, duly forwarded to you and to our missionary associates in China.

Our average daily progress, instead of being as it was at first, only six or seven, is now ten verses. Were we able to advance less slowly, and perform the work satisfactorily, it would be to you doubtless, as it certainly would to us, a matter of great joy. Such, however, are the circumstances of the case, and such the nature of the work committed to our hands, that any less consideration and labor bestowed on it, would be, we think, inadequate, and incompatible with the proper performance of our duty.

Be assured, dear sir, that it is our hearts' desire, and our earnest and daily prayer to God, that this work may be carried on, and be completed in the manner most agreeable to his holy will.

Believing that you do unite with us in this wish and in this prayer, we remain faithfully yours, &c.

In behalf of the Committee of Delegates.

E. C. BRIDGMAN.

SHANGHAI, July 1, 1848.

To W. H. Wyckoff, Esq. :

DEAR SIR :—The delegates for the revision of the Chinese version of the New Testament, since the date of their last letter to you, (May 1st,) have continued their sessions, and proceeded from Matt. xxi., ii, to Mark x., 6,—showing an aggregate daily progress of fifteen verses.

The entering of all the words into the Concordance, day by day, enables the committee to make frequent and careful comparisons of their renderings, thus furnishing the means of securing uniformity, where the words are employed in the same sense; and where this is not so, of indicating the altered sense, either by the necessary modifications, or by the selection of new words.

In our daily sessions we continue, as we began, carefully to consider every word and phrase; and by comparing these with what have gone before, we often find occasion to make alterations. So we expect it will be, even to the end of the work. In any language, this process would lead to this result. In the Chinese language it is so essential, that we see no other way by which to bring out a version such as can be generally approved and acceptable.

In this work we cannot but see and feel the need of aid from on high. Pray for us, that God will be pleased to vouchsafe such a measure of grace as may be necessary to secure us from all error therein, and lead to its faithful completion in the time and manner most acceptable to himself, and the best calculated to advance his own glory, and the good of the Chinese.

In behalf of the Committee of Delegates.

E. C. BRIDGMAN.

BAPTIST MISSION HOUSE, LONDON, 9th June, 1848.

To William Colgate, Esq. :

DEAR SIR :—I am in receipt of your favor of the 23d ult., enclosing bill for £304 1s., the value of $1500, voted by the American and Foreign Bible Society "for the use of the Missionaries in Calcutta in publishing the sacred Scriptures in the languages of India." For this, as well as for £204 received two months ago, for the same object, I beg you will receive the thanks of our committee. It is peculiarly acceptable at the present time, in consequence of this country being so much affected by the state of the Continent. Those of our friends who are engaged in commerce, particularly those connected with continental business, complain that they are doing but little, and are restrained by prudential considerations from wishing to do more at present; and many have suffered severely by the failures which have occurred within the last few months.

By the Annual Report, which will have been transmitted to you, you will perceive that our Society, at the close of its financial year, (31st March,) was encumbered with a debt of about £5000,—about a quarter of a year's income. This we might have hoped, in former times, by efforts such as we have made, to have liquidated; but some who formerly contributed liberally, have felt obliged to deny themselves the pleasure now, and above half the debt still hangs heavily upon us, with the prospect, I fear, of a decreased annual income.

We look with some anxiety at the political commotions on the Continent, while we feel thankful that our own country is at peace, and trust that whatever evils prevail amongst us, will be witnessed without violence. The state of the Continent is such as to create the apprehension of great sufferings to be endured, but I think we have ground to hope that in the issue we may, even in our own times, see a great diffusion of Divine Truth, and an enlargement of the Redeemer's empire.

I am, my dear sir, yours, with great respect,

W. B. GURNEY,
Treas. of English Miss. Soc.

Extract of a letter of Dr. Devan, to the Corresponding Secretary, dated in FEBRUARY, 1849.

"We read in the Bee of Yvetot (published by the Constitutionnel) of January 23:

A poor shepherd of the environs of Yvetot, father of a large family, for whose wants he provided with very great difficulty, purchased last summer from a dealer in old clothes, furniture, &c., an old Bible, with a view to occupy his leisure evenings during the present winter.

Sunday evening, as he was turning over the leaves, he noticed that several of them were pasted together. He immediately set himself to work to separate those leaves, with great care; but one can scarcely form a conception of the surprise of the man, when he found thus carefully enclosed a bank bill of five hundred francs ($100). On the margin of one of the pages were written these words:

'I gathered together this money with very great difficulty; but having none as natural heirs but those who have absolutely need of nothing, I make thee, whosoever shall read this Bible, my heir.'

SHANGHAI, March 2d, 1848.

To W. H. Wyckoff, Esq., &c.:

MY DEAR SIR:—The delegates from "The General Committee of the Protestant Missionaries in China," while in session yesterday, unanimously resolved, that a letter every two months be addressed to the secretaries of the Bible Societies with which they have been in correspondence, stating the progress of the revision, and detailing the method of conducting it in committee. In accordance with that resolution this letter is written.

A letter to your address, dated November 22d, last year, and forwarded in duplicate, will have informed you of the committee's progress up to that time, and of the business then in hand. The arguments (which are to be laid before you and our missionary associates in China, and alluded to in that letter,) having been made ready for the press, the committee resumed their daily sessions. At their first meeting, (January 5th,) the Rev. W. C. Milne appeared, and took his seat in the committee as delegate, having been elected by the brethren of the Ningpo-Shanghai station, in place of the late Rev. W. M. Lowrie, whose decease was mentioned in our former letter.

The hours for our daily sessions (from 10 A. M. till 2.30 P. M.) having been fixed upon, the committee resumed the work of revision, commencing with Matthew i. 23, on which verse they stopped last July. Our daily progress has since varied from three to eleven verses, closing to-day with Matthew xi. 3.

The word Θεος has been left untranslated, the committee, as you have been already informed, being unable to agree on the manner of translating that word; Πνευμα when referring to the Trinity, has been left in like manner untranslated. On all other points, thus far, there has been much unanimity.

The text followed by the committee hitherto, is that edited by Bloomfield. On this point we shall write you more fully after having conferred with our constituents at the several stations, only remarking here, that on this point of preferring Bloomfield's text, there is perfect unanimity of opinion in the committee.

The following are among the works constantly referred to by the committee: Mr. Jewett's Edition of the Received Text; Bagster's Polyglot, folio edition; Griesbach's, Campbell and Boothroyd's, Robinson's, and Bloomfield's Greek Lexicons; Liddell & Scott's do; and Bretschneider's; the Englishman's Concordance; Schmidt's do; and Winer's Grammar of Greek Idioms.

Of native lexicography and classical literature, we have the most approved works of the Chinese, embracing as large a variety as can be desired: we have also all the principal versions extant, that have been made of the inspired scriptures into this language.

In regard to native assistants, it may be mentioned, that in addition to each member having his own, there are three others in attendance on the sessions of the committee: one, the teacher who accompanied Mr. Milne to England; another, a literary graduate, who was baptized in Shanghai two years ago; and a third, a native of this province, who was brought up within the pale of the Roman Catholic Church, and who is able to read Beza's version of the New Testament, of which there is a copy always before him. These men, being from different provinces, and of different habits and education form a very respectable body of assistants. All of them are intelligent and well educated; and one of them has such a knowledge of the Chinese classics, that he can turn to any paragraph, phrase or word in them, with almost as much ease as the reader of the English Bible can make his references by the help of Cruden's Concordance.

It may be interesting to you to know something of our method of procedure in committee. According to rules laid down for our guidance, before entering on the work of revision, each session is opened by reading a portion of scripture, and prayer, by the members of the committee in rotation. The minutes of the last session are then read, and also the portion of scripture revised at that meeting, and any corrections therein made that may be deemed necessary.

The portion for the day (which is always previously assigned and carefully studied by the several members of the committee,) is now taken up. The Chinese Text is that furnished us from the stations of the General Committee; and the portion at present in hand is Matthew's Gospel, from the Ningpo-Shanghai station. Of this the chairman reads a verse; and if there be, in his own mind, or that of any one of the others, doubts or questions regarding the original of which it is a translation, these are first considered, and the meaning of the passage ascertained. Next, the translation of the principal words, their arrangement, the construction of the sentence, the rendering of the particles, &c., are taken into consideration; and when these are all settled, the rendering of every Greek word is recorded in a book kept for that purpose—a Greek-Chinese Concordance,—and each member of the committee takes a copy of the verse thus revised.

This, in few words, is our method of procedure. You will be sorry to learn, that on account of his continued ill-health, Dr. Boone has been able to sit with the committee but once since our meetings were resumed, in January. He hopes, however, to be able ere long to join us in this work.

From yourself or associates, the committee will be happy to receive any suggestions you may think desirable. The work is, we feel, one of very great difficulty and responsibility, and well may we say, in the language of the Apostle, "Who is sufficient for these things?" It is however a great encouragement to be able to believe, as we do believe, that in our behalf are enlisted the prayers of multitudes, in the church of Christ, who desire the triumphs of the gospel among the Chinese.

In behalf of the Committee of Delegates.

Very truly yours, &c.,

E. C. BRIDGMAN.

The following very interesting letter has come to hand since the anniversary, from Bro. Thomas S. Ranney :

MAULMAIN, February 22d, 1849.

REV. W. H. WYCKOFF, CORRESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

MY DEAR SIR:—

Your esteemed favor of September 5th, 1848, was received on the 17th inst., and I take pleasure in giving you a prompt, though it must be a brief answer.

The printing of the revised edition of the Sgau Karen New Testament, owing to various causes beyond my control, proceeds slowly. The continuance of two printing offices in these provinces, and the consequent division of materials for Karen printing, are the principal reasons why the work does not proceed faster. Undoubtedly economy and facility of execution require that there should be but one office for printing in all languages, in which missionaries labor in British Burmah. The translation of the Old Testament into Sgau Karen is in constant progress. The dealings of Providence seem to be remarkable in regard to the translator. After having been deeply afflicted and brought near to the grave, so that hardly strength was left him sufficient to reach Calcutta on his way homeward, (and indeed we were prepared to hear of his burial in the ocean), as though for the special purpose of doing a great work, in giving the Bible in their own tongue to the Karens, he is raised up again and brought back to Maulmain, as though by the Spirit of the Lord, where, with but few interruptions, he is permitted to continue his work. But a tremendous anxiety is felt lest he should not be spared to complete this great task.

The printing of the Pwo Karen New Testament will be commenced as soon as the Executive Committee shall have approved the resolution of the Karen mission to abandon the Pwo Karen character, formerly and now in use, and adopt the Sgau Karen.

Some pains have been taken the present year, to ascertain pretty correctly the number of Christians in the Tenasserim and Arracan Provinces, and in Burmah proper ; I mean among the Karens. It is found that in the Tenasserim Provinces, there are about 1,600 baptized believers—in Arracan and Burmah Proper, 4341. Besides these, there are in Burmah Proper, of true and tried Christians who have lacked opportunity of baptism, 5,124. In all therefore, baptized and unbaptized Christians, ELEVEN THOUSAND AND SIXTY-FIVE! and these 11,065 are without the Bible or New Testament. Can Christians in America live without receiving their daily portion of the word of God? What better argument do you need to call forth all the warm sympathies of the Christian heart, than to tell him that here, where but a few years since the only religion that existed among a wild and ignorant race of people, was that of offerings to propitiate the anger of demons and the worship of evil spirits, there are now more than eleven thousand Christians waiting and hungering for the word of God. Some of these Karens can read the Burmese language, to supply whom, recently a few copies of the Burmese Bible were sent to Arracan, from whence one of the brethren writes, "the Burman Bibles have increased rather than satisfied the desire for them, and we shall need another supply." It will be a sad event indeed for the Karens if their translator of the Scriptures should be taken from them before the work is completed, and I have no doubt that the prayers of these thousands are daily offered that his valuable life may be prolonged.

Very truly and affectionately yours,

THOMAS S. RANNEY.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S REPORT.

LONDON, MAY, 1849.

TRANSLATIONS.

In the work of TRANSLATION, the chief part of the Report of the Committee refers of course to the department of BIBLICAL translation. In Africa, the Gospels of Matthew and John in Isubu have been completed, and the books of Genesis and Exodus. Other portions of scripture are also ready, and wait only for printing. For the use of schools, a volume of scripture extracts has been published. The grammar and the Gospel of Matthew in Fernandian, prepared by Mr. Clarke, have also been printed during the year. In Central America, Mr Kingdon has been engaged in improving his version of the Gospel in Maya; and Mr. Jenkins at Morlaix, has completed the New Testament in Breton, and has circulated throughout that country nearly the whole of the edition. He speaks of the openings there as cheering in a very high degree. The liberality of the Religious Tract Society has recently placed at the disposal of himself and his brethren the sum of £100 to be employed in translating and printing Barth's Bible Stories, and other books, suitable especially for the young. Many thousand tracts have been printed by him during the year, at the expense of the Paris and London Religious Tract Societies. Tracts on the doctrines of the gospel, as opposed to the errors of the Romish church, have also been printed by Mr. Law of Trinidad, who has been supplied by the Religious Tract Society with paper for that purpose. At Delhi, our aged brother Mr. Thompson has printed several thousands of tracts, and has a promise from the same Society of whatever paper may be needed for future publications. His knowledge of the people, their language, and modes of thought, renders his labors in this department peculiarly acceptable.

The BIBLICAL labors of our brethren in Calcutta have been confined during the year chiefly to the three vernacular languages of India—the Bengali, the Sanscrit, and the Hindi.

In HINDI Mr. Leslie has completed his new version of the New Testament, and there have been printed	- - - - -	2,500 copies.
And of single Gospels	- - - - -	9,000
Mr. Thompson has translated Daniel into the same language, and there have been printed	- - - - -	1,000
In SANSKRIT the first volume of the Old Testament has been printed to the extent of	- - - - -	2,500
And of single Gospels	- - - - -	5,000
In BENGALI there have been printed of single Gospels	- -	33,000
Of the Psalms	- - - - -	5,000
And of the Proverbs	- - - - -	1,000
Making the total printed during the year	- - - - -	59,000

Or since 1838, of 639,057 volumes; or, in all, from the first, of 887,122.

The number of the scriptures circulated during the year amounts to 48,157 volumes.

The printing of the remainder of the Old Testament in Sanscrit, and the revision of the New, are advancing steadily; and reprints of the New Testament in Bengali, Hindi, and Hindustani, are in preparation for the ensuing year.

Anniversary Addresses.

ADDRESS OF BRO. THOMAS ARMITAGE.

MR. PRESIDENT :

I rise to move the acceptance of the Annual Report of the Board of Managers, under a persuasion that in so doing, I shall render the Society but little essential service. I honestly think there are many fathers and brethren present, whose talents, experience, and long connexion with the interests of the Society, peculiarly qualify them to occupy my place this morning ; and to whom I should have listened with interest. Yet, sir, while I would gladly have kept silence, I will not attempt to disguise that I feel measurably happy, in the opportunity afforded of here expressing my personal approval of the principles of the Society—my sympathy with all its operations—and my willingness to identify what mite of influence I may possess, with its weal, or woe.

Feeling thus, sir, I could not but rejoice in listening to that most cheering Report. Never since the formation of The American and Foreign Bible Society, hath such a field, with such a harvest, been spread before it. And convinced I am, that from its President to its most obscure friend, there is not a heart, but shares largely this joy, on seeing so much willingness to thrust in the sickle and reap.

While the Secretary was reading from the Report, it was no difficult matter to discover in the countenances of the members present, those external indications of internal emotions, which if permitted to escape in utterance, would have gratefully exclaimed, "What hath God wrought!" It is not easy, sir, to suppress the thought, that there is here this morning, a cloud of witnesses, holy ones from above, perhaps, resting on their pinions in anticipation that from the fathers of this Society (who have borne the heat and burden of the day, and who may have come up to the feast for the last time) will go up a repetition of the immortal invocation of the devout Simeon, "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, —for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."

And, sir, if that most thrilling Report shall have a broadcast circulation over the land, you may rest assured, that many whose persons are far distant, but whose hearts and prayers are turned this way to-day, will feast on the glad tidings, and take courage.

The success which that Report heralds will engender in the hearts of the rich and the poor—the fatherless and the widow—the bond and the free—not only a warm response of praise to God, for his signal blessing on the past, but also, an efficient answer to the call of the Board, which shall enable you henceforth, to enter “the great and effectual door” thrown open to admit the word of life.

That such doors are opened, the Report declares. And what reason can be given why we should not enter them? How long shall the accusation of the Saviour be true, that “the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light?” The children of the world are discerning the signs of the times. They are putting forth mighty energies to secure the march of improvement. The propelling influence of the age is an unconquerable, unquenchable thirst for advancement. Man seems to be waking up to a knowledge of the fact, that he lives in a world of wonders—a universe of prodigies. The first effort of his aroused mind is either to break the seals, and plunge into the bowels of unexplored mystery, that he may make himself possessor of “hidden treasure”—or to rush into the midst of the untutored elements; that he may throw reins upon them—that he may hold them with “bit and bridle”—that he may play with them as “Leviathan laugheth at the shaking of a spear”—or that he may harness them to his chariot at his pleasure!

And so far has he succeeded, sir, that wind, and water, and flame, crouch in subjection at his feet, ever ready to answer the beck of the lord of creation. When he nods his command, they are tremblingly willing, to bound with him through a dismal valley—to thunder with him through the heart of a granite mountain! And as if this were mere child’s play—he stands gazing into the heavens, watching an opportunity to throw his wire noose over the very flashings of the eye of the Eternal—● and the snared lightening quivers in his fist, as the palpitating heart of a dove in the hand of the fowler! Then he charges it with thoughts and words, and the liberated courier dashes off to any designated place, at any designated time, glad to obey his master, and go free at that, sir!

But after all, this is not a tythe of what the mightiness of man is doing in this labor for light and improvement. It is mighty indeed for mind, subtle, and invisible, to contend with stern and untamed matter, and subdue it. But it is mightier far, for mind to conquer mind; and in the conquest to load itself with spoils, by bringing light out of darkness and liberty out of bondage. Like a lion bound in every limb—and kept and tantalized, and goaded in bedlam, until, by main dint of rage, he severs every thong, and leaps upon his hated keepers—so the restless nations of the earth, have entered into a mortal combat with those who have held from them the key of knowledge, and robbed them of their rights. Liberty of labour to pursue the arts and sciences—liberty of legislation, to decree the laws that govern them—and liberty of conscience, to worship the God who made them, is what the nations ask, and what they will have. The consequence is, sir, that a tempest of anarchy, convulsion, and butchery, is sweeping a great part of the world. And if you look into the midst of the delirious strife, the glare of the fierce elements will reveal to you—here a tawdry throne, the anvil on which many a manacle has been forged, smashed to atoms by a mad-dened throng—and there a haughty monarch in the midst of the sea, drifting to a foreign shore in a fishing smack. Here, a massive palace, gray with age, nodding to its fall—and there, “last but not least,” “his holiness,” sir, the successor of your old friend of “blessed memory,” who so unceremoniously cursed yourself and all patrons of Bible Societies a few years ago—yea, sir, “his holiness,” the representative of that superannuated, shrivelled hag of Rome—the veritable “head of the church,” ensconced in the beaver of a lackey, and under full retreat for Gaeta!

What does it all mean, sir? The reason is easily given. The Bible under interdict, and in spite of interdict, has been shining upon the most wretchedly down-trodden people of Europe, and they are making an effort to shake off the double yoke of bondage. Especially the Italians, a peeled and suffering people, came as children to one who should have been their father, and asked “bread.” When, forthwith, “the apostle of democracy” proceeded, not exactly to give them a “stone,” but what was worse, to trifle with their suffering by pouring into their ears a mournful story of his own afflictions. And the scalding tears ran down the cheeks of poor Pius, as he gravely informed them that a great loss had been discovered, and that he was about to issue an order to all their priests to offer masses until the precious treasure should be restored.

The lost or stolen jewel was nothing more, sir, and it could be nothing less, than the real venerable skull of St. Andrew! Well, sir, by hook or by crook, the ghastly bone was recovered, and the important fact was announced to the insulted Romans with such a flourish of trumpets and drums as made the eternal city ring again—and all but inspired the wretched, musty old skull with new life! Query. I wonder, sir, that the dear sleeping saint did not appal and paralyze, in true popish fashion, the arrant thief who dared to pilfer the sacred relic! But, sir, neither this ecclesiastical bone-salve, nor the saintly forbearance of the owner of the skull, which formed it, would do for the poor Italians. The hurt of the people was not healed. The people began to clamor and the prince began to curse, in good keeping with an old heathen, who threatened the heavens fearfully, if they dared to rain while he was at play; but the moment he heard the muttering thunder, like his heathen type, he trembled and was off.

I am glad he has gone, sir, for the world gets along as well without a Pope at Rome as with one, after all. Bishop Hughes and the Tabernacle politicians may fall to sighing and sobbing at the loss of the Pope's temporal power, if they will, but in any event, either in the perpetual loss of that power, or in its temporary restoration, the glad heart of every man who loves the Bible, will say, Amen.

I am not unadvised, sir, that vigorous efforts are being made to restore his temporal power. And I have but little concern whether it shall be restored or not. For since the little horn on the head of the beast is once broken, it can never be made whole again. Horns are bad things to mend, sir. It will always be weak, and the sore occasioned by the blow which broke it, will always be tender, bind it up in all the Austrian, Russian, or Turkish bandages you will. Besides, sir, I say, let every scandal publish its own shame. So long as a vesture of temporal power is connected with the papacy, it will be a testimony to all mankind, of a palpable apostacy, radically and eternally opposed to the declaration of Christ, "my kingdom is not of this world." For all I can tell to the contrary, God may so order things as to restore the Pope to temporal power; that in the next attack upon his spiritual kingdom, the infernal battering-ram may break his spiritual neck, as he has now broken his temporal horn.

When I was a child, sir, I used to covet the happiness of those who lived in the apostolic age—the age of miracles. But, sir, I thank God before you this morning, that I was born in the first half of the nineteenth century. Providence has crowded so many stupendous events into the last forty-nine years, as to render that time, by far the most momentous epoch in the history of man. The events daily occurring around us, remind one more of the revery of distorted imaginations than of sober reality. But, sir, allow me to say, that the brightest gem in the whole galaxy of glories which adorn this age—and that which throws an effulgence on all the rest, is found in the announcement of the Report—that on this eleventh day of May, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, there is not a door in the world, however strongly bolted and barred heretofore, however remote or inconsiderable now, but has been thrown wide open, that the Bible may enter without "let or hindrance."

And, sir, what makes this glorious fact more glorious, is the peculiar way in which it has been brought about. In less than fifteen months, six diadems, consecrated at the shrine of the Bible-hating man of sin, have been voluntarily dashed to the ground, from the head of six monarchs, as if they were so many crowns of thorns in a blaze. And, sir, for the first time in their history, as distinct nations, Austria, Bavaria, Sardinia, Tuscany, France and the Roman States, are prostrated at the feet of the protestant world, pleading for the Bible—yea, demanding it in the name of God and humanity! We cannot contemplate the workings of the arm of God in the first five kingdoms, without wonder. But, sir, the most wonderful of all, is to see Rome—at once the grave of the martyrs, the mother of harlots, and the sink of iniquity—Rome, who has busied herself, time out of mind, in hurling thunderbolts at the heads of all who dared to love the Bible—Rome, as if by the touch of magic, actually on her knees, praying you to send the precious boon to her perishing thousands! More, sir; a Bible Society has already been formed in the heart of Italy—the Bible is being openly bought and sold in the streets of her cities—and soon a version recently translated out of the original tongues, will be put to the press in the City of the seven hills itself.

Talk you of miracles, sir? What is this but a miracle? The world never saw the like of it before. It is the most wonderful feature of the times. You may say that the age of miracles is past, and I grant you that in the rigid theological sense of that term it may be. But I do contend, sir, that what miracles were to the apostolic age, the Bible and Bible societies are to the nineteenth century. The one has taken the place of the other. However they may vary in the modes of their action, yet the object and effect of their action are identical. As the miracles of the apostolic age gave a proof of the divine mission of the apostles, and an attestation of the truth of their doctrines, so the Bible is its own witness, and its operations give a constant demonstration of its divine origin, and constitute it the greatest standing miracle the world ever saw. I confess it has been ably defended and warmly cherished by its friends, as it well deserves. But its own practical influence has contributed infinitely more to its preservation and triumph, than all the laws, and learning, and influence of its combined lovers.

Wherever the Bible has been permitted to go forth in its uncorrupted truth, it has never been a failure. A failure! Why, sir, failure is not a bible word; it knows nothing about a failure. Its object is conquest; it has always conquered, and its conquests have always partaken of the miraculous. What, but the Bible, could have wrought out for man what has been wrought out? Picture to yourself, sir, a world stricken by blight. The fountains of Paradise poisoned. Eden thrown back into chaos. Man prostrated. His blood chilled. His muscles contracted. His nerves severed. His whole nature stiffened in the sternness of death! Picture to yourself, sir, the fiend reveling on his ruin, or like a spectre riding on the wings of a whirlwind threatening to annihilate his victim at another blow!

This was the state of things when God plucked the leaves of that faultless volume from the tree of life, and scattered them for the healing of the nations. And immediately they became to ruined man a kind of moral alchemy, by which hemlock was converted into medicine, and honey was extracted from wormwood, the briar and the night-shade. They became to the feet of man, a guide from all error into all truth—to his conscience, a system of religion approved by reason, and sanctioned by God—to his intellect they presented a feast of inimitable sublimity, towering grandeur and profound simplicity—and to his heart, a solace in affliction, consolation in death, and the title to a home in glory! Is there nothing of miracle here, sir?

This celestial catholicon has been despised by the great and the mighty. The Bible has always been an eye-sore both in hell and on earth. In giving forth its truths it has had to contend with a combination of corrupt priests, prelates, popes, infidels, and devils. The league has existed through the leaden centuries of age after age. The watchword has been alternately "curse," "corrupt," and "crush." Thousands of books once of great fame, have been penned, to accomplish this purpose. Many men cherished them, and more sought to destroy them, and yet both books, authors and readers have perished and are forgotten.

But where is the truth of God to-day? Just, sir, where you might have expected. With a sweeter voice and a more godlike form than it has ever been wont to assume, it peers in majesty and purity upon the sepulchre of its subdued foes, still hurling defiance at any that may remain on the field, and proclaiming its own immortality! Is there nothing miraculous in all that, sir?

Then, sir, let the history of the Bible, and the dealings of God with you in the past, prompt you to keep the presses of your society at work. Every sheet you print throws a glow of light across the darkness of this world, and guides the way to the next. True, the work is great, but the wants of the world will be met, by patient perseverance. You remember the distinguished scholar, who early in life, took as his motto, "the picture of a mountain with a man at its base, his hat and coat lying beside him, and a pick axe in his hand, and as he digs, stroke by stroke, his patient look corresponds with his words 'little by little, little by little.'" You need not doubt of ultimate success. The nations shall feel the sword of the spirit.. But that its keen edge and searching point may have fair play, unsheath it, sir, from its scabbard of Greek, and Hebrew, and Latin, and while you circulate the truth, and nothing but the truth, circulate the whole truth, trusting in God, and be not deterred by consequences.

With these remarks, I beg to move the acceptance of the Report.

ADDRESS OF BRO. JONATHAN WADE,

OF TAVOY, BURMAH.

The following is the substance of brother Wade's remarks upon the resolution offered by him :

MR. PRESIDENT :

In the absence of the dear brother who was appointed to sustain it, I have been requested to present the following resolution :

Resolved, That this Society, whose crowning glory consists in bowing to Divine authority, taking no lessons from human creeds, and knowing no standard but that which the Holy Spirit has given, ("He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches,") by its persevering and successful endeavors to give to the heathen the Sacred Scriptures faithfully translated, commends itself to the sympathies and liberality of all who love the truth, and desire its circulation.

Having been for many long years a missionary among the heathen, I can speak from experience of the sympathies there elicited in behalf of this Society. The first thing which we determined upon, when we found ourselves among a people without a Bible, was to adopt immediate measures to furnish them with the word of God. Bro. Judson undertook the translation of the scriptures into Burmese, and others devoted themselves to the preparation of versions in other languages.

When the Burmese scriptures were ready for publication, our hearts were all discouraged by the intelligence that the American Bible Society, on which we were depending for funds for that purpose, was unwilling to grant any, unless certain words were left untranslated. These words communicated the commands of Christ to those who loved him. Our consciences would not permit us to conceal the truth, and if we published it, we could not be sustained by that Society? What should we do?

In the hour of our emergency this Society was organized, and immediately came to our relief. Is it wonderful that we should love it, and sympathise in its operations?

I was the first missionary who went among the Karens. As soon as we appeared among them, a deputation of their chiefs surrounded us, and made a formal demand for the "Word of God." We asked them what they meant. They said, "We believe in one God, the Almighty. Our people once had his word, but they neglected it, and it was taken from them. It is a tradition, however, handed down from our fathers, that the white foreigners will bring us again the word of God; and now that you have come, we call upon you for it."

Thus appealed to, we felt that we were, in a peculiar manner, bound to furnish this people with the scriptures of Divine Truth. We had first to provide them with a written language, and then to translate into it the inspired word. When this was accomplished, we had to look to the American and Foreign Bible Society for the means to print and distribute it.

And now, were the ten thousand Karen converts, who through your instrumentality are permitted to possess and read the word of God, all here assembled, every one would vote for this resolution. And I am sure there is not a heart present that is not ready to give it a cheerful response.

AN ACT

FOR THE INCORPORATION OF BENEVOLENT, CHARITABLE, SCIENTIFIC, AND MISSIONARY SOCIETIES, PASSED APRIL 12, 1848.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Any five or more persons of full age, citizens of the United States, a majority of whom shall be citizens of this State, who shall desire to associate themselves for benevolent, charitable, scientific or missionary purposes, may make, sign and acknowledge before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds in this state, and file in the office of the secretary of state, and also in the office of the clerk of the county in which the business of such society is to be conducted, a certificate in writing, in which shall be stated the name or title by which such society shall be known in law, the particular business and objects of such society, the number of trustees, directors or managers to manage the same, and the names of the trustees, directors or managers of such society for the first year of its existence, but such certificate shall not be filed unless by the written consent and approbation of one of the justices of the supreme court of the district in which the place of business or principal office of such company or association shall be located, to be endorsed on such certificate.

§ 2. Upon filing a certificate as aforesaid, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged such certificate, and their associates and successors, shall thereupon by virtue of this act, be a body politic and corporate by the name stated in such certificate, and by that name they and their successors shall and may have succession, and shall be persons in law capable of suing and being sued; and they and their successors may have and use a common seal, and the same may alter and change at pleasure, and they and their successors, by their corporate name, shall, in law, be capable of taking, receiving, purchasing and holding real estate, for the purposes of their incorporation, and for no other purpose, to an amount not exceeding the sum of fifty thousand dollars in value, and personal estate, for like purposes, to an amount not exceeding the sum of seventy five thousand dollars in value, but the clear annual income of such real and personal estate shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars; to make by-laws for the management of its affairs, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state, or of the United States; to elect and appoint the officers and agents of such society, for the management of its business, and to allow them a suitable compensation.

§ 3 The society so incorporated may annually elect from its members its trustees, directors or managers at such time and place, and in such manner as may be specified in its by-laws, who shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of said society, a majority of whom shall be a quorum for the transaction of business; and whenever any vacancy shall happen among such trustees, directors or managers, by death, resignation, or neglect to serve, such vacancy shall be filled in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws of such society.

§ 4. In case it shall at any time happen that an election of trustees, directors or managers shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws, said society for that cause shall not be dissolved, but it shall and may be lawful on any other day to hold an election for trustees, directors or managers, in such manner as may be directed by the by-laws of such society.

§ 5 The provisions of this act shall not extend or apply to any association or individuals who shall in the certificate filed with the secretary of state, or with the county clerk, use or specify a name or style the same as that of any previously existing incorporated society in this state; nor shall they authorize the formation of any corporation which can be incorporated under the act entitled, An act to provide for the incorporation of religious societies, passed April 5, 1813, and the several acts amending the same; or the formation of any secret societies.

§ 6. Any corporation formed under this act, shall be capable of taking, holding or receiving any property, real or personal, by virtue of any devise or bequest contained in any last will or testament of any person whatsoever, the clear annual income of which devise or bequest shall not exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars; provided, no person leaving a wife or child or parent shall devise or bequeath to such institution or corporation more than one fourth of his or her estate, after the payment of his or her debts, and such devise or bequest shall be valid to the extent of such one fourth, and no such devise or bequest shall be valid, in any will which shall not have been made and executed at least two months before the death of the testator.

§ 7. The trustees of any company or corporation organized under the provisions of this act, shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts due from said company or corporation contracted while they are trustees, provided said debts are payable within one year from the time they shall have been contracted, and provided a suit for the collection of the same shall be brought within one year after the debts shall become due and payable.

§ 8. All institutions formed under this act, together with their books and vouchers, shall be subject to the visitation and inspection of the justices of the supreme court, or by any person or persons who shall be appointed by the supreme court for that purpose, and it shall be the duty of the trustees, or a majority of them, in the month of December in each year, to make and file in the county clerk's office where the original certificate is filed, a certificate under their hands, stating the names of the trustees and officers of such association or corporation, with an inventory of the property, effects and liabilities thereof, with an affidavit of the truth of such certificate and inventory, and also an affidavit that such association or corporation has not been engaged directly or indirectly, in any other business than such as is set forth in the original certificate on file.

§ 9. Each corporation formed under this act shall possess the general powers conferred by, and be subject to the provisions and restrictions of the third title of the eighteenth chapter of the third part of the Revised Statutes.

§ 10. The Legislature may at any time, amend, annul or repeal any incorporation formed or created under this act.

State of New York, Secretary's Office.

I have compared the preceding with an original law on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole of said original.

ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL,

Albany, April 13, 1848.

Dep. Sec. of State.

Preamble and Constitution

OF THE ### AMERICAN & FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

---

WHEREAS, the inspired Scriptures, the Hebrew of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New Testament, are the only authoritative Divine standard containing the revelation of God for the whole human family: And whereas, the Council of Trent, in 1546, declares that a Latin translation, called the Vulgate, "shall be held as authentic, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever," and the Rheimish Testament was translated from the Vulgate into English, in 1582,—the translators declaring that the Vulgate "is not only better than all other Latin translations, but than the Greek text itself in those places where they disagree;" which assumptions have been generally repudiated by all enlightened Christians, not in the Romish Church:

And whereas, the American Bible Society, in 1836, approved of the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That in appropriating money for the translating, printing or distributing of the Sacred Scriptures in foreign languages, the Managers feel at liberty to encourage only such versions as conform in the principle of their translation to the common English version; at least so far as that all the religious denominations represented in this Society can consistently use and circulate said versions, in their several schools and communities: "

The remonstrants against this resolution, believing it to be a virtual abandonment of the great principle of Protestantism, and the adoption of that of the Council of Trent, as well as a departure from the basis of the original compact of the Society, which states their object to be the dissemination of the Scriptures in the received versions where they exist, and in the most faithful where they may be required," and having vain taken every Christian measure to prevent its passage and enforcement, were constrained to form, provisionally, in 1836, and fully organize in 1837, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY: FOUNDED UPON THE PRINCIPLE, that the originals in the Hebrew and Greek are the only authentic standards of the Sacred Scriptures; and that aid for the translating, printing, or distributing of them in foreign languages, should be afforded to such versions only as are conformed as nearly as possible to the original text; it being understood that no words are to be transferred which are susceptible of being literally translated.

Constitution.

ARTICLE I. The name of this Society shall be, THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

ART. II. It shall be the object of the Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures IN ALL LANDS.

ART. III. Each contributor of three dollars annually shall be a member; each contributor of thirty dollars, a member for life; and each contributor of one hundred and fifty dollars, a director for life. Life-directors shall have the privilege of participating in the deliberations of the Board.

ART. IV. All Bible Societies agreeing to place their surplus funds in the treasury of the Society, shall be auxiliaries, and the officers of such societies shall, while in office, have the privilege of life-directors.

ART. V. A Board of twenty-five Managers, residing in the city of New York, or its vicinity, shall be annually elected to conduct the business of the Society, with power to fill their own vacancies.

ART. VI. The President, one Vice-President, the Secretaries and Treasurer, shall be members of the Board

ART. VII. The Managers shall meet monthly, or oftener if necessary, at such time and place as they shall adjourn to, a majority of whom shall be a quorum.

ART. VIII. The Managers shall have the power of appointing such persons as may have rendered essential services to the Society, either members for life or directors for life.

ART. IX. The Annual Meeting of the Society shall be held at New York, on the day after the Second Thursday in May in each year, or at any other time or place, at the option of the Society; when the accounts of the Treasurer shall be presented, and a President, Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, and such other officers as they may deem necessary, together with a Board of Managers, shall be chosen for the ensuing year, by the members entitled to vote on the treasurer's books the beginning of the said month.

ART. X. The President shall, at the written request of six members of the Board, call a special meeting of the Board of Managers, causing at least three days' notice of such meetings to be given

ART. XI. The whole of the minutes of every meeting shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary.

ART. XII. No alteration shall be made in this Constitution, except by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present at an annual meeting.

Thirteenth Annual Meeting.

The Society held its Thirteenth Anniversary in the meeting house of the Norfolk street Baptist church, New York, Wednesday, the 22d day of May, 1850.

The Society was called to order by the President, at 9 o'clock, A. M. After singing, prayer was offered by Professor G. W. Eaton, of Madison University.

The President welcomed the brethren and friends to the Thirteenth Annual Meeting of the Society. He stated that the Managers had attended the Meetings of the Board with great regularity; that the officers of the Society had discharged their various duties with vigilance and fidelity; that several special meetings had been held during the year, resulting in the passage of three resolutions, which had been published, and would be presented in the report to be read by the Corresponding Secretary.

The President remarked that as Rev. Amos Sutton of the Orissa Mission was unexpectedly present, and had much useful and interesting information to communicate on the subject of Bible distribution, he would postpone his own address to the Society till the afternoon session, that they might have an opportunity of listening to the statements of an old and successful Missionary among the heathen.

The following Resolution was then offered by Rev. Isaac Westcott, of Stillwater, N. Y. and seconded by J. M. Linnard, Esq., of Philadelphia; and on motion, made the order of the day for 3 o'clock, P. M., viz:

Resolved, That this Society, in its issues and circulation of the English Scriptures, be restricted to the commonly received version without note or comment.

The hour appointed for the public Anniversary Exercises having arrived, business was suspended.

PUBLIC SERVICES.

After singing, Rev. J. W. Taggart, of New-York, read a part of the 119th Psalm, and Rev. Zelotes Grenell, of Paterson N. J., offered prayer.

The Treasurer, Wm. Colgate, Esq., then presented his annual statement; which, on motion of Wm. Crane, Esq., of Baltimore, seconded by Hon. Friend Humphrey, of Albany, was accepted and ordered to be printed.

Wm. H. Wyckoff, Esq., Corresponding Secretary, then read an abstract of the Report of the Board.

On motion of Prof. M. B. Anderson, of Waterville, Me., accompanied with an address, seconded by Rev. J. L. Burrows, of Philadelphia, this was accepted and ordered to be published.

The following resolution, offered by Rev. George Kempton, of Philadelphia, and seconded by Rev. Amos Sutton, an English Baptist Missionary from Orissa, India, was, after interesting addresses from both these brethren, unanimously adopted, viz :

Resolved, That the increased and increasing facilities for distributing the Sacred Scriptures in all countries to which the Society has hitherto directed its attention, demands the renewed exertions, and enlarged liberalities of all who love the Word of God and desire to promote its circulation.

After the Benediction, by the President, the Society adjourned, to meet at three P. M., in the Mulberry Street Tabernacle.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Pursuant to adjournment, the President called the meeting to order, at three o'clock, and prayer was offered by Rev. Alonzo Wheelock, of Elbridge, N. Y. The Recording Secretary being absent, Rev. J. R. Stone was chosen pro tem.

The President then delivered his Annual Address.

Proceeding to the order of the day, on motion of Rev. R. H. Neale, of Boston, it was Resolved,

That the speakers upon this subject be confined to 15 minutes each, unless specially permitted to occupy a longer period ; and the vote on the main question be taken at 12 o'clock Thursday noon.

The resolution was then discussed by brethren J. Dowling, Wm. H. Wyckoff and Wm. Hague.

On motion, voted to adjourn to the evening at 8 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. C. G. Sommers, of New-York.

EVENING SESSION.

Prayer was offered by Rev. J. H. Kennard, of Philadelphia. The discussion was then continued by Brethren R. Turnbull, G. B. Ide, R. Jennings, W. Colgate, I. Westcott, and S. Wallace Cone, Esq. After prayer by Rev. N. Colver, of Boston, adjourned to Thursday morning, 9 o'clock.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 23d.

At 9 o'clock, the President called the meeting to order, and Rev. Joseph Matthias, of Pennsylvania, engaged in prayer.

Certain documents from Boston, Buffalo and Baltimore, were presented, and referred to the committee on printing the Report, &c., with discretionary power.

Passing to the order of the day, the discussion of Bro. Westcott's resolution was resumed, by Brethren B. C. Grafton, J. J. Woolsey, S. S. Cutting, E. J. Creswell, O. B. Judd, T. Armitage, J. N. Granger, E. Lathrop, and Prof. Eaton.

On motion of Rev. R. Turnbull, of Hartford, Ct., the following resolution was adopted :

Whereas, By the Constitution of this Society, its object is "to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures in all lands," therefore

Resolved, That it is not the province and duty of the American and Foreign Bible Society to attempt on their own part, or to procure from others, a revision of the commonly received English version of the Sacred Scriptures.

The resolution of Brother Westcott, so long discussed, was also adopted.

Rev. J. N. Granger offered the following:

Resolved, That the second article of the Constitution be so amended as to read as follows: "It shall be the object of this Society to aid in the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures in Foreign Lands."

Upon motion, this was referred to a committee, consisting of Brethren J. N. Granger, Aaron Perkins, G. B. Ide, Edward Lathrop, R. Turnbull, Elisha Tucker, and Friend Humphrey, to report at the next annual meeting.

On motion, it was voted to proceed to the election of officers and managers, by ballot.

Adjourned to three o'clock P. M.

Benediction by Rev. E. Lathrop.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

Met at three o'clock and engaged in prayer with Rev. A. Perkins, of Danbury, Ct.

On motion, Brethren W. Carter, H. Seaver, S. White, H. C. Fish, J. Hatt, and R. Larkum, were appointed tellers, and the Society proceeded to ballot for the officers and managers.

While canvassing the votes, Rev. D. Benedict, of R. I., offered prayer.

The tellers report was then presented and accepted, announcing the election of Rev. S. H. Cone, D. D., President, and a full compliment of officers and managers.

Rev. Dr. Cone here tendered his resignation of the Presidency. This was at once unanimously declined; but as, with many thanks for their suffrages and expressions of kindness, he firmly adhered to his decision, it was accepted; and Rev. B. T. Welch, D. D., was chosen President.

On motion, Rev. C. G. Sommers was made First Vice President, and Hon. Ira Harris, of Albany, was elected Second Vice President.

S. R. Kelley, Esq., having offered his resignation, as a Manager of the Board, Rev. Dr. Welch was elected to fill the vacancy.

On motion of Rev. S. S. Cutting, it was unanimously

Resolved, That this Society entertains a high sense of the valuable services of the Rev. Spencer H. Cone, D. D., President of this Society from the beginning of its history, and profoundly regret his retirement;—and that he will bear with him our best wishes for his long life, and his continued usefulness and happiness.

Voted that the new Board be directed to hold a special meeting to perfect their organization, Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in the Bible Rooms.

The arrangements for the next Anniversary, including the time and place, were referred to the Board.

The minutes were read and approved, and ordered to be published under the direction of the Board.

After prayer by Rev. Edward Kingsford, of Richmond, Va., the Society adjourned sine die.

B. T. WELCH, President.

J. B. STONE, Rec. Sec. pro tem.

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

---

THE Board of Managers conclude their official labors by submitting to the Society the Thirteenth Annual Report. During the year now closing, the same signal prosperity which commenced with the origin of the institution, and distinguished each period of its history, has continued. The God of the Bible has blessed their efforts to circulate His word, and encouraged their hearts by manifest tokens of His approval of their proceedings.

They mourn the loss by death of one of the most laborious and efficient of their number. Elder Luke Barker, as a Manager of the Society, and Chairman of the Committee on Publication and Finance, for many long years performed gratuitously an amount of service for the institution, which is not ordinarily to be expected without pecuniary compensation. His economical oversight of the publication department was attended with the most beneficial results; and his whole course as a Manager was characterized by the most ardent zeal for the distribution of the sacred scriptures, and the most careful foresight regarding the ultimate interests of the Society. In mourning over our bereavement, we find solace in the reflection, that while he rests from his labors, his works do follow him, and that his removal from among us did not take place till a season in our history, when from the increase of our prosperity and the establishment of our financial policy, his services could be spared with less injury than at any preceding period.

It is also our sad duty to record the decease of Brother Ira M. Allen, who was for a number of years the General Agent and Assistant Treasurer of the Society. Although not officially connected with us at the time of his decease, Brother Allen had been so long and so intimately associated with the concerns of the institution, that we feel, in his departure from the activities of earth, the removal of one of its most tried and staunchest friends and supporters. Still we rejoice in the confidence that he has exchanged the earthly house of this tabernacle for a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

It will be recollected that last year an extraordinary advance in our annual receipts was experienced. Previously there had been for several years a gradual increase; but the excitement produced by the occurrence of political events in Europe of the most astonishing character and of surpassing magnitude, attended as they were by new and remarkable openings for the distribution of the Sacred Scriptures, gave additional interest to the Bible cause and produced a corresponding enlargement of our income. The excitement has died away, with the causes which produced it, but the facilities for Bible distribution in Europe still very far exceed our means to take advantage of them. Looking at the increased demand for scriptures both there and in Asia, our Board saw the need of a much greater addition to the usual funds of the year, and therefore fixed their aim at a very high mark. But, as the excitement alluded to subsided, it was found extremely difficult to reach the extraordinary amount reported in 1849. The Board are happy, however, in announcing that, if from last year's account be deducted the amount received from insurance companies as compensation for the damage by fire, a comparison between the two years will show an increase in favor of this of $3,676 72.

The issues of the year from the Depository, and the books reported as published at our expense in the foreign field, added to the volumes before published by the Society, make the whole number 794,398.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS.

Germany.

Our operations in Germany still continue to be of paramount interest. Every year develops new reasons for prosecuting them with increasing energy. Brother Oncken's letters are characterized by their usual animation, and his zeal and enterprise are stimulated to greater efforts by every victory achieved by the truth, and every renewed manifestation of interest in his proceedings on the part of his friends in this country.

In the Periodical for October, 1849, we published large extracts from letters received from this single-hearted champion of truth since the last Annual Report. We present a few sentences from these extracts, as worthy of permanent record.

April 24, 1849, he says :

"The 10,000 Testaments, printed since January, will be soon all in circulation ; 3000 8vo Bibles, (part of the edition of 10,000) have just left the press, as we greatly need them, and at present 15,000 Testaments are in the press. The work is progressing in every direction. I mean the circulation of God's word, and our mission generally—and we are overwhelmed with labor. Three weeks ago, I immersed eight believers at Bremen ; and since then, seven have been baptized here ; and Sabbath before last, nine others were thus added to the Lord at Wismar.

"LET US HAVE MORE COLPORTEURS, IF YOU CAN. I want one for Hamburg, very greatly."

May 24 :

"We have seen the arm of the Lord made bare, for his time was come to favor his Zion,—to gather in many of his chosen ones, and to beautify his spiritual temple by adding to it many chosen, living stones. Wherever we have gone, the Lord has gone with us, and the word has been confirmed with signs and wonders following. Most of the churches have had large additions. At Hamburg 108 believers have been baptized since Jan., 1848; at Alberg, 70 have been added during the last six months."

May 31 :

My Dear Brother :

"I was duly favored with your valuable communication dated 17th April. My heart was elated with joy and gratitude to God, for its very valuable contents. A thousand blessings on your Society for its liberal and generous measures, in aid of the great work now progressing in Germany. Millions will be enriched by the noble aid the American and Foreign Bible society has given to our mission in this country—and the day will come when we shall bring our sheaves with rejoicing, for the mouth of the Lord has declared, "My word shall not return void, but accomplish that whereunto I sent it"—"In due time we shall reap, if we faint not." Grasping these promises of our exalted Lord, may we stretch every nerve to enrich our perishing fellow-sinners with the word of life.

I have already added another brother to the number of the Society's col-porteurs—Br. August Rittmann—to labor at Hamburg and its vicinity, so that the limited number of 10 will soon be complete. The names of the brethren, and the stations, are as follows:—

Brother FELTANGE, travels throughout the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg.

" CORDS, at Leer, Pastfriesland, and the adjacent parts of Holland.

" RITTMANN, Hamburg and vicinity.

" SCHLESIER, Schleswig.

" EHLERT, Elbing, and along the Vistula.

" KLINKER, Berlin.

" STRAUBE, Silesia.

" KRAMME, travels throughout Hanover.

" ENGEL, Pommerania.

But, my dear brother, I have so many places yet unoccupied, that I shall be much hindered in my work, if the brethren do not place five additional Col-porteurs at my disposal."

On the 6th of September, Brother Oncken wrote to the Treasurer from Bremen :

"I am on a missionary tour through the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, Jererland, and East Friesland, after having attended our first meeting of delegates of the Association of Northwest German Baptist churches. The meeting was a most harmonious one, and important measures were decided on for the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom. The Association, although still feeble as to its means, has appointed two brethren as missionaries, at its own expense, a fact which will be gratifying to our generous brethren in the United States, proving that, although our churches are poor, the cause of the Lord is dear to us, and that we wish to do what we can for its progress.

The Lord continues to own and bless our labors in every direction, while, at the same time, the demand for new laborers, is constantly increasing.

I saw brother Feltange, the colporteur of the American and Foreign Bible Society, who was appointed for Oldenburg, at Bremen. He labors with much zeal, travelling far and wide, having obtained permission from government to do so. He was now going among the Roman Catholics in Munsterland. About fifteen thousand copies of the Holy Scriptures have been circulated at the expense of your society during the present year, and, as the door still appears to be open in Austria notwithstanding the reaction which has taken place, 500 or 600 copies of the scriptures will be sent to Vienna during the present week.

As God is opening new doors for us in many parts for the circulation of His word, and, as the liberty which we still enjoy, may soon be, according to present appearances, much curtailed, I would press upon your respected Board the necessity of placing at least five additional colporteurs at my disposal. In anticipation of a favorable reply, and with affectionate regards to yourself and the Board, I remain, &c.

Brother Oncken wrote to the Corresponding Secretary, December 1, 1849, to the following effect :

My Dear Brother—

It being late on Saturday evening, I shall not be able either to reply to your valuable communications, or to give a detailed account of our labors in the great work of circulating God's holy word in Germany and the adjacent countries. Necessity compels me at present to apply to you for a speedy remittance of funds, for on looking over my accounts yesterday I found that I have advanced upwards of 2000 marks for your Society. Have the kindness, therefore, to remit the $2000 appropriated for Germany without delay. The navigation has closed till spring, so that there is no prospect of drawing to advantage upon your treasurer.

We are still abundantly encouraged in our work, but it has now so multiplied and has become so varied, that sometimes I am almost ready to sink beneath its burden, and this is the only reason why you hear so seldom from me. The edition of the 10,000 8vo. bibles will have nearly left the press by the time this reaches you. 30,000 testaments have already left the press, and the remaining 20,000 will be commenced when the 10,000 8vo. bibles are printed.

The paper, and nearly the whole of the printing of the 10,000 8vo. bibles, and the 30,000 testaments have been already paid for. Upwards of 20,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures have been circulated this year, at the expense of the A. & F. B. S. The circulation in Germany has exceeded my most sanguine expectations, and the bookbinder has not been able to supply us sufficiently with books.

I can only thank God that your committee went so readily into my propositions last year, both as to the employment of colporteurs, and the issuing of the 50,000 testaments for Austria. In this there was evidently the hand of God. For though only a small portion of the above edition of the testament has been sent to Austria, what should I have done without them to meet the wants in Germany. And as to the brethren employed as colporteurs, their labors have been most efficient and important, the more so, as there is now such a powerful re-action, and priest and princes stretched every nerve to regain their lost ground, so that in a short time many doors may be shut again. In Hanover, the authorities have already returned to their old work of persecution. Three of our brethren have been recently imprisoned, and brother Sträube, in Silesia, was nearly killed by an infuriated mob, set on by a priest, when our brother was visiting a village, with a view to preach there. He was confined to his bed for several weeks in consequence of the cruel treatment he met with on that occasion. The mob, all Romanists, threatened to take his life, if he would not throw his bible into the water. This he refused, and was willing rather to lose his life than to show this indignity to the Word of Life. The wicked wretches then fell upon him, tore his coat from his back, beat him, and dragged him along by the hair, and left him half dead on the road. He then tried to crawl home, but overcome by fatigue and exhaustion he fainted away in a wood, where he must have lain many hours before consciousness returned. His life being endangered in the mountains of Silesia, he will probably settle at Breslau, the second largest city in Prussia.

Brother Oncken proceeds to state various reasons why it would be best for us to employ another colporteur at Hamburg, in addition to the one lately authorized, and thus closes his letter.

Under such circumstances, it would be well if another brother could be employed by your board for Hamburg and its vicinity. For want of time I have not been able yet to do anything to get the new stereotype edition of the 12mo. bible and 16mo. testament out. As soon as possible, I shall proceed to Berlin to arrange with the stereotype-founder for these works.

While I again thank you personally for your deep interest in Germany's spiritual reformation, and your Board for their great generosity, I must again impress it upon them, especially under the present crisis, under no consideration to withdraw their hand from us, but rather to open it yet more liberally, that from this quarter we may derive all the succor which I believe the Lord calls for. My first convert, my oldest friend—a deacon of our church, and a brother, who has circulated about 10,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures among the seamen visiting this port, I have just followed to his grave. The Lord constrain us by his love to work whilst it is yet day.

Yours affectionately in the Lord,

J. G. ONCKEN.

In compliance with the repeated and earnest solicitations of Brother Oncken, the Board authorized him to employ five more colporteurs at the expense of the Society at a salary each of $100 per annum, except the one stationed at Hamburg, who is to receive $140 per annum.

Again on the 14th of December, 1849, Brother O. addressed the Corresponding Secretary on the subject of funds. The whole letter is worthy of serious perusal.

HAMBURG, DEC. 14, 1849.

My Dear Brother:

Though at a late hour in the evening, and I have to leave early to-morrow morning, for Lubeck, I cannot close the day, without replying briefly to yours, dated Nov. 8th, which I have received, on coming home from a meeting with our deacons. I wrote a few days ago, stating that I was some thousand marks in advance for the Society. I find now, on examining the accounts more closely, that I have paid nearly 6000 marks, in which the expenses for paper and printing of 10,000 8vo bibles, and 40,000 testaments are included, with the exception of a few bales of paper for the 8vo bibles, not yet paid for. The money received for the sale of scriptures, which has been considerable, is also expended, so that I need a remittance by the first mail.

You will also perceive that the $1521 41 which the Treasurer has still on hand for me, will not cover even the above 6000 marks, so that I must entreat your board to help me out of my present difficulty, and remit at least $3000, as otherwise the work will be retarded, and I myself placed in difficulties. I know this is my own fault, after all the proofs received from your respected Board to aid us in our blessed work. But it has not been possible for me to look into the accounts before. It shall be, however, a lesson to me for the future.

Now, what shall I say to you, my dear Brother, for your animating letters, the contents of which tend so much to strengthen my heart and my hands. To you and the brethren in the Board, a thousand real, hearty thanks. I am overcome by God's goodness, through the readiness with which our dear transatlantic brethren meet our wants, in God's cause.

Before your last letter came to hand, bringing the glad tidings that five additional brethren would be supported as colporteurs of the American and Foreign Bible Society, I had already engaged three in anticipation. Not indeed forcing them into the field, but the Lord in his providence demanded this. The two others will soon be added. I say yea and amen to your wish: that 50 brethren may soon be employed in this blessed work. There is great need of it, for the degraded condition of the people in a religious and moral point of view, begins now to be acknowledged by their spiritual guides, who have all along been crying: Peace! Peace! when millions, with a christian name, were hastening on to perdition.

We shall require for the ensuing year, another edition of 50,000 testaments, for newly printed books can never be bound so well, as those which have been printed some time. But I must close, in order to get a little rest. So good night.

Yours, in the Lord Jesus,

J. G. ONCKEN.

The latest letter from brother O. to the Secretary is the following. It accompanied his annual account. No one can read it without rejoicing that the Society has been able to do so much for Germany.

To William H. Wyckoff, Cor. Sec. A. and F. B. S., New York.

HAMBURG, FEB. 22, 1850.

My Dear Brother:

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your favours, dated Oct. 15th, Nov. 1st, 8th, and 11th. The contents have not a little cheered and encouraged me, in the great and blessed work, in which we are engaged, and which by the overruling providence and grace of God, is progressing in every direction. I adore and bless the Lord, that my application for five additional colporteurs, has been so early responded to by the Board of the American and Foreign Bible Society. May the Lord abundantly bless and reward our American brethren, for this new proof of their interest in the spiritual and eternal welfare of my countrymen. I cannot sufficiently admire the gracious providence of God, in calling your noble institution into existence, at a time when its aid has become invaluable and absolutely necessary to the missions of the American Baptist Missionary Union, in this country. Thus, the Lord causes all things, even the sins of great Societies, to work together for the furtherance and accomplishment of his own purposes. But for the strange and unaccountable resolutions passed by the B. and F. Bible Society, and afterwards adopted by the American Bible Society, against our denomination, the A. and F. B. S. might never have existed, and we should have been without the powerful aid which we now enjoy.

The fifteen Colporteurs are already all engaged in the work assigned to them, and as in April a direct line of Steam packets begins to run between this and New York, I shall then send you all their journals, some perhaps translated, from which you will learn the extent of their labor, and find, whilst all are directed to have the main object of the Society, the circulation of the Holy Scriptures, constantly in view, we have not confined them to this, as is the case with other Bible Societies, but that they embrace every opportunity presented to acquaint their perishing fellow men with the truth as it is in Jesus. At least 100,000 tracts have been distributed by your Colporteurs during the past year, and nearly all have preached the Gospel in larger or smaller assemblies, as they have had opportunities. In some places they have the pulpit oversight of the little bands of christians, which have been gathered by their labour, under the Spirit's blessing, and to the cause of Sabbath Schools, they have also rendered essential service. I am opposed to the mere mechanical process adopted by most Bible Societies, of selling a great number of Scriptures. The individuals who purchase our scriptures, should be made to feel that our Colporteurs are more than hawkers—that they are the servants of the living God, and witnesses of the Lord Jesus Christ, and that their great aim is, to win the souls of men for Christ. I trust, therefore that the Board will allow full scope to their Colporteurs, to labour by every possible way to win souls, always keeping in mind the primary object of the Society—the circulation of God's holy word.

The amount of scriptures circulated during the past year has been most gratifying. It is as follows:

German 8vo and Pocket Bibles, - - -	2,985
“ New Testaments, - - -	19,657
Danish “ “ - - -	162
English “ “ - - -	21
Total,	22,825 copies.
For the Edinburgh Bible Society, - - -	2,436
	<hr/> 25,261 copies.

This amount of precious seed has been sown, in one year, accompanied by the fervent prayers of the brethren, sustained by your Board. How many never-dying souls have thus been brought to heaven's door; and how many of these may have been sweetly forced to enter whilst there is room, the great day will reveal, when Sion's King shall make up his jewels. Much of the blessing with which the Lord has crowned our work, we have seen already in the conversion of sinners and in their peace, joy, knowledge, holiness and zeal. God's own truth, made powerful by his Spirit, has achieved these triumphs. Yes, again and again our hearts have been filled with joy that cannot be expressed, when beholding the all-conquering power of God's truth, triumphing over the pride, ignorance, and opposition of sinful mortals. We have seen and heard of glorious things during the past year. Here at Hamburg, we have had a precious rich harvest of souls. 119 were buried with Christ in his own ordinance and added to the Church. Most of the churches have shared in this out pouring of the Spirit, and new churches have been formed and still greater fields of usefulness opened before us. And yet our work is only in its infancy. If the Lord keeps us for the future from self, Satan and error, and enables us by his Spirit, to adhere to and dive more and more into his truth, so that seeing and feeling its beauty and its power on our own hearts and thus constraining us to labor with more zeal and to yet greater extent, we shall yet see far greater things. I wish to see some hundred churches formed in this country after the model and spirit of the churches, which 1800 years ago were in Judea in Christ Jesus, before I quit the stage; and if we look back on what the Lord has already done, and remember that all things are possible with him, why should we not ask of him all our heart's desire, and expect its fulfilment.

From the enclosed account you will see that a balance of Marks 3551 6½ is due to me, or leaving out of the amount received for scriptures sold, Marks 7192 ½, a balance in my favor of Marks 10,743 7. The account has been made up both with and without the receipts for scriptures. When I wrote last for money, I had overlooked the remittance of $1000 through the A. B. M. Union, but notwithstanding this, I must beg of you to send another remittance without delay, as the amount just received does not cover the balance due to me, and fully 3000 per account, I have yet to pay for paper. I am now printing 10,000 Testaments, which will complete the 50,000, but at least 30,000 more ought to be printed during the Summer, as otherwise I shall be in endless trouble about the binding of them; that is, to have the printers' ink dry sufficient for binding. I am also in great want of an edition of a small 8vo bible, as a school bible. It will take yet a considerable time before the 12mo bible can be ready which you have ordered, I therefore beg that the Board will allow me to have 2500 or 5000 copies struck off from the above school bible, from the plates of the Edinburgh Bible Society, to which the Committee of that society have given their consent. Indeed, as I am in the greatest need of these bibles, and hoping that the Board will meet my request, the printing will have commenced before this reaches you.

The stereotyping of the 16mo. Testament will now soon be taken in hand. Now for this, and salaries of Colporteurs, I shall require as early as possible $2000 more at least.

I have now to make a request for myself. On the 9th of January, we celebrated here the 25th Jubilee of the German Sabbath School, in which the Lord permitted me, to take a leading part at its formation. 5000 children have been instructed in the first school which I was permitted to raise, and several other schools, in all about 14 or 16 in number have since been formed. I was anxious to enrich the children both in the original school and also in our own, on that day with a copy of the New Testament; and 380 children accordingly received each a copy of the New Testament, issued at the expense of the A. & F. B. S. Now as the full price of these testaments amounts to a sum too much for me to give, I would beg the Board to let me have these 380 copies at half price; the loss of the Society would not be quite £5.

"The Scriptures which I was obliged to purchase to the amount of Marks 1.539 1-2 as stated in the account, I greatly needed."

After speaking of the political convulsions in Germany, and the disposition of national churches to persecute, he adds,

"How soon much of the liberty we still have to teach and preach God's truth, may again be taken from us, I cannot say; but the bare possibility should stimulate us to the most powerful exertions. About Austria I cannot write to-day."

In a postscript, Brother Oncken, says:

"I beg to call your attention still to the desirableness of engaging a Colporteur to labor among the seamen in the harbor of Hamburg and Altona, and up and down the river at smaller places. We have a brother in the church, a waterman, who speaks English and German, who would be very suitable for this purpose. But he would need a higher salary than colporteurs here ordinarily. It would require $150 annually. I recommend this matter to the consideration of the Board."

France.

The corrected version of the French Testament, to which allusion was made in the last Report, has been issued, and a number of copies sent to France for distribution and examination. Sufficient time has not yet elapsed to ascertain the reception which it is likely to meet. The design, as before stated, is, not to stereotype the work until it has undergone the most careful revision after examination and criticism by the learned. One of our Missionaries writes regarding it:

"I have as yet given only a casual examination to the book, but even that has served to convince me, that it is better done than I anticipated it would be. It is written in far better French than I could compose;—as regards the fidelity of the translation it is also good."

A considerable number of letters has been received from Dr. Devan, whose location has been lately changed from Paris to

Lyons. In consequence of the circumstances mentioned in the last Periodical, he has done but little in scripture colportage during the year. In one of his latest letters, dated February 20, 1850, speaking of Bible operations, he says :

“ You cite the success of Bro. Oncken. There is no more analogy between the German and French character—and German and French social usages—than there is between age and childhood. Government is here hemming us in closer and closer every month. Already have we been threatened by our rulers with the intervention of armed force to prevent our meetings. Socialism and anarchy have been employed by the Devil to seize the identical means employed by Christians to advance the Redeemer’s kingdom, and hence we are confounded with these Socialists in the eyes of the authorities. And yet in view of all,—we are encouraged. The work decidedly advances, and we rejoice. More are they that are for us than they that are against us.”

We have received several journals of our French colporteurs. The following, the journal of Louis Guillot, for the first fortnight of the month of June, will afford a fair specimen of their general character.

Journal of Louis Guillot—for the first half of the month of June.

At St. O. I met several persons with whom I conversed about the gospel ; they appeared to listen to me quite attentively. I called upon an inn-keeper, at whose house I had given away some tracts, and sold a few copies of the New Testament. He told me that the priest having seen the tracts in the hands of his children, told him he ought not to allow them to read such wicked books. He replied that they should read them, and that he might be pleased or not, just as he chose. I gave him our chapel address, and he promised to attend.

At the Barrière St. Jacques, I called upon a wine merchant who had purchased a New Testament, before expressing himself very much pleased to have me. Upon calling again, I asked him whether he was pleased with his purchase ; he replied yes, very much, he had found some very valuable truths there ; he purchased another and gave it to his domestic, while I was there, advising her to read it.

I spoke also to four or five soldiers by the way, who assented to all I said, and promised to come to my chapel. I had a conversation of pretty much the same character with another individual, who also promised to attend our meeting.

At B. I did not see any Testament, but I had a conversation with an infidel whom I met. He ridiculed the New Testament, and said we might have need of, it as it had been put into our heads that we had a soul to save, and we might believe such foolishness if we chose ; and said he, in ridicule, “ Do you expect to go to heaven ? ” I replied that such was my effort and desire ; he asked scornfully, “ How have you found the way ? ” I told him, “ It was revealed in the New Testament. Jesus Christ has said, 'I am the way, the truth, and the life.' No one can come to the Father but by me." He then wished to take my Testament and trample it under his feet. I told him at parting that it was on his own responsibility that he refused, for it was the word of God which I offered him, and I left him.

I made also several other insignificant calls, about which it is hardly worth while to write.

The sum of $500 was appropriated for colportage in France, under Dr. Devan.

Italian Scriptures.

DR. ACHILLI.

In the last Periodical were published extracts from several letters of Dr. Achilli, showing the openings for usefulness at Rome, shortly after he entered that city, and the prospect of good resulting from scripture distribution. His subsequent imprisonment was also announced. Your Board was so deeply impressed with a sense of the injustice done to him in such imprisonment by the Papal government, that, after waiting a suitable period to ascertain whether his English friends on his behalf would probably be successful, they pursued a similar course to that formerly adopted in the case of Oncken, and applied by petition to the authority which they thought most likely to be induced to interfere effectually for his release. The following is a copy of the petition which they prepared for the occasion.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, LOUIS NAPOLEON, PRESIDENT OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

The Petition of the American and Foreign Bible Society.

MR. PRESIDENT:—Information from authentic sources has reached your petitioners, that the Rev. Dr. G. Achilli, late Professor in St. Julian's College, Malta, has been imprisoned in the city of Rome, since that city has been under the protection of your republican government, and that he is still held in imprisonment under charges and accusations of offences alleged to have been committed many years ago. Your petitioners wish to represent to your Excellency, that it is understood and believed by them, that the charges and accusations referred to, either are unsupported by fact, or were not regarded by Rome as sufficient ground for his imprisonment, until Dr. Achilli was known to have left the communion of the Church of Rome, and to be actively engaged in the circulation of the Sacred Scriptures; and that his renunciation of Papal supremacy, and his labors for the spread of what he esteems the truth, are believed to be the real causes of the proceedings against him. Your petitioners would further represent that Dr. Achilli is justly celebrated as a man of letters, distinguished for his philosophical attainments, and highly regarded both in Great Britain and in this country, as a christian and philanthropist. The incarceration of such a man, when engaged in the translation and circulation of that inspired truth, which lies at the foundation of our common faith, awakens the deepest sympathy on his behalf in the hearts of all to whom his reputation and worth are known.

Your petitioners are specially concerned on the occasion, inasmuch as the great celebrity of the individual in question as a classical scholar, and his well known character for probity and conscientious fidelity, had induced them to employ him in preparing for them a translation of the Sacred Scriptures into modern Italian, in which important undertaking he has been most unhappily interrupted by his imprisonment. They also feel the greater interest in the case, because they regard it as a direct infringement upon those rights of conscience which your Excellency is believed to be desirous to maintain and protect. The two sister republics of France and America stand in this respect on a common basis. Their national constitutions similarly respect the right of each man to his religious belief, and forbid persecution on account of articles of faith. As the views of your Excellency upon this subject are well known, your petitioners confidently believe that it is only necessary to secure your personal attention to the case of Doctor Achilli, in order to insure his immediate liberation. In this belief their petition is presented for your consideration, with their earnest prayer that you will directly interfere in the matter, and by the legitimate exercise of the power which justice and honor require you to employ in such a case, rescue an innocent man from suffering, and the cause of personal and religious liberty from violation, and your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

SPENCER H. CONE, President.

WM. H. WYCKOFF, Cor. Sec.

Before this document could reach its destination, we were cheered with the intelligence, that Dr. Achili had escaped from his persecutors, and had reached London in safety.

India.

The American and Foreign Bible Society must always be intimately connected in historical association, with bible operations in the land once distinguished by the earliest efforts of Baptist missionaries to carry the gospel into foreign countries. Carey and Yates will never be forgotten by those who rejoice in the gift of the Bible to the heathen. And the history of the controversy about pure and faithful versions of the Sacred Scriptures, will never be dissociated from that monument of learning and fidelity, the Bengali version.

The most general and striking effect of scripture operations in India, is manifest, not in cases of individual conversion, of which, however, there are many directly referable to God's blessing on the reading of the word, but in the universal spirit of inquiry upon religious matters, the eagerness to obtain copies of the Sacred Scriptures, the increasing attention to the preaching of the Gospel, and the rapid spread of correct views regarding the absurdities and abomination of heathenism.

The printing of our last Annual Report was delayed to so late a date, as enabled us to insert in the Correspondence, intelligence of the scripture operations in India, received by the way of London in the middle of May. The statistical accounts for the subsequent year, have not yet arrived. Additional particulars, however, have since been received, which we here publish with an abstract of the statement in the Correspondence, and a part of Bro. Wenger's letter that appeared in our last Periodical. In the Sanscrit language the first volume of the Old Testament, down to the end of the sixth of Joshua, was published at the end of November. A revised edition of the Sanscrit New Testament has advanced to the 6th chapter of Luke. In Bengali, the revision of the whole Bible has advanced to the 18th chapter of 1st Samuel; the reprint of the Bengali Testament has advanced to the 10th chapter of John, and will, Mr. Wenger says, "if life and health be spared, be finished in the present year. I have now before me," he adds, "the last sheet of a very large edition, 15,000, of the book of Acts, and the first sheet of a similar edition of John."

In the early part of the year, Mr. Leslie was enabled to bring to a close his revised, or rather new, translation of the New Testament into the Hindi language. Reprints of this, and also of the Hindustani, are now in the press. The following is a list of the Scriptures printed during the past year:—

Total, 59,000

This amount, added to the publications since 1838, makes the number of volumes 639,057; and in all from the first, 887,122.

The number of Scriptures which have been sent forth from the depository for distribution amounts to 48,157 volumes, the majority of them being single Gospels.

Extract from the letter of Brother Wenger to the Corresponding Secretary, dated March 9, 1849.

"Judging from what we can see of the interests of the Gospel, it is to be hoped that God will yet, for a long time to come, preserve the British power in India; but unless he does it, it can only exist because the natives are not united, and cannot trust each other. An army of scarcely 20,000 European troops keeping in order some 100,000,000 of subjects, is almost a miracle. Probably the total number of Europeans in India does not much exceed 30,000. How important then, that whilst God keeps the 100,000,000 in awe, every effort should be made to introduce the Gospel extensively among them. Work, whilst it is day. Your brethren in Burmah can tell the difference it makes to a missionary, whether he be laboring in a district governed by the British, or in one governed by native rulers.

Of the Sanscrit Old Testament, the first volume, down to the end of Joshua, appeared at the end of November last; and since then, the book of Judges has been printed off. I hope to be able, God permitting, to go on with this great work. A new and carefully revised edition of the Bengali Bible has advanced, in printing, to the end of the 1st book of Samuel. We shall want all the help you can give us. I hope some of the gold from California will find its way into the treasury of Him who has said, "the gold and the silver are mine."

Brother J. T. Thompson, who is located in Delhi, furnished for the Missionary Herald of December 1849, a detailed account of his scripture distribution while attending the Annual Fair, at Garhmukteshwar. The whole account is deeply interesting as affording indubitable evidences of the gradual, but sure progress of christianity in India through the circulation of the printed word. We have not room for more than the close of the communication.

"The demand for volumes of the Scriptures is very great, and we can with difficulty satisfy applicants with a single gospel each: the case is the same with Muhammadans and Hindus, both thankful for what they get, but both alike dissatisfied, and both professing a desire to know what constitutes the religion of Christ; and some men among them, a resolution to prosecute their enquiries to the utmost, even to being satisfied whether Jesus is the only Saviour or not. The instances of Hira and Indranarayn, bráhmans, prove that some of the readers of the Scriptures given away at fairs, have, unaided by subsequent instruction from a missionary, formed such a resolution; and if the Spirit of grace should further their already formed purpose, they shall reap fruit to eternal life. More extensive converse with the people who have received books and profess to read them, may bring to light many more such instances of our books being preserved, the Scriptures being con sidered as the word of God, and searched for two and six years, with a view to salvation. I have no doubt there are instances of men preserving our Scriptures, and reading and duly considering them, with effects which have not yet been brought to notice; but the fact may be considered as established beyond a doubt, and calling for joy and thankfulness before Him, who makes the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice, and bids us to pursue with alacrity every species of labour, and turn to account every season for doing good, as not knowing which shall prosper and turn effectually to the glory of God. One word more, though it might be deemed romantic; it was notwithstanding related to me as a fact. A Hindu, well-dressed and of respectable appearance and address came to me under the preaching-awning or Shamiānā, and with hands folded asked for a book. Conceiving that like many others, he wanted his own shāstars, I said, I had none of his books, but those of the Christian faith;—he instantly replied, ‘it is a book of your faith I require: for I performed last hot weather, the pilgrimage to Buddrināth, and returned home very ill, was a whole month in a dying state, and when expecting every morning or evening to die, your form with three others, like yourself, appeared to me, standing at the four corners of my bed, and encouraged me to hope that I should live, and bade me not fear: as I had despaired of life. I recovered; and now desire to know your God and read your books.” I gave the man some books, and tracts, which he took with joy and thankfulness, and respectfully bowing, went away. Six days before this man’s romantic tale, Hirā the brāhman of Parichhat-garb said, I had appeared to him, and exhorted him to read attentively the books I had given him six years before, and promising him happiness in so doing, I disappeared.

I shall now close with an account of the distributions of the season, viz.

						Vol.	Gos.	Tr.	Total.

Urdu,	-	-	-	-	-	21	112	258	391

Sanscrit,	-	-	-	-	-	27	26	19	72
Total, each sort,						111	366	1,369	1,846

Or tracts 1,369; Scriptures 477; in all 1,846. I hope and pray, these silent and hitherto efficient witnesses for the truth, may go forth in all their simplicity and power, and bring home many a soul to God.

The Board have appropriated the sum of two thousand dollars for Printing the Sacred Scriptures in the languages of India through the Baptist Missionaries at Calcutta.

Orissa.

An uncommonly excellent letter from Cuttack, written by Brother J. Buckley, occupied a part of our last Periodical. An extract from it is here presented, accompanied with the account of Printing done at our expense, which did not appear in the Periodical.

"I greatly regret being altogether unable to furnish the information you request, as to the number of volumes published at our press, at the expense of the American and Foreign Bible Society; but I have only recently taken charge of this department, and have received no such details as are solicited. I applied to Mr. Brooks, our missionary printer, but he was not able to prepare such a list, or even to give an estimate. I therefore sent a copy of your request to Brother Sutton, who is the only person able to furnish the desired information.
